Question No: 40 (Marks: 10)

What is the typical sequence of an interview? Write down different types of interviews.

ANSWER: Interview: A job interview is a formal meeting of employer and applicant in which both exchange information to learn about each other.

Sequence of Interview: In a typical selection process an applicant has to undergo many interviews before s/he gets the job. The stages of interview through which an applicant may have to undergo are as follows:

- Screening stage: Interview at this stage is more structured.
- Selection stage: This is the best stage for an applicant to show his interest in job by relating skills to job requirement and organization's needs.
- Final stage

Types of Interviews: There are various types of interviews used by organizations according to their needs. Some of them are as follows:

- Structured Interview: Such interview is mostly conducted at screening stage. In this type of interview employer controls the interview by asking already prepared questions in an order. It is a poor measure of applicant's personal qualities but it also creates uniformity in hiring process.
- Open-ended interview: It is a less formal and unstructured form of interview in which interviewee encourages the applicant to speak more and freely in order to get to know about his personality and professionalism. Some of the applicants reveal too much about their personal and family problems which is of no interest to employers and which have nothing to do with their skills and qualifications.
- Stress Interview: It is the best type of interview which helps interviewee to see how candidate handles himself under pressure. It is the most unnerving type of interview. Stress can be created by unsettling the candidate through criticism, interruption or hostile reactions.
- Situational Interview: This interview is specifically about the job. Under this type of interview candidates are given certain job conditions and have to tell how they will handle such a situation.
- Group Interviews: In this type of interview interviewees meet several candidates simultaneously. This is the best type of interview to judge the inter-personal skills of a candidate.
- Video Interview: Another form of interview done by employers in order to cut down travelling costs. Video conferencing system is used to conduct this interview and candidates have to prepare themselves differently for this interview

Question No: 38 (Marks: 5)

Write a note on chronological resume.

he Chronological Resume

In a chronological resume, the work-experience section dominates, immediately after the name and address

- and the objective. You develop this section by listing your jobs sequentially in reverse order, beginning with
- the most recent position and working backward toward earlier jobs. Under each listing, describe your
- responsibility and accomplishments, giving the most space to the most recent positions. If you're just
- graduating from college, you can vary this chronological approach by putting your educational qualifications
- before your experience, thereby focusing attention on your academic credentials.
- The chronological approach is the most common way to organize a resume, and many employers prefer it.
- This approach has three key advantages:
 - (1) Employers are familiar with it & can easily find information
 - (2) it highlights growth and career progression
 - (3) it highlights employment continuity and stability

Question No: 39 (Marks: 10)

What is the typical sequence of an interview? Write down different types of interviews.

A job interview is a formal meeting of employer and applicant in which both exchange information to learn about each other

Stages of interview

Screening stage:

Interview at this stage is more structured.

Selection stage:

This is the best stage for an applicant to show his interest in job by relating skills to job requirement and organization's needs.

Final stage

Structured Interview:

Such interview is mostly conducted at screening stage. In this type of interview employer controls the interview by asking already prepared questions in an order. It is a poor measure of applicant's personal qualities but it also creates uniformity in hiring process.

• Open-ended interview:

It is a less formal and unstructured form of interview in which interviewee encourages the applicant to speak more and freely in order to get to know about his personality and his capabilities. Some of the applicants reveal too much about their personal and family problems which is of not of any interest to employers and which have nothing to do with their skills and qualifications.

• Stress Interview:

It is the best type of interview which helps interviewee to see how candidate handles himself under pressure. It is the most stressful type of interview. Stress can be created by unsettling the candidate through criticism, interruption or hostile reactions.

• Video Interview: Another form of interview done by employers in order to cut down traveling costs. Video conferencing system is used to conduct this interview and candidates have to prepare themselves differently for this interview.

• Situational Interview:

This interview is specifically about the job. Under this type of interview candidates are given certain job conditions and have to tell how they will handle such a situation.

• Group Interviews:

Group interviews help recruiters see how candidate interact. This types of interview is useful for judging interpersonal communication.

Question No: 40 (Marks: 10)

Describe in some detail different types of quantitative and qualitative researches.

Qualitative research

It explores attitudes, behavior and experiences through such methods as interviews or focus groups. It attempts to get an in-depth opinion from participants.

Quantitative research

It generates statistics through the use of large-scale survey research, using methods such as questionnaires or structured interviews.

Qualitative approach:

- It includes historical research and qualitative research;
- It collects narrative data to gain insights into phenomena of interest;
- Data analysis includes the coding of the data and production of a verbal synthesis.

Quantitative approach:

1. It is categorized with descriptive research, Correlational research, and experimental research;
2. It collects numerical data in order to explain and predict phenomena
3. Data analysis is mainly statistical.

Types of Quantitative Researches

Descriptive: Descriptive research involves collecting data in order to test hypotheses or answer questions concerning the current status of the subjects of the study. It determines and reports the way things are.

Co-relational: Co-relational research attempts to determine whether and to what degree a relationship exists between two or more quantifiable variables. The relationship is expressed by correlation coefficient, which is a number between 0 and 1. like we use stock analysis etc .

Cause-comparative: it establishes the cause effect relationship, compares the relationship, but the cause is not manipulated.

Experimental: Experimental research establishes the cause effect relationship and does the comparison, but the cause is manipulated. The cause, independent variable makes the difference. The effect, dependent variable is dependent on the independent variable.

Types of Qualitative Researches

Historical: Systematic collection and objective evaluation of data related to past occurrences in order to test hypotheses concerning causes, effects. Those events may help to explain present events and anticipate or visualize the future events.

Case study : Attempts to shed light on phenomena by studying in depth a single case example of the phenomena. The case can be an individual person, an event, a group, or an institution.

Ethnography: Focuses on the sociology of meaning through close field observation of socio cultural phenomena. Typically, the ethnographer focuses on a community like different cultural groups etc.

It is very popular and effective method of delivering a speech. In this way the speaker can glance at his notes, keep eye contact and speak in a natural, conversational tone.

Reading In this method the whole presentation is read aloud. It helps a speaker when the presentation has technical or complex topic. If you choose to read your speech, practice enough so that you can still have eye contact with your audience, otherwise, your speech may become boring. For reading, some speakers use a page style similar to a TV script, leaving a left margin of about one-third of the page. In that wide margin are pronunciation aids or suggestions as to where to look in an audience.
