Central tendency is the inclination of managers to rate all their subordinates with an “average” score during performance appraisal. For instance, if the rating scale was from 1-7, the managers would leave out the extremes i.e. 1,2,6,7 and rate all the employees with a score between 3-5. This behaviour leads to the distortion of the purpose of evaluations as it does not reflect the employees’ true performance

Reason?

21- Why organization Measures the performance of employee(3)
