QUESTION: Briefly describe the fight plan of Jews in the battle of Khybar.

ANSWER: In the Battle of Khaybar, the Jews devised a defensive strategy to protect their fortified settlements. They stationed themselves in well-fortified strongholds within the oasis of Khaybar, which was surrounded by date palm groves and natural barriers. The Jews had constructed strong fortresses and trenches to defend themselves against any attacking force.

Their plan involved using the natural defenses of the terrain, including the rocky hills and date palm orchards, to hinder the advancement of the Muslim forces led by the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH). Additionally, they utilized their knowledge of the area to set up ambushes and traps to disrupt the Muslim army's movements.

Despite their defensive preparations, the Muslims, under the leadership of the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH), employed various strategies to overcome the defenses of the Jewish settlements. Through skillful planning, tactical maneuvers, and perseverance, the Muslim forces were ultimately able to breach the fortifications and achieve victory in the Battle of Khaybar.

QUESTION: Discuss in two points that how Shah Waliullah has explained the importance of Khilafah in Islam.

ANSWER: Shah Waliullah, a prominent Islamic scholar from the Indian subcontinent, emphasized the importance of Khilafah (caliphate) in Islam through various writings and teachings. Here are two points discussing how he explained its significance:

1. Guardianship and Unity of the Muslim Ummah: Shah Waliullah believed that the Khilafah was crucial for maintaining the unity and guardianship of the Muslim community (Ummah). He argued that under the caliphate, Muslims could be governed according to Islamic principles, ensuring justice, equity, and the implementation of Shariah. By having a central authority represented by a righteous and just caliph, the Muslim Ummah could remain unified and protected from internal divisions and external threats. Shah Waliullah viewed the Khilafah as a means to preserve the spiritual and temporal welfare of Muslims and to establish a cohesive and strong community.
2. Propagation and Defense of Islam: Another aspect highlighted by Shah Waliullah was the role of the Khilafah in the propagation and defense of Islam. He believed that a legitimate caliphate would provide leadership and support for spreading the message of Islam to both Muslims and non-Muslims. The caliphate would serve as a beacon of guidance, promoting Islamic values and principles worldwide. Additionally, Shah Waliullah emphasized the importance of the Khilafah in defending the Muslim Ummah against external threats and ensuring its safety and security. He argued that a strong caliphate could protect the interests of Muslims and uphold the dignity and honor of Islam in the face of challenges and aggression.

QUESTION: Define the term "Dhimmi ()" and explain their status in conquered areas.

ANSWER: The term "Dhimmi (ذمّي)" refers to non-Muslims living in an Islamic state under Muslim rule, particularly in areas that were conquered by Muslims. The status of Dhimmi in conquered areas was regulated by Islamic law (Shariah) and was characterized by a set of rights, obligations, and protections.

1. Status and Rights: Dhimmi were granted a protected status under Islamic law, which guaranteed their safety, security, and freedom of religion. They were allowed to practice their faith, maintain their religious institutions, and follow their personal laws within certain boundaries. Dhimmi were also entitled to legal and social protections, including the right to own property, engage in commerce, and seek justice in Islamic courts. Additionally, they were exempt from military service and certain Islamic obligations, such as paying the zakat (obligatory charity) and performing Islamic rituals like fasting during Ramadan.
2. Obligations and Restrictions: While Dhimmi enjoyed certain rights and freedoms, they were also subject to certain obligations and restrictions imposed by Islamic law. For example, Dhimmi were required to pay a special tax called the jizya, which served as a symbol of their submission to Muslim authority and helped fund the Islamic state. This tax was typically lower than the zakat paid by Muslims and was levied on adult male non-Muslims who were able to afford it. Additionally, Dhimmi were expected to adhere to certain regulations and codes of conduct set by the Islamic authorities, such as dress codes and behavioral norms, to ensure public order and social harmony.

QUESTION: Write any five features of Islamic society.

1. ANSWER: Tawhid (Oneness of God): Central to Islamic society is the belief in the oneness of God (Tawhid). Muslims recognize Allah as the one and only deity and adhere to monotheistic principles in all aspects of life. This belief shapes the worldview and actions of individuals within Islamic society, emphasizing the importance of worship, obedience to God's commandments, and seeking closeness to Allah in all endeavors.

2. Shariah (Islamic Law): Islamic society is governed by Shariah, which encompasses a comprehensive system of laws and regulations derived from the Quran, the Sunnah (traditions) of the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH), and scholarly consensus (ijma) and analogical reasoning (qiyas). Shariah guides all aspects of personal and communal life, including worship, ethics, morality, family law, economics, and governance, providing a framework for individuals to lead righteous and just lives.
 3. Community and Solidarity: Islamic society emphasizes the importance of community (Ummah) and solidarity among its members. Muslims are encouraged to support one another, care for the needy, and foster a sense of brotherhood and sisterhood regardless of ethnic, racial, or social differences. This communal ethos is exemplified through acts of charity (Zakat), mutual assistance, and collective worship, which strengthen the bonds of unity and cohesion within the Muslim community.
 4. Social Justice and Equity: Social justice is a fundamental principle in Islamic society, with an emphasis on fairness, equality, and compassion towards all individuals, especially the marginalized and vulnerable. Islamic teachings promote the equitable distribution of wealth, the eradication of poverty, and the protection of the rights of the poor, orphans, widows, and oppressed. Muslims are encouraged to uphold justice and righteousness in their interactions with others and to advocate for the rights of the disadvantaged in society.
 5. Education and Knowledge: Education and the pursuit of knowledge are highly valued in Islamic society. Islam places a strong emphasis on seeking knowledge, both religious and secular, as a means of fulfilling one's religious obligations, understanding the world, and contributing to the betterment of society. Islamic civilization has a rich tradition of scholarship, innovation, and intellectual inquiry, with advancements in various fields such as science, medicine, philosophy, and literature, reflecting the importance of education in Islamic society.

QUESTION: Describe in five points, the condition of Infidels during the battle of Ahzab.

ANSWER: During the Battle of the Trench (Ahzab), which took place in 627 CE between the Muslim community of Medina and the allied forces of the Quraysh tribe of Mecca and their allies, including various Jewish tribes, the condition of the infidels (non-Muslims) can be summarized as follows:

1. Alliance Against Muslims: The infidels, comprising the Quraysh tribe of Mecca and their allies, formed a formidable coalition with the aim of annihilating the Muslim community in Medina. They were determined to crush the growing influence of Islam and eliminate the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) and his followers.
2. Siege and Blockade: The infidel forces laid siege to Medina, surrounding the city with a massive army. They aimed to starve the Muslim community by imposing a blockade, cutting off their access to food, water, and supplies. The siege lasted for several weeks, putting immense pressure on the Muslims and testing their resolve and resilience.

3. Collaboration with Hypocrites: The infidels collaborated with the hypocrites (Munafiqeen) within Medina, who pretended to be Muslims but secretly harbored animosity towards Islam and sought to undermine the Muslim community from within. The hypocrites provided intelligence to the infidels and attempted to sow discord and dissent among the Muslims.
4. Psychological Warfare: The infidels employed psychological warfare tactics to demoralize the Muslims and weaken their resolve. They launched propaganda campaigns, spreading rumors and false information to instill fear and uncertainty among the Muslim ranks. They also made strategic alliances with neighboring tribes to increase their military strength and intimidate the Muslims.
5. Defeat and Retreat: Despite their initial advantage in numbers and resources, the infidel forces faced setbacks and ultimately suffered defeat at the hands of the Muslims. The ingenious tactics employed by the Muslims, including the digging of a trench around Medina to fortify their defenses, thwarted the enemy's advances and led to the eventual retreat of the infidel coalition. This defeat marked a turning point in the struggle between Islam and its adversaries, demonstrating the resilience and determination of the Muslim community in the face of adversity.
