Identify the commonly occurred mistakes an interviewer can commit while doing employment interviews. Also suggest the recommendations to overcome those interview mistakes.

Below are some of the common mistakes interviewer commit while doing employment interviews with the recommendations to avoid them:

1. Snap Judgments: This is where an interviewer jumps to a conclusion in the first few minutes of the interview. This can be a positive impression or a negative one about the applicant.

www.vuaskari.com

Recommendation:

- Use a structured interview is one way of help avoid this
- Properly train the interviewers.

2. Candidate Order: when an adequate candidate is followed by an extraordinary or poor applicant. In this case the interviewer will be less satisfied or more than happy.

Recommendation:

This can be countered through interviewer training, allowing time b/w interviews and structured interviews.

3. Influence of NON-VERBAL behavior: candidates who exhibit strong non-verbal behavior such as eye contact and talkative are precieved as suitable applicant.

Recommendation:

- Interviewer trainng
- Structured interviews

4. Poor knowledge of Job: when interviewers don't have good understanding of job requirements they don't make good selections.

Recommendation:

All interviewers have to clearly understand what is the requirement of job and for technical interviews, it is good to have a technical resource in the interviewing panel.
