SUBJECTIVE

Explain Levels of Literacy?

There are three levels of literacy.

1) Baseline literacy:

The bare minimum to be considered literate is baseline literacy. The ability to read very simple and ability to write very simple, is included in it. Further includes, the ability to do simple Quantitative (arithmetic) analysis. It may also include basic computer skills.

2) Functional literacy:

The functional literacy means that you become functional within the society. In other words, a person is not dependent on reading the letter or writing something. It is an advanced level.

3) Multiple literacy:

Further advanced level of literacy is multiple literacy. When one can become able to distinguish between different words of similar meanings. As there is a very minute difference in the synonyms of the words, if a person can distinguish those words, then it is multiple literacy.

What is the Process of peace education?

Peace studies, is a process. It has to be born, reborn, again and again. It means you have to refine the curriculum every now and then. Therefore, we need to revisit the curriculum for peace studies on a regular basis. Conflict could be in the system, society, or even in the families. Starting from smaller units we will look into the macro level.

Peace education is the pedagogical efforts to create a world at peace. By peace, we mean more than the absence of violence (negative peace). Peace in its most positive aspects embraces ideas of justice, global sustainability and the eradication of structures that promote insecurity: poverty, hunger, malnutrition, and lack of access to resources.

Another word for peace is equality. And other words for equality are equity, symmetry, reciprocity, equal rights, and equal dignity. One can see them as part of the definition of peace or peaceful means. As such they are necessary rather than sufficient conditions. Equality does not guarantee peace. But inequality almost guarantees the opposite, direct violence, in one form or the other, physical or verbal, directed against the body, mind or spirit of the human beings.

four stages of peace Education?

1) multi-disciplinary stage:

In the multi-disciplinary stage, a university, or a conference, invites specialists from several disciplines to contribute to peace studies from their angle. People or discipline who never meet because our universities fragment human knowledge keeps us apart fighting for funds and recognition, learn heart of tolerance.

2) inter-disciplinary stage:

In the inter-disciplinary stage, a university or a conference encourages dialogue among approaches, an obvious method being to address the same event or phase in history, or the same problem.

3) cross disciplinary stage:

In the cross disciplinary stage this dialogue goes further, into mutual learning. A psychologist may pick up a sociological hypothesis about status disequilibrium (like high on education, low on power) as aggression productive and explore the psychology; a sociologist may explore the social effects of cognitive consonance as peace of mind. Usually, such explorations are bilateral.

4) trans-disciplinary stage: OR Transcend Approach

In the trans-disciplinary stage, based on the preceding three or not, the problem that determines the choice of intellectual tools and they will usually have to come from the tool chests of several disciplines. Like for health studies. But in this process other disciplines will also learn and change. Historians for instance, will focus more on peace and on how war could have been avoided, economics more on survival and equity etc.

Write note on Islamic education is valued in itself?

For those who choose a madrassa education for themselves or for their children, it provides not only religious knowledge, but a value system that sets it apart from other, non-religious forms of education. Some families choose madrassa education because it is seen as the most appropriate form of schooling, and having a child with a religious degree grants the family prestige.

Nelson's study of local educational demands in Rawalpindi finds that 41% of the respondents had religious education as their top priority (2006).

Write a short note on Convention millennium development goals (MDGs)?

Eight millennium development goals were set by the United Nations for the signatory countries. Following are the details of those 8 MDGs.

i. Eradicate extreme poverty and hunger:

We need to feed our population through a balanced diet.

ii. Achieve universal primary education:

Universal means across the globe. Primary education up to grade 5 should be provided to all free and mandatory.

iii. Promote gender equality and empower women:

Equal access to primary and post primary education for girls. Gender equality especially in Pakistanis a difficult task. But according to MDGs girls have to achieve that as well.

iv. Reduce child mortality:

Mortality is the death rate. There could be many reasons like malnutrition, diseases, poor healthcare, poverty, not enough food. We need to get sure that we can eradicate that

v. Improve maternal health:

Good healthy mother would breed good healthy child.

vi. Combat HIV aids, malaria and other diseases:

In our case it could also include dengue.

vii. Ensure environmental stability:

We have polluted water, polluted air. Our entire population should receive clean and safe water.

viii. Develop a global partnership for development:

More aid, more debt relief, more access to essential drugs etc. in other words living in cooperation.

Explain Debate on madarsa (Debate Controversies)?

Madaaris are being discussed and criticized widely as they are facing many challenges. There are three types of opinion dominant in the current debate on madaaris.

Firstly, there are supporters or blind followers of madaaris; secondly, there are elements which are anti-madaaris, and lastly, there are neutral observers. The entire debate is revolving around Madaaris controversies and challenges.

- i. In Pakistan, madaaris are established on the basis of sect, and they educate according to their belief systems. Therefore, the establishment of sectarian organizations and involvement or participation of madrasa students in sectarian violence is a major apprehension.
- ii. It is believed that over the years, madaaris have advocated for jihad. The issue arises that without permission of the government, is participation of seminary students in jihad permitted or not?
- iii. Amidst such a situation, establishment of jihadi outfits and their networks in madaaris is alarming for law and order in the country.
- iv. Madaaris are often said to be linked with terrorism directly or indirectly, whereas the administration of seminaries vehemently denies this.
- v. Establishing offices of religion-political parties in madaaris is also a major concern by various sectors. The role of madaaris in politics is also criticized.
- vi. It is perceived that Madaaris have their own semblance of government in their areas and no one is allowed to intervene, thus, people raise questions about the writ of the state.

What is the philosophy of peace education involved?

- ❖ Non violence
- ❖ Love as the basis of transformation—translated into caring classrooms
- ❖ Reverence for the environment and for all life

What are the main points of National Education policy IV 1998-2010?

- 1) Radio and television will play a crucial role and be extensively used for social mobilization and promoting the cause of basic education, particularly amongst rural females. Media will also be used to impart life skills to the neo-literates.
- 2) Khankahs, mazars shall donate a portion of their earning to the literacy fund.
- 3) The justification for a new policy given by the minister was that the previous education policy was not producing required results.
- 4) Problem was with implementation.

Write about the gender disparity issue in Pakistan in your own words.

Gender disparity in Pakistan means that men and women do not get equal opportunities. Gender disparity in Pakistan refers to the unequal treatment and opportunities given to men and women in social, educational, economic, and political life.

1) Low education budget:

With low education budget it is not possible for schools to raise their facilities, to rise the salaries of the teachers, and to bring technology in schools. We have to ensure that there is a decent allocation of budget for education. On an average the budget is 2% allocated for the education.

2) Gender division of labor:

The girls are not allowed to work in the field. They are to stay at home. The point is why we give education to girls if they have to set in the homes.

3) Shortage of female teachers:

Girls will be allowed to go to schools only when they have female teachers. This will require an extra effort to fill this gap. Especially in rural areas this shortage is causing the gender disparity in school going children.

4) Conflict:

Conflict between different groups has compounded the issue affecting the education. This includes safety and surety issue. With scarce resources we are not able to endure safety and surety. Many people think at this point before sending their children to schools.

5) Cultural norms restricting freedom of movement of girls and women:

The mindset of the people has to change. This can be done by changing the mindset of parents. Also, the government needs to step in by providing nearby schools. This limits the movement of girls, infrastructure, distance, other facilities. This restricts them to go to schools.

Human rights declaration articles on human dignity?

- 1) Article 1- right to equality
- 2) Article 2- freedom for discrimination
- 3) Article 3- right to life, liberty, personal security
- 4) Article4- freedom from slavery
- 5) Article5- freedom from torture and degrading treatment

- 8) Article 8- right to remedy by competent tribunal
- 9) Article 9- Freedom from arbitrary arrest and exile
- 10) Article 10- right to fair public hearing

Opinion on the religious discrimination in our school textbooks?

The integrated curriculum used in early grades is not fair to religious minorities and is a violation of their rights. In this system, all students are taught the same content without separating religious and non-religious material. Textbooks are heavily loaded with Islamic teachings, while minority beliefs and stories are largely ignored. A review of textbooks shows that 96 out of 362 chapters and poems have strong Islamic orientation. Most national heroes and social reformers mentioned are Muslims, despite minorities' contributions to Pakistan. Even the Grade-1 book "Meri Kitab" contains several Islamic sermons. Minority students are required to study content not based on their own beliefs. This creates inequality and exclusion among minorities. Therefore, such an integrated curriculum promotes religious discrimination instead of equality.

Peace education resets on two assumptions?

- Conflict is ubiquitous
- There are ways to transform it write a short note on madrasa and sectarianism education in Pakistan?

Research shows a strong connection between religious seminaries (madrassas) and sectarian violence. Madrassas are divided by sects, and each sect teaches its own version of the correct form of Islam. These schools spread sectarian identity not only among students but also to their families and society. This division makes people follow only one ideology and discourages them from understanding other religious views. Sectarian divisions among Muslims have also contributed to the recent rise in sectarian violence in Pakistan. However, violence cannot be blamed only on madrassa teachings, though different beliefs can create bias against others. Sectarian violence also worries madrassa authorities because it harms their educational system and purpose.

Write a note on UNESCO?

Every year UNESCO offers a prize for the activities of outstanding individuals, governments or governmental agencies and NGOs whose work in literacy serves rural adults particularly women and girls.

Re-requisites for element of Article 25A?

- 1) We need more laws to clearly explain how free and compulsory education will work. Without clear rules (SOPs), how can we actually provide free education?
- 2) The last part of the law is unclear. Who decides the policies? That is the lawmaker's job.
- 3) We need to calculate extra costs. Free education is good, but do we have enough schools, teachers, transport, equipment, food, and materials for all students?
- 4) About 30% of people in Pakistan are poor. How do we reduce this gap and give equal opportunities to all?
- 5) The meaning of compulsory education must be explained. Is just being in the classroom enough?
- 6) The Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948) and Article 25A say primary education should be free and compulsory. How can we do this without spending too much money?
- 7) People need to be made aware about the importance of education.

Peace education role in societal changes?

Pakistan's Constitutional Provisions for Education?

1973 the constitution says that state shall remove illiteracy and provide free and compulsory secondary education Article 37B. There are two things in this article. Remove illiteracy but how to remove illiteracy? Second point is compulsory and free secondary education, so it is even better than the conventions that we have studied. Secondary education means up to level 10 or matric.

Article 25A, as part of the 18th amendment of the constitution, it is tilted as fundamental rights. It states that the state shall provide free and compulsory education to all children of the age of 5 to 16 years in such manners as may be determined by law. From 5 to 16 is kindergarten through Matriculation. This education is considered as a fundamental right. A flaw in the article is that it states as determined by law. What law will determine the education? It is a critical point in the article.

Impact of Literacy on social environment?

When people can read and write, they can better understand information, communicate effectively, and participate in society. Higher literacy rates can lead to more informed citizens, improved economic opportunities, and a stronger sense of community. It helps reduce poverty and promotes social equality.

four key elements of free and accessible education?

- 1) It is about learning how to live with difference and learning how to learn from difference.
- 2) Free and accessible education is concerned with the identification and removal of barriers. It involves collecting collating and evaluating information from a wide variety of sources in order to plan for educational improvements in policy and practice.
- 3) Free and accessible education is about the presence, participation, and achievement of all students.
 -  Presence means where children are educated, and how reliably and punctually they attend.
 -  Participation relates to the quality of their experiences whilst they are there.
 -  Achievement is the outcome of the learning.
- 4) Free and accessible education involves a particular emphasis on those groups of learners who may be at risk of marginalization, exclusion or underachievement. The groups that are more at risk should be given special attention. This is where keen steps are to be taken.

Gender equity in Pakistan?

Gender equity has been an issue in Pakistan and it still is. The disadvantaged group is females. The disadvantage affects them in three ways which are: Their opportunities for success in education It means that even if girls come to school, they are not allowed to take subjects / fields that they will like to get in. For example, physics, teachers and parents do not appreciate girls taking physics as subject. If girls are provided with proper education, then they can be responsible citizens of Pakistan. The statistics related to the number of primary schools, teachers, literacy rates, and net enrollment rates is given as under for better understanding. Why and how the female students be the disadvantaged group at all level be it schools, colleges, and universities.

Enlist the demands of madaaris reforms.

Madaaris often demand for following reforms:

- 1) The wafaq degrees of Matric (Sanwiya Aama) and Intermediate (Sanwiya Khaasa) are not approved yet, whereas its higher degree, Shahadat ul-Aalmia is recognized as equal to MA Islamic Studies and Arabic. The government should accept these lower-level degrees as equal to the formal educational system.
- 2) The wafaq should be affiliated with the Federal Ministry of Education or Federal Ministry of Religious Affairs. Despite passing of the 18th amendment, the madaaris prefer to remain part of the federal government. Madaaris should also link with the Higher Education Commission (a government higher studies oversight body) and all education grants should be distributed among madaaris through it.
- 3) The Madaaris should be exempted from all utility bills, and this will be the best way of cooperation from government side.
- 4) Obstacles of bureaucracy for registration of madaaris should be removed in the registration process.
- 5) Opportunities should be provided for madaaris students for easy admission in universities and participation in competitive exams.
- 6) The government should provide opportunities of job to wafaq students in all its departments.

Policy recommendations for the government?

- 1) Recognize madrassa degrees: The government should accept lower-level madrassa degrees (Saanwiya Aaama and Saanwiya Khaasa) as equal to regular school certificates.
- 2) Improve economic opportunities: The government should give madrassa graduates and religious scholars fair salaries and job opportunities in government and other sectors.
- 3) Link madrassas with federal education: Madrassas should stay connected to the federal government, HEC, and education grants should be given through these bodies.
- 4) Train teachers and staff: Madrassa teachers and staff should get advanced training and updates on current affairs to improve their knowledge and skills.

- 5) Make madrassa boards independent: Madrassa boards should be like regular exam boards, and their certificates should be recognized equally, so graduates can get jobs on merit.
- 6) Close illegal madrassas: The government should shut down fake and illegal madrassas to improve the system and reduce international criticism.
- 7) Ban unapproved new madrassas: No new madrassas should be allowed without government permission, and authorities should check existing ones regularly.
- 8) Address religious questions: A higher-level board of scholars from all sects should resolve academic, intellectual, and religious ambiguities to reduce intolerance.
- 9) Promote religious tolerance among students: Organize joint activities, competitions, and training for students from different madrassas to encourage harmony.
- 10) Encourage inter-sect dialogue: Hold joint religious events and use media to highlight commonalities between different religious groups.

Role of religion in equity?

Religion can play a significant role in promoting equity in education by influencing values, beliefs, and practices that support equal access to education for all individuals. In many cultures, religious teachings emphasize the importance of justice, compassion, and equality, which can translate into efforts to ensure that educational opportunities are accessible to everyone regardless of their background or circumstances. Religious organizations often run schools and educational programs that cater to marginalized or disadvantaged communities, providing them with the resources and support needed to access quality education. These initiatives can help bridge the gap between privileged and underprivileged students, promoting equity in education.

Policy recommendations for the madrassa administration?

- 1) Sensitize clerics and madrassa leaders: Religious leaders should be encouraged to accept positive reforms from the government.
- 2) Reform the curriculum: Teach students about pluralism in Islam and respect for different opinions.
- 3) Introduce modern knowledge: Madrassa students should learn basic modern subjects alongside religious studies.

- 4) Careful fund management: Madrassas should collect funds responsibly from the Pakistani community and avoid secret foreign funding.
- 5) Focus on commonalities: Highlight similarities between sects and keep differences limited to academic discussion without causing controversy.
- 6) Avoid political influence: Madrassas should focus on religious education and not allow militants or politicians to interfere.
- 7) Encourage inter-sect activities: Promote contact between sects through competitions, tournaments, and events to teach teamwork and harmony.

Mdraasa and politics?

Religious schools, known as madrassas, play a significant role in Pakistani politics, especially through their connections with religious political parties. These parties, representing different sects like Deobandis, Barelvis, Ahl-e-Hadith, and Shia, have strong ties to specific madrassas. A study found that a majority of madrassas have political affiliations, with most linked to religious political parties. While some madrassa boards prefer to stay apolitical, others like Rabita ul-Madaris support specific political parties. It is suggested that students focus on their education and avoid active political involvement until completing their studies to maintain a balance between education and politics.

Madrassa and radicalization in Pakistan?

Many people believe that madrassas promote extremism and radical views, while madrassas see themselves as protectors of Islam, teaching purely religious education. During the Zia regime, the U.S. and its allies used madrassas to recruit people for the war in Afghanistan against the Soviets. After the war, some madrassas developed a more militant mindset, shifting from education centers to places where extremist ideas spread.

Factors contributing to radicalization include biased political views, sectarian pride, and fascination with jihad as a way to dominate others. Although madrassas claim not to promote militancy directly, their teachings sometimes make students more vulnerable to extremist influence. Leaders of sectarian groups also encourage students against other sects through speeches and literature, which can lead to sectarian violence.

Write a brief note on provincial of medium of instruction?

Provincialization of Medium of Instruction (MOI) refers to allowing each province to decide the language used for teaching in schools according to its local needs and culture. After the 18th Constitutional Amendment in Pakistan, education became a provincial subject, giving provinces the authority to adopt regional languages (such as Sindhi, Pashto, Balochi, Punjabi) as the medium of instruction, especially at the primary level. This helps students understand lessons better in their mother tongue, improves learning outcomes, and preserves local languages and culture, while Urdu and English are introduced gradually for national and global communication.

Cost effectiveness of free and accessible education?

The cost of education is a critical issue to all school systems, especially when creating education facilities for all learners. Often questions are raised about the costs of education for traditionally excluded groups. It is falsely perceived as being costly when it is often only about making minor adjustments to accommodate all learners. If we adopt a holistic perspective of society, it is more relevant to ask about the costs to society when it does not provide education for all children. In such a context, it is clear that the most cost-effective solution is to offer education to all students. Education is the fundamental basis upon which the survival of the human race and development of a nation depend; it is an important investment where no compromises should be made.

How can quality education be related with free and accessible education?

Quality education is closely linked with free and accessible education because education is meaningful only when all learners can access it without financial barriers and also learn effectively. Free education allows children from poor and marginalized families to attend school, while accessibility ensures equal opportunities regardless of gender or location. When education is also of good quality—through trained teachers, relevant curriculum, and proper facilities—students gain real knowledge and skills. Thus, free access brings students to school, and quality education ensures they truly learn, making education beneficial for individuals and society.

How gain reading ability children's of 'south Africa'?

At a primary school in Durban, south Africa, teachers use grandmothers as a resource to develop the reading abilities of the children. Grandmothers have been trained to listen to children read and to encourage them to interact with texts. Twice a week, grandmothers come to the school and work with the groups of children in the playground or under a tree. This also frees up the teachers to work with the children who may be experiencing difficulties in learning and who may need individual attention from the teacher. Providing books, libraries, and reading materials at schools and homes encourages regular reading practice.

Government ambiguity in madrassa education?

It is not only madrassas that oppose some government reforms; the government itself is divided on this issue. According to Bano, the government already stays in contact with most madrassas and knows who studies there, how they get funding, and what they teach through visits by local officials. However, madrassa leaders feel the government's approach is unclear and unfair. They believe that moderate madrassas are being restricted, while those linked to militant groups are allowed to work freely. Because of this, the relationship between the government and religious institutions is based on mistrust.

Sociocultural related Issues (Reform Opportunities)?

In teacher training, more attention is given to subject content and professional skills, but less focus is given to teaching how to deal with minorities. If training included this aspect, society would become more tolerant. Teachers and students should interact with people from different minority groups in classrooms and activities so they can learn tolerance through healthy interaction.

The subject of ethics should be made compulsory for all students, as all religions teach similar moral values. Public-private partnerships should be developed to provide resources and involve minorities through private initiatives. Curriculum reforms are necessary because harmony cannot be achieved without changing textbooks. Textbooks should include the contributions of minorities in Pakistan. This is especially important for socio-culturally disadvantaged groups, including women within minority communities.
