Lesson-21

SOCIAL STRATIFICATION

Topic-112: Social Stratification

What is social stratification?

Social stratification is a system of classifying people into groups based on their wealth, status, and power.

Topic-113: Slavery System

What is the slavery system?

Slavery is when some people own other people.

What were the causes of slavery?

Debt, crime, and war were typical causes of slavery.

How was slavery practiced in ancient Greece and Rome?

Slaves in Greece and Rome performed labor, freeing others for politics and the arts.

Topic-114: Caste System

Define the caste system.

The caste system is a form of social stratification where status is assigned at birth and is permanent.

What is an example of a caste system?

India's caste system, based on religion, is a prominent example.

What practices maintain caste boundaries?

Vulhelpers24 Sir Zahid

Caste systems often forbid intermarriage and practice endogamy to maintain clear boundaries.

Topic-115: Status System

What is the basis of the status system?

The status system is based on differences in social prestige related to factors like work, education, and lifestyle.

How is social mobility associated with the status system?

Social mobility, the ability to move up or down the social ladder, is often associated with the status system.

Topic-116: Estate System

Describe the estate system in medieval Europe.

The estate system in medieval Europe had three groups: nobles, clergy, and ordinary people.

How did primogeniture work in the estate system?

Primogeniture allowed only firstborn sons to inherit land, preventing division of large land holdings.

General

What distinguishes the class system from other stratification structures?

The class system is more flexible, based on money, allowing for social mobility and interclass marriage.

How does the class system affect social mobility?

The class system allows individuals to alter their social class based on their successes or failures in life.

Lesson-22

THEORETICAL PERSPECTIVES ON SOCIAL STRATIFICATION-I

Topic-117: Theoretical Perspectives on Stratification: Functionalism

According to functionalism, why do patterns of behavior that characterize a society exist?

Patterns of behavior exist because they are functional for that society.

What conclusion did Davis and Moore come to regarding social stratification?

They concluded that social stratification is inevitable.

According to functionalists, why are more demanding and accountable jobs rewarded with greater benefits?

To encourage the better qualified individuals to fill these roles.

Topic-118: Theoretical Perspectives on Stratification: Conflict Theory

How do conflict theorists view the origin of social stratification?

Social stratification results from conflict rather than practical purposes.

According to Karl Marx, why do those in positions of authority claim superiority?

To support their position at the top and maintain control over the oppressed.

How do conflict theorists view conflict within society, contrary to functionalists?

Conflict theorists argue that conflict is barely contained beneath the surface of seemingly peaceful societies.

Topic-119: Theoretical Perspectives on Stratification: Symbolic Interactionism

What do interactionists emphasize in terms of social classes?

They emphasize the use of symbols, language, and lifestyles to set social classes apart.

According to Thorsten Veblen, how do individuals at the top of the social hierarchy demonstrate rank?

Through ostentatious consumption and conspicuous leisure.

How do nonverbal cues contribute to social barriers, according to interactionists?

Nonverbal cues such as body language and posture discriminate across social classes.

Topic-120: Theoretical Perspectives on Stratification: Feminism

What does feminist theory emphasize in relation to social stratification?

It emphasizes how patriarchy and gender inequality fuel social inequality and injustice.

According to feminist theory, how are social class and gender connected?

Social class and gender are connected, and women often face double oppression due to both factors.

What do feminist viewpoints on stratification in Pakistan often highlight?

They highlight ways in which women are oppressed and excluded from significant social, economic, and political realms.

Topic-121: What Determines Social Class? Max Weber: Property, Power and Prestige

According to Max Weber, what are the three components that make up social class?

Property, power, and prestige.

How did Weber view the relationship between property and social position?

Having property has a substantial impact on a person's social position.

What did Karl Marx emphasize as the primary determinant of social class?

Marx emphasized a person's relationship to the means of production as the primary determinant of social class.

Lesson-23

THEORETICAL PERSPECTIVES ON SOCIAL STRATIFICATION -II

Topic-122: Theories of Global Stratification: Modernization Theory

What is the main emphasis of modernization theory?

Answer: The critical role of technology in national development.

How does modernization theory explain variations in the conditions of rich and poor countries?

It attributes variations to the support of advanced industrial nations and technology.

What factors were often cited as obstacles to development in low-income nations, according to modernization theory?

Answer: Internal issues such as terrain, poor soil, political corruption, and traditional institutions.

Has modernization theory faced criticisms, and if so, what are they?

Answer: Yes, critics argue that Western values are not the only route to success, and some traditional values can also contribute to economic growth.

Topic-123: Dependency Theory

What does dependency theory argue about the relationship between wealthy and developing nations?

Answer: It argues that wealthy nations create dependencies through resources like foreign aid, military aid, and educational support.

What are the three prevalent categories of reliance in dependency theory?

Answer: Trade, industrial, and investment dependencies.

How does trade dependency perpetuate global stratification?

Answer: Industrial nations buy raw materials at low prices, process them, and sell finished goods to developing countries at higher prices.

Topic-124: World System Theory

According to world system theory, what are the four groups of nations resulting from industrialization?

Answer: Core nations, semi-periphery, periphery, and external area.

How did industrialization change the relationships among these groups?

Answer: It brought Eastern Europe and Asia into capitalism, no longer leaving them out.

Topic-125: Neocolonialism

What is neocolonialism, and how did it replace colonialism?

Answer: Neocolonialism is a practice where industrialized nations dominate by lending goods, replacing soldiers and colonists after World War II.

How does neocolonialism affect Least Industrialized Nations?

Answer: It keeps them in a cycle of debt by lending goods like armaments, making them lifelong debtors.

What are the modern-day implications of neocolonialism, using the example of the Middle East?

Answer: Effects are felt in issues like the Persian Gulf Wars and terrorism originating from the region.

Topic-126: Multinational Corporations

How do multinational corporations contribute to global stratification?

They reinforce global stratification through direct exploitation and conducting business across national boundaries.

What does the cooperation between multinational corporations and power elites in Least Industrialized Nations involve?

Answer: Corporations provide money, weapons, and gain favorable business climates in exchange for political stability.

How do multinational corporations impact the socioeconomic divide in Least Industrialized Nations?

Answer: They contribute to the enrichment of the elites while the majority of citizens struggle.

Lesson-24

SOCIALMOBILITY

Topic-127: Defining Social Mobility

What does the term "social mobility" refer to?

Answer: Social mobility refers to how individuals or groups move over time between different social strata or spheres of influence.

Can social mobility be both upward and downward?

Answer: Yes, social mobility can be upward, downward, or both.

Topic-128: Types of Social Mobility

What are the three main categories of social mobility?

Answer: Intergenerational, structural, and exchange mobility.

Explain intergenerational social mobility.

Answer: Intergenerational social mobility refers to the upward or downward mobility of children relative to their parents.

What is structural mobility?

Answer: Structural mobility is the movement of individuals up or down the class ladder as a result of societal changes.

Define exchange mobility.

Answer: Exchange mobility is when many people move between socioeconomic strata while maintaining the overall balance and structure of the class system.

Topic-129: Women in Studies of Social Mobility

What did sociologists Lynn Weber and Elizabeth Higginbotham study in 1992?

Answer: They studied 200 working-class women in Memphis who rose to positions of leadership, administration, and professional responsibility.

How did marriage impact social standing, according to Jay Zagorsky's study?

Answer: Married individuals generated wealth at a pace nearly twice that of singles or divorced individuals.

Topic-130: Patterns of Social Mobility

Why is social mobility considered a zero-sum game?

Answer: Social mobility is a zero-sum game because exchange mobility occurs when one person's upward mobility comes at the expense of another's downward mobility.

Topic-131: Structural Mobility and Individual Mobility

What is structural mobility?

Structural mobility refers to changes in social status resulting from alterations in the social order, such as those brought on by political or economic change.

What is individual mobility?

Answer: Individual mobility refers to changes in social status that result from an individual's efforts, education, and achievements.

Topic-132: Downward Mobility

What does downward mobility refer to?

Downward mobility refers to the movement of individuals or groups from a higher social position to a lower one.

Topic-133: Social Mobility in Pakistan

What are the challenges to social mobility in Pakistan?

Answer: Challenges include limited access to education, inequality in income and wealth, discrimination based on gender, religion, and ethnicity, as well as political instability and weak institutions.

Lesson-25

THE FAMILY: GLOBAL VARIETY-I

Topic-134: The Family in History

What was the predominant form of family in Western Europe during the pre-modern period?

The nuclear family consisting of a father, mother, and dependent children was predominant.

How does the average household size in England during the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries compare to the current average in the UK?

The average household size was 4.75 percent, while the current average in the UK is 2.4.

What were some factors that made family groups in pre-modern Europe more impermanent?

Factors included high rates of mortality, especially for infants, and the impact of factors like death in childbirth.

Topic-135: The Development of Family Life

List some trends in family life over the past century in wealthy nations.

Declining marriage rates, later marriage, higher divorce rates, increased cohabitation, changes in gender norms, and the impact of reproductive technologies.

What are some notable effects of the COVID-19 epidemic on family life?

Elevated stress levels, job losses, and adjustments to childcare and education.

Topic-136: Changes in Family Patterns Worldwide

What are some factors causing significant transformations in family structures in developing nations?

Spread of western civilization, centralized authority expansion, participation in a nation's political system, migration from rural to urban areas.

Topic-137-141: Family Diversity: A Global Portrait

How do cultural perspectives on sex, marriage, and the family vary globally?

Perspectives can vary widely; for example, views on women's sexual desires differ between the Middle East and America.

Topic-137: Decent Pattern

What are affinal kin, and how do people acquire them?

Affinal kin are those connected via marriage; people acquire them through marriage, rituals, adoption, or close friendships.

What is bilineal descent?

Bilineal descent traces the family tree back to both the mother's and father's sides.

Topic-138: Patrilineal and Matrilineal Descent

How do patrilineal and matrilineal descent systems differ?

Patrilineal traces the male ancestors' lineage, while matrilineal traces the female ancestors' lineage.

Topic-139: Family Patterns

What is the fundamental difference between family patterns worldwide?

The relative importance of kin and marriage ties, with nuclear and extended families being key patterns.

How do extended families among the Navajo differ from nuclear families in terms of relationships and living arrangements?

Relationships among female relatives often take precedence, and women live together, work together, and own property in common.

Topic-140: Courtship, Marriage, and Divorce Patterns

What is the strongest taboo related to marriage?

The prohibition against mating with close kin or incest.

How does the incest taboo vary in different cultures?

Definitions of "close relatives" vary; some cultures expand the taboo to cover more distant kin.

What is serial monogamy?

A marriage pattern where a person has multiple spouses throughout their lifetime, but only one at a time.

Topic-141: Monogamy and Polygamy

What is the most prevalent type of marriage in the majority of industrialized countries?

Monogamy – the union of one woman and one man.

What is endogamy?

Endogamy forbids people from marrying outside their own group or social level.

Topic-142: Dissolving Marriages

What might be a valid reason for divorce in preindustrial communities where children are highly valued?

Infertility or impotence.

Topic-143: Residence and Authority Patterns

What is neolocal dwelling, and how does it relate to power structures in industrial societies?

Neolocal dwelling is when married couples start their own independent homes, often associated with egalitarian power structures.

What is patrilocal residency, and what percentage of married couples lived in this pattern according to Murdock's World Ethnographic Sample?

Patrilocal residency is when couples live with or close to the husband's family; 67% lived in this pattern according to Murdock's Sample.
