Socialization: In order to reduce the anxiety that new employees may experience, attempts should be made to integrate the person into the informal organization.

Training: Training is a process whereby people acquire capabilities to aid in the achievement of organizational goals. It involves planned learning activities designed to improve an employee's performance at her/his current job.

Corporate Culture: The firm's culture reflects, in effect, how we do things around here. This relates to everything from the way employees dress to the way they talk.

Training: The process of teaching new employees the basic skills they need to perform their jobs.

Task analysis: A detailed study of a job to identify the skills required so that an appropriate training program may be instituted.

Performance analysis: Careful study of performance to identify a deficiency and then correct it with new equipment, a new employee, a training program, or some other adjustment.

On-the-job training (OJT): Training a person to learn a job while working at it.

Vestibule or simulated: Training employees on special off-the-job equipment, as in training airplane pilot training, whereby training costs and hazards can be reduced.

Coaching/Mentoring: A method of on-the-job training where an experienced worker, or Method the trainee's supervisor trains the employee.

Action Learning: A training technique by which management trainees are allowed to work full-time analyzing and solving problems in other departments.

Case study method: A development method in which the manager is presented with a written description of an organizational problem to diagnose and solve.

Business games: A development technique in which teams of managers compete with one another by making computerized decisions regarding realistic but simulated companies.

Behavior modeling: A training technique in which trainees are first shown good management techniques in a film, are then asked to play roles in a simulated situation, and are then given feedback and praise by their supervisor.

Learning organization: An organization skilled at creating, acquiring, and transferring knowledge and at modifying its behavior to reflect new knowledge and insights.

Answer:

When do organizational people indulged themselves in organizational politics? Discuss any five factors in detail.

Answer:

Organizational politics are actions that allow people in organizations to attain goals without going through ceremonial channels. Whether political activities help or hurt the organization depends on whether the person's goals are steady with the organization's goals. In the impartial model of organizations, people are assumed to manage sensibly, based on clear information and well-defined goals.

There are few factors that result in political activities in an organization and are explained as under.

1. Changes in Leadership which changes conventional associations and processes can create an opportunity for increased political behavior.
2. Changes in Coordination and integration of organizational activities used to achieve common goals can also lead to an increase in political behavior.
3. Changes in any of the five contextual forces, i.e. environment, technology, strategy, culture, and structure, can generate uncertainty over resource allocation, leading to an increase in political behavior.
4. Blame & Integration. Blaming and attacking others to deflect attention from one's mistakes and using ingratiating behavior to gain favor are unethical and negative types of political actions.
5. Building Relationship. People develop relationships through coalitions, grouping, networks, and accommodating managerial linkages. Coalitions are relationships formed over specific issues. Alliances are general agreements of support among different individuals and groups; and networks are broad, loose support systems. Relationship building can either help or harm the organization.

In order to get advantage of each method, will it be a sensible decision to simultaneously apply all the four methods of job evaluation?

Answer:

Four methods of Job evaluation

1. Ranking Method: Raters examine the description of each job being evaluated and assemble the jobs according to their value to the corporation. This technique requires a team characteristically composed of both management and employee delegate to arrange job in a simple rank order from uppermost to lowest. The most noticeable restraint to the ranking method is its utter lack of ability to be managed when there are a large number of jobs.
2. Classification Method: A job evaluation method by which a number of classes or ratings are defined to explain a group of jobs is known as categorization method. The classifications are created by identifying some common denominator skills, knowledge, and responsibilities with the desired goal being the criterion of a number of distinctive classes or grades of jobs.

3. Factor Comparison Method
Raters need not keep the entire job in mind as they evaluate instead, they make decisions on separate phases, or issues, of the job. A basic fundamental hypothesis is that there are five universal job factors: (1) Mental Requirements (2) Skills (3) Physical Requirements (4) Responsibilities (5) Working Conditions.
4. Point Method: Raters assign numerical values to specific job components, and the sum of these values provides a quantitative appraisal of a job's relative significance. The point method requires selection of job factors according to the nature of the specific group of jobs being evaluated. After determining the group of jobs to be studied, analysts conduct job analysis and write job descriptions. Next, the analysts select and define the factors to be used in measuring job value and which become the standards used for the evaluation of jobs. Education, experience, job knowledge, mental effort, physical effort, responsibility, and working conditions are examples of factors typically used.

Question No: 51 (Marks: 5)

What are the criteria that make the leaders & managers similar to each other?

There are some points by which leaders and managers become similar to each others.

1. Both leader and manager interact and motivate their subordinates.
2. Both leader and manager have power over their subordinates.
3. Leaders work for achieving the desire strategic goals while managers also work for getting their goals.
4. Both works in organizations. Both are responsible for their subordinates and people.

Question No: 52 (Marks: 10)

Leaders should be selected by the respective followers or must be imposed by the policy makers? In your opinion which could be the better option? Elaborate in detail by explaining the pros & cons of both the situations.

Leaders are selected by the respective followers because as we know that best leaders are selected by the people who want him. The good leader is that who leads his followers. So his people will follow him. But if a leader is selected by policy makers, may be this leader will not be able to motivate and guide his people. Because there is no opinion taken from people in selection of this leader. We will take a real example from today's life.

For example, if we select a leader in elections on high majority, we will be happy from that leader. But if some party has select a leader without the knowledge of people. That will be not a good opinion. I think that the first sentence will be correct in my view.
