ENG 512

Lesson VISE IMPORTANT QUESTIONS for Midterm by Mudasar Qureshi Vu360

LESSON NO 1? DEFINITIONS AND GUIDING PRINCIPLES OF BILINGUALISM

- What is bilingualism, and how does it differ from bilinguality?
- Discuss the range of definitions of bilingualism and the challenges they present?
- Explain the functionalist approach to understanding language behavior?
- How do communicative and cognitive functions of language differ?
- What are the key characteristics of language behavior, according to the functionalist approach?
- Describe the concept of equilibrium in bilingual language contact situations?
- How does literacy impact language behavior and societal structures?
- Explain the two-level mapping between function and linguistic form in language development?
- Discuss the relationship between linguistic forms and communicative intentions?
- Provide examples of how a single linguistic form can serve multiple functions, and vice versa?

LESSON NO 2? FORMS OF LANGUAGE AND CHANGE

- Explain the concept of language change using examples such as pidginization and creolization?
- How does the process of pidginization lead to the development of new linguistic forms?
- Discuss the concept of self-regulation in language behavior at both the individual and collective levels?
- What is language valorization, and how does it influence language behavior in society?
- Describe the impact of language valorization on minority languages and language shift?
- Explain the dynamic nature of language behavior at different societal and individual levels?
- What are the developmental aspects of language behavior according to Pinker's theory of language acquisition?
- Compare linguistic and psychological approaches to language acquisition?
- How does the functional approach view language development in terms of social interactions and cognitive processes?

LESSON NO 3? COLLECTIVE ASPECTS OF LANGUAGE BEHAVIOR

- How do power relations in society influence language behavior and the value assigned to different language varieties?
- Explain the concept of diglossia and its impact on language use and behavior?
- What factors contribute to the maintenance of local, non-standard language norms in tight-knit social networks?
- Describe how changes in social networks can lead to shifts in language behavior in bilingual individuals?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

- Differentiate between language shift and language attrition, and explain how they affect language behavior?
- Discuss the five principles underlying language behavior, as outlined in the text?
- How does language behavior reflect the interaction between societal dynamics and individual behavior?
- Explain the concept of self-regulation in language behavior and its significance?
- Why is valorization considered central to the dynamic interactions involved in language behavior?

LESSON NO 4? DIMENSIONS AND MEASURMENT OF BILINGUALITY

- Discuss the concept of bilinguality and its multidimensional nature in terms of access to linguistic codes for social communication?
- What are the two dimensions of relative competence in bilinguality, and how do they differ?
- Explain the distinction between compound bilinguality and coordinate bilinguality in terms of cognitive organization?
- How does the age of acquisition influence bilinguality, and what are the different stages of acquisition mentioned in the text?
- Define endogenous and exogenous bilinguality, and discuss their implications for language acquisition?
- Differentiate between additive bilinguality and subtractive bilingualism, and explain how they impact cognitive development?
- Describe the concept of cultural identity in bilinguality, and discuss the different categories mentioned in the text?
- How does bicultural bilinguality differ from monocultural bilinguality, and what are the implications for cultural identity?
- Explain the concept of acculturated bilinguality and provide examples of how it manifests in individuals?
- Discuss the challenges associated with deculturated bilinguality and its impact on identity formation?

LESSON NO 5? SOCIETAL BILINGUALISM

- Explain the concept of language contact and its significance in understanding bilingualism?
- Discuss the different dimensions of societal bilingualism and provide examples of each?
- Describe territorial bilingualism and provide examples of countries where this phenomenon is observed?
- Explain the concept of diglossia and how it influences language behavior in bilingual communities?
- Differentiate between monolingual and bilingual competence, highlighting the challenges in measuring bilingual proficiency?
- Discuss the comparative measures used to assess bilingualism and the difficulties associated with direct language comparisons?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

- Explain the concept of compound and coordinate bilingualism and discuss how their degree of semantic independence can be measured?
- Describe measures of bilingual specificity, including translation, verbal flexibility, and code-switching, and their role in assessing bilingual behavior?
- Discuss the cognitive correlates of bilingualism and the conflicting findings regarding cognitive advantages and disadvantages?
- Explain the affective correlates of bilingualism and how the relationships between individuals and their languages influence language development?

LESSON NO 6? LANGUAGES IN CONTACT

- What are the various reasons for language contact, and how do they influence language interactions in society?
- Discuss the criteria for defining bilingualism and explain why achieving balanced bilingualism is rare?
- How is language defined, and what are the linguistic, cognitive, and social dimensions of language?
- Explain the distinction between a language and a dialect, considering factors such as size, mutual intelligibility, and prestige?
- Discuss the role of power and status in determining whether a linguistic variety is considered a dialect or a language?
- Provide examples of situations where dialects have been standardized and elevated to the status of a language?
- Explain the concept of mutual intelligibility and how it relates to the distinction between languages and dialects?
- Discuss the relationship between Urdu and Hindi in terms of mutual intelligibility and their status as languages?
- How do political factors, such as colonialism and globalization, contribute to language contact situations?
- In what ways do issues of culture, identity negotiation, and oppression influence language contact and bilingualism?

LESSON NO 7? SOCIOPOLITICS OF BILINGUALISM

- How does language choice contribute to the construction of personal and group identities in multilingual contexts?
- Explain the concept of diglossia and its significance in understanding bilingualism?
- Discuss the potential advantages and challenges associated with multilingualism in society, both at the practical and personal levels?
- What are the different roles that languages typically play in multilingual societies, and how does this impact language planning?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

- How does language planning intersect with issues of power, influence, and privilege in multilingual contexts?
- What factors influence the selection of official languages for governance in multilingual countries, and why can this decision be contentious?
- Analyze the complexities involved in selecting a language for education in multilingual countries, considering the balance between ethnic languages and standard languages?
- Discuss the relationship between linguistic diversity and economic development, challenging the assumption that linguistic uniformity is inherently beneficial?
- How does the availability of various languages in a community repertoire serve as an interactional resource for multilingual speakers?
- Evaluate the statement that language planning involves not only standardizing linguistic materials but also addressing issues of power and influence within society?

LESSON NO 8? WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE A BILINGUAL?

- How does the functioning of a bilingual's brain compare to that of a monolingual, according to existing research findings?
- Discuss the evidence for both separate and shared storage of languages in a bilingual's brain, and how this impacts language processing?
- Explain the concept of code-switching among bilingual speakers and its significance in communication?
- How does the existence of a code-switching grammar challenge the traditional view of bilinguals as two monolinguals in one person?
- Describe the different contexts in which bilingual speakers may engage in code-switching, including professional and cross-modality language production?
- Evaluate the historical attitudes towards bilingualism, and discuss how they have evolved over time?
- What is semilingualism, and what are the criticisms against the concept as applied to bilingual individuals?
- Analyze the stigma surrounding language switching and mixing in bilingual communities, and its implications for communication?
- Explain the concept of language rights and discuss the political movements advocating for them, particularly in the United States?
- What are some examples of rights that minority language groups may claim, apart from language rights, and why are they important?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

LESSON NO 9? ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES OF BILINGUALISM

- What are the communicative advantages of bilingualism, and how do they influence relationships with family and community?
- How does bilingualism facilitate transnational communication, and what role does it play in bridging linguistic barriers?
- Discuss the cultural advantages associated with bilingualism, emphasizing the ability to experience multiple cultures and the importance of language in cultural integration?
- What are the potential economic advantages of being bilingual, particularly in the context of globalization and international relationships?
- Explain the cognitive advantages of bilingualism, considering factors such as creative thinking, cognitive development, and language sensitivity?
- What are some common misconceptions about the disadvantages of bilingualism, and how are these challenges often temporary or exaggerated?
- Discuss the social implications of bilingualism, including issues related to identity, assimilation, and cultural hybridity?
- How does bilingualism evolve and adapt over time, considering various historical, cultural, and socio-political factors?
- Analyze the changing attitudes towards bilingualism in society, and speculate on future trends in language acquisition and proficiency?
- Reflect on the overall significance of bilingualism in a globalized world, considering its impact on communication, culture, and personal identity?

LESSON NO 10? BILINGUALISM: FOUR ESSENTIAL CHARACTERISTICS

- How is bilingualism a relative concept, and what factors contribute to its description, including degree, function, alternation, and interference?
- Discuss the significance of degree in describing bilingualism, considering factors such as proficiency in each language and variations across different linguistic skills?
- Explain the external functions of bilingualism, including areas of contact and variations in duration, frequency, and pressure, with examples?
- Analyze the internal functions of bilingualism, focusing on non-communicative uses and intrinsic aptitudes that influence language proficiency and usage?
- What factors influence alternation between languages in bilingual speech, and how do topic, person, and tension affect the rate and proportion of alternation?
- Define interference in bilingual speech and distinguish it from language borrowing? Discuss how interference varies based on factors such as medium, style, register, and context?
- How do individual characteristics such as sex, age, intelligence, memory, attitude, and motivation influence bilingualism?
- Discuss the role of external pressures such as economic, administrative, cultural, political, military, historical, religious, and demographic factors in shaping bilingualism?
- Explain the significance of internal factors such as uses and aptitude in describing bilingualism, providing examples of how they influence language proficiency and behavior?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

- Reflect on the complexities of bilingualism and how it varies across different contexts, registers, styles, and social roles, with emphasis on the importance of considering these factors in understanding interference and alternation?

LESSON NO 11? WHO SPEAKS TO WHOM AND WHICH LANGUAGE?

- What factors contribute to language choice-patterns in multilingual settings, and why is it challenging to accurately describe these patterns?
- Discuss the role of group membership in language choice, considering both objective and subjective socio-psychological factors? How does location and environment influence reference group membership?
- Explain the concept of situation as a regulatory factor in language choice, particularly in terms of situational styles such as intimacy-distance, formality-informality, and status equality-inequality?
- How do multilingual individuals associate certain languages with specific styles and situations, and how does this influence their habitual language choice?
- Analyze the impact of topic on language choice, considering how certain topics may be better suited for expression in one language over another due to training or familiarity?
- Discuss the relationship between topics and patterns of social behavior, and how the examination of topic-specific language choices can reveal broader societal patterns?
- What challenges arise in understanding language choice variance, and how can individual choices be related to stable patterns within a multilingual setting?
- How do situational styles and topic-specific language choices intersect within multilingual settings, and how do they contribute to the complexity of language choice-patterns?
- Explore the implications of language choice for communication effectiveness and social cohesion within multilingual communities?
- Reflect on potential strategies for analyzing and understanding language choice-patterns, considering the dynamic interplay between group membership, situation, and topic?

LESSON NO 12? DOMAINS OF LANGUAGE BEHAVIOR

- What are the nine domains recommended by Schmidt-Rohr for understanding language choice in multilingual settings, and how do they contribute to the socio-cultural norms and expectations?
- Discuss the significance of institutional contexts in analyzing language choice-patterns, and how do these contexts relate to processes of language maintenance or shift?
- Explain the concept of domains in understanding language behavior, and how do they abstract socio-cultural patterning surrounding language choices?
- How do role-relations within domains influence language choice, and why are they considered important factors in studying multilingual behavior?
- Analyze the role of the family domain in multilingualism, considering its crucial role in language acquisition and differentiation within family members?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

- Compare and contrast different approaches to differentiating speakers within the family domain, such as specifying family members versus specifying dyads within the family?
- How do domains of language behavior differ across multilingual settings, and what factors contribute to these differences?
- Discuss the importance of recognizing both speakers and hearers within domains of language behavior, and how does this recognition contribute to understanding multilingual comprehension and production?
- Explore the implications of role-relations within domains for individual language behavior and group dynamics in multilingual settings?
- Reflect on the methodological challenges and considerations in studying language choice-patterns within specific domains, and propose potential strategies for addressing these challenges?

LESSON NO 13? OTHER SOURCES OF VARIANCE AND DOMAIN CONFIGURATION

- What are the four main sources of variance in language behavior in multilingual settings, and how do they contribute to the complexity of language choice-patterns?
- Discuss the concept of dominance configuration and how it summarizes data on language choice behavior in multilingual settings over time?
- How does the domain concept help organize and clarify the uneven process of language maintenance and shift across different domains of language behavior?
- Explain the contributions of the domain concept to understanding language maintenance, language shift, and the distinction between coordinate and compound bilingualism?
- Analyze how domains of language behavior, when systematically interrelated with other sources of variance, contribute to the establishment of dominance configuration summaries?
- What methodological challenges are associated with domain analysis in studying language behavior in multilingual settings?
- How do media variance, role variance, situational variance, and domain variance interact to influence language choice-patterns?
- Discuss the significance of studying dominance configurations over time in understanding the dynamics of language maintenance and shift?
- Explore the implications of dominance configurations for language policy and planning in multilingual communities?
- Reflect on potential strategies for addressing methodological challenges in domain analysis and improving the accuracy and reliability of dominance configuration summaries?

LESSON NO 14? SOCIAL MEANING IN LINGUISTIC STRUCTURE

- How is the use of dialect in Norway tied to social identity and local pride? Explain the relationship between dialect use and prestige within different social groups?
- Describe the social meanings attached to dialect use and standard language in Norwegian society, especially in relation to historical social inequalities?
- Discuss the role of setting, social situation, and social event in shaping linguistic behavior and social interaction in a community?
- Explain the concept of situational switching in linguistic behavior and provide examples of how it manifests in everyday interactions?
- What is metaphorical switching in linguistic behavior, and how does it differ from situational switching? Provide examples to illustrate this phenomenon?
- Analyze the relationship between language and society in the context of interactional sociolinguistics, considering how social constraints influence grammatical rules and linguistic choices?
- How do dialects function as signals of social distinctness and identity within a community? Discuss the social significance of dialects in contrast to standard language?
- Explain the concepts of setting, social situation, and social event, and discuss their importance in understanding linguistic behavior and social meaning?
- How does ethnographic investigation contribute to understanding the social significance of dialects and standard language within a community?
- Reflect on the importance of considering social or non-referential meaning in the study of language in society, and discuss the implications of this perspective for understanding dialect differences and social dynamics?

LESSON NO 15? CODE SWITCHING

- What is the negotiation principle in code-switching, and how does it relate to the choice of linguistic variety in conversation?
- Explain the markedness model of code-switching and its implications for social meaning and linguistic choice within speech communities?
- How do situational features such as the status of participants and the topic of conversation influence the rights and obligations balance in a speech event, according to the markedness model?
- Describe the concept of a social network and its role in understanding linguistic conventions and norms within a community?
- What is meant by the principle of 'anchorage' in social network studies, and how does it affect the scope of research in this field?
- Discuss the significance of close-knit social networks in maintaining and enforcing local conventions and linguistic norms?
- How do passive ties, such as distant relatives or friends, contribute to the formation and maintenance of sociolinguistic communities?
- Explain how network analysis can contribute to understanding the processes of language maintenance and shift within communities?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

- Reflect on the potential of network analysis to illuminate the social dynamics underlying inter-group differences in language use and maintenance?
- Consider the practical implications of network analysis for sociolinguistic research and community-based interventions aimed at language revitalization or preservation?

LESSON NO 16? LINGUISTIC DIMENSIONS OF BILINGUALISM- EARLY LANGUAGE DEVELOPMENT

- How does Michael Clyne's concept of 'triggering' explain the process of code-switching?
- What are the methodological challenges identified by Fred Genesee in studies interpreting bilingual children's code-mixing?
- How does Jürgen M? Meisel contribute to the debate on whether bilingual individuals operate with one or two grammatical systems?
- Describe the types of mixing observed in bilingual children's language use, including lexical, syntactic, semantic, and pragmatic mixing?
- What challenges are associated with interpreting rates of mixing in studies of bilingual children's language development?
- How does adult code-switching differ from code-mixing observed in bilingual children?
- Explain how adult bilinguals use code-switching as a communicative device, considering factors such as setting, tone, and purpose of communication?
- What marks the transition from language mixing to linguistic differentiation in bilingual children, according to research findings?
- Discuss the role of interlocutors in influencing bilingual children's language choice and switching behavior during the differentiation phase?
- Reflect on the implications of studying code-switching and bilingual language development for understanding the nature of language acquisition and bilingualism?

LESSON NO 17? EXPLANATIONS OF LANGUAGE MIXING

- What is the unitary-language system explanation for language mixing in bilingual children, and what are some critiques of this explanation?
- Describe Volterra and Taeschner's three-stage model of language mixing in bilingual development? What are its implications?
- What are some other explanations proposed for bilingual mixing, including restricted lexical use and universal operating principles?
- How do lexical borrowing and overextensions contribute to language mixing in bilingual children, and how do they compare to monolingual language development?
- Explain the concept of universal operating principles proposed by Slobin and their role in bilingual language acquisition?
- Discuss how acquisitional strategies independent of language representation may lead to language mixing in bilingual children?
- Do theories of bilingual language acquisition suggest that bilingual and monolingual development during infancy are fundamentally different? Explain?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

- What evidence exists regarding the relationship between bilingualism, metalinguistic awareness, and language acquisition, especially in older bilingual individuals?
- How do the proposed explanations for language mixing in bilingual children contribute to our understanding of bilingual language development?
- Reflect on the implications of these explanations for educational practices and interventions aimed at supporting bilingual children's language development?

LESSON NO 18? OTHER EXPLANATIONS OF LANGUAGE MIXING

- Why is the identity of the researcher considered crucial in bilingualism research, and how does it influence various aspects of the research process?
- What specific aspects of the researcher's identity are important to consider when studying language behavior in bilingual speakers?
- How does the linguistic background and competence of the researcher impact data collection and analysis in bilingualism research?
- Discuss the challenges that arise when researchers from different linguistic backgrounds conduct studies on bilingualism?
- Explain the significance of the researcher's attitude towards bilingualism and its potential influence on research outcomes?
- How do age, gender, educational background, and disciplinary training of the researcher affect bilingualism research?
- Describe the different methodological approaches used in bilingualism research and how they may reflect the researcher's ideological stance?
- Discuss the potential impact of disciplinary backgrounds on research agendas and interpretations in bilingualism studies?
- Why is it important for researchers and readers to be aware of the ideological influences on bilingualism research?
- Reflect on the ethical considerations related to bilingualism research, particularly regarding the researcher's identity and agenda?

LESSON NO 19? RESEARCHING BILINGUALISM

- How does the definition of bilingual education differ from traditional language education programs, and what are the key components of bilingual education?
- Discuss the distinction between bilingual education and traditional second or foreign-language programs in terms of their instructional approaches and goals?
- How do language-teaching programs increasingly resemble bilingual education, and what are the implications of this trend?
- Explain the concept of monoglossic ideologies in bilingual education and how they influence language instruction?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

- What is the significance of considering bilingual education as a broader concept beyond simply the use of two languages in education?
- Describe the limitations of the widely accepted definition of bilingual education and how it can be overly simplistic?
- Discuss the difference between monoglossic and heteroglossic ideologies in bilingualism and their implications for bilingual education?
- How do monoglossic ideologies view the languages of bilingual individuals, and what are the potential consequences of such perspectives in education?
- Explain how a heteroglossic ideology of bilingualism considers multiple language practices and influences the approach to bilingual education?
- Reflect on the importance of understanding different language ideologies in shaping educational practices and policies in bilingual education?

LESSON NO 20? BILINGUAL EDUCATION

- How does the concept of bilingual education in the 21st century differ from traditional views, and what are the key principles underlying it?
- Discuss the criticism often directed towards bilingual education, particularly in the context of the United States and Europe?
- Explain the shift from the term "bilingual education" to "dual language education" and "CLIL/EMILE" in certain contexts, and what implications does this shift have?
- How do the voices of First Nations peoples in Canada challenge the conventional understanding of bilingual education, and what broader implications does this have?
- In what ways does bilingual education benefit both language majorities and minorities, according to Fishman and other scholars?
- Describe the potential transformative impact of bilingual education on cognitive development, social equality, and access to linguistic power?
- How does monolingual education contribute to the maintenance of power dynamics, and how does bilingual education seek to address these issues?
- Discuss the role of bilingual education in promoting social, economic, and political equality, as suggested by Lewis?
- How do practices of bilingual education reflect the linguistic realities of the 21st century globalized world?
- Reflect on the significance of reimagining and expanding bilingual education to ensure meaningful education for all children and language learners worldwide?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

LESSON NO 21? REIMAGINING BILINGUALISM

- How does the historical context shape the concept and practice of bilingual education, and what are some examples of its long-standing presence in educational systems?
- Discuss the role of language in shaping national identity and educational policies, particularly in the aftermath of World War I and II?
- Explain the significance of UNESCO's resolution regarding the teaching of children in their home language, and how did it contribute to the development of transitional bilingual education?
- Critically evaluate the perception of language difference as a problem in the context of modernist conceptualization of bilingual education?
- How did socio-historical processes, such as class, ethnicity, race, and gender, influence the evolution of bilingual education programs?
- Describe the shift in perspective towards bilingual education as a resource, and analyze UNESCO's guiding principles in promoting bilingual and multilingual education?
- Discuss Mühlhäusler's "ecological approach" to bilingual education and its implications for language management in the 21st century?
- Compare and contrast linguistic "geo-strategies" of the 21st century with the "politico-strategies" of the 20th century, and discuss their implications for bilingual education?
- How does the blurring of territorial boundaries affect the appropriateness of monolingual schooling in the current globalized context?
- Reflect on the potential challenges and opportunities of bilingual education in promoting linguistic diversity, social equality, and inter-cultural understanding in the 21st century?

LESSON NO 22? GEOPOLITICS AND LANGUAGE ORIENTATION IN BILINGUALISM

How are languages socially constructed, and why is there no consensus on the number of languages in the world?

Discuss the association between a state and a single language, and how has multilingualism challenged this association?

Explain the role of states in using language to consolidate political power and establish linguistic norms, and its impact on education?

How has globalization and new communication technologies impacted languaging practices in the 21st century?

Describe the concept of "glocalization" and its significance in understanding the relationship between the local and the global?

Analyze the implications of transnationalism and population shifts on language use and the prevalence of bilingualism?

Compare languaging practices in the 19th and 20th centuries with those in the 21st century, particularly in terms of simultaneous engagement in multiple language practices?

https://chat.whatsapp.com/F5zhJsjtf5yL4RjDODz1fL

Reflect on the relevance of language to identity amidst the fragmentation of national identities and the weakening of the nation-state construction?

How do sociopolitical and socioeconomic changes influence the dynamics of language use and language policies?

Discuss the role of language academies, grammars, dictionaries, and treatises in standardizing and consolidating languages within nation-states?
