2. What is the role of assembly for students' grooming?

Morning assemblies play a crucial role in school life. As an institution, a school requires daily gatherings where everyone can meet to perform various functions and stay informed about school events. The school assembly serves as a traditional meeting point, fostering a sense of unity and purpose.

Since school is the foundation of a student's life, assemblies provide an opportunity to energize students for a productive and positive day. The assembly program helps cultivate and sustain a positive school culture, bringing everyone together. The primary goal of the school assembly is to instill a sense of unity among students and teachers.

Other Non-Teaching Activities

What other non-teaching activities you perform during teaching practice? (e.g. Sports Day, Bazm-e-Adab, Fun Fair, Parents-Teacher meeting, Debates etc)

Yes, these activities take place on various occasions:

1. Schools organize several sports days, where students participate in various athletic events. These are typically held in elementary schools. In schools with a house system, one key feature is the competition between different houses, particularly during inter-house sports events.
2. The school's Literary Society, including both the English and Urdu Clubs, organized a "Bazm-e-Adab" event in April. The program featured recitations of students' creative writing, national songs, ghazals, speeches, and skits on topics of student interest. The goal of the Bazm-e-Adab was to provide students with an opportunity to showcase their talents and build confidence by performing on stage.
3. A parent-teacher conference (also known as a parent-teacher interview, parent-teacher night, or parents' evening) is a brief meeting between parents and teachers to discuss a child's academic progress and address any behavioral or academic concerns.
4. Debate teaches essential communication skills. It helps students learn how to structure their ideas, form conclusions, and view problems from multiple perspectives. Debate also aids in building confidence, enhancing research skills, and learning how to respond to criticism while defending or challenging an argument.
