Key Structural Elements		Justifications/ Reasoning
1	Lack of New Techniques	According to the given scenario SOL has lost its position due to some reasons in which one of them is "lack of new techniques of departmentalization". It should be adopted to make proper departments of the organization to check and balance each and every activity of the organization.
2	Bureaucratic Environment	As in our scenario there is bureaucratic type of environment holds by top level managers when they simply imposed their orders to lower level employees and don't think about them it should also be diminished and a democratic type of environment should be introduced.
3	Lack of Productivity	In the current era technology is very upgraded lot of working productivity were introduced but one of the reason to Lost his position of Sol is lack of productivity of employees. They do not work hard and always complains about work, stay in stress and being burden on company. Their training and development of productive work should be repeated weekly/monthly to and also give benefits or bonuses/incentives to employees so they motivates and work smartly and productively and if someone's not working expel it from job and hire a new employee.
4	Wastage of Time & Money	As per given scenario this organization lack of proper working environment if any task is given to it there is a problem created how to solve it which is proved to be wastage of time and money. It should also be improved for the proper working of organization. Skilled and right person for right job should be implemented during hiring or training of employees so that on given task by top level managers employees know how to solve it and when to safe the wastage of time and money.
5	Employee Communication Problems	The top level employees only contact to one boss who control the whole organization, due to this communication gap in between lower level employees and top level managers they can't contact to boss, and because of strict rules and too much work burden on a single person the work delayed and the communication does not reached to top level manager to, so their work should be divided on some employee and there should be a horizontal communication system where all problems of employees should easily transformed to one another.

DO NOT COPY PASTE USE YOUR OWN WORDS