words, dates, people, or symbols) and the second column has responses (like definitions, events, accomplishments, or meanings). Students are asked to match each item in the first column with the correct item in the second column. These exercises are used to measure a student's ability to identify relationships between related items. They are efficient and economical when there is enough factual information, and each item in the exercise has two components with only one correct match.

What are three important points for reminding students to check their answer copies during invigilation?

- Ensure all questions have been attempted.
- Review answers for possible mistakes.
- Verify that their personal details are correctly filled in.

Long Questions:

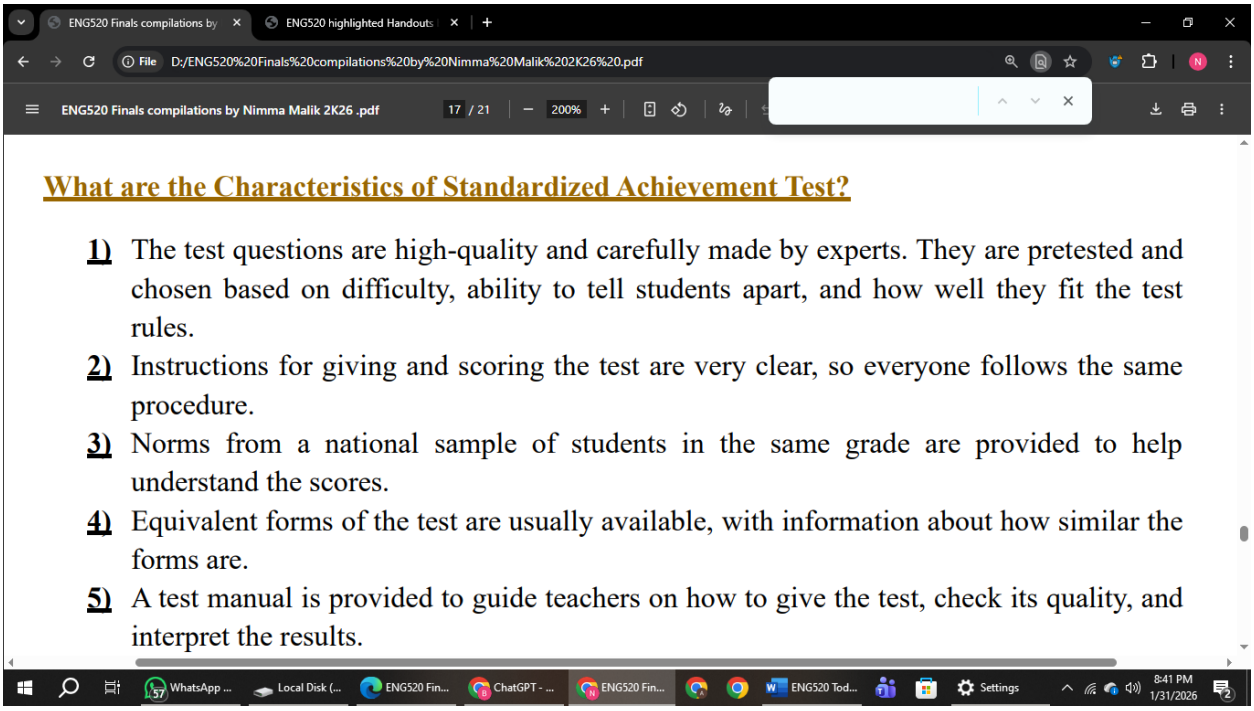

know the content and those who don't.

iii. Distractor analysis: Checks how well the wrong answer choices (distractors) work in the question.

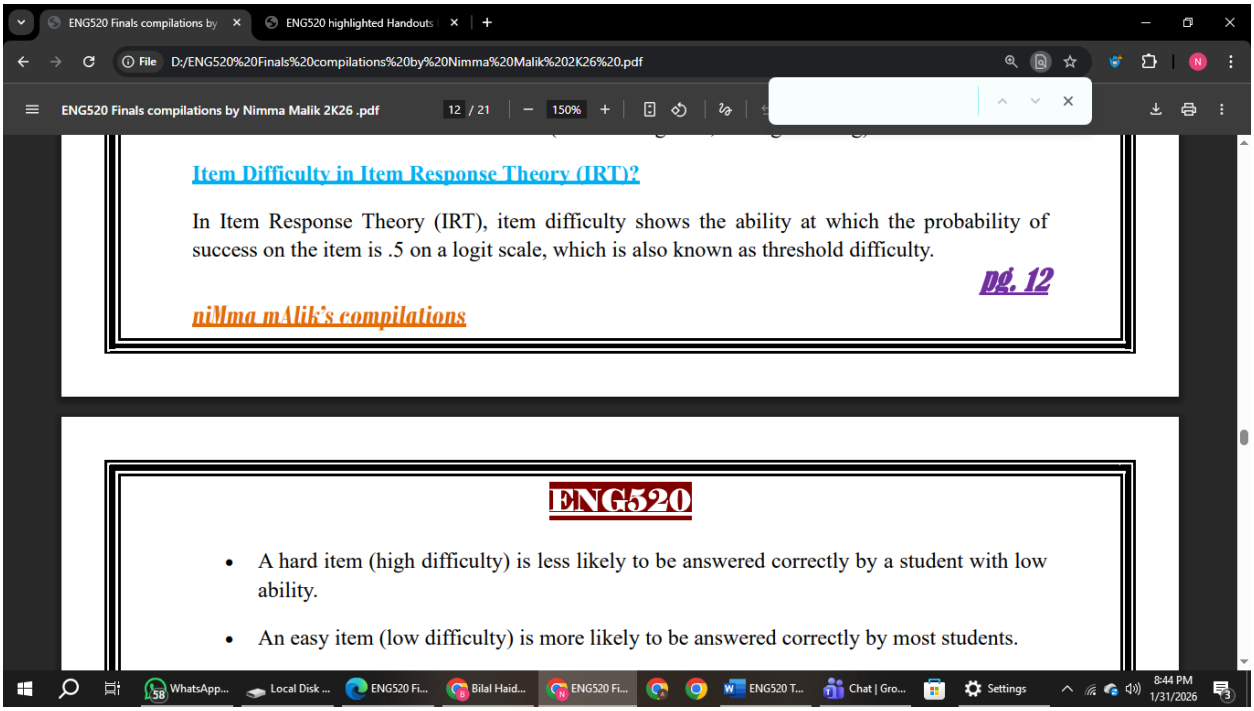

Suggestions for Constructing Short Answer/Completion Questions?

i. Write the question so the answer is short and specific.
ii. Do not copy sentences directly from textbooks.
iii. A direct question is better than an incomplete statement.
iv. If the answer is a number, mention the units.
v. For completion (fill-in-the-blank) questions, avoid too many blanks or starting with a blank.
vi. Do not ask trivial or unimportant information in blanks.

What are the Characteristics of Standardized Achievement Test?
1) The test questions are high-quality and carefully made by experts. They are pretested and chosen based on difficulty, ability to tell students apart, and how well they fit the test rules.
2) Instructions for giving and scoring the test are very clear, so everyone follows the same procedure.
3) Norms from a national sample of students in the same grade are provided to help understand the scores.
4) Equivalent forms of the test are usually available, with information about how similar the forms are.
5) A test manual is provided to guide teachers on how to give the test, check its quality, and interpret the results.
