36. Communication is the life line of human society. Discuss the importance and usage of communication in human life.

Communication – sending of a message from one person to another, in simplest terms - has been one of the oldest characteristics of human life. Even when formal languages were not available, people were able to make each other understand their feelings and gestures to accomplish routine tasks. The world communication has its origin in the Latin word COMMUNIS which stands for common or to create commonness with the people around you. This is possible when you share your feelings and ideas with others.

Importance and Usage of Communication in Human Life.

Survival

The foremost reason to communicate to others for the human beings in particular is their own survival. There is hardly any sense in believing that a person can all alone live a life by fulfilling its daily life needs. The fact is that every next moment a person is dependent on others to survive. Hence it is inevitable for all of us to bank on communication.

Co-operation

There is a very genuine instinct in all the living creatures to cooperate with each other to keep the cycle of life running. Humans need this more cautiously as to keep their hard felt sense of superiority.

Relationships

Feeling of keeping a range of relationship from an individual to family and tribe was strong from early days of human civilization. It would have been extremely difficult to promote a life style without acknowledging the relationships among people living together for sometime. Communication was essential to identify relations among people to accomplish different tasks.

Persuasion

Communication proved handy in the course of persuasion and influence others to keep the human civilization grow. The task is done even today, though, with different techniques and in a rather complex world of communication.

Power

Better communication helped people and tribes to command power over others. This phenomenon is more evident in the fields of conflict and to bring the enemy down. To muster support by using better communication skills has always been the hallmark of human interactivity.

Social needs

Social needs grow with almost the same pace, human culture and civilization nurture. History stands as testimony to the fact that the circle of human social needs expands as people try to live together in more organized manner. Communication is the common most thing which knit societies to fulfill their desire to rise jointly.

Information

In more advance world, as it is today, it is a piece of information – a piece of communication, which brings relief to human living in a score of ways. Information about roads, condition, may help you change your traveling plan, for instance. A small bit of information may have a life long impression on your future business.

Decision making

And not the least, in present day affairs communication goes long way in helping us in decision making. Not an individual alone, but families and nations, can draw certain conclusions with the help of available communication on certain matters which is likely to improve the overall living standards and a more secure life for all of human beings.
