Question No: 41 (Marks: 10)

What measures can be taken by the employer to prevent negligent hiring? Explain in detail.

Answer:-Tips on How to Avoid Negligent Hiring Lawsuits

In these tough economic times companies may be thinking about saving time and money by cutting back on their employee screening programs. This would be a big mistake! If you hire a dangerous or unfit person without doing proper “due diligence” and harm occurs, you are opening yourself up to a negligent hiring lawsuit.

Here are several tips to help you avoid a negligent hiring lawsuit :

1. Create a Program

Create an employee screening program for your company. This program should document employee screening policies and procedures for each position in the organization.

2. Train to Ensure Hiring Managers Follow the Program

Train all hiring managers on the employee screening policies and procedures. Document this training.

3. Audit Employee Screening Program

Create an audit procedure to make sure the employee screening program is being followed throughout the organization. Document this procedure.

4. Ensure FCRA Compliance

If you are using a third party employee screening service make sure they are in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA).

(OR)

Answer 2:

There are quite a few different measures that can be taken to ensure that a firm hires the best possible candidates for open positions. I suggest using Google to search for "best hiring practices."

Here are a few such practices:

- Write a good job description that will attract the kinds of candidates you need.
- Have professionals from the relevant department (rather than from HR) have the most contact with the candidate.
- Give the candidate as much information about your firm as possible before the job interview. This allows the candidate to talk more knowledgably and relevantly about your firm and his/her fit with your needs.

- Interview in a way that lets your candidates show their skills instead of just talking about them

Question No: 35 (Marks: 3)

What measures should be taken at the pre-arrival stage of socialization?

Ans:-

The employees / newly recruited staff may take the following measures at the pre-arrival stage of socialization:

- 1) Study & review the historical background of the organization
- 2) Brief idea about the working & corporate culture of the company
- 3) Should also be familiar with the organizational structure in order to have a know how to whom he will be interacting with in future. Can be immediate supervisor or also higher management.
- 4) Should also have interaction with fellow employs and other staff whom he may have met during orientation or during interviewing. This will facilitate an easy slip in getting socialized.
- 5) New recruit should boldly introduce himself to other existing staff of the organization as it is a common practice that existing management keeps an initial distance as part of their prestige and position with new comers. Taking the first step can change the situation drastically.

Question No: 36 (Marks: 5)

What are the pros and cones of internal recruitment?

Ans:

Advantages:

- 1) Opportunity for promotions if existing staff is meeting the desired requirements.
- 2) Advantage of hiring a person known / relative to existing employee as referral whom the current employee knows well and understands that the person can meet the desired job specifications.
- 3) Low recruitment costs.
- 4) Time saving
- 5) Effort saving
- 6) Can be done through HRIS with internal job postings.

Disadvantages:

- 1) New talents from external market may not be acquired.
- 2) Might require additional training and development which could have its own costs.
- 3) EEO which is also applicable to employment opportunity to internal as well external human resources is not being implemented.

- 4) Great chances of hiring a person by referral who may not be fit for the job but is being hired due to personal influence.
 - 5) At times internal hiring can boost competitive environment within the company by encouraging other employees for better career opportunities with promotion. This can also be taken as disadvantage as the competition stays within the existing environment and the system acts like a closed system.

Question No: 37 (Marks: 5)

Being a human resource manager describe how you can help your organization to gain competitive advantage through human resources?

Ans:-

Being a HR manager, the following may be taken into consideration:

- 1) Performing proper job analysis to recruit the right person for right job
- 2) Liaison with technical staff to define the proper job specifications
- 3) Carrying out timely forecasting for company's future needs by communicating with various departments of the organization.
- 4) Discussing with top management regarding future business plans for expansion in order to ensure proper HR planning to employ manpower at the right time with desired requirements.

5) Hiring brilliant skilled manpower either from institutions or existing professionals to build a pool of talented personnel who can be set responsible for making efforts for organizational development and growth.

6) HRIS if implemented properly can help in timely performance appraisals, training & development of the employees to meet the current requirements for achieving goals and objectives set by the organization.

7) Giving the workers their desired QWL for better prospects and growth of organization. Once the workers have the feeling of being part of the organization, they turn to be an ever lasting asset. It is to be understood that similar to success of marketing through customer satisfaction, organization's success is now directly connected to employee satisfaction.

8) Current era of globalization can be exploited by hiring of international manpower from different regions of world to constitute workforce diversity. This in turn leads to interaction between different races, cultures, religions etc at one single point and can definitely lead to innovative and unique ideas to build a totally new organizational culture and achieve targets with better results.

9) Hiring and timely development of human resources can create a multi-tasked and exceptional task force which can interact and give their best output. HR can help in improving productivity.

10) HR manager by taking into consideration EEO, Affirmative action and other laws protecting the rights of minorities, women, disabled one's, old people etc and giving these segments opportunity to work in the organization and deliver efficiently can put up the organization's reputation into perfect spot. With employee's looking forth to work in such a multi-cultural and manpower supportive firm, organizations will prosper.

Question No: 41 (Marks: 10)

There are several sources that can identify the training needs. List & explain any five of such sources.

Answer:

- Context Analysis. An analysis of the business needs or other reasons the training is desired. The important questions being answered by this analysis are who decided that training should be conducted, why a training program is seen as the recommended solution to a business problem, what the history of the organization has been with regard to employee training and other management interventions.
- User Analysis. Analysis dealing with potential participants and instructors involved in the process. The important questions being answered by this analysis are who will receive the training and their level of existing knowledge on the subject, what is their learning style, and who will conduct the training.

- Work analysis. Analysis of the tasks being performed. This is an analysis of the job and the requirements for performing the work. Also known as a task analysis or job analysis, this analysis seeks to specify the main duties and skill level required. This helps ensure that the training which is developed will include relevant links to the content of the job.
- Content Analysis. Analysis of documents, laws, procedures used on the job. This analysis answers questions about what knowledge or information is used on this job. This information comes from manuals, documents, or regulations. It is important that the content of the training does not conflict or contradict job requirements. An experienced worker can assist (as a subject matter expert) in determining the appropriate content.
- Training Suitability Analysis. Analysis of whether training is the desired solution. Training is one of several solutions to employment problems. However, it may not always be the best solution. It is important to determine if training will be effective in its usage.

- Cost-Benefit Analysis. Analysis of the return on investment (ROI) of training. Effective training results in a return of value to the organization that is greater than the initial investment to produce or administer the training.
