Psy505

People who follow the pattern of a stable career are reaping personal benefits and also letting society benefit from their years of experience in a chosen field.

Middle-aged men with stable careers tend to fall into two major categories: workaholics and the mellowed

Workaholics may work at a frenzied space because of a last ditch effort to reach financial security before they retire or because they find it hard to relinquish any of their authority.

The mellowed have come to terms with their level of achievement, even if they did not go as far in their careers as they had hoped. The best adjusted among the "mellowed" have a sense of relaxation rather than failure They are often happier.
