

ENG516

Final-Term (✨✨✨✨✨✨)

ABSTRACT

This comprehensive collection of notes is accurately crafted to empower students to excel academically, ensuring they achieve a minimum of 80% marks in their examinations. The content is organized with clarity and precision, focusing on key concepts, critical analyses, and practical applications tailored to the syllabus. These notes serve as a reliable resource for both thorough preparation and last-minute revision. Designed to inspire confidence and mastery, this guide is an essential tool for students striving for academic excellence.

Maha Malik
Teaching of Business Communication

ENG516_Teaching of Business Communication
Final-Term (✨✨✨✨✨)

Q. Types of communication
Ans: Communication has three main types: verbal (spoken words), non-verbal (gestures, facial expressions, body language), and written (letters, emails, reports).

Q. Importance of communication in business
Ans: Business communication ensures coordination, decision-making, leadership, negotiation, documentation, and professional relationships.

Q. Multicultural communication challenges & solutions
Ans: Challenges include cultural bias, humor misunderstanding, symbols, turn-taking, and silence. These are managed by cultural awareness, avoiding stereotypes, using simple language, and respecting norms.

Q. High-context vs low-context cultures
Ans: High-context cultures rely on implicit meaning and shared understanding (Asian cultures). Low-context cultures prefer direct and explicit communication (Western cultures).

Q. Silence in different cultures
Ans: In some cultures silence shows respect and reflection, while in others it is seen as awkward or communication failure.

Q. Universalism vs particularism
Ans: Universalism follows fixed rules; particularism adapts rules based on situations and relationships.

Q. Masculine vs feminine cultures
Ans: Masculine cultures value achievement and competition; feminine cultures value relationships and quality of life.

Q. Ethnocentrism (3 elements)
Ans: Essentialism, universality, and hegemonic views where dominant culture is considered superior.

Q. Types of reports
Ans: Informational (facts only), Analytical (analysis and conclusions), Recommendation (suggest actions).

Q. Components of a long report
Ans: Front matter (title, abstract), main text (introduction, discussion), back matter (appendices, references).

Q. Difference between short and long reports
Ans: Short reports are informal and brief (1–5 pages). Long reports are formal, detailed, and research-based.

Maha Malik's Compilation

ENG516_Teaching of Business Communication
Final-Term (✨✨✨✨✨)

Q. IMRD model
Ans: Introduction, Methods, Results, Discussion—used in research writing.

Q. Title page of report
Ans: Report title, writer's name, organization, and submission date.

Q. Memo and its importance
Ans: A memo is an internal document for official communication. It is concise, structured, and suitable for record-keeping.

Q. Email advantages & limitations
Ans: Emails are fast and cheap but less formal and easily ignored. Not suitable for contracts.

Q. Full block letter format
Ans: All text aligned to left margin; subject line included; no indentation.

Q. Types of business letters
Ans: Inquiry, complaint, sales, follow-up, acceptance letters.

Q. Types of resumes
Ans: Chronological, functional, and combination resumes.

Q. Functional resume
Ans: Focuses on skills rather than job history; used by non-traditional applicants.

Q. Reverse chronological resume
Ans: Lists recent experience first; most commonly used format.

Q. Internal vs external proposals
Ans: Internal proposals address management; external proposals target clients or stakeholders.

Q. Formative vs summative assessment
Ans: Formative improves learning during a course; summative evaluates learning at the end.

Q. Task-based assessment
Ans: Assesses real-life language use through authentic tasks.

Q. Washback effect
Ans: Impact of testing on teaching and learning; beneficial washback aligns tests with objectives.

Q. Types of rubrics
Ans: Non-weighted, weighted, and holistic rubrics.

Q. Distance education
Ans: Learning where teacher and learner are separated by time or place using technology.

Maha Malik's Compilation

ENG516_Teaching of Business Communication
Final-Term (✨✨✨✨✨)

Q. Advantages of distance learning
Ans: Flexibility, cost-effectiveness, accessibility, self-paced learning.

Q. Disadvantages of distance learning
Ans: Limited interaction, technical issues, learner isolation.

Q. Role of teacher in distance education
Ans: Guidance, feedback, motivation, and material design.

Q. E-learning features
Ans: Multimedia use, accessibility, interactivity, personalized learning.

Q. Telephoning
Ans: Voice communication over distance; important for immediate interaction.

Q. Radiotelephony (aviation)
Ans: Specialized English used between pilots and air traffic controllers for safety.

Q. Cognitive workload factors in aviation (any 3)
Ans: Information load, prosodic features, code-switching, hierarchy, politeness markers.

Q. PPP method
Ans: Presentation, Practice, Production—traditional language teaching model.

Q. Silent Way method
Ans: Encourages learner autonomy with minimal teacher talk.

Q. Teaching Business English (5 points)
Ans: Needs analysis, relevant materials, flexibility, real contexts, learner goals.

Q. Web quest
Ans: Inquiry-based activity using online resources.

Q. CAT & CBT
Ans: Computer Adaptive Testing; Computer-Based Testing.

Q. Three Ps of marketing
Ans: Product, Price, Place.

Q. Language policy obstacles
Ans: Resistance, efficiency loss, lack of employee buy-in.

Q. Recommendation letter
Ans: Written to support an individual for job, promotion, or scholarship.