ENG519 Final paper 09 Feb 2026

MCQs:

1) An effective workshop has clear goals, and involves new content, and its presentation encourages the involvement of the participants.

2) participants should always keep their own learners in mind. This will ensure that the material is appropriate and consistent.

3) models and guidelines that are based on theoretical or empirical research findings to guide teachers and teacher trainers towards pedagogically sound practices.

4) competencies which are further classified into standards. The standards are composed of benchmarks which are to be attained in different developmental levels.

5) Fluency development activities should involve easy material that the learners are already familiar with.

6) reliability and validity must be given prominence in deciding the means of evaluation.

7) working with the activity can be termed "experimental" teaching to stress its newness and therefore tolerance of initial problems.

8) Pakistani mainstream educational system still severely lacks critical thinking because of conservative teaching and learning methodologies in classroom.

9) The study of curriculum design requires the integration of knowledge from a number of fields.

Done by Nimra Malik

10) Clarke (1989) suggests that some of the work of short-term achievement testing can be handed over to the learners.

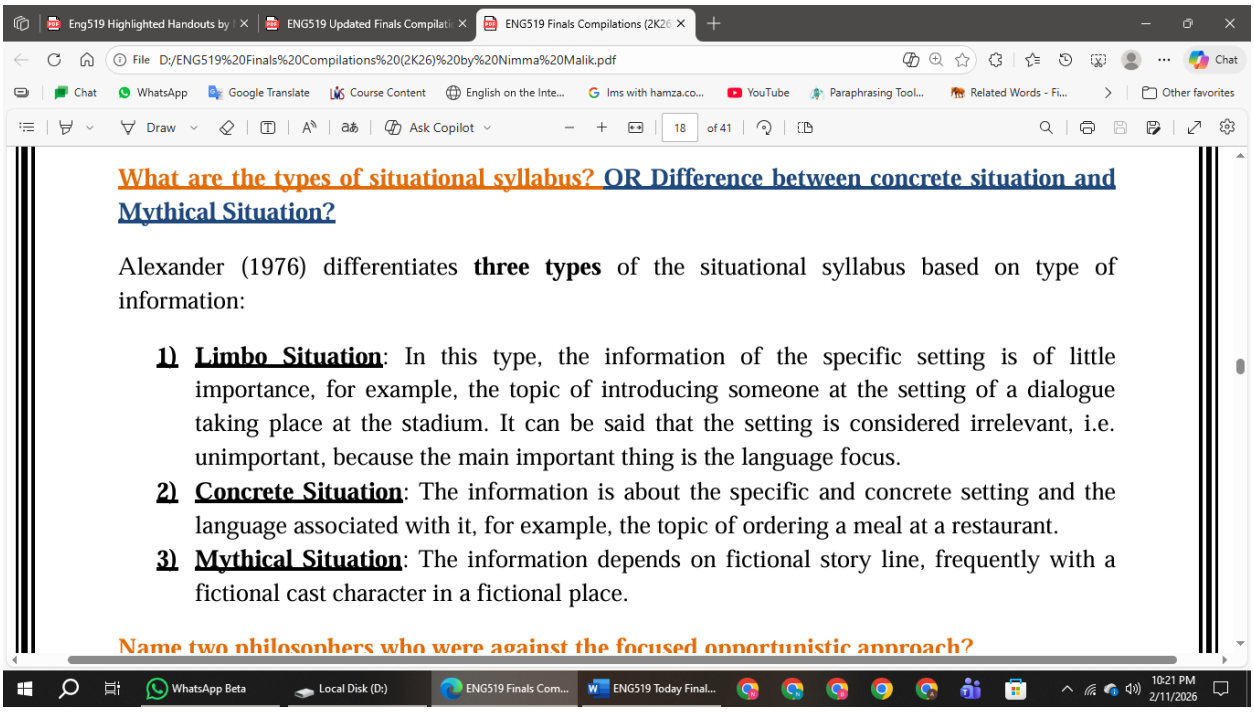

11) "Approaching a language through skills is based on the belief that learning is a complex activity such as " listening to a lecture"

12) [These 11 MCQs came from handouts and remaining MCQs are from my (ENG519 Finals Compilations 2K26 by Nimma Malik) so check that file]

Subjective:

Short Questions:

ENG519 Final paper 09 Feb 2026

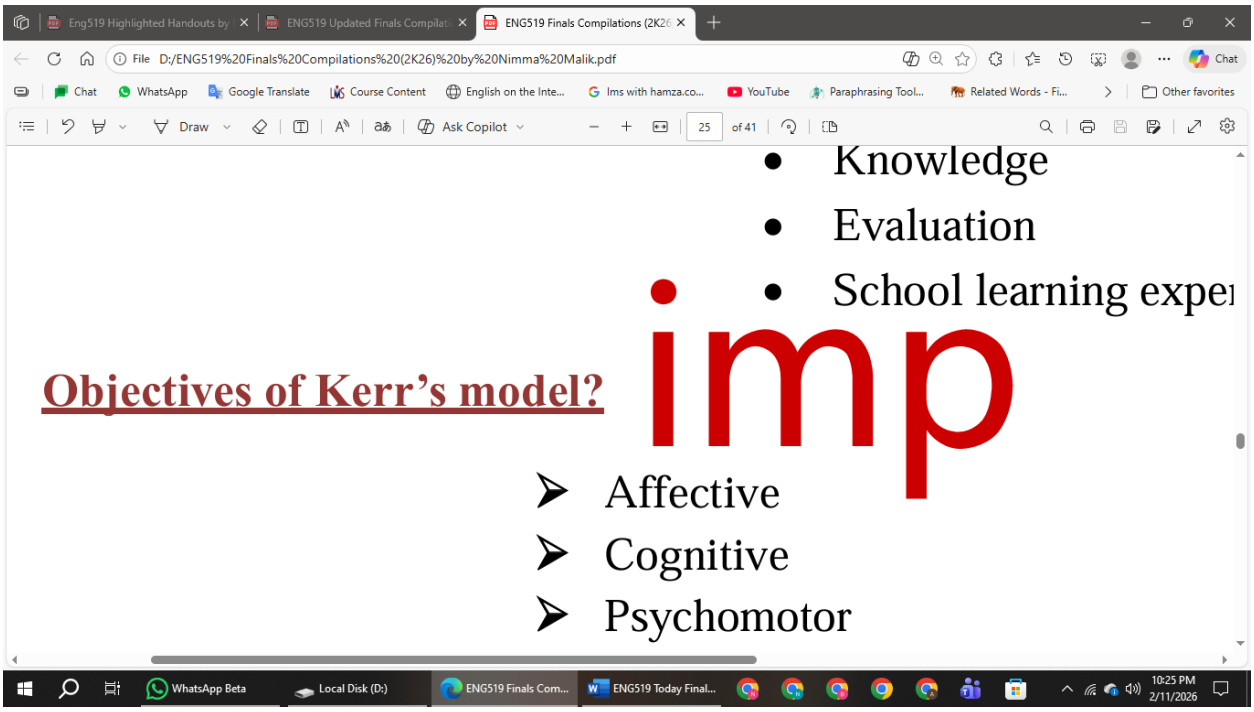

What are the types of situational syllabus? OR Difference between concrete situation and Mythical Situation?

Alexander (1976) differentiates three types of the situational syllabus based on type of information:

1) Limbo Situation: In this type, the information of the specific setting is of little importance, for example, the topic of introducing someone at the setting of a dialogue taking place at the stadium. It can be said that the setting is considered irrelevant, i.e. unimportant, because the main important thing is the language focus.
2) Concrete Situation: The information is about the specific and concrete setting and the language associated with it, for example, the topic of ordering a meal at a restaurant.
3) Mythical Situation: The information depends on fictional story line, frequently with a fictional cast character in a fictional place.

Name two philosophers who were against the focused opportunistic approach?

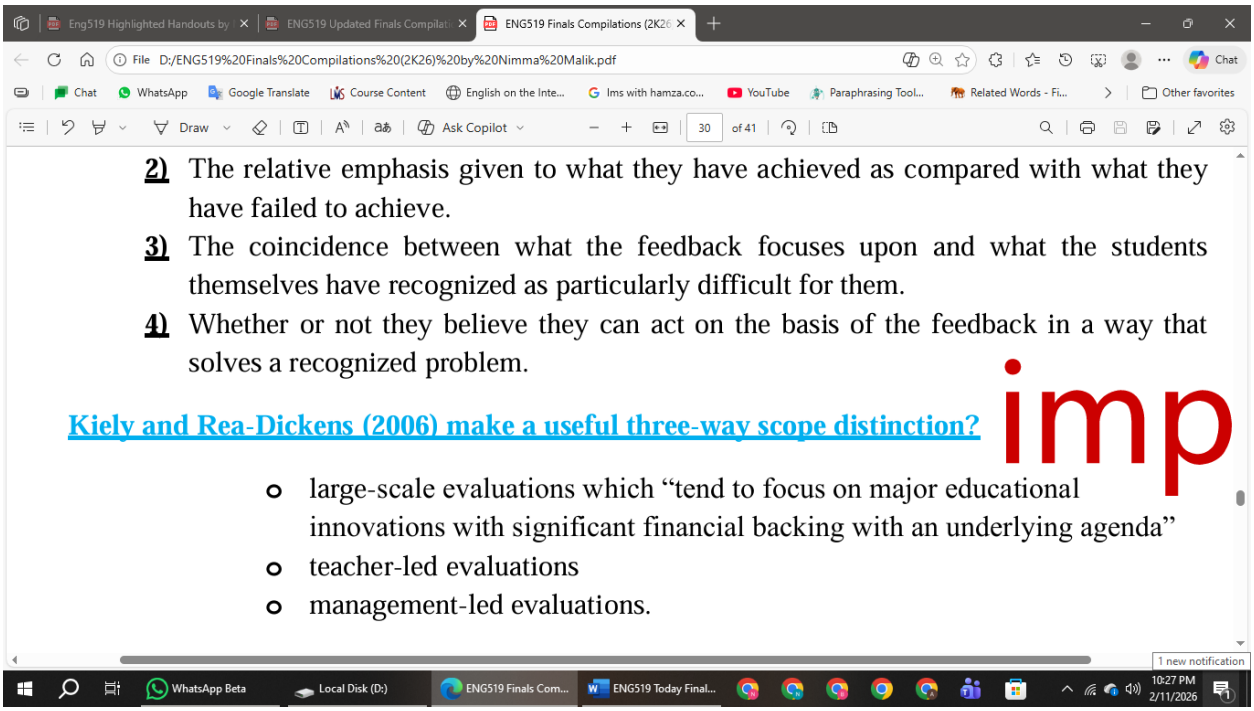

- Knowledge
- Evaluation
- School learning expe

Objectives of Kerr's model?

imp

- Affective
- Cognitive
- Psychomotor

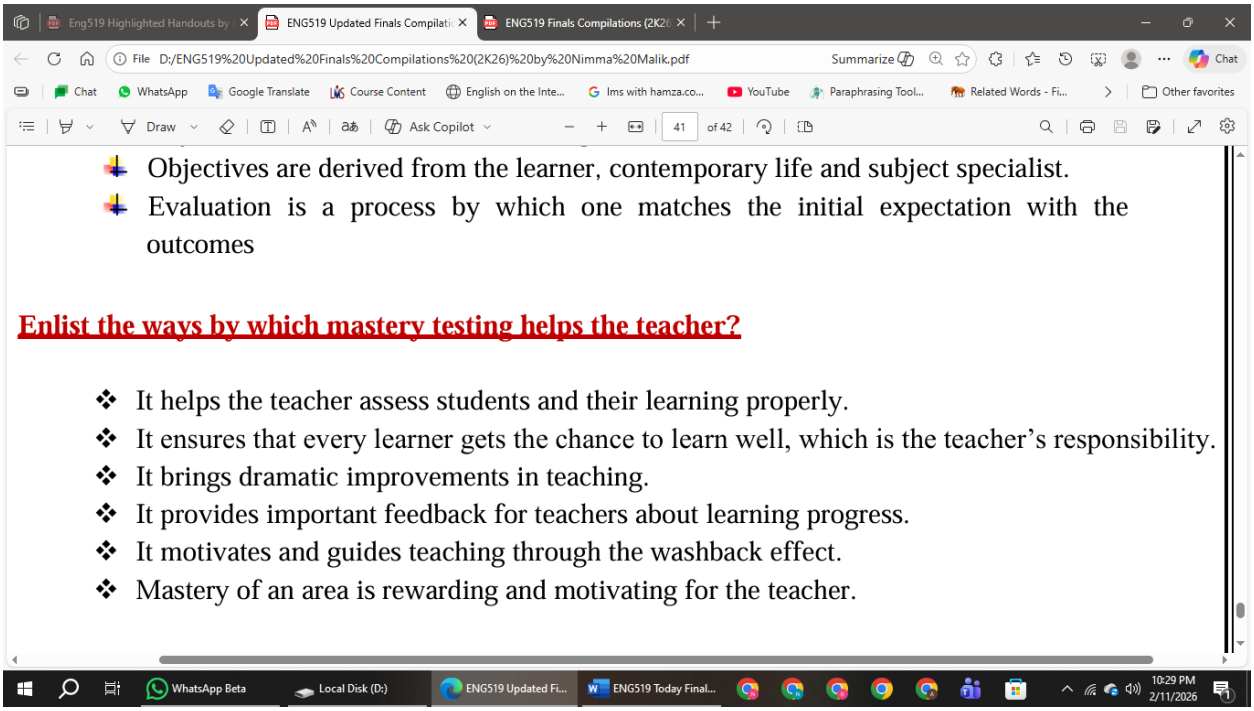

ENG519 Final paper 09 Feb 2026

2) The relative emphasis given to what they have achieved as compared with what they have failed to achieve.
3) The coincidence between what the feedback focuses upon and what the students themselves have recognized as particularly difficult for them.
4) Whether or not they believe they can act on the basis of the feedback in a way that solves a recognized problem.

Kiely and Rea-Dickens (2006) make a useful three-way scope distinction? imp

- large-scale evaluations which "tend to focus on major educational innovations with significant financial backing with an underlying agenda"
- teacher-led evaluations
- management-led evaluations.

- Objectives are derived from the learner, contemporary life and subject specialist.
- Evaluation is a process by which one matches the initial expectation with the outcomes

Enlist the ways by which mastery testing helps the teacher?

- It helps the teacher assess students and their learning properly.
- It ensures that every learner gets the chance to learn well, which is the teacher's responsibility.
- It brings dramatic improvements in teaching.
- It provides important feedback for teachers about learning progress.
- It motivates and guides teaching through the washback effect.
- Mastery of an area is rewarding and motivating for the teacher.

ENG519 Final paper 09 Feb 2026

Long Questions:

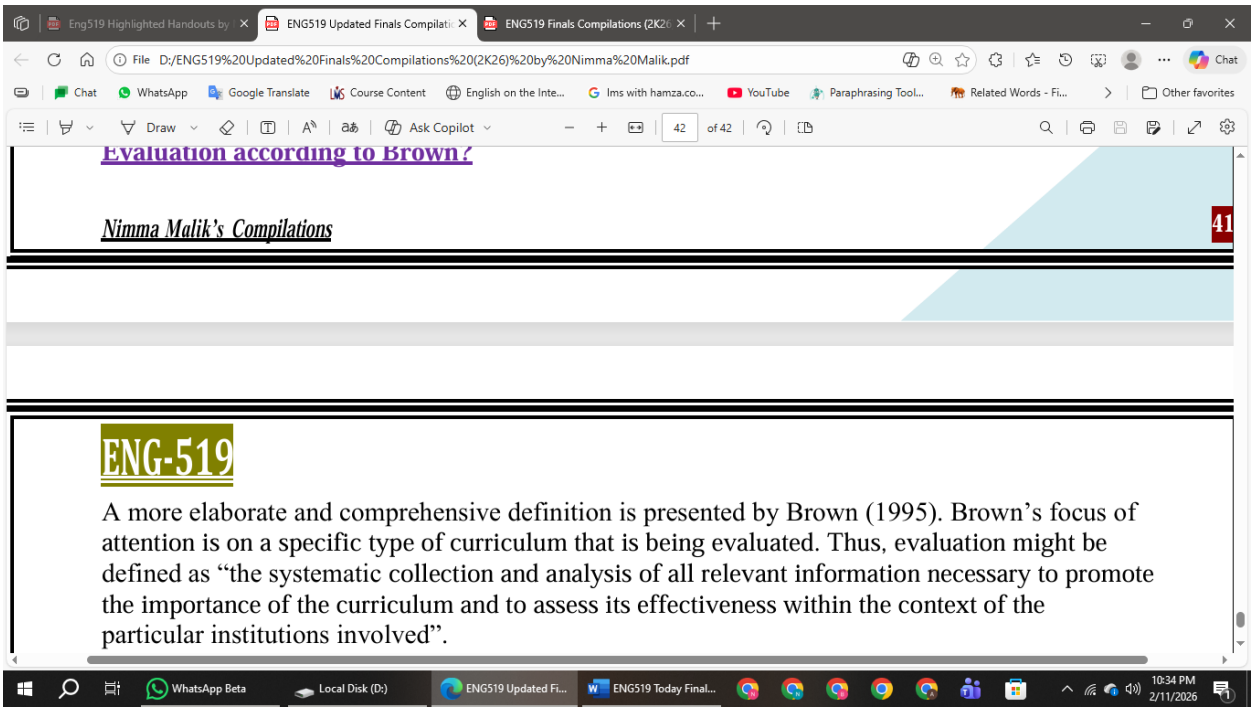

Q#02: Explain Evaluation according to

a) "Brown (1995)" and

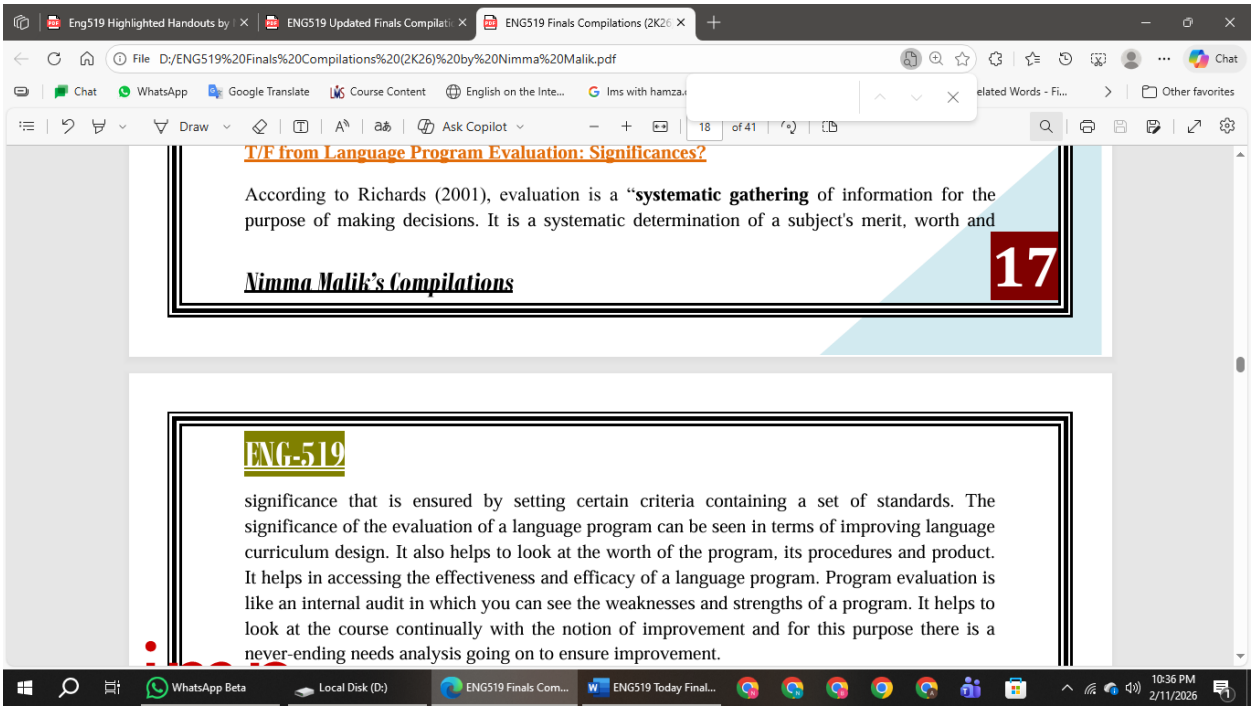

b) "Richards (2001)"?

Done by Nimma Malik

ENG519 Final paper 09 Feb 2026

B) Answer

Done by Nimma Malik

ENG519 Final paper 09 Feb 2026

Q#03: Pick up the correct statement according to the concept of Subject-Centered Design?

A) strong links with experiential learning, humanistic psychology and task-based language teaching.
B) Teachers are told what and how to teach.
C) the main focus is on curriculum development.
D) curriculum will contain similar elements to those contained in traditional curriculum development, that is, planning (including needs analysis, goal and objective setting),
E) learners need to be systematically taught.

Answer:

B) and C) Statements are related to the concept of Subject-centered Design.

Remember me in your kind and precious prayers.

Done by Nimma Malik