

ENG524

Mid-Term (Solved)

ABSTRACT

This comprehensive collection of notes is accurately crafted to empower students to excel academically, ensuring they achieve a minimum of 80% marks in their examinations. The content is organized with clarity and precision, focusing on key concepts, critical analyses, and practical applications tailored to the syllabus. These notes serve as a reliable resource for both thorough preparation and last-minute revision. Designed to inspire confidence and mastery, this guide is an essential tool for students striving for academic excellence.

Maha Malik

CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Q. Second Mode of Communication

The second mode of communication refers to written communication, while the first mode is spoken communication. Written communication includes texts such as books, articles, emails, reports, and social media posts. It is usually planned, structured, and permanent, unlike spoken communication which is spontaneous and temporary.

Q. Pragma-Dialectics (Short Note)

Pragma-dialectics is an approach to argumentation analysis developed by van Eemeren and Grootendorst. It studies how people use language to resolve differences of opinion through reasonable discussion. The focus is on identifying fallacies, argument structures, and whether arguments follow the rules of critical discussion.

Q. Discursive Strategy (Applied)

A discursive strategy refers to how language is used deliberately to achieve a social or ideological goal. For example, calling migrants “illegal” instead of “undocumented” is a discursive strategy that shapes public perception negatively. Thus, discursive strategies connect language choices with power, ideology, and intention.

Q. Textual Knowledge vs Primarily Knowledge-Related Critique

Textual (or discourse-immanent) critique focuses on contradictions, gaps, presuppositions, and inconsistencies within the text itself. Primarily knowledge-related critique examines whether the text misrepresents facts, history, or social reality. In exams, this contrast shows how CDA evaluates both internal text structure and external knowledge claims.

Q. Interpretation Stage (Standalone Explanation)

The interpretation stage in Fairclough’s 3D model explains how readers or listeners process and understand a text. It focuses on the relationship between the text and its production and consumption, including cognition, intertextuality, and context. Here, discourse is treated as a discursive practice, not just language.

Q. Contextual Factors in CDA

Contextual factors in CDA include:

- Social and institutional setting
- Power relations
- Ideology
- Historical background

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- Participants' roles and identities

These factors influence how discourse is produced, interpreted, and understood. CDA treats context as dynamic and socially constructed.

Q. Halliday & Webster: Textual Elements (Long Answer)

Halliday and Webster argue that textual meaning organizes language into a coherent and meaningful whole. Textual elements include theme–rheme structure, cohesion, information flow, and text organization. These elements help speakers and writers connect ideas logically and guide readers in interpreting meaning within context.

Q. Bartlett's Research

Bartlett's research focused on memory and reconstruction, showing that people do not recall texts exactly as they are but reshape them according to cultural knowledge and beliefs. In discourse studies, his work highlights how meaning is influenced by social and cultural schemas, not just language.

Q. Five Types to Select Text from a Corpus

Five common ways to select texts from a corpus are:

1. Genre-based selection
2. Topic-based selection
3. Time-based (diachronic) selection
4. Register-based selection
5. Purpose-based selection

These help ensure that corpus data is relevant and representative.

Q. Macgilchrist's Strategies

Macgilchrist identified counter-discursive strategies such as:

- Parody
- Logical inversion
- Complexification
- Partial reframing
- Radical reframing

These strategies challenge dominant discourses by re-presenting social reality differently.

Q. Cameron's Views

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

Deborah Cameron views language as a social practice shaped by power, ideology, and identity. She argues that discourse is not neutral and that linguistic choices reflect gender, politics, and social inequality. Her work connects discourse with everyday social life.

Q. Pragmatics

Pragmatics studies meaning in context. It explains how speakers convey meanings beyond literal words through implicature, presupposition, speech acts, politeness, and inference. Pragmatics is important in CDA because it reveals hidden meanings and ideological assumptions.

Q. Naturalization + Justification

Naturalization presents social actions or events as normal, inevitable, or natural, hiding human agency.

Justification portrays actions as reasonable, necessary, or morally right. Together, they legitimize power and ideology in discourse.

Q. Three Proofs in Rhetoric

According to Aristotle, the three proofs in rhetoric are:

- Ethos – credibility of the speaker
- Pathos – emotional appeal to the audience
- Logos – logical reasoning and evidence

Q. What are the assumptions of discourse analysis?

- a. Language is ambiguous - What things mean is never absolutely clear. All communication involves interpreting what other people mean.
- b. Language is always 'in the world' - what language means is always a matter of where and when it is used and what it is used to do.
- c. The way we use language is inseparable from who we are and the different social groups to which we belong. We use language to display different kinds of social identities.
- d. Language is never used all by itself. It is always combined with other things such as our tone of voice, facial expressions and gestures when we speak, and the fonts, layout and graphics we use in written texts.

Q. What are three important aspects of genres?

- ✚ Genres are communicative events
- ✚ Conventions and Constraints
- ✚ Creativity

Q. What are the aims of CDA?

To help reveal hidden and 'often out of sight' values, positions and perspectives underlying texts (Paltridge, 2008). To unmask the strategies of discriminatory inclusion and exclusion in language in use (Wodak, 1992). The use of discourse in relation to social and cultural issues such as race, gender, politics, identity, ideology, etc.

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS
Mid-Term (Solved)

Q. What are the assumptions of CDA?

Language use is always social. Discourse both reflects and constructs the social world. Discourses 'are always socially, politically, racially and economically loaded'

Q. Name any three scholars of CDA

- ✚ Norman Fairclough
- ✚ Ruth Wodak
- ✚ Teun A. Van Dijk

Q. Name the approaches of CDA

- ✚ Socio-cultural approach
- ✚ Socio-cognitive approach
- ✚ Discourse-historical Approach

Q. How did Fairclough and Wodak summarized the main tenets of CDA? Or What are the main tenets of CDA? OR Who summarized the tenets of CDA?

- ✚ CDA addresses social problems
- ✚ Power relations are discursive
- ✚ Discourse constitutes society and culture
- ✚ Discourse does ideological work
- ✚ Discourse is historical
- ✚ The link between text and society is mediated
- ✚ Discourse analysis is interpretative and explanatory
- ✚ Discourse is a form of social action.
- ✚ Critical discourse analysts take explicit position, and thus want to understand, expose, and ultimately resist social inequality.
- ✚ CDA has a purpose, clear-cut and strong message/ Socially Critical and analytical

Q. What are the general principles of CCDA?

- a) No text is independent of its cultural contexts. Rather than the deconstruction of linguistic structures, CCDA shall aim to uncover the cultural and cross-cultural codes embedded in discourse.
- b) CCDA employs tools and methodologies taken from the discipline of Cultural Studies, such as the heuristic of decoding cultural codes.
- c) Cross-cultural or multi-cultural perspectives facilitate the identification of unique elements of specific cultural codes and thus contribute to the process of decoding them.
- d) Decoding cultural codes demands not only intimate familiarity with a community's language, culture and history, but also special awareness of the idea that "social and historical creation. . . is treated as a natural event or as the inevitable outcome of natural characteristics” (Thompson 1990: 66).

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- e) CCDA demonstrates that as far as the rhetoric of power is concerned, there is no difference between small and large cultural communities

Q. WHAT ARE THE STRATEGIES OF NORMALIZATION?

- ✚ Euphemization – aims to color the social object in positive tones, in terms of its appearance, character, or valuation;
- ✚ Naturalization – aims to represent the social object as a force or event independent of human agency, or as an inevitable outcome of the laws of nature;
- ✚ Justification – aims to depict the social object as just, rational, worthy of support.

Q. Explain any five of the stage programs that DHA follows?

- ✚ Literature review, activation of theoretical knowledge (i.e., recollection, reading, and discussion of previous research);
- ✚ Systematic collection of data and context information (depending on the research questions, various discourses, genres, and texts are focused on);
- ✚ Selection and preparation of data for specific analyses (selection and downsizing of data, etc.);
- ✚ Specification of the research questions and formulation of assumptions (on the basis of the literature review and a first skimming of the data);
- ✚ Qualitative pilot analysis (this allows for testing categories and first assumptions as well as for the further specification of assumptions)

Q. Three dimensions of DHA?

- ✚ Specific contents or topics of a specific discourse are identified;
- ✚ discursive strategies are investigated;
- ✚ linguistic means are examined as types, and the specific, context-dependent linguistic realizations are examined as tokens.

Q. Name the discursive strategies in DHA?

- Nomination
- Predication
- Argumentation
- Perspectivization
- Mitigation and Intensification

Q. What are the theoretical sources that are relevant for the understanding of “critique”?

- ✚ Critical Theory of the first generation

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ The relationship to Foucault can be characterized as a relationship of strong interest with various reservations.
- ✚ Further central points of reference are the later Critical Theory of Jurgen Habermas, his discourse ethics and his theory of deliberative democracy (see Forchtner 2010, 2011).

Q. What are Three forms of critique in the DHA?

- ✚ the text or discourse immanent critique,
- ✚ the socio-diagnostic critique
- ✚ the prospective critique

Q. The Concept of Discourse

- (i) Discourse is socially constituted as well as constitutive semiotic practice. In order to grasp the practical character of discourses, functionally oriented pragmatics is central.
- (ii) (With respect to its socially constitutive character, discourse represents, creates, reproduces and changes social reality.
- (iii) With respect to its semiotic and pragmatic character, a discourse is a communicative and interactional macro-unit that transcends the unit of a single text or conversation.
- (iv) A discourse is composed of specific groups of actual texts, conversations, interactions and other semiotic events as well as action units. These concrete semiotic units are tokens, i.e., singular signs (in Peirce's terms, sinsigns). They serve specific purposes in social contexts, and are produced by somebody, distributed by somebody and received by somebody.
- (v) These actual discursive units relate to specific genres and other semiotic action patterns, i.e., to types (in Peirce's terms, legisigns)

Q. How The Discourse Historical Approach distinguishes among four dimensions of "context"?

- (i) The immediate, language internal co-text and co-discourse regards thematic and syntactic coherences, lexical solidarities, collocations, connotations, implications, presuppositions and local interactive processes.
- (ii) The intertextual and interdiscursive relationship between utterances, texts, genres and discourses (e.g. with respect to discourse representation, allusions, evocations) is a further contextual research dimension.
- (iii) Social factors and institutional frames of a specific context of situation include: Degree of formality, place, time, occasion, addressees, interactive and political roles, political and ideological orientation, gender, age, profession, level of education, ethnic, regional, national, religious identities, etc.

Q. Explain the three stages of Fairclough's 3D model

- ✚ In the first stage description, the text should be described as rigorously and as comprehensively as possible relative to the analytical focus.

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ The focus in the interpretation stage is concerned with the ways to hypothesize the cognition of readers/listeners, how they might mentally interact with the text.
- ✚ In explanation, CDA critically explains connections between texts and discourse circulating in the wider social and cultural context; the 'sociocultural practice'.

Q. What are the speaking mnemonics proposed by Hymes?

- ✚ Setting: Physical or abstract setting (e.g. office service)
- ✚ Participants: Speaker, hearer, overhearer
- ✚ Ends: purpose, goals and outcomes.
- ✚ Act Sequence: form the event taken place, ordering of speech acts, etc.
- ✚ Key: Tone, manner, spirit of the speech acts.

Q. Difference between stance and engagement

Stance is the ways in which writers present themselves and convey their judgements, opinions and commitments to their own and other people's work. In doing this, a writer may either 'intrude to stamp their personal authority onto their arguments, or step back and disguise their involvement'. Engagement is the strategy writers use to acknowledge and recognize the presence of their readers, 'pulling them along with their argument, focusing their attention, acknowledging their uncertainties, including them as discourse participants and guiding them to interpretations

Q. What is multi-modality?

Multimodality refers to the use of multiple modes or forms of communication or representation to convey information. These modes can include visual, auditory, kinesthetic, gestural, linguistic, and spatial elements, among others. In various fields like education, technology, and communication, multimodality acknowledges that individuals perceive and understand information differently. For example, a presentation might include visuals (like slides), spoken words, gestures, and interactive elements to cater to different learning styles and enhance comprehension for a broader audience.

Q. Examples of Multi-modality

- Reading images: The grammar of visual design - Kress (2010)
- Multimodality: A social semiotic approach to contemporary communication - van Leeuwen's (2005).
- Introducing social semiotics - O'Halloran's (2004)
- Multimodal discourse analysis and Painter - Martin and Unsworth's (2012) Reading visual narratives.
- Machin and van Leeuwen (2007) discuss multimodality in relation to global media discourse.

Q. What are the three considerations that must attend to in deciding a sampling policy?

- ✚ The orientation to the language or variety to be sampled.
- ✚ The criteria on which we will choose samples.
- ✚ The nature and dimensions of the samples.

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS
Mid-Term (Solved)

Q. How does Stibbe (2014) defines relationship as questioning the stories that underpin current unsustainable civilization?

- ✚ exposing stories that are clearly not working, that are leading to ecological destruction and social injustice;
- ✚ finding new stories that work better in the conditions of the world that we face”.

Q. five counter discursive strategies considered by Macgilchrist

- ✚ logical inversion: a straight counter to the stated facts. “countering a dominant frame with logical arguments does not work”. It can simply be ignored or disbelieved.
- ✚ parody: a mocking questioning of presupposed knowledge which Macgilchrist considers a form of logical inversion with a limited scope for uptake.
- ✚ complexification: a two-sided account in which aspects of a story that do not fit the dominant frame are not filtered. E.g. very few casual readers get beyond the headlines and first paragraphs if they are not written by expert writers or journalists.
- ✚ partial reframing: in which a mainstream frame may be temporarily countered through the use of alternative frames, i.e. we may not focus on the mainstream view that frames the article.
- ✚ radical reframing: it includes the dialogue not only with other frames as partial framing, but also includes an inversion of the mainstream view of the issue” (Macgilchrist 2007). He considers it a more general phenomenon, applicable to other news media topics or indeed to other forms of social interaction”

Q. The purview of CDA could include the documentation of?

- minority discourses, diasporic voices, texts, and statements that are ‘written out’ and over by dominant institutions.
- emergent discourses of hybrid identity generated by learners [or other marginal groups] counter to dominant pedagogic [and other] discourses;
- idiosyncratic local uptakes, where human subjects take centrally broadcast or dominant texts and discourses and reinterpret, recycle and revoice them in particular ways that serve their local political interests; and this may involve “translating” outside discourses into locally amenable terms
- those micropolitical strategies of interruption, resistance, and counter-discourse undertaken by speakers in face-to-face institutional and interpersonal settings.

Q. How would you explain the letters in SPEAKING?

- ✚ S setting/scene temporal and physical circumstances, subjective definition of an occasion
- ✚ P participant speaker/sender/addressor/ receiver/audience/addressee
- ✚ E ends purposes and goals, outcomes
- ✚ A act sequence message form and content
- ✚ K key tone, manner

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS
Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ I instrumentalities channel (verbal, nonverbal)
- ✚ N norms specific interactional and interpretational properties normally attached to speaking
- ✚ G genre textual categories

Q. Malinowski and Firth proposed a three-part model of context. For them, context consists of?

- ✚ Field: The social action that is taking place.
- ✚ Tenor: The participants, their roles and relationships.
- ✚ Mode: The symbolic or rhetorical channel and the role which language plays in the situation

Q. What does a context may include?

- ✚ Physical context, the social context and the mental worlds and roles of the people involved in the interaction. Social, political and cultural understanding that are relevant to the particular communication. Background knowledge context: cultural and interpersonal knowledge
- ✚ Linguistic context (Co-text). The co-text of a word is the set of other words used in the same phrase or sentence.

Q. Define the three kinds of Acts given by Austin

- ✚ Locutionary Act Literal meanings of the actual words
- ✚ Illocutionary Act Speaker's intention in uttering the words
- ✚ Perlocutionary Act The effect of an utterance on the thoughts or actions of the other person.e.g. 'Bus Driver: This bus won't move until you boys move in out of the doorway' (taken from Paltridge, 2006)

Q. Difference between direct and indirect speech?

Direct speech	Indirect speech
The intended meanings may be quite different from the literal meaning.e.g. 'bring a plate' 'Can I take your order now please?' 'can I have a cheese burger?' 'I'll have two pieces of chicken and a coke'	May be difficult for second language learners e.g. 'This room is a real mess' 'would you mind helping me move this table'
Example: When a specific sentence structure performs its direct function. 'Did you eat the pizza?' Interrogative – Question 'Eat the pizza' (please)! Imperative – Command (Request) 'You ate the pizza.' Declarative – Statement	Example: 'Can you pass the salt?' 'You left the door open

Q. Examples of clause/ sentence level presuppositions

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

Examples of Clause/sentence level Presupposition

Temporal clauses: before X, since X, after X, whenever X, as X, during X, ...

During the War of 1812, the British burned down the White House

>> There was a War of 1812

Cleft sentences: it was X that Y (cleft)

What John ate was chicken burger

>> John ate something

Contrastives: contrastive intonation, too, back, in return; comparative as-clause.

John hit Mary back.

>> Mary hit John.

Q. What are the Piller's (2012: 8) three-way division?

- + Comparative analyses of two or more cultures.
- + Analyses of interactions between speakers from different cultural backgrounds.
- + The discursive creation of culture.

Q. Why CCP is important?

In a world that is getting smaller when people from different societies and cultures interact with greater and greater frequency, a “harmonious” cross-cultural interaction is essential. Power relation in this global interaction.

CCP in Education

Mismatch of interactional norms between home and school in order to empower children to succeed. Possibility of language to have sexual/biased connotation in different cultures. Differences in terms of group power. In the sociolinguistic approach to pragmatics, “culture” is not Culture with a capital C, that is literature, music and art of one speech community or grouping of people. Rather it is culture as a reflection of the values and beliefs about the world, held by the members of a community which form, in effect the substratum of their everyday life.

Q. Three Maxims of Politeness (Lakoff, 1973)

- + ‘Don’t impose’ – ‘I’m sorry to bother you but...’
- + ‘Give options’ – ‘Do you think you could possibly come pick me up’.
- + ‘Make your hearer feel good’ – ‘You’re better at this than me’; ‘Oh that’d be great’.

Q. Difference between face-threatening act and face-saving act

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS
Mid-Term (Solved)

face-threatening act	face-saving act
If you say something that represents a threat to another person's self-image, that is called a face-threatening act. e.g. 'Give me that paper'	'Could you pass me that paper' 'I'm dying for a drink' Yes it's really hot. Isn't it?'

Q. How did Halliday and Webster (2014) illustrate the analysis of texts using?

- ✚ Analysis of the linguistic elements that express experience of the world and of our own consciousness. They used Process, and Participant and Circumstances analysis which are the main components of the transitivity system enable us to organize, represent and understand our perceptions of the world. They form what is known as the ideational component.
- ✚ Analysis of the linguistic elements that express roles, attitudes, demands and social & personal relations including mood, modality, appraisal, politeness. This interpersonal component is seen as 'acting out social relationships'.
- ✚ Analysis of the linguistic elements that serve to construct cohesive and coherent chunks of language in use including means of reference, rhetorical structure theory and thematic structure. This is known as the textual component.

Q. SFL tools include

- ✚ Statistical comparison techniques
- ✚ Comparisons of lexical density and frequency
- ✚ Rhetorical Structure Theory
- ✚ Corpus linguistics

Q. How metaphor is seen as a cognitive process?

Metaphor is seen as a cognitive process that involves conceptualizing one thing in terms of another. The metaphorical expressions found in language are, therefore, deemed to be the realizations of the kinds of concepts held at the cognitive level. Metaphor, in this regard, is at once a process of the mind and its signification in the form of linguistic or semiotic realizations. Our ordinary conceptual system, in terms of thinking and acting is fundamentally metaphorical in nature. Thus, metaphor exists in our thinking, and expressed unconsciously in text and talk.

Q. Discuss five "estates" of research suggested by the Grootendorst.

- ✚ In the philosophical estate, the concept of "reasonableness" has to be clarified, because it is fundamental to all argumentation theories and provides them with a philosophical basis.
- ✚ In the theoretical estate, a theory is derived from the philosophical premises. In the case of Pragma Dialectics, the theory regards each argumentation as a critical discussion between parties who try to resolve a difference of opinion by testing the acceptability of the standpoints concerned" (van Eemeren and Grootendorst 2004).
- ✚ In the analytical estate, the systematic application of "reconstruction transformations" (deletion, addition, substitution, permutation) helps to reconstruct the argumentative structure of a given text, by deleting speech acts which are not relevant for the resolution of a conflict of opinion (e.g., greetings). Or by adding relevant material that has been left implicit (e.g., premises), by substituting confusingly ambiguous expressions by unequivocal formulations, for example, rhetorical questions by statements.

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ In the empirical estate, qualitative research is carried out in order to show how argumentative moves e.g. the expression of standpoints, arguments and doubt and argument structure (complex argumentation) can be reconstructed on the basis of different types of argumentative indicators i.e. connectives, particles, adverbs, verbs (Snoeck Henkemans 2007).
- ✚ In the practical estate, Pragma-Dialecticians try to enhance argumentative competence by furthering reflection about argumentation by making its results accessible to a wider public.

Q. What are the three areas where CDS being deployed in applied linguistics givrn by Lin (2014)

- ✚ studies of textbooks and school curricula,
- ✚ school leadership and student identities
- ✚ public-media discourse.

Q. CDA from a historiographical approach needs to?

- ✚ contextualize representations of the past in social practices locate the context of production of historical discourse.
- ✚ investigate the context of reception of discourse about the past.
- ✚ explore varying scales and indexical meanings of discourses about the past.
- ✚ consider claims to legitimacy, valuing and social distribution of discourse about the past.

Q. What is Macro versus Micro?

Fairclough mentions macro domain of discourse, i.e. political talk, government policies while, keeps discourse at place work in micro-domain. He has used a term “technologization of discourse” as top-down intervention to change discursive within orders of discourse, i.e. from politics (macro) to ‘work place (micro)’. Fairclough has argued that the link between sociocultural practice and the other two dimensions involves the integration of ‘macro’ and ‘micro’ analysis of discursive events, where the former includes analysis of discourse technologization processes (Fairclough, 1995). On one side, no instance of discursive practice can be interpreted without reference to its context; On the other hand, ‘macro’ phenomena such as technologization of discourse cannot be properly analyzed without the evidence of their actual effects on practice, which comes from analysis of discursive events. Specifically, he considers the role of discourse in a range of major contemporary cultural changes which have been thematized in recent sociological analysis: shifts towards ‘post traditional’ forms of social life, more reflexive forms of social life, and a ‘promotional culture’

Q. Explain briefly about public discourse

- ✚ Its interdisciplinarity and, especially, historical alignment
- ✚ Teamwork

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ Triangulation of data, theories, as well as methods
- ✚ The attempt to practically apply the findings

Q. Three main principles of CDA

- ✚ CDA examines the relationship between discourse and social structures.
- ✚ It is problem-oriented and focuses on social issues.
- ✚ It considers discourse as a form of social action.

Q. Three approaches of CDA

- ✚ Norman Fairclough's three-dimensional model.
- ✚ Ruth Wodak's Discourse-Historical Approach (DHA).
- ✚ Teun van Dijk's Sociocognitive Approach.

Q. Strategies of CDA

- ✚ Nomination (naming and referring strategies).
- ✚ Predication (assigning qualities).
- ✚ Argumentation (justifying claims).

Q. Tenets of CDA

- ✚ Language is not neutral; it reflects ideology.
- ✚ Power relations are discursive.
- ✚ Discourse is shaped by social structures and vice versa.

Q. Three forms of critique in DHA

- ✚ Imminent critique.
- ✚ Socio-diagnostic critique.
- ✚ Prognostic critique.

Q. Key elements of an accessed text in imminent critique

- ✚ Identifying contradictions within the discourse.
- ✚ Evaluating inconsistencies.
- ✚ Revealing implicit ideologies.

Q. Definition of "design" by Kress

"Design" refers to how meaning is structured and conveyed in multimodal texts, emphasizing choices in communication.

Q. Objections to SFL in CDA by Van Dijk and Blommaert

- ✚ Van Dijk argues SFL focuses too much on structure rather than cognition.
- ✚ Blommaert critiques its overemphasis on grammatical features.

Q. Fairclough's criticisms of pragmatics

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ Pragmatics underestimates the role of power in discourse.
- ✚ It lacks a clear focus on social structures.

Q. Purpose of Positive Discourse Analysis (PDA)

PDA focuses on how discourse can contribute to positive social change rather than just critique.

Q. Definition of typification according to Millany

Typification refers to how social actors create categories based on shared understandings.

Q. Role of HEC in ELT

Higher Education Commission (HEC) ensures quality and standardization in English Language Teaching (ELT).

Q. Three SFL tools for text analysis

- ✚ Transitivity analysis.
- ✚ Thematic analysis.
- ✚ Modality analysis.

Q. Three meta-functions of SFL

- ✚ Ideational (representing experience).
- ✚ Interpersonal (enacting relationships).
- ✚ Textual (structuring messages).

Q. Objections to SFL in CDA

- ✚ It is too focused on linguistic structure.
- ✚ It does not sufficiently address cognitive and social aspects.

Q. Role of SFL in discourse analysis

Helps analyze how language constructs meaning in different contexts.

Q. Definition of corpus linguistics

The study of language through large, structured text collections (corpora).

Q. How to select text from a corpus?

Based on research objectives, sampling methods, and representativeness.

Q. Five types of corpora

- ✚ General corpus.
- ✚ Specialized corpus.
- ✚ Parallel corpus.
- ✚ Learner corpus.
- ✚ Historical corpus.

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

Q. What is Corpus-Assisted Discourse Studies (CADS)?

CADS is an approach that combines corpus linguistics and discourse analysis to study large textual datasets systematically. It helps uncover patterns, ideological structures, and social meanings in discourse.

Q. What are the three kinds of domain-process corpus?

The three kinds are

- ✚ General corpus (broad language use).
- ✚ Specialized corpus (specific domain focus).
- ✚ Monitor corpus (tracks language change over time).

Q. What are the three aspects of genre?

- ✚ Field (what the text is about).
- ✚ Tenor (social relationships in the text).
- ✚ Mode (the form of communication, e.g., spoken or written).

Q. Write a note on genre-based teaching.

Genre-based teaching focuses on how texts function in specific social contexts. It helps learners understand the structure and purpose of different genres, improving their communication skills.

Q. What is the navigation structure of written text?

The navigation structure refers to how texts guide readers through information using headings, subheadings, bullet points, and logical organization.

Q. What is the importance of genre analysis?

- ✚ Helps in understanding text structures and conventions.
- ✚ Supports effective communication.
- ✚ Aids in language learning and professional writing.

Q. What are the major points of conversational analysis?

- ✚ Turn-taking mechanisms.
- ✚ Sequence organization.
- ✚ Repair mechanisms (fixing misunderstandings).

Q. Define pragmatic argument.

A pragmatic argument focuses on the practical consequences of statements rather than their truth value.

Q. Differentiate between conventional and particularized implicatures.

- ✚ Conventional implicatures are meaning elements inherent to specific words or expressions.

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ Particularized implicatures depend on the specific context of communication.

Q. Define context.

Context refers to the situational, social, and cultural background that influences meaning in communication.

Q. What is inter-meta-discourse?

Inter-meta-discourse involves self-referential comments within discourse that guide interpretation and interaction.

Q. What is existential presupposition?

Existential presupposition assumes the existence of something as a prerequisite for a statement to make sense.

Q. Define presupposition.

Presupposition refers to implicit assumptions that must be true for a statement to be meaningful.

Q. What are discursive strategies? (3-4 lines)

Discursive strategies are techniques used in discourse to achieve communicative goals. They include framing, metaphors, and rhetorical devices to influence interpretation.

Q. What is the quantity maxim? Explain in 2-3 lines.

The quantity maxim, from Grice's conversational maxims, states that speakers should provide as much information as needed but not more than required.

Q. What are Jewitt's four assumptions?

- ✚ Meaning is multimodal.
- ✚ Social context influences representation.
- ✚ Visuals are as important as language.
- ✚ Communication is dynamic and context-dependent.

Q. What is multimodal discourse analysis (MMDA)?

MMDA examines how multiple modes of communication (text, images, gestures, etc.) work together in meaning-making.

Q. Give five examples of MMDA.

- ✚ Advertising analysis.
- ✚ Classroom interaction analysis.
- ✚ News media discourse.
- ✚ Political campaign studies.
- ✚ Digital communication analysis.

Q. What are the three general principles of the Cultural Approach in CDA?

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ Culture shapes discourse.
- ✚ Power relations are embedded in cultural texts.
- ✚ Discourse analysis must consider historical and social contexts.

Q. How is an image schema developed?

Image schemas develop through repeated experiences, shaping our cognitive understanding of spatial and conceptual relationships.

Q. Define image schema.

An image schema is a recurring cognitive pattern derived from sensory and bodily experiences, helping in conceptual understanding.

Q. What are the speaking mnemonics proposed by Hymes?

Hymes proposed the SPEAKING mnemonic

- ✚ S - Setting and Scene
- ✚ P - Participants
- ✚ E - Ends (goals)
- ✚ A - Act sequence
- ✚ K - Key (tone/mood)
- ✚ I - Instrumentalities (form of speech)
- ✚ N - Norms
- ✚ G - Genre

Q. What is the Silent Method in language teaching?

A method where the teacher speaks as little as possible, using visual aids and gestures to encourage student learning.

Q. What is the Direct Method in language teaching?

A teaching approach that emphasizes speaking and listening, avoiding translation, and focusing on immersion in the target language.

Q. What are the general principles of CCDA (Critical Cultural Discourse Analysis)?

- ✚ Discourse is shaped by cultural practices.
- ✚ Power and ideology are embedded in discourse.
- ✚ Historical and social contexts influence meaning.

Q. What is the significance of CCP (Cognitive-Critical Pragmatics)?

CCP integrates cognitive linguistics with critical discourse analysis to examine how meanings are constructed and understood.

Q. What is the difference between socio-diagnostic critique and prospective critique?

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

- ✚ Socio-diagnostic critique analyzes how discourse reflects and reinforces social inequalities.
- ✚ Prospective critique suggests ways discourse can be changed for positive social impact.

Q. What are two objections of DHA?

- ✚ Overemphasis on historical context.
- ✚ Complexity in methodological application.

Q. Define positive politeness.

Positive politeness strategies aim to build rapport by expressing friendliness, appreciation, and solidarity in communication.

Q. What is the difference between discourse and text?

- ✚ Text refers to written or spoken language as a structured unit.
- ✚ Discourse includes the broader context, meaning, and interaction beyond the text itself.

Q. Define linguistic competence.

Linguistic competence is the subconscious knowledge of a language, including grammar, syntax, and vocabulary.

Q. What are the four assumptions of discourse analysis?

- ✚ Language is structured and systematic.
- ✚ Meaning depends on context.
- ✚ Discourse reflects social structures.
- ✚ Discourse is both a product and a process.

Q. What is the aim of positive discourse analysis?

To highlight constructive and empowering aspects of discourse rather than just critiquing power and dominance.

Q. What is "face" in politeness theory?

"Face" refers to an individual's self-image in social interactions, which politeness strategies help maintain.

Q. What is impersonalization in discourse?

A strategy used to remove personal agency from statements, often to shift responsibility or create neutrality.

Q. Why is CCP important in discourse studies?

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS

Mid-Term (Solved)

It helps bridge cognitive and critical perspectives to analyze how discourse shapes perception and ideology.

Q. Explain Fairclough's 3D model of discourse analysis.

- ✚ Text analysis (description) – Examines linguistic features.
- ✚ Discursive practice (interpretation) – Explores how text is produced and consumed.
- ✚ Social practice (explanation) – Analyzes broader societal influences on discourse.

Q. What are Malinowski and Firth's three-part models of context?

- ✚ Field – What is happening.
- ✚ Tenor – Participants and their relationships.
- ✚ Mode – How communication takes place.

Q. What are the three modes of communication?

- ✚ Interpersonal (social interaction).
- ✚ Interpretive (understanding and analysis).
- ✚ Presentational (expressive or performative communication).

Q. What is Cameron's contribution to discourse studies?

Cameron emphasized gender, identity, and power relations in discourse analysis.

Q. What does CARS stand for in research?

CARS (Create a Research Space) Model

- ✚ Establishing a research niche.
- ✚ Reviewing existing studies.
- ✚ Presenting new contributions.

Q. Explain the technologization of discourse.

The process where discourse is shaped by technological advancements, such as digital communication and automation.

Q. What are the criteria for selecting text from a corpus?

- ✚ Relevance to research objectives.
- ✚ Representativeness of language use.
- ✚ Sampling methods (random, stratified, etc.).

Q. Select the true and False Statements from the following Tenets of CDA:

1. CDA addresses social problems (True)
2. Power relations are discursive (True)
3. Discourse constitutes society and culture (True)
4. Discourse does ideological work (True)
5. Discourse is historical (True)

ENG524_CRITICAL DISCOURSE ANALYSIS
Mid-Term (Solved)

6. The link between text and society is mediated (True)
7. Discourse analysis is interpretative and explanatory (True)
8. Discourse is a form of social action. (True)
9. Critical discourse analysts take explicit position, and thus want to understand, expose, and ultimately resist social inequality. (True)
10. CDA has a purpose, clear-cut and strong message/ Socially Critical and analytical. (True)

B.Ed. \(1.5 Years\)

BS English

Files

