Triphthongs

What Is a Triphthong?

A vowel sound in which the tongue changes position to produce the sound of three vowels one after another.

It means : There are three vowel sounds. There is a different beginning and different end. The position of tongue changes because it glides from one position to different positions.

Sometimes, triphthong is defined as a diphthong + ə.

Examples

TRIPHTHONGS
əʊə	(lower, widower)
aɪə	(fire, tired, flyer)
eɪə	(player, mayor)
ɔɪə	(loyal, royal)
aʊə	(hour/our, power, tower)

Lower /ləʊə/

Fire /faɪə/

Player /pleɪə/

Loyal /ləɪəl/

Tower /taʊə/

Topic no 110Triphthongs on Triangle

Topic no 112

Triphthongs in one glance

✓ TRIPHTHONGS

- A triphthong is a glide from one vowel to another and then to a third, all produced rapidly without interruption.
- There are five triphthongs in English. They are composed of the five closing diphthongs with /ə/ added at the end.

Three vowel sounds are produced from a limited space and there is a quick gliding of the tongue. So difficult to perceive and distinguish.

5 Steps in Learning Phonics

Topic no 114

Step-1- Learning a-z.

Step-1- Learning a-z.

First of all, we need to learn each alphabet without differentiating between consonants and vowels.

Step-2 CVC words with one vowel.

cat	hat	pat
sat	fat	mat
rat	pet	bet
jet	met	net
let	vet	wet
get	lip	hip
pip	sip	tip
rip	dip	pot

Step-3 CVCV words with two vowels.

cake
bake game gate lake cave rake tape

Topic no 115

Step-4 words with double/triple consonant blends.

Consonant blends (also called consonant clusters) are groups of two or three consonants in words that makes a distinct consonant sound, such as "bl" or "spl."

Topic no 116

Advance phonics: diphthongs and digraphs.

A digraph is the combination of two successive letters that represent a single sound like 'ph' or 'th'.

Topic no 117Teaching Vocabulary

Vocabulary: Words used in a particular language.

Even at certain places , it has been defined as the total number of words in a language (Collin's Dictionary, 1989:1629)

Vocabulary Knowledge

Two primary dimensions:

✓ Receptive vocabulary refers to a learner's ability to recognize a word and retrieve its meaning while listening or reading.

✓ Productive vocabulary refers to a learner's ability to use a word to send a message or express his/her thought appropriately through speaking or writing (Nation, 2006: 24).

Vocabulary Knowledge

www.cityandguilds.org

A single distinct meaningful element of speech or writing, used with others (or sometimes alone) to form a sentence and typically shown with a space on either side when written or printed.

Two dimensions:

1. Content words. In language, content words are words such as nouns, most verbs, adjectives, and adverbs that refer to some object, action, or characteristic.
2. Function words which function primarily to express the grammatical relationships between other words in a sentence.

Function words include determiners (for example, the, that), conjunctions (and, but), prepositions (in, of), pronouns (she, they), auxiliary verbs (be, have), modals (may, could), and quantifiers (some, both).

To Know a Word

Knowing a word means:

- Having the ability to recognise it in its spoken and written forms.
- Knowing its different meanings.
- Knowing its part of speech [eg. a noun, a verb]
- Being able to pronounce it properly· Being able to use it correctly within a sentence in an appropriate grammatical form
- For technical words, recognizing it in context

- Being able to recognise different types of English e.g boot/trunk, lift/elevator

A teacher needs to cover all of these aspects while teaching vocabulary .

Stages in Teaching Vocabulary

What Do We Mean by 'Stages'?

To effectively acquire new vocabulary, students must go through four essential stages:

first, they notice a new word with help;

secondly, they recognize the word at first with help, then on their own;

and lastly, they are able to both recognize and produce the word.

It means they gradually move from passive vocabulary to active/productive vocabulary. They attain this knowledge step by step which is explained through different stages

Topic no 121

1st Stage:

Understanding New Words

1. Introducing nouns, things, objects, animals, etc. Visual elements work best with concrete nouns, but try to go beyond flashcards and illustrations. Try to use real objects whenever possible, or even sounds, smells, and tastes.

2. Introducing adjectives

Opposites, like “big” and “small”, “long” and “short”, are usually illustrated with pictures, but here’s another case where realia (real life objects) will help you teach new adjectives; the use of real life objects is wonderful for words like “soft” and “rough”.

3. Introducing abstracts

There are things you simply cannot teach with a flashcard. What works best in these cases are synonyms, definitions, substitutions. For instance, teaching the difference between “early” and “late”,

Topic no 122

2nd Stage: Recognising New Words

Bingo

Bingo is one of the most versatile games employed by teachers. For younger learners, make bingo cards with illustrations, and call out each word. For those who can read, do the opposite, make the cards with words.

Matching

Another type of exercise with countless possibilities. Students may be required to match opposites, synonyms, or a word with its definition, as well as a picture to a word.

3. Matching

Find pairs of similar things

F	L	A	G

Hand out a piece of written text (anything from a description, song, letter, to even a short story) with blank spaces that must be filled in from a list of words. You can adapt this to longer texts, and also have longer word lists.

Topic no 1233rd Stage: Producing Vocabulary*Descriptions

From a newspaper photo of a recent event to a personal account of a recent trip, there are countless things students can describe while putting new vocabulary to good use.

Fill in the blanks (no options)

Supply students with a piece of written text with blank spaces that have to be filled in with any word that fits. You may give them indications for each space, like “noun”, “adjective” or “adverb”, if they’re advanced students.

Mind maps or brainstorming

Tell students they need to think of words they can use to describe the weather. Write “weather” at the center of a blackboard or whiteboard and circle it.

Write every word supplied by students as “rays” that shoot out this circle. They should reply with previously taught words, like “chilly”, “scorching”, or “mild”.

Guess what I'm thinking

Students take turns describing something, like a place: "I'm thinking of a place that is so huge it takes visitors hours to see all of it.

It is a breath taking building, very old, but with a modern glass pyramid in the front."

Topic no 124

Idioms and Collocations

What are Idioms and Collocation?

Idiom: a group of words established by usage as having a meaning not deducible from those of the individual words (e.g. hang one's head; see the light).

Collocation: a word or phrase that is often used with another word or phrase, in a way that sounds correct to people who use it (day and night, come to the point)

It's raining cats and dogs

= It is raining heavily

= There is a heavy downpour

Idioms and collocations are a part of vocabulary. These are taught at advanced stages and not at the level of beginners because it is essential that learners must know the words separately which are now being used together (as idioms or collocations).

Topic no 125

Difficulty: Idioms and Collocation

Learner Use of Formulaic Language

- But learners often do not use the collocations they know appropriately
- Inappropriate collocations is a leading problem in learner language
- Learners often use words with their correct meanings, but do not understand the correct context of use (collocation, register, frequency)

✓ Idioms and collocations might be quite challenging for most of the learners :

- Combination of correct words
- No proper translation
- Tricky use of words
- No grammatical rules
- Difficult to use
- First language interference

Topic no 126

✓ 1stStage: Introduction

We know that there are three stages involved in learning vocabulary:

- Introduction
- Recognition
- Production

Lewis (2000) claims that "make and do" collocations provide a useful starting point for introducing the idea of collocations to learners.

Make or Do? (by CET)

Make something that didn't exist before.	Do an activity, or action
make the bed	do housework
make a cake	do the ironing
make the dinner	do homework
make a cup of tea / coffee	do the washing-up make a mess	do the shopping
make a wish	do the cleaning
 - important expressions:	 - important expressions:
make plans	do well
make a decision	do badly
make a mistake	do somebody a favour make noise	do your hair
make money (to earn money)	do your make-up make an excuse	do business make an effort	do your best make your mind up	do a course
make a wish	do exercises

CET

But there is no reason why it should be 'make a decision' rather than 'do a decision'. We need to make them aware that this is simply the way we say things in English.

Give students a text, and ask them to chunk it, so they can pick collocations or idioms (they must be familiar with the words that co-occur).

Collocation challenge: Binomial pairs far and wide

part and parcel high and dry

wear and tear

all or nothing

now or never long and short hustle and bustle

tooth and nail

beck and call

Teach them the meaning and use of the collocations or idioms they have picked from the text.

Topic no 1272nd Stage: Practice

To practice or to recognize refer to the same stage. Practice has a crucial role in learning. However, it is more crucial for collocations/idioms as there is no rule for students to refer to.

The only way to help learners to remember collocations/idioms is to expose them to collocations through practice and revision activities.

Any kind of filling in the blanks, matching, error correction and odd word out type of activities can be used to practise collocations/idiom at all levels. For example, error correction activity would be useful both for writing and exam practice.

Students can work in two groups working on two sets of collocations/idioms separately and then presenting it to the other group.

Topic no 1283rd Stage: Production

Provide students with certain words and tell them to make collocations by using those words.

Take a photo, a break, a chance, a taxi, your time,
 → notes, a risk, an interest in, a vote

Go abroad/overseas, online, shopping, crazy/mad
 → bald, blind, quiet/silent

Get drunk, a job, a shock, lost, married, ready, permission

Tell them to use these collocations in some composition (essay/story).

GROSS ADJ. very bad, unacceptable because clearly wrong.

Collocations:

gross misconduct/negligence/exaggeration/violation/indecency

Examples:

- ❖ She was found guilty of gross misconduct.
- ❖ It would be a gross violation to carry out noisy or even physically energetic rituals or ceremonial activities at them.

Tell students to use correctly the given collocations/idioms in exercises where needed.

These are some activities that can be used at the production stage for learning collocations/idioms.

Teaching Spellings

What Do We Mean by ‘Spellings’?

The process or activity of writing or naming the letters of a word.

For instance: c a r: car

The way a word is spelled.

Spellings are important because these aid in reading. These help to strengthen the connections that are shared between sounds and letters.

Spellings are important also because these help us in writing. Without, correct spellings, writing means nothing.

Keeping in view the significance of spellings, the competitions are held at international level as ‘Spelling Bee’.

Topic no 130

Strategies for Teaching 'Spellings'

1. Use three kinds of experiences for the learner: auditory (listening), visual (seeing) and kinaesthetic (through movements). In other words, allow students to hear the correct spelling of words, see the spellings, and have 'hands-on' experiences.

Here are a few ideas for young learners who do best with kinesthetic experiences.

A) Spell words using Scrabble™ tiles, Boggle™ letter cubes, magnetic letters, or even letters cut from newspapers and magazines.

A) Spell words using Scrabble™ tiles, Boggle™ letter cubes, magnetic letters, or even letters cut from newspapers and magazines.

B) Trace the correct spellings of words. Or spell words by gluing string onto construction paper.

C) Find spelling words on cereal boxes, toy packages and other everyday items.

2. Teach spelling words that make sense to the child.

you should include words from the student's science and social studies lessons, as well as words related to news events and special calendar days.

Give students the foundation for spelling successfully. That means making sure students understand the sounds made by consonants, short vowel sounds, long vowel sounds, diphthongs, and more. Teach some of the most consistent rules.

4. Simplify spelling whenever possible. Introduce words that have similar patterns at the same time. For example, teach aloud, around, count, ground, and sound during the same week. Group tricky words together. Show students er words in one list: perfect, alert, concern, perfume, expert. Then show them ur words in another list: turkey, return, hurricane, curtain.

4. Simplify spelling whenever possible. Introduce words that have similar patterns at the same time. For example, teach aloud, around, count, ground, and sound during the same week.

duck	jack	clock	back	hack
black	shack	whack	lick	kick
pick	quick	trick	chick	cluck
shuck	stick	wick	stack	sack
tock	cock	rock	stock	block
deck	speck	check	fleck	snack track	crack	quack	thick	pack
click	wreck	wrack	lack	tack
neck	peck	nick	flick	lock flock	frock	luck	pluck	stuck
struck	truck	suck	yuck

Group tricky words together. Show students er words in one list: perfect, alert, concern, perfume, expert. Then show them ur words in another list: turkey, return, hurricane, curtain.

5. Provide lots of practice in lots of formats. Oral exercises, puzzles, worksheets, and games all have their place in successful spelling programs. Spelling homework is important, too. All of these activities, believe it or not, can be fun! Group tricky words together.

Topic no 131*Some More Strategies for Spellings*Word Walls

Teachers use two types of word walls in their classrooms. One word wall features “important” words from books students are reading or thematic units.

Making Words

Teachers choose a five- to eight-letter word (or longer words for older students) and prepare sets of letter cards for a making words activity (Cunningham & Cunningham, 1992).

Then students use the cards to practice spelling words and to review spelling patterns and rules.

Word Sorts

Students use word sorts to explore, compare, and contrast word features as they sort a pack of word cards. Teachers prepare word cards for students to sort into two or more categories according to their spelling patterns or other criteria.

In literacy classroom we teach all of the skills needed for reading and writing. They include such things as awareness of the sounds of language, awareness of the print and the relationship between sounds and letters.

Literacy classroom is combination of different skills and sub skills related to reading and writing.

The picture is example of literacy wall different words images and their relationship and use is shown in a certain order.

Topic no 133

Teaching spellings at higher stage

Teaching spellings to beginners in early classes demands some easy strategies, but to elder students like 7th and 8th graders can be conducted with higher level activities

When you are teaching something it is very important to involve student's cognition for a long term learning.

There are certain activities which can be used for higher learners.

Using missing spelling chart

For instance: Hear and spell listen to the word and then spell it. Words with audio will be used to hear and spell.

In this image students can be given activity to spell the word and provide missing letter. In this chart one letter is missing in each word but others charts can also be used with two letters missing.

Shuffling the spellings

Another activity is, spell the word by guessing letters here. The word 'water' can be guessed.

Another activity is, spell the word correctly by changing the position of two letters. For instance, 'radlcai': radical.

In each activity thinking of students is involved, and they learn the things by thinking by using their cognition.

Remove extra letter

Another activity can be remove extra letter and spell the word correctly. For instance, 'subtstitute': substitute we have removed 't' before 's'.

But you should make sure before these activity spelling skills of students must be strong they should be pretty sure about right and wrong spellings of words.

Topic no 134Word study

There is an alternative to traditional spelling instruction called “word study” which is not based on the random memorization of word.

A word study program is a cohesive approach that addresses word recognition, vocabulary, and phonics as well as spelling.

Word study provides students with opportunities to investigate and understand the patterns in words. Knowledge of these patterns means that students needn't learn to spell one word at a time.

Words can be taught on the basis of sounds as well. Chart below shows example of some sounds and words based on those sounds.

ai	ay
rain	day
main	play
braid	may grain	stay
wait	way
claim	pray
gain	gray
train	say
paint	tray

Topic no 135

Explaining word study

Word patterns are focused in this type of study. Take for example the difference between hard c as in cat and soft c as in cell. After collecting many words containing the letter c students discover: c is usually hard when c is followed by consonants (as ic clue and crayon) and the vowels a o and u

Topic no 136

How word study is done?

Word study is based on the notion that where a student is in his or her spelling development can serve as a guide for instruction.

At the start of word study program, teachers use a spelling inventory to determine which stage of spelling development each student is at and then groups students for instruction.

short a	a-e	ai
tax	tape	fail
last	maze	gain
sat	shade	pail
plan	wave	sail
	late	plain
	sale	rain
	bake	wait
	lake	nail

Groups can be made on the base of students learning stage, in the light of above image students can be divided into three groups.

Once groups are created, teaches develop differential instruction based on the stage of development each student have achieved.

Teachers select a group of words that match children's development. Because the space of children's progression through the stages varies, rarely would all the students in a class be studying the same list of words.

Students and teachers alike must become word detectives. Spelling rules are not dictated by teacher for students to memorize. Rather, spelling patterns and generalizations are discovered by students.

Topic no 137

Listening

To hear something with thoughtful attention. Research shows that 45% of our time is spent on listening. We listen more than speak. Listening comprehension is the receptive skill in the oral mode..

If the listening skill is used in a proper way we can master the tools of communicative skills. Thomlison (1984) defines listening as, "Active listening, which is very important for effective communication".

DEFINITION OF LISTENING

- The process of receiving, constructing meaning from, and responding to spoken and/or nonverbal messages; to hear something with thoughtful attention

Look at the speaker

Have a nice quiet mouth

Listen to what he or she is saying

Repeat it back

Check to make sure the message is correct

Topic no 138

Types of Listening

There are different types of listening depending upon the situation and the environment, where the listening takes place. Few important types are given here:

Whole-person listening-understanding the speaker, his words, thought, motive etc.

* Appreciative Listening- Listening for appreciation and pleasure.

* Attentive Listening –attentively listening each and every word.

* Casual Listening- Listening not very attentive, listening casually without any interest.

* Evaluative Listening- Listening to evaluate or judge something.

- Evaluative listening is also called “critical listening”
- Because we make judgments about what the others person is saying..

* Comprehensive Listening- listening to understand the message the speaker is communicating.

Discriminative Listening- listening type the objective is to focus on the sounds. At its most basic level this is akin to distinguishing the speakers gender, or the number of people in a conversation.

Topic no 139

Principles of Listening

Pay Attention

Focus on the speaker. Look at him or her because facial expressions and body language can communicate as much as language.

For example, there will usually be more engagement with the listener in making eye contact and use of hand gestures.

Practice Active Listening

Ask the speaker to slow down or repeat when you don't understand or just want to be certain about what you heard.

Repeat back what you think you heard him or her say, as there can often be a gap between what we thought we heard and what the speaker intended.

Pay Attention to Structure

In a formal lecture or speech, the speaker will usually let you know ahead of time the organization of the discourse: “Today we will discuss the two types of sentences, Type One and Type Two,”

and then what will follow is a description of Types One and Two. These devices, called “discourse markers,” actually help the listener in organizing and understanding the lecture.

*Listen for Key Words What words does the speaker emphasize? Usually the speaker will let you know by stressing the main point: “Let’s talk about the TIME we will meet tomorrow....”

The stressed word “time” signals that the time of tomorrow’s appointment is the main point, as does the marker “Let’s talk about—”

Topic no 140

Teaching Principles of Listening

*Make Explicit

how to understand and manage conversations, which may have been something a mystery. In addition, key terms such as “active listening” and “discourse marker” should be introduced and exemplified.

Model

This can be provided by traditional print example dialogues as well as film clips, and teacher modelling with volunteer students: e.g., the teacher might say,

“ tell me something of importance to you, and I’ll listen actively. The rest of the class, pay attention, and then let’s discuss what goes into active listening.”

Practice

This might be especially important in active listening, which few people, really know how to do, as we are used to either sitting quietly while a speaker finishes his speech or interrupting.

Active listening takes practice, but is worth it in terms of improved listening skills and relationships.

Topic no 141

Teaching parts of speech

A traditional term for categories into which words are classified according to their functions in sentences. A category to which a word is assigned in accordance with its syntactic functions.

In English main parts of speech are

- Noun
- Pronoun
- Adjective
- Determiner
- Verb

- Adverb
- Preposition
- Conjunction
- Interjection

People count 'articles' also as parts of speech.

This classification has been made according to the functions of words.

Noun

A noun is a naming word. It names a person, place, thing, idea, living creature, quality, or action.

Examples: cowboy, theatre, box, thought, tree, kindness, arrival

Verb

A verb is a word which describes an action (doing something) or a state (being something).

Examples: walk, talk, think, believe, live, like, want

Adjective

An adjective is a word that describes a noun. It tells you something about the noun.

Examples: big, yellow, thin, amazing, beautiful, quick, important

Adverb

An adverb is a word which usually describes a verb. It tells you how something is done. It may also tell you when or where something happened.

Examples: slowly, intelligently, well, yesterday, tomorrow, here, everywhere

Pronoun	A pronoun is used instead of a noun, to avoid repeating the noun. Examples: I, you, he, she, it, we, they
Conjunction	A conjunction joins two words, phrases or sentences together. Examples: but, so, and, because, or
Preposition	A preposition usually comes before a noun, pronoun or noun phrase. It joins the noun to some other part of the sentence. Examples: on, in, by, with, under, through, at
Interjection	An interjection is an unusual kind of word, because it often stands alone. Interjections are words which express emotion or surprise, and they are usually followed by exclamation marks. Examples: Ouch!, Hello!, Hurray!, Oh no!, Ha!
Article	An article is used to introduce a noun. Examples: the, a, an

Knowing parts of speech using them correctly and understanding how they relate to one another is an important early step in creating strong writing skills.

Topic no 142

Teaching at first stage

Begins with noun, its most easy concept and available in our surrounding. A noun is a person, place, thing or idea. Get students to list as many nouns as they can. Put them in categories on an overhead or white board as they say them.

At second stage teach them adjectives, take the list of nouns students come up with, and start asking for words that describe each one. List those in front of each word. These are adjectives. An adjective is a word that describes a noun. Give them the reason and tell them the link of adjective with nouns. In the following picture adjectives of a noun “popcorn”.

After that take pictures of noun and ask children to tell the characteristics.

After teaching adjectives teach the children verbs, ask students to look at each noun adjective pair and give it something to do for example; little birds fly. Explain that this action word is verb.

Bring this type of images which are elaborative and showing the actions. And whatever students learn make them to practice the things.

Topic no 143

Teaching at second stage

List how the words do things. For example little birds fly slowly. Tell students that how something the action does is an adverb. An adverb describes a verb adjective or other adverb.

Adverbs
How?	When?	How often?	Where?
angrily	afterwards	always	above anxiously	again	annually	around cautiously	before	constantly	away
cheerfully	beforehand	daily	below
courageously	early	hourly	down
crossly	late	monthly	downstairs
cruelly	never	never	everywhere
defiantly	now	occasionally	here
doubtfully	often	often	inside
elegantly	punctually	once	outside
	recently	regularly	there

Make another sentence to go with your first group. Ex: look at the little birds. They fly slowly. Explain to students that “they” in second sentence refers to “little birds” in the first. “they” takes the place of the noun “birds” and is a pronoun. Here is table of pronouns.

SUBJECT	OBJECT	ADJECTIVE	POSSESSIVE
I	Me	My	Mine
You	You	Your	Yours
He	Him	His	His
She	Her	Her	Hers
It	It	Its	Its
We	Us	Our	Ours
They	Them	Their	Theirs

Add these words to second sentence: around the neighborhood. “Around is a preposition that implies a relationship. Where to they fly? Around the neighborhood.

Preposition tells the relationship of sentence.

In the next step Identify or add the two final parts of speech, the conjunction and interjection. “Look at the big and the little birds. Wow they fly slowly around the neighborhood”.

“and” between the little and big birds is conjunction it’s like gum, it connects two words and sentences. You can see the list of conjunction in the image.

Interjections are the words which perhaps may not have proper meaning in dictionary but they convey or express some emotions, you can see the list in the image below.

Topic no 144

Recognizing the parts

How can we recognize category of some word in sentence? We need to look at the function performed by that part in the sentence. See the example of adjective and adverb: if we cannot recognize the words there will be no proper decoding of the words. In some words adding “ly” to a word make it adjective from adverb but this rule does not imply in each word.

Adjective		Adverb
happy	→	happily
sad	→	sadly
grateful	→	gratefully quick	→	quickly
curious	→	curiously

The train is fast. It is describing train (a noun). So an adjective here.

The train is moving fast. It is describing the action, so the adverb.

Topic no 145

Teaching tense

Tense is a form of the verb that indicates time. A verb tense not only indicates past, present, and future action but also indicates whether the action is ongoing or complete.

The tense of verb shows the time when an action or condition occurred. In English the tense also may provide emphasis and may determine whether or not an action or condition was continuous or recitative.

	Simple	Progressive	Perfect	Perfect Progressive
Present	I eat	I am eating	I have eaten	I have been eating
Past	I ate	I was eating	I had eaten	I had been eating
Future	I will eat	I will be eating	I will have eaten	I will have been eating

There are three basic tenses: past, present, and future. Verb tenses are absolutely necessary for fluency in English. Without proper knowledge of tenses oral, written fluency is affected and mind is unable to do proper decoding as well.

Topic no 146

Simple or indefinite tense

Verb tenses receive a lot of attention in English instruction. Sometimes these are considered as a difficult area.

	Simple	Progressive	Perfect	Perfect Progressive
Present	I eat	I am eating	I have eaten	I have been eating
Past	I ate	I was eating	I had eaten	I had been eating
Future	I will eat	I will be eating	I will have eaten	I will have been eating

Remember this chart from the previous topic. These are total 12 tenses in English. First of all we will talk about “present simple” tense. It is about some routine, habits and scientific facts.

Routine: I go to my office at 8:00 am.

Habit: he takes tea in the morning.

Scientific fact: the sun rises in the east.

This table shows form of helping verb along with subject. Different form of verb is used with different subjects.

Affirmative	Negative	Interrogative
I You { go We { They {	I You { don't go We { They {	Do { I you go.....? we they
He { She { goes It {	He { She { doesn't go It {	Does { he she go.....? it

2. Simple Past

- We will go to the farm in the morning.
 - Will you come with us?
 - I will not go to the farm with you.
 - The train will arrive shortly.
 - Will the train arrive shortly?
 - The train will not arrive shortly.
 - You will enjoy the movie.
- Simple Future Tense

Affirmative	Interrogative
I shall speak	Shall I speak?
He (she, it) will speak	Will he (she, it) speak?
We shall speak	Shall we speak?
You will speak	Will you speak?
They will speak	Will they speak?

Negative
I shall not (shan't) speak
He (she, it) will not (won't) speak
We shall not (shan't) speak
You will not (won't) speak
They will not (won't) speak

Topic no 147

Progressive or continuous tense progressive tense is that something is in action now.

Present continuous tense:

We use the Present Continuous tense to talk about:

actions and things that are happening now

He is drinking. He is reading. He is smiling. He is singing.

Formula for present progressive\continuous subject+verb to be+verb+ing.

Positive	Negative	Question
• I am speaking.	• I am not speaking.	• Am I speaking?
• You are speaking.	• You are not speaking.	• Are you speaking?
• We are speaking.	• We are not speaking.	• Are we speaking?
• They are speaking.	• They are not speaking.	• Are they speaking?
• He is speaking.	• He is not speaking.	• Is he speaking?
• She is speaking.	• She is not speaking.	• Is she speaking?
• It is speaking.	• It is not speaking.	• Is it speaking?

Past progressive/continuous tense:

Affirmative	Interrogative
I was reading	Was I reading?
He (she, it) was reading	Was he (she, it) reading?
We were reading	Were we reading?
You were reading	Were you reading?
They were reading	Were they reading?

Negative
I was not (wasn't) reading
He (she, it) was not (wasn't) reading
We were not (weren't) reading
You were not (weren't) reading
They were not (weren't) reading

Future progressive/continuous

✓ Future Progressive Tense

- This tense is used to refer to activities that will be continuously in progress around some future time.
- Example: We will be flying over New York at noon tomorrow.
- Form: will + be + verbing

Positive: the Moscow state circus will be performing for the next three weeks.

You can also have a negative version: the Moscow state circus will not be performing for the next three weeks. The question version: will the Moscow state circus be performing for the next three weeks?

Topic no 148

Perfect tense:

Present perfect tense: present perfect tense means that some activity has been started in past and completed in present.

(+)	(-)	(?)
I have played	I haven't played	Have I played
You have played	You haven't played	Have you played?
He has played	He hasn't played	Has he played?
She has played	She hasn't played	Has she played?
It has played	It hasn't played	Has it played?
We have played	We haven't played	Have we played?
They have played	They haven't played	Have they played?

Past perfect tense:

It means something started in the past and completed in the past.

(+) She had gone
(-) She hadn't gone
(?) Had she gone ?

Future perfect tense:

Some activity had been started in the past and have completed in the future.

3. Future Perfect

"By 5:00 PM, I will have finished the project."

(+)	(-)
I will have played	Will I have played?
You will have played	Will you have played?
He will have played	Will he have played?
She will have played	Will she have played?
It will have played	Will it have played?
We will have played	Will we have played?
They will have played	Will they have played?

Topic no 149

Perfect continuous tense

Present perfect continuous tense:

It means some action has been started in past some part of action is completed and some is continuous.

(+)	(?)	(-)
I have been playing	Have I been playing?	I haven't been playing
You have been playing	Have you been playing?	You haven't been playing
He has been playing	Has he been playing?	He hasn't been playing
She has been playing	Has she been playing?	She hasn't been playing
It has been playing	Has it been playing?	It hasn't been playing
We have been playing	Have we been playing?	We haven't been playing
They have been playing	Have they been playing?	They haven't been playing

Past perfect continuous tense:

Affirmative	Interrogative
I had been doing	Had I been doing?
He (she, it) had been doing	Had he (she, it) been doing?
We had been doing	Had we been doing?
You had been doing	Had you been doing?
They had been doing	Had they been doing?
Negative
I had not (hadn't) been doing He (she, it) had not (hadn't) been doing We had not (hadn't) been doing You had not (hadn't) been doing They had not (hadn't) been doing

Future perfect continuous tense:

It is used to express a continued or ongoing action that will start in future and is thought to be continued till sometime in future. (an ongoing action in future will continued till sometime in future).

Past	Did	Was, Were	Had	Had been
Future	Will, Shall	Will be, Shall be	Will have, Shall have	Will have been, Shall have been

By changing helping verbs, we change the tense if we the same formula.

Topic no 152

Helping Verbs

Helping verbs are verbs that, as their name suggests, help the main verb in a sentence by extending the meaning of the verb. They add detail to how time is conveyed in a sentence.

As a result, helping verbs are used to create the most complicated verb tenses in English: the progressive and the perfect aspects. Helping verbs are known also as Auxiliary verbs.

	Simple	Continuous	Perfect	Perfect Continuous
Present	Do, Does	Am, Is, Are	Has, Have	Has been, Have been
Past	Did	Was, Were	Had	Had been
Future	Will, Shall	Will be, Shall be	Will have, Shall have	Will have been, Shall have been

By changing helping verbs, we change one tense to another.

Example: I am reading.

I was reading.

I have read.

I had read.

Topic no 153

Regular/Irregular Verbs

A verb in which the past tense is formed by adding the usual -ed ending is known as a regular verb.

Examples: Walk, walked and walked

Regular Verbs

Regular verbs in the simple past end in -ed. If the base form ends in -e, add only -d. If the base form ends in -y after a consonant, change the y to i and add -ed.

She moved back to Kenya.

She planted trees.

She studied biology.

A verb in which the past tense is not formed by adding the usual -ed ending. Examples of irregular verbs are sing (past tense sang); feel (felt); and go (went).

Irregular Verbs

- To talk about what happened yesterday, we use the PAST TENSE.
- Irregular Verbs CHANGE completely example:
Go -> Went Eat -> Ate Do -> Did

The difference between regular and irregular verbs must be known by the time you teach tenses.

Articles

An article is a word used to modify a noun, which is a person, place, object or idea. Technically, an article is an adjective, which is any word that modifies a noun.

Usually adjectives modify nouns through description, but articles are used instead to point out or refer to nouns.

LC3009

Usage of Definite Articles

Superlatives:	Everest is the highest mountain in the world.
Inhabitants of a country :	The British live in England.
Holy Books:	The Bible, The Bhagawad Gita, The Quran
Nature:	The earth, the sun, the sky, the stars
Rivers:	The Ganges, The Krishna, The Thames
Seas and Ocean:	The Arabian Sea, The Pacific Ocean
Mountain Chains:	The Himalayas, The Andes, The Nilgiris
Monuments:	The Taj Mahal, The Red Fort, The Eiffel Tower
Important Positions:	The President, The Prime Minister
Musical Instruments:	The Violin, the guitar, the flute
Names of directions:	The east, the north, the south, the west
Countries with Plural names:	The Philippines, the West Indies
Words such as last and next:	The last phase, the next candidate
Ordinal numbers:	The first edition, the second row

The definite article the is the most frequent word in English. We use the definite article in front of a noun when we believe the hearer/reader knows exactly what we are referring to. • because there is only one:

The Pope is here.

The President of USA is visiting France.

- We have already mentioned: Anwar has topped. The boy is really intelligent.
- We say something about all the things referred to by a noun:
- The kangaroo is found in Australia.
- We talk about some musical instrument: she plays the piano.
- We talk about system or service: the airline is not doing well or call the police.
- Talking about the whole class: the rich or the doctors
- The name of kingdoms: the USA or the UK.
- Geographical feature: the Himalayas, the Atlantic
- Names of newspapers: The Pakistan Times
- The families: the Jacksons
- Famous buildings: the Badshahi mosque, the Empire State building.
- Organisations: the UNO

Topic no 155Types of Sentences

SENTENCES

A sentence is a sequence of words which begins with a capital letter and ends with a full stop (or ! or ?).

- ★ It forms a complete thought.
- ★ It should make sense.
- ★ It contains a verb.

Simple, compound and complex sentences

- Simple: It was raining.
- A simple sentence makes sense on its own and usually gives one piece of information (it doesn't have to be a short sentence).

Compound: It was raining so I took my umbrella.

A compound sentence has two clauses (two parts of the sentence) joined by a connective (so, and, but, or).

Complex: As it was raining, I took my umbrella.

I took my umbrella as it was raining.

A complex sentence has a main clause (the bit that makes sense on its own) and a subordinate clause that adds information (this doesn't make sense on its own).

By looking at the structure and meaning of the sentence, we can come to know the type it has.

Topic no 156

Clauses & Phrases

A clause is a unit of grammatical organization next below the sentence in rank and in traditional grammar said to consist of a subject and predicate.

The subject is what (or whom) the sentence is about, while the predicate tells something about the subject.

A phrase is a sequence of two or more words that make up a grammatical construction, but lacking a complete meaning and hence not a complete clause or sentence:

shady lane(a noun phrase); at the bottom (a prepositional phrase); very slowly (an adverbial phrase).

A sentence must have a subject (expressed or not), a verb, and a complete thought (or "predicate") supplied by a variety of constructions.

A clause contains a subject and a verb, but can or cannot contain a complete thought.

A phrase is a collection of words without a subject/verb or complete thought.

Topic no 157

Types of Clauses

As is evident from the name, independent clause can work on its own, dependent clause can't give any meaning without the independent clause.

Topic no 158

Independent Clauses

“Main (or independent) clause is a clause that expresses a complete thought and can stand as a sentence.

Examples:

I met the boy who had helped me.

She is wearing a shirt which looks nice.

The teacher asked a question but no one answered.

He takes medicine because he suffers from fever.

He became angry and smashed the vase into pieces.

In the above sentences each underlined part shows main clause. It expresses complete thought and can stand as a sentence that is why a main or an independent clause is normally referred as a simple sentence.

Topic no 159

Dependent Clauses

Subordinate or dependent Clause

Subordinate (or dependent) clause is a clause which does not express complete thought and depends on another clause (main clause) to express complete thought.

Subordinate clause does not express complete idea and can't stand as a sentence. A sentence having a subordinate clause must have a main clause.

Example:

He likes Chinese rice which tastes good.

The clause “which tastes good” in above sentence is a subordinate clause because it does not express complete thought and can't stand as a sentence.

It depends on main clause (he likes Chinese rice) to express complete thought.

Similarly: I met the boy who had helped me.

Topic no 160

Types of Dependent Clauses

A subordinate (dependent) clause may function as a noun, an adjective or an adverb in sentence. On the basis of their function in a sentence, subordinate clauses can be divided in to following types.

1. Noun Clause
2. Adjective Clause.
3. Adverb Clause

Noun Clause

“A dependent clause that functions as a noun in a sentence is called noun clause.”

A noun clause performs same function like a noun in a sentence.

Example:

1. What he did made a problem for his family.
2. Now I realize what he would have thought.

Adjective Clause

“A dependent clause that functions as an adjective in a sentence is called adjective clause.”

1. We know all the students who have secured distinction in the exams.

Noun adjective clause

2. The last book that we read was The Great Gatsby.

Noun adjective clause

3. He is the poet whom we have invited.

Noun adjective clause

Example:

1. He wears a shirt which looks nice.

2. The book which I like is helpful in preparation for test.

An adjective clause works like adjective in a sentence. The function of an adjective is to modify (describe) a noun or a pronoun. Similarly a noun clause modifies a noun or a pronoun.

Topic no 161Adverb clauses

Adverb Clause
adverb clause"

"A dependent clause that functions as an adverb in a sentence is called

Examples:

1. Don't go before he comes.

2. Although he tried a lot, he couldn't climb up the tree.

An adverb clause like an adverb modifies a verb, adjective clause or other adverb clause in a sentence.

Example:

- They arrived before the game had ended.
- "before the game had ended" is the adverb clause modifying the verb arrived telling when.

It describes the situation in main clause in terms of “time, frequency (how often), cause and effect, contrast, condition, intensity (to what extent).”

Topic no 162

Related to Grammar Modals

A modal (also 'modal verb', 'modal auxiliary verb', 'modal auxiliary') is a type of auxiliary verb that is used to indicate modality – that is, likelihood, ability, permission, and obligation.

They are different from normal verbs like "work, play, visit..." They give additional information about the function of the main verb that follows it.

Examples include the English verbs can/could, may/might, must, will/would, and shall/should.

Some characteristics of modal verbs:

- They never change their form. You can't add "s", "ed", "ing"...
- They are used to indicate modality: they allow speakers to express certainty, possibility, willingness, obligation, necessity, ability.
- They are NEVER used with other auxiliary verbs such as do, does, did etc. The negative is formed simply by adding "not" after the verb.
- They are NEVER followed by to, with the exception of ought to.

Topic no 163

Using Modals

Advice	Should Ought to Had better
Ability	Can (Present) Could (Past) Be able to (Other tenses)
Permission	Can Be allowed to (Other tenses)
Possibility	Could, may, might (possible) Can't (impossible) Must (sure)
Prohibition	Mustn't
Necessity	Need
Obligation	Have to Must Don't have to (no obligation)

Modal verbs are used to express functions such as:

Permission

Ability

Obligation

Prohibition

Lack of necessity

Advice

possibility probability

Forming Questions

There are two basic ways to form questions:

1. By using helping verb in the beginning of the sentence.

Example: Do you go to school?

Are you coming here?

	Simple	Continuous	Perfect	Perfect Continuous
Present	Do, Does	Am, Is, Are	Has, Have	Has been, Have been
Past	Did	Was, Were	Had	Had been
Future	Will, Shall	Will be, Shall be	Will have, Shall have	Will have been, Shall have been

2. By using Question Words or sometimes known as 'W' family words in the beginning of the sentence.

(What, where, when, who, whose, why etc)

QUESTION ORDER

Qw (question word)	A (auxiliary verb)	S (subject)	V (verb)	O (other)
Who	is	your boss?
What	is	your name?
When	is	the meeting		on Monday?
Where	is	the office?
Why	am	I		in English class?
How	are	you		today?
How old	is	she?
What time	is	it?

We have to keep in mind the principles related to tenses while forming questions using the question words. We can't afford to ignore the grammar rules.

Topic no 165

Punctuation

Punctuation means: the marks, such as full stop, comma, and brackets, used in writing to separate sentences and their elements and to clarify meaning.

While teaching Punctuation, pay attention particularly on the use of comma(,), semi colon(;) and colons(:).

More about Listening

Listening Strategies

Listening strategies are techniques or activities that contribute directly to the comprehension and recall of listening input. Listening strategies can be classified by how the listener processes the input.

What are listening strategies?

They are techniques or activities that contribute directly to the comprehension and recall of listening input.

Top-down strategies are listener based; the listener taps into background knowledge of the topic, the situation or context, the type of text, and the language.

This background knowledge activates a set of expectations that help the listener to interpret what is heard and anticipate what will come next.

Top-down strategies include :

- listening for the main idea
- predicting
- drawing inferences
- summarizing

Bottom-up strategies are text based; the listener relies on the language in the message, that is, the combination of sounds, words, and grammar that creates meaning.

Topic no 167

Metacognitive Strategies

Strategic listeners also use metacognitive strategies to plan, monitor, and evaluate their listening.

Metacognitive strategies refers to methods used to help students understand the way they learn; in other words, it means processes designed for students to 'think' about their 'thinking'.

- They plan by deciding which listening strategies will serve best in a particular situation.
- They monitor their comprehension and the effectiveness of the selected strategies.
- They evaluate by determining whether they have achieved their listening comprehension goals and whether the combination of listening strategies selected was an effective one.

Topic no 168

Listening for Meaning

- Figure out the purpose for listening. Activate background knowledge of the topic in order to predict or anticipate content and identify appropriate listening strategies.
- Attend to the parts of the listening input that are relevant to the identified purpose and ignore the rest. This selectivity enables students to focus on specific items in the input and reduces the amount of information for short-term memory.
- Select top-down and bottom-up strategies that are appropriate to the listening task and use them flexibly and interactively.
- Students' comprehension and confidence improve when they use top-down and bottom-up to construct meaning.

- Check comprehension while listening and when the listening task is over.

Comprehension means 'understanding'.

Monitoring comprehension helps students detect inconsistencies and comprehension failures, directing them to use alternate strategies.

Topic no 169

Listening Activities

1. Construct the listening activity around a contextualized task.
2. Define the activity's instructional goal and type of response. It means: main idea, sounds, text type etc.

3. Check the level of difficulty of the listening text.
4. Use pre-listening activities to prepare students for what they are going to hear or view.
5. Use pre-listening activities to prepare students for what they are going to hear or view.

Sample pre-listening activities:

- looking at pictures, maps, diagrams, or graphs
- reviewing vocabulary or grammatical structures
- reading something relevant

Speaking

The action of conveying information or expressing one's feelings in speech.

Speaking is an interactive process of constructing meaning that involves producing and receiving and processing information (Brown, 1994; Burns & Joyce, 1997).

Its form and meaning are dependent on the context in which it occurs, including the participants themselves, their collective experiences, the physical environment, and the purposes for speaking

It is often spontaneous, open-ended, and evolving. Often predictable. Language functions (or patterns) can be identified (Burns & Joyce, 1997).

WHAT IS SPEAKING?

└ Speaking is "the process of building and sharing meaning through the use of verbal and non-verbal symbols, in a variety of contexts."

(Chaney, 1998, p. 13)

Topic no 171

Types of Speaking

There are different types of speaking depending upon the situation and the environment, where the speaking takes place. Few important types are given here:

One-on-One: student-teacher or student-student where students are asked to discuss or explain some question or problem.

Small-Group or Team-Based Oral Work: Smaller-scale settings for discussion, deliberation, and problem solving.

Full-Class Discussions (Teacher- or Student-Led): Typically less agonistic, argument-based, and competitive than debate and deliberation but still dialogic in character.

Discussions

- Students will discuss the topic
- Then the teacher or leader of group ask the questions and discussions are carried out.

In-Class Debates and Deliberations: A structured consideration of some issue from two or more points of view.

Speeches and Presentations: Classically, the stand-up, podium speech delivered by an individual from an outline or script. Also includes group presentations or speaking.

Oral Examinations: Can take place in the instructor's office, in small groups, or before a whole class.

Teaching Principles of Speaking

✓ Principles for Teaching Speaking Skills

1. Focus on both fluency and accuracy
2. Provide intrinsically motivating techniques
3. Encourage the use of authentic language
4. Provide appropriate feedback and correction
5. Capitalize on the natural link between speaking and listening
6. Give students opportunities to initiate oral communication
7. Encourage the development of speaking strategies

The goal of teaching speaking skills is communicative efficiency. Learners should be able to make themselves understood, using their current proficiency.

Topic no 174More about Speaking*Speaking Strategies

Speaking strategies can use to help themselves expand their knowledge of the language and their confidence in using it. The instructors help students learn to speak so that the students can use speaking to learn.

- * These instructors help students learn to speak so that the students can use speaking to learn.
 - * 1. Using minimal responses
 - * 2. Recognizing scripts
 - * 3. Using language to talk about language

Using minimal responses

Minimal responses are predictable, often idiomatic phrases that conversation participants use to indicate understanding, agreement, doubt, and other responses to what another speaker is saying.

Using Minimal Responses

One way to encourage learners to begin to participate is to help them build up a stock of minimal responses that they can use in different types of exchanges. Minimal responses are predictable, often idiomatic phrases that conversation participants use to indicate understanding, agreement, doubt, and other responses to what another speaker is saying.

This background knowledge activates a set of expectations that help the listener to interpret what is heard and anticipate what will come next.

Recognizing Scripts:

Some communication situations are associated with a predictable set of spoken exchanges -- a script.

Greetings, apologies, compliments, invitations, and other functions that are influenced by social and cultural norms often follow patterns or scripts.

Using language to talk about language: Language learners are often too embarrassed or shy to say anything when they do not understand another speaker. Instructors can help students overcome their shyness.

NEED CONFIDENCE?

By using clarification phrases, they can manage the communication and they can become confident about using the language.

To develop this skill, the students need intensive practice. Speaking practice is usually done in pair & group work.

- Listen
- Record Yourself
- Write Things Down
- Consult Technical Sources
- Practice

- Pronunciation of individual sounds
- Word stress
- Sentence stress
- Rhythm
- Intonation

- Word Stress

The stress placed on syllables within words is called word stress or lexical stress. Some languages have fixed stress including English also.

/ˈneɪʃ(ə)n/

/təˈɡrædʒ/

word	shape	total syllables	stressed syllable
PHO TO GRAPH		3	# 1
PHO TO GRAPH ER		4	#2
PHO TO GRAPH IC		4	#3

- Sentence Stress

Sentence stress is accent on certain words within a sentence. For example:

1. What did he say to you in the garden?
2. How long are you going for?

Intonation describes how the voice rises and falls in speech. The three main patterns of intonation in English are: falling intonation, rising intonation and fall-rise intonation.

Where's the nearest post-office? (falling)

fall	fall-rise	rise

Reading

Reading is making meaning from print. It requires that we:

- Identify the words in print – a process called word recognition
- Construct an understanding from them – a process called comprehension

- Coordinate identifying words and making meaning so that reading is automatic and accurate – an achievement called fluency.

Reading in its fullest sense involves weaving together word recognition and comprehension in a fluent manner

Skimming and Scanning

Skimming and Scanning

Skimming and scanning helps you to find information easily and quickly. It is a really useful skill to have and will help you answer comprehension questions.

What is skimming and scanning?

Skimming is when you read through a piece of writing quickly to see what it is about.

Scanning is when you scan the page with your eyes to find answers to questions.

Skimming and scanning are two very different strategies for speed reading. Skimming refers to looking only for the general or main ideas. With skimming, your overall understanding is reduced because you don't read everything.

You read only what is important to your purpose. Skimming takes place while reading and allows you to look for details in addition to the main ideas.

How to Skim?

Working quickly...

1. Read the title if there is one.
2. Read the introduction or the first paragraph if there is one.
3. Read the first sentence of every other paragraph.
4. Notice any pictures, charts, or graphs.
5. Notice any italicized or boldface words or phrases.
6. Read the summary or last paragraph if there is one.

Examples of Skimming:

- The Newspaper – to quickly get the general news of the day
- Magazines – to quickly discover which articles you would like to read in more detail
- Business and Travel Brochures – to quickly get informed

While scanning, you look only for a specific fact or piece of information without reading everything. You scan when you look for your favourite show listed in the cable guide, for your friend's phone number in a telephone book, and for the sports scores in the newspaper. Scanning also allows you to find details and other information in a hurry.

- Scanning is a selective reading process.
- When you scan, you will try to locate facts quickly and also find answers to specific questions.
- To scan, you should know what information you are searching for even before you start to read.
- To scan quickly, you must only look for words or information which you need.

My brother Russell thinks monsters live in our bedroom closet at night. But I told him he is crazy.
"Go and check then," he said.
I didn't want to. Russell said I was chicken.
"Am not," I said.
"Are so," he said.
So I told him the monsters were going to eat him at midnight. He started to cry. My dad came in and told the monsters to beat it. Then he told us to go to sleep.
"If I hear any more about monsters," he said, "I'll spank you."

People who know how to skim and scan are flexible readers. They read according to their purpose and get the information they need quickly without wasting time.

Topic no 180Reading Strategies

Instructors can help the students by applying these strategies:

- Previewing: reviewing titles, section headings, and photo captions to get a sense of the structure and content of a reading selection.

Preview the Title

- If you are reading a novel look at the title and ask yourself the following questions:
 - What does the title mean?
 - What reasons could the writer have for choosing the title?
 - Based on the title what do I predict will happen in the story?

Great readers preview the text by looking at...

- ✓ Title
- ✓ Author
- ✓ Illustrations
- ✓ Blurb

- Predicting: using knowledge of the subject matter to make predictions about content, vocabulary, structure writing style, and context.

- Skimming and scanning: using a quick survey of the text to get the main idea, identify text structure, confirm or question predictions

✓ Skimming and Scanning

Skimming and scanning are two specific speed-reading techniques, which enable you to cover a vast amount of material very rapidly. These techniques are similar in process but different in purpose.

Whereas context means the main picture.

- Guessing from context: using prior knowledge of the subject and the ideas in the text as clues to the meanings of unknown words, instead of stopping to look them up.

- Paraphrasing: stopping at the end of a section to check comprehension by restating the information and ideas in the text.

You can employ these techniques/ strategies for the reading activities.

Integrating Strategies

Instruction in reading strategies is an integral part of the use of reading activities in the language classroom.

Before reading: Plan for the reading task:

- Set a purpose or decide in advance what to read for
- Decide if more linguistic or background knowledge is needed
- Determine whether to read text from the top down (attend to the overall meaning) or from the bottom up (focus on the words and phrases)

During and after reading:

- Monitor comprehension
- Verify predictions and check for inaccurate guesses
- Reread to check comprehension
- Ask for help

After reading: Evaluate comprehension and strategy use

- Evaluate comprehension in a particular task or area
- Evaluate overall progress in reading and in particular types of reading tasks
- Decide if the strategies used were appropriate for the purpose and for the task
- Modify strategies if necessary

✓ Whip

- Whip is an activity used after reading the text.
- This is when a teacher goes around the room and asks students questions about the text after reading it.
- The questions are usually given to the students before reading so they know what to specifically look for or listen to while reading.
- This strategy allows students to recall information they have just read.

This way, you can use these three phases of techniques/ strategies for the reading activities.

Summing Up reading Strategies

3-2-1 STRATEGY

- The 3-2-1 strategy is used after reading.
- This strategy is a good end-of-the-period activity to review the day's lesson and promote higher order thinking.
- The 3-2-1 strategy involves steps and writing. These steps are:
 - 3 = three things they discovered.
 - 2 = two things they found interesting.
 - 1 = one question they still have.
- This writing strategy is to help students comprehend what they have read.

All of these or some of these strategies can be used in a classroom to conduct reading activity.

Topic no 183Writing

The activity or skill of writing. Writing is a method of representing language in visual or tactile form. Writing systems use sets of symbols to represent the sounds of speech, and may also have symbols for such things as punctuation and numerals.

Words spoken are symbols of affections or impressions of the soul; written words are symbols of words spoken. And just as letters are not the same for all men, sounds are not the same either) although the affections directly expressed by these indications are the same for everyone, as are the things of which these impressions are images. Aristotle (1938: 115)

- ✎ Writing can be said to be the act of forming the symbols: making marks on flat surface of some kind.
- ✎ Writing is a process where symbols have to be arranged according to a certain conventions to form words and words have to be arranged to form sentences.
- ✎ Writing involves encoding of a message of some kind: that is we translate our thoughts into language.
(Byren, 1988)

WHAT IS WRITING?

The representation of language in a textual medium through the use of a set of signs or symbols . It is distinguished from illustration, such as cave drawing and painting, and non-symbolic preservation of language via non-textual media, such as magnetic tape audio.

- Definition Writing—writing that tells what a specific term means.
 - Extended Definition—a definition that conveys the author's attitude toward the term and his or her purpose for defining the term.

Types of Writing

There are different types of writing depending upon the situation and the environment, where the writing takes place. Few important types are given here:

- Biography
- Autobiography
- Memoir
- Essay
- Interview
- Article
- Diary
- Speech
- Letter

Normally, There are four main types of writing: expository, persuasive, narrative, and descriptive.

Narrative – Writing in which the author tells a story. The story could be fact or fiction.

I went to Disneyworld.
I saw Mickey Mouse.
I felt happy to go on the rides.
I wish I could go there every day.

What is Narrative Writing?

- A narrative is a story containing specific elements that work together to create interest for not only the author but also the reader.
- This type of writing makes the reader feel as if her or she were part of the story, as if it was being told directly to him or her.

Persuasive – Writing that states the opinion of the writer and attempts to influence the reader.

Descriptive – A type of expository writing that uses the five senses to paint a picture for the reader. This writing incorporates imagery and specific details.

Descriptive Writing:

Painting A Picture With Words

What your goal is in a descriptive piece of writing is to describe something, someone, or some place in a way that shows the readers, rather than tells.

This is done by using:

- Imagery
- Sensory language
- Describing words (adjectives and adverbs)

Descriptive writing can be done in an essay format (5 paragraphs!), or even as a story or a poem.

Expository – Writing in which author's purpose is to inform or explain the subject to the reader.

EXPOSITORY WRITING
KEYS TO A GOOD SCORE-D.O.C.

Development

- Specific, well chosen, and completely developed ideas that are explained clearly
- Engaging/Original- Thoughtful, interesting ideas that include YOUR thoughts, opinions, and emotions about the topic

Organization

- You remember to explain in some way.
- Clear central/controlling idea or thesis statement and short effective conclusion
- All ideas relate to each other AND the prompt
- Meaningful transitions with ideas and sentences

Conventions

- You choose the best words and use sentences of different lengths. You have great capitalization, usage, punctuation, spelling, and penmanship.

You must have noticed that the purpose of writing makes it a different type of writing.

Topic no 185

Writing Strategies

Here are some strategies that might help you when you teach writing:

1. Choose writing objective.
2. Find a writing exercise that helps to focus on the specific objective.
3. If possible, tie the subject matter to student needs.
4. Provide feedback through correction activities that call on students to correct their own mistakes.
5. Have students revise work.

A. Strategies for Writing

1. Prepare work area
2. Fight writer's block--return to pre-writing if necessary
3. Take breaks
4. Get ideas down quickly
 - a. Begin with body of paper.
 - b. Introduction and conclusion will be written last
5. T/S the first draft if typing; D/S by hand
6. Write on only one side of the paper

The writing skill of students must be improved with the help from instructor. The students should become good writers. And what do the good writers do?

What Do Good Writers Do?

- Good writers plan their writing.
- Good writers write complete sentences.
- Good writers make their writing better.
- Good writers make their writing neat and correct.
- Good writers share their writing.

Topic no 186Teaching Principles of Speaking

Understand your students' reasons for writing. It is important to understand both and to convey goals to students in ways that make sense to them.

Provide many opportunities for students to write. Since writing is in part a physical activity, it is like other physical activities—it requires practice, and lots of it.

Make feedback helpful and meaningful.

If you write comments on students' papers, make sure they understand the vocabulary or symbols you use.

Clarify for yourself, and for your students, how their Writing will be evaluated. Students often feel that the evaluation of their writing is completely subjective.

Topic no 187*Writing Process

There are certain steps related to writing and writing process: starting from finding an idea and finishing at your final draft.

First drafts
don't have to be perfect.
They just have to be written.

Plan it

Ten Essential Steps

1. _____ Understand the topic
2. _____ Brainstorm ideas
3. _____ Organize the best ideas into an outline
4. _____ Introduction paragraph - hook, explanation & thesis
5. _____ Body paragraphs - topic sentences
6. _____ Body paragraphs - explanations, examples & transitions
7. _____ Conclusion - restatement of thesis & exiting sentence
8. _____ Check the parts - Are they all there?
9. _____ Check the ideas - Do they stick to the topic?
10. _____ Check the text - Is it accurate? Is it effective?

Write it

Check it

By following these steps, you can help your students to improve their writing skill.

Topic no 188Criteria for Writing

There are four criteria for writing: Task response; cohesion and coherence,

Vocabulary and grammar

25% - Task response

how well you answer the question

25% - Coherence and cohesion organisation of ideas

25% - Lexical resource vocabulary

25% - Grammatical range and accuracy

short and long sentences, avoid mistakes

By focusing on these criteria, you can help your student to improve writing skill.

I don't judge people based on race, creed, colour or gender.

I judge people based on spelling, grammar, punctuation and sentence structure.

Topic no 189Cohesion and Coherence

These are two terms particularly related to writing.

Cohesion means the connection of ideas at the sentence level and Coherence means the connection of ideas at the idea level.

Cohesion

The castle was designed by her uncle Hernando who was an architect in a nearby city. He was also a fine family man and was once an excellent swimmer ...

Coherence

Cohesion & Coherence

- Cohesion: “a sense of flow;” the way sentences fit together (how one sentence ends and the next begins)
 - at the sentence level (sentence + sentence)
- Coherence: “fitting together;” the way a series of sentences or paragraphs work together logically
 - at the paragraph, section, chapter, or document level (multiple sentences, multiple paragraphs, etc.)
- When our writing is both cohesive and coherent, it flows naturally and makes sense to our readers.

These two qualities make your writing worth reading.

Topic no 190

Writing Activities

Brainstorming about people, places, and feelings:

Write down or tell a partner the names of people you could describe, then quickly and briefly describe each one.

Name several places you have visited and list descriptive words for each place. List and describe some memorable feelings you have had, and explain the situation in which they occurred.

Talking and listening in pairs or groups:

Take turns telling about an interesting person, thing, incident, or object. Encourage the listeners to ask questions and add ideas.

Record possible writing topics or ideas as they arise during the discussion.

Looking at art:

Study paintings, photographs, drawings, or sculpture in magazines or art books. It may even be useful to take a trip to a local museum or art gallery.

Jot down notes and questions about the artwork, then write down.

Role playing:

Pretend to be any character and write about it.

Observing with all senses:

Use all of your senses to observe something and then write about it as you felt.

"Good writing is supposed to evoke sensation in the reader - not the fact that it is raining, but the feeling of being rained upon."
--E. L. Doctorow

Remember!

You are training your students to create good writings.

Topic no 191Approaches and Methodologies*Basic Terms

What do we mean by approach, method and technique?

An approach is an enlightened viewpoint toward teaching. It provides philosophy to the whole process of instruction. You can call it a theory.

A method, on the other hand, is an organized, orderly, systematic, and well-planned procedure aimed at facilitating and enhancing students' learning.

Technique means a strategy a teacher applies through specific steps in the teaching process.

Grammar Translation Method/GTM

The grammar translation method is a method of teaching foreign languages derived from the classical (sometimes called traditional) method of teaching Greek and Latin.

GRAMMAR TRANSLATION METHOD

CHARACTERISTICS

1. Classes taught in L1; little use of L2
2. Vocabulary taught in lists and isolated
3. Grammar explanation, memorization
4. Reading classical text early
5. Grammar analysis of text
6. Translation
7. 0 attention to pronunciation

English	Urdu Translation
2 Do you take much notice of what people think?	لوگ کیا سوچتے ہیں - اس بات پر کیا آپ بہت دھیان دیتے ہیں؟
14 Do you prefer to go your own way rather than act by the rules?	کیا قوانین کی پابندی کرنے کی بجائے آپ اپنی مرضی سے زندگی گزارنے کو ترجیح دیتے ہیں؟
26 Do you enjoy co-operating with others?	کیا آپ دوسروں کے ساتھ تعاون کر کے خوش ہوتے ہیں؟
43 Is it better to follow society's rules than go your own way?	کیا سماج کے طور طریقوں کی پابندی کرنے کی بجائے اپنی مرضی سے جینا بہتر ہے؟

Audio Lingual Method/ALM

The Audio-Lingual method of teaching a foreign language is also known as the army method. It originated from the behaviourist theory of learning languages and was introduced to teach language to troops during World War 2.

This method relies on repetition drills and as a result it was used to teach large numbers of students at the same time.

The Audio-Lingual Method

- Similar to the direct method:

- They both are oral-based approaches – pronunciation and ability of speaking in the target language is superior to other skills
- Grammar is learnt inductively

- Different from the direct method:

- Not only vocabulary but also grammatical sentence patterns
- Stronger theoretical base in linguistics (structural linguistics) and psychology (behavioural psychology)

Tips for improving Pronunciation:

- Learn the Rules
- Learn the Meaning and Pronunciation
- Listen
- Record Yourself
- Write Things Down

- * These instructors help students learn to speak so that the students can use speaking to learn.
- * 1. Using minimal responses
- * 2. Recognizing scripts
- * 3. Using language to talk about language

- Pronunciation of individual sounds
- Word stress
- Sentence stress
- Rhythm
- Intonation

You can employ teach these skills by using ALM.

Topic no 195

Direct Method

The direct method of teaching, which is sometimes called the natural method, and is often (but not exclusively) used in teaching foreign languages, refrains from using the learners' native language and uses only the target language.

Principles of Direct Method

- Translation

students are not allowed to use their mother tongue language.

- Grammar

grammar is taught inductively, the learner should figure out the rule through the example by the teacher.

- Conversation

Speaking is taught first before reading and writing. Student should speak at least 80% of the time during the lesson.

- Context/Situation

the teacher is actively involved in using the language in realistic everyday situations. Students are introduced to the ways of life of target language (L2).

- Target language

students are encouraged to think in the target language.

Direct Method of Language Teaching

"Teach the language not about the language"

Topic no 196

Speaking strategies

Asking about language: By using clarification phrases, they can manage the communication and they can become confident about using the language.

The train is fast.

It is describing train (a noun). So an adjective here.

The train is moving fast.

It is describing the action, so an adverb.

To develop this skill, the students need intensive practice. Speaking practice is usually done in pair & group work.

Asking about language: By using clarification phrases, they can manage the communication and they can become confident about using the language.

All of these skills can be taught by employing Direct Method.

All of these skills can be taught by employing Direct Method. The Communicative approach emphasizes the ability to communicate the message in terms of its meaning, instead of concentrating exclusively on grammatical perfection or phonetics.

Topic no 198Communicative Method

The Communicative approach emphasizes the ability to communicate the message in terms of its meaning, instead of concentrating exclusively on grammatical perfection or phonetics.

The Communicative Approach

Guiding Principles

- Comprehension precedes production.
- Production emerges in stages.
- Goal is meaningful communication.
- Affective filter is lowered.
- Language is “acquired” through interaction as well as “learned” from the teacher.

A FEW THINGS TO KEEP IN MIND...

“The only way to learn to speak is to speak and speak, and speak and speak, and speak and speak and speak.”

Topic no 199

Cooperative Learning

Cooperative Learning is an approach to teaching that makes maximum use of cooperative activities involving pairs and small groups of learners in the classroom.

Cooperative Language Learning (CLL) is also known as Collaborative Learning (CL).

Small-Group or Team-Based Oral Work: Smaller-scale settings for discussion, deliberation, and problem solving.

Discussions

- Students will discuss the topic
- Then the teacher or leader of group ask the questions and discussions are carried out.

3-2-1 STRATEGY

- The 3-2-1 strategy is used after reading.
- This strategy is a good end-of-the-period activity to review the day's lesson and promote higher order thinking.
- The 3-2-1 strategy involves steps and writing. These steps are:

- This writing strategy is to help students comprehend what they have read.

Talking and listening in pairs or groups:

Take turns telling about an interesting person, thing, incident, or object. Encourage the listeners to ask questions and add ideas.

All are the examples of Cooperative Learning which can be employed in your classroom also.
