- B) A language with a large vocabulary
- C) A rich, developed language
- D) A pidgin that becomes the first language of a new generation

What situation gave rise to pidginization?

- A) European colonization into Africa and Asia
- B) Political revolutions in the New World
- C) Peaceful communication between different language groups
- D) Contact between speakers of the same language

Why were slaves deliberately drawn from different language backgrounds?

- A) To promote cultural diversity
- B) To encourage rebellion against their masters
- C) To make it easier for slaves to communicate
- D) To avoid rebellion against their masters

What is the process of pidginization primarily characterized by?

- A) Complex grammar and vocabulary
- B) Simplification of the dominant language
- C) Expansion of phonological and syntactic options
- D) Elaborate structure and morphology

Which of the following is an example of the simplification of a dominant language in a pidgin?

- A) "Two big newspapers" becomes "Les deux grands jounax"
- B) "Bros show ma haus" means "House dog is sick"
- C) "Cowbaby" becomes "calf"
- D) "Gras bilong moth" becomes "moustache"

What are some common views about pidgins and their speakers?

- A) Complex and rich languages

- B) Perfectly learned languages
- C) Marginal and imperfectly learned languages
- D) Standard languages

What is a distinguishing feature of a pidgin?

- A) Being the first language of many speakers
- B) Having no native speakers
- C) Having a complex grammar
- D) Having a wide range of functions

What is a creole continuum, and what conditions are needed for it to exist?

- A) A series of different languages; no contact between the standard language and the creole
- B) A continuum of different creole languages; two extreme varieties are related
- C) A mix of pidgins and creoles; no continuum can exist in different languages
- D) A variety of standard English; no relationship with creole languages

What is the condition for a hypercreolization to occur?

- A) A peaceful relationship with the standard language
- B) Aggressive reaction against the standard language
- C) A blending of languages without distinction
- D) Deliberate increase in languages

Where is a Basilect variety situated on the creole continuum?

- A) At the beginning
- B) In the middle
- C) At the end
- D) Separate from the continuum

Which geographical regions are primarily associated with the distribution of pidgins and creoles?

- A) Polar regions with harsh climates
- B) Equatorial belt regions with access to oceans
- C) Mountainous areas with isolated communities
- D) Inland territories far from oceans

How many pidgins and creoles listed by Hancock are English-based?

- A) 10
- B) 15
- C) 35
- D) 50

In which regions are countries almost exclusively Spanish-speaking and have no pidgins or creoles?

- A) Caribbean islands
- B) Northern Europe
- C) Southeast Asia

D) South America

Which areas have only English-based creoles, according to the text?

A) The Caribbean

- B) The Indian subcontinent
- C) West Africa
- D) The Middle East

What is one of the distinguishing features of creoles?

A) A large vocabulary

- B) Being primarily spoken by the elderly
- C) Fewer language varieties
- D) A limited range of functions

What is the primary reason for the emergence of a creole continuum?

A) Strong isolation between languages

B) Close contact with different languages

- C) Deliberate decrease in the influence of the standard language
- D) Expansion of standard languages

What is the primary outcome of hypercreolization?

- A) Preservation of the standard language
- B) A return to the original pidgin
- C) aggressive reaction against the standard language

D) Development of a "pure" creole form

Lecture no 7

What are the three groups theories of origin for pidgins and creoles can be divided into?

A) Polygenesis, Nautical Jargon, and Universal Principles

B) Polygenesis, Monogenesis, and Afrogenesis

- C) Universal Strategies, Monogenesis, and Baby Talk
- D) Afrogenesis, Relexification, and Universal Principles

Which theory suggests that pidgins and creoles developed independently from various origins?

A) Nautical Jargon Theory

B) Monogenesis Theory

C) Universal Principles Theory

D) Independent Parallel Development Theory

What do pidgins and creoles share due to their common circumstances of origin?

A) The same superstrate language

- B) A complex grammatical structure
- C) A rich vocabulary
- D) An isolation from other languages

What is the Independent Parallel Development Theory based on?

- A) Nautical jargon
- B) Linguistic bioprogramme

C) Universal principles of language

- D) Child language acquisition

According to the Nautical Jargon Theory, what was the possible influence for the development of pidgins?

- A) International trade routes
- B) Language schools

C) Shipboard lingua franca

- D) Colonial administration

What are some characteristics of the Nautical Jargon Theory's influence on pidgins?

- A) Large vocabulary and complex grammar

B) Core vocabulary of nautical terms and simplified grammar

- C) Limited vocabulary and complex grammar
- D) Extensive phonological and syntactic options

What is the primary evidence against the Nautical Jargon Theory?

- A) Presence of many sea-based terms in pidgins
- B) Linguistic similarities among pidgins from different European languages
- C) Lack of shipboard lingua franca

D) Structural dissimilarities among existing pidgins and creoles

Which theory presents the idea that pidgins and creoles are European-language-based?

- A) Universal Principles Theory

B) Relexification Theory

- C) Baby Talk Theory
- D) Afrogenesis Hypothesis

Who presented the Afrogenesis Hypothesis for the monogenesis of pidgins and creoles?

- A) Charles Leland
- B) John Reinecke
- C) Mc Whorter
- D) Charles Leland

According to the Afrogenesis Hypothesis, what was the origin of pidgins and creoles?

- A) The influence of international trade

B) The colonial rule of European powers

C) The slave trade

D) The development of regional dialects

What is the Baby Talk Theory's primary rationale for the development of pidgins?

A) Similarities between pidgin speakers and adults

B) Comparison between children's speech and certain pidgins

C) Influence of teachers on children's language

D) Availability of resources for children to learn languages

What is one of the similarities identified between early child speech and certain pidgins in the Baby Talk Theory?

A) Extensive morphological change

B) Frequent use of structural words

C) High proportion of content and approximation of standard pronunciation

D) Lack of complex vocabulary

Why were pidgins compared to baby talk in the Baby Talk Theory?

A) To suggest that pidgin speakers are child-like in their language development

B) To emphasize the complexity of pidgin vocabulary

C) To highlight the intellectual abilities of pidgin speakers

D) To suggest that pidgins are inherently simple languages

What is relexification in the context of language development?

A) A mechanism of language change involving two languages changing each other's vocabulary

B) A process of grammar simplification

C) A means to create a nautical jargon

D) The development of a superstrate language

What is the primary process of relexification in pidgin development?

A) The transformation of phonological elements

B) Replacing vocabulary while keeping grammar intact

C) The fusion of two superstrate languages

D) Simplifying grammar with a limited vocabulary

According to the Universal Principles Theory, how do children transform pidgins into creoles?

A) By attending language schools

B) By learning the language from proficient speakers

C) By using their innate language learning ability

D) By adopting complex linguistic structures

What are creoles in the context of the Universal Principles Theory?

A) Languages with a complex vocabulary

B) Simplified versions of a superstrate language

C) Languages only spoken by Europeans

D) Languages used for international trade

What is the primary perspective presented in the Universal Principles Theory?

A) Pidgins develop from a single source

B) Child language acquisition is similar to pidgin development

C) The emergence of creoles is due to international trade

D) Pidgins are purely independent creations

What type of pidgin theory suggests that creoles are European-language-based and originated from a single linguistic bioprogramme?

A) Polygenesis Theory

B) Afrogenesis Hypothesis

C) Universal Principles Theory

D) Monogenesis Theory

Lecture no 8

Which language usually serves as the source of lexis for pidgins?

A) Indigenous languages

B) European languages

C) Asian languages

D) African languages

What is the dominant language called in the context of pidgin lexis?

A) Lingua franca

B) Superstrate language

C) Lexifier

D) Substrate language

How is pidgin lexis characterized?

A) It is arbitrary and chaotic.

B) It lacks systematic rules.

C) It is formed through complex morphology.

D) It is systematic and follows specific rules.

Which linguistic feature is used in pidgin lexis to intensify meaning?

A) Reduplication

B) Conjugation

C) Inflection

D) Verb tense

A) Standardization

B) Creolization

C) Pidginization

D) Recreolization

What is a "post-creole continuum"?

A) A scale measuring the complexity of creole languages

B) A spectrum of creole varieties arranged by formality and prestige

- C) A classification of languages based on phonological features
- D) A timeline of creole language development

Lecture no 9

What distinguishes native speakers from non-native speakers of English?

A) Accents and vocabulary

- B) Age and gender
- C) Education level
- D) Writing skills

In the context of English language teaching, who is generally preferred as teachers?

A) Non-native speakers

B) Native speakers

- C) Bilingual speakers
- D) ESL learners

What criteria are often used to determine native speakers?

- A) Exposure to the language and international travel
- B) Age and gender

C) Intuitive knowledge of the language and creative use

- D) Number of languages spoken

Which parameter is mentioned as a basis for native speaker criteria?

A) Number of books read in English

B) Contact with other people

- C) Fluency in multiple languages
- D) Knowledge of history

What is the basis for discriminating between native and non-native speakers, according to the text?

A) Grammar proficiency

B) Accent, vocabulary, and sentence structure

- C) Fluency in multiple languages
- D) Native culture knowledge

According to the text, what is the "monolingual tenet"?

A) A belief in the importance of speaking only one language

- B) A teaching methodology for monolingual students
- C) A linguistic study on monolingualism
- D) A political agenda to promote linguistic diversity

How does "native speakerism" relate to economic exploitation?

- A) Native speakers are paid less than non-native speakers.
- B) It is unrelated to economic exploitation.
- C) Native speakers have more opportunities to find high-paying jobs.
- D) Native speakerism reveals ELT as a tool for economic exploitation.

What term does the text use to emphasize the importance of considering local linguistic, sociocultural, and political particularities in language teaching?

- A) Universalism
- B) Monolingualism
- C) Contextualization
- D) Standardization

What distinguishes English as a Second Language (ESL) from English as a Foreign Language (EFL) situations?

- A) ESL learners use English for restricted purposes.
- B) ESL learners are native English speakers.
- C) ESL learners study English without any native speakers around them.
- D) ESL learners aim to develop proficiency in speaking.

Where do English as a Second Language (ESL) situations primarily occur?

- A) In native English-speaking countries
- B) In foreign countries with students from different cultures
- C) In places with no native speakers of English
- D) In isolated communities without language exposure

Which context involves the intensive study of English and is perceived as superior, according to the text?

- A) English as a Second Language (ESL)
- B) English as a Foreign Language (EFL)
- C) English as a Native Language (ENL)
- D) English as an International Language (EIL)

What is the primary distinction between English as a primary language and as a secondary language?

- A) The number of native speakers
- B) The primary language's importance in daily life
- C) The presence of native speakers in the community
- D) The historical development of the language

In what context is English used as a primary language?

- A) When it is used for creative literature
- B) When it is a medium of instruction and administration
- C) When it is taught as a foreign language
- D) When it is an official language in a country

What does EIL stand for?

- A) English Instruction for Learners
- B) English Interaction and Learning
- C) English as an Interconnected Language
- D) English as an International Language

What does the EIL paradigm primarily focus on?

- A) The symbolic markers of native speakers
- B) Communication without considering nationality or race
- C) The dominance of American English
- D) The importance of native speaker variety

According to the text, what concept does EIL reject?

- A) The importance of regional accents
- B) The necessity of using American English
- C) The selection of a particular variety as a lingua franca
- D) The influence of native speakers on global communication

Why is the EIL paradigm considered important?

- A) It promotes English as the only global language.
- B) It reflects the dominance of native English speakers.
- C) It responds to the complexities of global English use.
- D) It focuses on the regional varieties of English.

How does English as an International Language (EIL) acknowledge world Englishes?

- A) By emphasizing the role of native speakers

- A) British English
- B) American English
- C) Canadian English
- D) Philippine English

What do the concentric circles in models like McArthur's represent?

- A) A hierarchy of English varieties
- B) The cline of intelligibility among native varieties
- C) The dominance of native English speakers
- D) A linear connection to the center

In Manfred Gorlach's Circle Model of English, what does the center consist of?

- A) Sub-regional standards of English
- B) Pidgins and Creoles
- C) Non-native English speakers

D) Standard English surrounded by regional standards

Which is the first ring in Gorlach's Circle Model?

- A) Sub/Semi-regional standards
- B) Non-standard Englishes
- C) Pidgins and Creoles

D) Regional and national standards

What does Manfred Gorlach's Circle Model offer in terms of organization?

- A) A linear arrangement of varieties
- B) A simplified structure with few rings

C) A broader perspective with deeper organization

- D) No clear organization

According to Modiano's Centripetal Circles of International English, what is the central circle made up of?

- A) Native English speakers only

B) Proficient speakers of English as an International language

- C) Non-native English speakers
- D) Those who do not know English

What does the term "centripetal" suggest in Modiano's model?

- A) The dominance of native English speakers
- B) The acceptance of native standards

C) The movement towards the core of global English-speaking users

- D) The exclusion of non-native English speakers

What is the primary implication of Modiano's Centripetal Circles model?

A) Native speakers replace proficient non-native speakers as the center.

- B) The center is reserved for native English speakers.
- C) Non-native English speakers dominate the core of global English.
- D) The core is defined based on geography.

In Modiano's Centripetal Circles, what does the outer area consist of?

- A) Only American English

B) Different major varieties and other local varieties

- C) Only British English
- D) Non-native speakers of English as a foreign language

According to the text, what is one of the weaknesses of Modiano's EIL model?

A) Difficulty distinguishing between core and non-core features

- B) Inability to differentiate between strong and weak regional accents
- C) Failure to consider the diversity of English
- D) Overemphasis on non-native varieties

Which model disapproves of ideas of prestige, cares for the diversity of English, and focuses on proficiency?

- A) Strevens' Model
- B) McArthur's Model
- C) Manfred Gorlach's Model
- D) Modiano's Centripetal Circles

What is the common feature of the innermost circle in Modiano's English as an International Language model?

- A) Proficiency in British and American English
- B) High regional accents
- C) Strong ties to a single country
- D) Mutual comprehensibility and lack of strong regional accent

What is the central feature of the second circle in Modiano's model?

- A) Proficiency in British and American English
- B) Low proficiency in non-native varieties
- C) High regional accents
- D) Proficiency in English as an International Language

What is a strength of Modiano's model?

- A) It emphasizes the prestige of native speakers.
- B) It simplifies the view of English diversity.
- C) It neglects the spread of English from a geopolitical view.
- D) It gives English as a globally functioning language a central position.

What is the primary focus of Manfred Gorlach's Circle Model?

- A) The cline of intelligibility
- B) The history of the English language
- C) Proficiency of English speakers
- D) The connection between British and American English

In what way is the center of the wheel in McArthur's Model organized?

- A) By geographical location
- B) By proficiency in English as an International Language
- C) By historical development
- D) By mutual comprehensibility

Lecture no 11

According to the classification of English varieties, what is the Inner Circle?

- A) Countries where English is used as a foreign language (EFL)
- B) Countries where English is the primary language (ENL)
- C) Countries where English is used as a second language (ESL)
- D) All countries where English is spoken

Which of the following is NOT part of the Inner Circle?

- A) USA
- B) India
- C) UK
- D) Australia

How did English reach the Inner Circle countries?

- A) Second diaspora
- B) Third diaspora
- C) Colonization

Which circle is considered "Norm providing"?

- A) Expanding Circle
- B) Outer Circle
- C) Inner Circle
- D) None of the above

What role does the Inner Circle play in terms of norms in English?

- A) Provides teaching models and methods
- B) Develops new varieties of English
- C) Adopts regional varieties as standards
- D) B and C

Which circle is described as "Norm developing"?

- A) Inner Circle
- B) Outer Circle
- C) Expanding Circle
- D) None of the above

What is the attitude of the Outer Circle towards English standards?

- A) Ambivalence
- B) Hostility
- C) Total adoption
- D) Rejection

In the Expanding Circle, what is the role of British and American varieties?

- A) They are the only accepted standards.
- B) They have no influence.
- C) They serve as prestige models.
- D) They are considered inferior.

In the Expanding Circle, what is the attitude towards native speaker standards?

- A) Acceptance of multiple native varieties
- B) Exclusive reliance on native speakers
- C) Complete rejection of native varieties
- D) Adoption of one specific native variety

In the Norm-Dependent circle, English has what status?

- A) Official and dominant
- B) An additional language

- C) Dependent on government policies
- D) No official status

What does the term "Basilect" refer to in the context of English varieties?

- A) The standard variety in the Outer Circle
- B) Speakers with little contact with the standard variety
- C) A high-prestige dialect in the Inner Circle
- D) English varieties influenced by local dialects

What is the primary distinction in the depth of English usage?

- A) Proficiency levels of English speakers
- B) The type of English spoken (e.g., British, American)
- C) The social networks in which English is used
- D) The distinction between Inner and Outer Circle

In Modiano's model of English as an International Language (EIL), what is the focus?

- A) Prestige of native English speakers
- B) Diversity of English varieties
- C) Regional English dialects
- D) Standard varieties of Inner Circle countries

Lecture no 12

- D) Pidgin speakers

Which group does not fit into Kachru's categorization in his model?

- A) Native speakers
- B) Non-native speakers
- C) Pidgin and creole speakers
- D) Multilingual speakers

How is the use of English evolving in the Outer Circle?

- A) Decreasing
- B) Staying the same
- C) Shifting from EFL to ESL
- D) Becoming less significant

In Kachru's model, what does the term "inner circle" refer to?

- A) Speakers who use English as their first language

- B) Speakers from all three circles
- C) Speakers who have native-like proficiency
- D) Speakers with diverse language backgrounds

What does Kachru's model fail to define?

- A) Proficiency levels of native speakers
- B) Differences between English varieties within a circle
- C) Languages spoken in the Outer Circle
- D) The role of non-native speakers

What is the predominant paradigm in second language teaching before the 1960s?

- A) Multilingualism
- B) Globalization
- C) Nativeness Paradigm
- D) Bilingualism

What practical functions does the Nativeness Paradigm serve?

- A) Promotion of linguistic diversity
- B) Encouragement of multilingualism
- C) Serving as a model for English language learning
- D) Promoting non-native speakers as teachers

What is a criticism of the Nativeness Paradigm?

- A) It emphasizes the order of language acquisition
- B) It promotes linguistic diversity
- C) It focuses on linguistic rather than social factors
- D) It recognizes the importance of English in outer circle countries

What does the term "expert" describe in the context of alternative distinctions?

- A) Native speakers
- B) Accomplished users of English

- B) It emphasizes the challenges of expressing non-English cultures in English.
- C) It discourages authors from writing in non-English varieties.
- D) It suggests that imitating American English is the only acceptable approach.

What does the text suggest about the standard dialect of English?

- A) It has remained unchanged over time.
- B) It has never been subject to linguistic variation.
- C) It is free from the influence of other languages.
- D) It has evolved significantly and incorporates loanwords.

What are some consequences of the tolerance for language variation among native "inner circle" speakers of English?

- A) Widespread linguistic confusion

- B) A limited range of English expressions
- C) The coexistence of various native varieties
- D) The extinction of traditional forms of English

What does the perspective cited in the text reveal about American written English?

- A) It is based on British language conventions.
- B) It lacks any influence from other languages.
- C) It is a product of language contact.
- D) It is a standardized form of English.

Lecture no 15

What is an accent, as described in the text?

- A) The way you look when you speak
- B) The result of where a person learned the language
- C) A choice made by individuals in different social groups
- D) The way you sound when you speak

What aspects of speaking differ among people who live in close contact?

- A) Pronunciation and vocabulary
- B) Stress and rhythm
- C) Syntax and grammar
- D) Fluency and coherence

In the context of stress and rhythm, what term describes the assignment of stress in nativized varieties of English?

- A) Distinctive stress
- B) Uniform stress
- C) Native stress
- D) Uncommon stress

What is the primary focus of distinctive stress and rhythm in nativized varieties of English?

- A) Creating uniform stress patterns
- B) Following the same rules as inner circle varieties
- C) Being familiar to native speakers
- D) Following the conventions of first languages

In nativized varieties of English, what does "unvoiced" refer to?

- A) Vowels that are difficult to pronounce
- B) Consonants pronounced with vocal cord vibration
- C) Consonants pronounced without vocal cord vibration
- D) Vowels that are elongated in pronunciation

What is the main distinction between clear and dark "l" sounds in English?

- A) Clear "l" is used in formal contexts, and dark "l" is informal.
- B) Clear "l" is voiced, and dark "l" is unvoiced.
- C) Clear "l" occurs at the beginning of words, and dark "l" is at the end.
- D) Clear "l" has no regional variations, while dark "l" does

What does the text indicate about the use of stress for distinguishing nouns and verbs in nativized varieties?

- A) Stress is frequently used to make the distinction.
- B) Nativized varieties always follow the same rule.
- C) There is no difference in stress between nouns and verbs.
- D) Stress patterns for this purpose are unique to each variety.

What is the impact of the insertion of a neutral vowel in s clusters in nativized varieties of English?

- A) It makes the language more phonetically precise.
- B) It helps native speakers understand the context better.
- C) It simplifies pronunciation and improves fluency.
- D) It disrupts the regular rhythm of the language.

In the context of lexis, what is meant by "coinage"?

- A) The process of creating new words or expressions
- B) The accumulation of money in one's pocket
- C) The value of rare coins in a collection
- D) The practice of counting words in a text

What is the process of combining elements from English with indigenous forms in lexis called?

- A) Spelling pronunciation
- B) Lexical repetition and redundancy
- C) Compounding local concepts with English items
- D) Borrowing from indigenous languages

Which term is used for combining two words to create a new meaning?

- A) Borrowing
- B) Idioms
- C) Reduplication
- D) Compounding

What does "lexical repetition and redundancy" involve?

- A) Repetitive use of complex vocabulary
- B) The excessive use of synonyms in speech
- C) The unnecessary inclusion of extra linguistic elements
- D) The practice of repeating words to emphasize meaning

What is the term for the use of double words for one, like "flower bouquet" or "young kid"?

- A) Compounding
- B) Reduplication
- C) Borrowing
- D) Spelling pronunciation

How are idioms affected by variations in pronunciation differences?

- A) Variations have no effect on idioms.
- B) Variations change the meaning of idioms.
- C) Variations often make idioms more effective.
- D) Variations can create new idioms.

What is the primary focus of "repetition" as described in the text?

- A) Adding rhyme to spoken language
- B) Making sentences longer and more complex
- C) Creating meaningful variations in speech
- D) Ensuring linguistic items are frequently used

What does "clear and dark 'l' sound" describe?

- A) Pronunciation differences among native English speakers
- B) Regional variations in spoken English
- C) Distinctive stress patterns in nativized varieties
- D) The use of voiceless consonants in nativized varieties

What is the primary impact of stress assignment in nativized varieties of English?

- A) Creating a distinctive and rhythmic effect
- B) Making the language less comprehensible
- C) Mimicking the inner circle varieties
- D) Emphasizing words in a standard way

What is the primary purpose of adding prefixes or suffixes to English words in nativized varieties?

- A) To simplify word pronunciation
- B) To introduce new linguistic concepts
- C) To distinguish native words from borrowed ones
- D) To express local concepts or ideas

What does "sound simplification of final consonant clusters" primarily lead to?

- A) Improved language comprehension
- B) Confusion in vowel pronunciation
- C) The loss of inflections in language
- D) Changes in regional accents

Which of the following words represents a locally coined expression in New English varieties?

- A) Cat

- B) Fish
- C) Chutney
- D) Hat

Lecture no 16

Which of the following is NOT a consideration when classifying nouns?

- A) Specific or non-specific
- B) Countable or uncountable
- C) Singular or plural
- D) Masculine or feminine

What is used to indicate whether a noun is specific or non-specific in a sentence?

- A) Verb tenses
- B) Articles and determiners
- C) Pronouns
- D) Prepositions

When is the article "a" or "an" typically used with countable nouns?

- A) To indicate the specific nature of the noun
- B) to emphasize the noun's singularity
- C) To make the noun plural
- D) To indicate the generic nature of the noun

Which article can be used with both singular and plural countable nouns to indicate specificity?

- A) A
- B) An
- C) The
- D) None of the above

In nativized varieties of English, what is typically the case for uncountable nouns such as "equipment" or "sugar"?

- A) They are always used in plural form.
- B) They are used with the article "a."
- C) They are treated as singular.
- D) They are not used in nativized varieties.

Which language feature creates confusion among language learners in English?

- A) Use of articles
- B) Pronunciation of nouns
- C) Countability rules
- D) Verb conjugation

What kind of verbs express a state rather than an action?

- A) Dynamic verbs
- B) Stative verbs
- C) Auxiliary verbs
- D) Transitive verbs

In the Outer and Expanding Circle varieties of English, is there typically a distinction made between stative and dynamic verbs?

- A) Yes, there is always a clear distinction.
- B) No, there is no distinction made.
- C) It depends on the specific variety of English.
- D) The distinction varies with verb usage.

What do the following sentences have in common: "He is having two cars," "I was not knowing him then," "She is not recognizing you," "What are you wanting now"?

- A) They all use correct grammar.
- B) They all misuse articles.
- C) The all involve stative verbs used inappropriately.
- D) They all have unclear subjects.

In some Asian languages, how is the distinction in time reference typically expressed in verbs?

- A) Through verb tense inflections
- B) By using adverbs or other linguistic elements
- C) By the choice of verb conjugation
- D) Through prepositional phrases

What is the use of general question tags following statements like "He is coming to the party, isn't he?" an example of?

- A) A positive-negative system
- B) An agreement-disagreement system
- C) A question-answering system
- D) A form of verb inflection

What kind of discourse style is typically associated with the Inner Circle English?

- A) Informal and straightforward
- B) Highly structured and complex
- C) Short and concise
- D) Full of idiomatic expressions

What is the primary function of the redundancy of expression in discourse style?

- A) To confuse the listener
- B) To add extra emphasis to a message
- C) To make the speaker's message more formal
- D) To express politeness and deference

Which of the following is NOT an example of a direct translation from indigenous languages in greetings and leave-taking?

- A) "So how?"
- B) "You're enjoying?"
- C) "How now?"
- D) "Have you eaten already?"

What is typically the first element in a sentence that signals the theme in Inner Circle English?

- A) The subject
- B) The verb
- C) The object
- D) The preposition

How do Outer Circle English varieties generally follow the organization of information in sentences?

- A) By placing the verb at the beginning
- B) By using complex sentence structures
- C) By following similar patterns as Inner Circle English
- D) By using idiomatic expressions

What is a common aspect of discourse style in Outer Circle varieties of English?

- A) Lengthy and complex vocabulary
- B) Use of idiomatic expressions
- C) Short and concise sentences
- D) Emphasis on redundancy of expression

Which of the following represents an example of the redundancy of expression in formal discourse style?

- A) "I'm excited to work with you."
- B) "I'm bursting with enthusiasm to be your colleague."
- C) "I look forward to collaborating with you."
- D) "It's great to be on the team."

What is the primary function of the use of blessings in discourse style?

- A) To express gratitude
- B) To invoke good wishes and positive energy
- C) To establish hierarchy
- D) To indicate a request for help

What is the common feature of Greetings and leave-taking in Outer and Expanding Circle English varieties?

- A) Use of direct translations from indigenous languages
- B) Short and concise expressions
- C) Lengthy and complex idiomatic phrases
- D) Formal and highly structured communication

Lecture no 18

What is the historical origin of the term "standard" in the context of language and literature?

- A) It was coined in the 18th century.
- B) It was used for the flag of England in the 12th century.
- C) It was introduced by Einar Haugen in the early 1970s.
- D) It has no historical origin.

What is the primary use of the term "standard language"?

- A) Referring to a war flag
- B) Describing an ungrammatical variety of language
- C) Indicating the variety considered norm and used for educational purposes
- D) Signifying a common slang language

What is the common feature of a standard language?

- A) It is spoken by the majority of the population.
- B) It is used primarily in informal conversations.
- C) It is spoken by a minority of people with prestige.
- D) It is standardized for educational purposes.

What does language standardization involve?

- A) Creation of dialects
- B) Establishment of language norms
- C) Elimination of all regional accents
- D) Development of new vocabulary

What does codification involve in the process of standardization?

- A) Creating a new language
- B) Developing unique regional dialects
- C) Establishing language norms
- D) Reducing the complexity of a language

What was the term "Standard English" popularized by in the early 1970s?

- A) William Shakespeare
- B) A famous novelist
- C) A renowned linguist, Einar Haugen
- D) An English monarch

Why do language varieties acquire prestige?

- A) Inherently, based on their linguistic features
- B) When their speakers have high prestige
- C) Based on their complexity
- D) When they are older than other varieties

What aspect of the language is typically more fixed and uniform in standard English?

- A) Pronunciation
- B) Vocabulary
- C) Grammar
- D) Idioms

What may educated speakers differ in when it comes to standard English?

- A) Grammar only
- B) Pronunciation only
- C) Vocabulary and idiom
- D) Vocabulary only

What is the primary focus of "Bases of standard English"?

- A) Vocabulary
- B) Pronunciation
- C) Idioms
- D) Grammar and core vocabulary

Why is written English more rule-governed than spoken English?

- A) It is less formal than spoken English.
- B) Publishers enforce strict rules for writing.
- C) It is based on pronunciation.
- D) It relies on regional accents.

What factors contribute to the importance given to the standard variety in language ideology?

- A) Historical influences
- B) Social, cultural, and economic factors
- C) Linguistic purity
- D) The age of the language

What is the main criticism of language standards?

- A) They promote linguistic diversity.
- B) They create discrimination and harm marginalized groups.
- C) They lead to simplified grammar and vocabulary.
- D) They prioritize non-standard varieties.

What is the first stage in the process of standardization?

- A) Codification
- B) Elaboration
- C) Acceptance
- D) Selection

What is the most critical aspect of the selection stage in standardization?

- A) Involving linguists in the decision-making process

B) Selecting an existing variety with high political and social acceptance

- C) Choosing the newest linguistic features
- D) Adopting the majority's opinion

Which aspect of the standard language is recognized through dictionaries and textbooks?

- A) Grammar
- B) Pronunciation
- C) Vocabulary
- D) Idioms

What does the elaboration of functions stage focus on in the standardization process?

- A) Introducing new vocabulary words
- B) Developing diverse linguistic features
- C) Allowing access to the standard forms
- D) Creating multiple standard languages

What is a paradox associated with standardization?

- A) It is a unifying force for society.
- B) It symbolizes the independence of a state.
- C) It leads to the inferior status of those using regional dialects.
- D) It is a process without challenges.

What varieties are typically considered non-standard?

- A) Standard British English dialects
- B) All regional native speaker dialects of English
- C) All dialects spoken in the inner circle
- D) Native standard English dialects

What is a common attitude towards non-standard varieties within the inner circle?

- A) They are considered prestigious and desirable.
- B) They attract the same degree of prestige as native standard Englishes.
- C) They are viewed as inferior and fossilized.
- D) They are considered more dynamic and ever-changing.

Lecture no 19

What is standardization in language?

- A) Establishing new dialects
- B) The process of maintaining conventional forms of a language
- C) The use of informal language
- D) Developing new languages

What is codification in language standardization?

- A) The imposition of a new language
- B) The creation of new dialects
- C) The process of standardizing a language
- D) The methods used for standardizing a language

In which century was the term "codification" popularized by linguist Einar Haugen?

- A) 18th century
- B) 19th century
- C) 20th century
- D) 21st century

What does codification involve?

- A) Developing a writing system
- B) Creating new dialects
- C) Eliminating regional accents
- D) Teaching pronunciation

What is a concern raised by standardization in terms of language ideology?

- A) Promoting language diversity
- B) Influencing language variability
- C) Fostering an inclusive language environment
- D) Having undue importance given to one variety over others

What kind of concerns does codification involve in the outer circle of Englishes?

- A) Broadly focused concerns
- B) Limited and concrete concerns
- C) Historical concerns
- D) Linguistic concerns

In the process of codification, what is the distinction between prescriptivism and descriptivism?

- A) Prescriptivism focuses on language description, and descriptivism on language prescription.
- B) Prescriptivism is concerned with creativity, and descriptivism with innovation.
- C) Prescriptivism promotes one variety as superior, and descriptivism focuses on how language is actually used.
- D) Prescriptivism and descriptivism are interchangeable terms.

What is the primary focus of the "selection" stage in codification?

- A) Choosing linguistic features from various varieties
- B) Selecting a single external model as the standard
- C) Deciding on internal and external models
- D) Focusing on vocabulary expansion

What functions does codification serve?

- A) Development of regional identity
- B) Standardization for better communication

- C) Establishment of diverse dialects
- D) Cultural enrichment

What are the two possibilities for the content of standards in codification?

- A) Traditional and contemporary models
- B) British and American models
- C) Global and local norms
- D) Stay with the British or American model or select an internal model

Who needs to approve and support locally defined standards in codification?

- A) Educational institutions only
- B) Experts and professionals, the general population, and institutions
- C) Political leaders only
- D) Native speakers

According to Randolph Quirk's approach, how is the spread of English in the modern world similar to the "econocultural model"?

- A) It is based on demographic factors.
- B) It relies on imperialistic domination.
- C) It is used as a medium of science, technology, and business.
- D) It is primarily influenced by linguistic purity.

In terms of language standards, what are the "restricted issues" discussed by Randolph Quirk?

- A) Concerns regarding the restrictions of language use
- B) Issues related to inner circle varieties
- C) Problems associated with linguistic purity
- D) Special uses of English

How does Braj Kachru's approach emphasize the sociolinguistic reality of English in the global context?

- A) By focusing on the influence of native speakers
- B) By acknowledging the influence of native languages
- C) By promoting standard British English
- D) By rejecting diversity in English use

What is one of the main factors that Kachru's approach rejects regarding the varieties of English?

- A) The influence of local cultures
- B) The diversity of cultural contexts
- C) The view that all varieties are equally valid
- D) The acceptance of linguistic innovation

In Kachru's view, what is the importance of the user in adapting English to multilingual contexts?

- A) Users need to strictly adhere to standard varieties.
- B) Users make adjustments based on their sociolinguistic contexts.

- C) Users focus on imitating native speakers.
- D) Users prioritize grammar over vocabulary.

Why is an "internal model" important in codification?

- A) It encourages adherence to linguistic purity.
- B) It emphasizes the importance of external models.
- C) It is essential for promoting a global standard.
- D) It acknowledges regional identity and context.

What arguments are made for external models like British and American English in codification?

- A) Need for preserving local identity
- B) Importance of acculturation of English
- C) Promotion of regional standards
- D) Uniformity for global English

According to the arguments for external models, why is it necessary to maintain a uniform global standard?

- A) To avoid linguistic purity
- B) To foster creativity and innovation
- C) To prevent the language from fragmenting into mutually unintelligible varieties
- D) To accommodate regional dialects

What is one of the arguments for internal models in codification?

- A) Breaking away from regional identity
- B) Reducing the range and depth of English
- C) Adherence to British and American cultural norms
- D) Encouraging regional identity and creativity

Lecture no 20

What defines a standard language?

- A) A language used regionally
- B) A language used for international communication
- C) A language that has changed from regional to national
- D) A language used exclusively for writing

What is one way in which a standard language differs from a global language?

- A) It is used for international communication
- B) It develops new registers
- C) It retains features of regional languages
- D) It is known as "international"

What is a key characteristic of a global language?

- A) It is known as "national"
- B) It is limited to a single nation
- C) It is used mainly for regional communication
- D) It retains features of national languages

How does a language take on new meanings when used in different settings?

- A) Through grammar changes
- B) By inventing new words
- C) Through borrowing and reconstruing old words
- D) By translating old words directly

What are the two strategies to avoid offense through politeness?

- A) Negative politeness and positive politeness
- B) Directness and indirectness
- C) Public and private politeness
- D) Formal and informal politeness

In what situations is negative politeness more appropriate?

- A) Interactions between friends
- B) Interactions between strangers
- C) Informal family discussions
- D) Business meetings

Which of the following is an example of positive politeness?

- A) Using honorific terms
- B) Making direct requests
- C) Expressing disapproval
- D) Exaggerated approval and friendliness

What kind of politeness strategy is used when interactions between strangers are expected to be more personable and friendly?

- A) Positive politeness
- B) Negative politeness
- C) Direct politeness
- D) Indirect politeness

What are some features of outer and expanding circle writing?

- A) Direct imperatives and impersonal language
- B) High sounding style and extensive quotation
- C) Affective elements and humor
- D) Complex sentence structures and technical terms

What should inner circle publishers do regarding outer circle writings?

- A) Reject them entirely
- B) Acknowledge their literary value
- C) Promote their own writings
- D) Ignore their existence

What is the primary focus of genre in the context of world Englishes?

- A) The differences in language across cultures
- B) The sociocultural and institutional constraints of language use
- C) The communicative needs of a discipline or social setting
- D) The external factors that determine language use

How is style defined in the context of world Englishes?

- A) In terms of the use of language across cultures
- B) As a typically functional use of language
- C) In terms of text-internal factors
- D) As a reflection of individuality and creativity

What is the main difference between style and genre?

- A) Genre is focused on language form, while style focuses on context.
- B) Style focuses on communicative values, while genre emphasizes linguistic form.
- C) Genre reflects the goals of the writer, while style reflects the reader's perspective.
- D) Style has external factors, while genre has internal factors.

How do variations in world Englishes affect the construction and interpretation of genre?

- A) They have no impact on genre.
- B) They lead to increased uniformity in genre use.
- C) They create noticeable differences in genres and styles.
- D) They result in the complete replacement of traditional genres.

What are conservative genres in world Englishes characterized by?

- A) Creativity and innovation in linguistic form
- B) A lack of editor control
- C) Constraints on the use of language features
- D) A focus on expressive language

What is the liberal use of linguistic form a great quality for?

- A) academic and professional discourse
- B) Creative literary genres
- C) Conservative genres
- D) Editorial oversight

What do changes in the use of vocabulary and grammar lead to in genre and style in world Englishes?

- A) Uniformity and conformity
- B) Enhanced creativity and innovation
- C) Greater conservatism and rigidity
- D) Limited variety in communication

What determines the choices of genre in world Englishes?

- A) Rhetorical context and communicative purpose

- B) The linguistic background of the author
- C) The editor's preferences
- D) Traditional writing norms

What is style primarily defined by?

- A) Sociocultural constraints
- B) Rhetorical context
- C) Grammar and vocabulary choices
- D) The writer's unique language use

How do features of a genre differ from style?

- A) Features of a genre reflect an individual's use of language.
- B) Style primarily focuses on text-external factors.
- C) Genre constrains the choice of grammar and vocabulary.
- D) Style determines the communicative value of a text.

Lecture no 21

What is the main focus of Second Language Acquisition (SLA)?

- A) The study of first languages
- B) The process of learning one's first language as a child
- C) The study of learning languages after acquiring the first one
- D) The use of auxiliary languages

What makes World Englishes (WE) different from conventional SLA views?

- A) WE rejects the use of non-native speaker norms
- B) WE recognizes the plurality of English models
- C) WE emphasizes native-like competence as the goal
- D) WE disregards the ownership of English

What is one of the basic claims made by World Englishes (WE)?

- A) English has only one model: native English
- B) Localized innovations should not be recognized
- C) Ownership of English is restricted to native speakers
- D) There is a repertoire of models for English

How does World Englishes (WE) challenge the traditional SLA paradigm?

- A) By emphasizing native-like competence as the primary goal
- B) By promoting the standardization of English by native speakers
- C) By rejecting the attainment of native-like competence for all learners
- D) By excluding non-native speakers from English use

What determines the uses and functions of an additional language in a community?

- A) The number of speakers of that language

- B) The proficiency of the learners
- C) The role and status of the additional language
- D) The age at which the language was learned

What are some benefits of World Englishes to the study of SLA?

- A) Limited research potential
- B) Increased linguistic uniformity
- C) Fertile ground for SLA research
- D) A focus on native speakers

What is the main focus of World Englishes research in the context of SLA?

- A) Fossilization
- B) Monitor theory
- C) Impact of language use on acquisition
- D) Use of native speaker norms

How does World Englishes recognize deviations from standard English?

- A) As signs of incompetence
- B) As errors in all contexts
- C) As variations
- D) As challenges to the native speakers

What is the ideal definition of a native speaker?

- A) Someone who learned English as their second language
- B) Someone who has a high level of proficiency
- C) Someone who learned English from formal instruction
- D) Someone who acquired English as their home language without formal instruction

What do world Englishes focus on regarding the proficiency of non-native speakers?

- A) Non-native speakers are always less proficient than native speakers
- B) Non-native speakers should aim for native-like competence
- C) Non-native speakers can be as proficient as native speakers
- D) Proficiency of non-native speakers is irrelevant

What does genetic nativeness refer to?

- A) The sociolinguistic status of a language in a society
- B) The historical relationships between languages
- C) The communicative competence of speakers
- D) The innate ability to learn languages

What does functional nativeness focus on?

- A) The level of formal instruction received
- B) The number of languages a person speaks
- C) Sociolinguistic status and proficiency in a society
- D) The ability to acquire languages quickly

What does communicative competence refer to?

- A) The ability to use language inappropriately
- B) The ability to learn new languages quickly
- C) The sociocultural knowledge of conventions of language use
- D) The knowledge of grammatical rules

What are the key factors of communicative competence?

- A) Language proficiency and grammar knowledge
- B) Socially appropriate language use and conventions
- C) Tacit knowledge and use of idiomatic expressions
- D) The number of languages a person speaks

In the world Englishes context, what does exposure to different varieties of English allow for?

- A) Rigid use of standard English
- B) Improved pronunciation
- C) Flexibility in language use
- D) Mastery of the native speaker's variety

What does world Englishes include in teacher education programs?

- A) Recognition of native speakers as the standard
- B) Understanding the influence of native speakers
- C) The notion of world Englishes
- D) Exclusive use of standard English

What is nativization concerned with in the context of world Englishes?

- A) The adaptation of English to local socio-cultural environments
- B) The promotion of native English norms
- C) The influence of British English on world Englishes
- D) The qualification of English descriptors

How does Englishization transform non-English cultures and languages?

- A) By erasing any influences of English on local languages
- B) By leaving no impact on other languages
- C) By having a limited influence on other languages
- D) By affecting various levels of language from pronunciation to literary genres

What is code mixing in language use?

- A) Changing from one language to another within sentences
- B) Changing from one language to another across sentences
- C) A form of code switching
- D) A form of translation between languages

What is the primary reason for the prevalence of code mixing and code switching in world Englishes?

- A) Limited proficiency of the speakers
- B) The approval of monolingual researchers

C) Sociocultural knowledge and exposure to varieties of English

D) Lack of linguistic proficiency

Lecture no 22

What does "Interlanguage" refer to in second language acquisition (SLA)?

A) A perfect state of language learning

B) An intermediate stage between the first language (L1) and the target second language (L2)

C) A synonym for bilingualism

D) A fully developed second language

How does Interlanguage relate to L1 and L2?

A) It is an extension of the first language (L1)

B) It is a replacement for the first language (L1)

C) It is a bridge between the first language (L1) and the second language (L2)

D) It is the same as the second language (L2)

What is Interlanguage influenced by in language acquisition?

A) Only the first language (L1)

B) Only the second language (L2)

C) Both the first language (L1) and input from the target language (L2)

D) Neither L1 nor L2

According to the monolingual SLA stance, how are non-native varieties of language viewed?

A) As successful attempts at learning

B) As variations of standard English

C) As different dialects

D) As failed attempts at learning

What are the hypotheses on which the concept of Interlanguage is based?

A) English varieties are fossilized forms of standard English

B) Interlanguage is a natural step in language acquisition

C) Varieties of English are results of imperfect learning

D) Varieties of English are frozen in time

How does the concept of fossilization apply to world Englishes?

A) Fossilization is relevant to world Englishes

B) Fossilization is a concept unique to world Englishes

C) Fossilization is inapt for the context of world Englishes

D) Fossilization is not related to language learning

What is the main issue with fossilization in multilingual contexts?

A) Fossilization is common in all multilingual contexts

B) One language may not be suitable for all domains in multilingual contexts

- C) Multilingual contexts do not experience fossilization
- D) Fossilization leads to complete language proficiency

How does English receive reinforcement and expansion opportunities in outer and expanding circle contexts?

- A) Through immersion programs
