

d. Language is never used all by itself. It is always combined with other things such as our tone of voice, facial expressions and gestures when we speak, and the fonts, layout and graphics we use in written texts.

Topic-02: Discourse and Text

11:30

ulms. vu. edu. pk

CNA stands for _____.

Select the correct option

- Critical Normalization Analysis
- Critical Narrative Analysis
- Cultural Normalization Analysis
- Cultural Narrative Analysis

Click to Save Ar

CNA

Souto-Manning (2014) has used the hybrid concept of CNA in her own research and proposed that "CNA unites CDA and narrative analysis in a mutually beneficial partnership that addresses both theoretical and methodological dilemmas in discourse analysis."

Critical Narrative Analysis (CNA) II

Montesano, Montessori, and Morales Lopez (2015) define narrative as a powerful tool to depict a desired world or to envision alternatives to the status quo of any particular organization, community, economic, or political system. They expressed this idea in the following words:

Critical Narrative Analysis (CNA) III

Narrative helps to rearticulate the status quo from an undesired version to a desired version, in which identities and concepts acquire new positions and new mutual relations. Narrative is a powerful tool in creating a new community and gaining its support or enthusiasm for a certain cause.

Critical Narrative Analysis (CNA) IV

Narrative is a powerful tool in creating a new community and gaining its support or

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 9 of 10 (Start time: 07:59:19 AM, 30 April 2024)

The acronym "DHA" stands for:

Select the correct option

- ○ Debate-Historical Approach
- ● Discourse-Historical Approach
- ○ Discourse-Holistic Approach
- ○ Dialogue-Historical Approach

DHA

Lecture-03

Introduction of Discourse Historical Approach-1

Topic-01: Introduction

In English-speaking countries, the label "Discourse-Historical Approach" and its acronym "DHA" stand for one of the most prominent critical approaches to the study of discourse. The label stresses the strong historical research interest of the approach. Many theoretical and also methodological concepts used in the DHA are equally valid for other strands in critical discourse studies—even if their contexts of emergence have led to different toolkits (e.g., Hart & Cap 2014; Wodak & Meyer 2015). The DHA is distinctive both at the level of research interest and methodological orientation (an interest in identity construction and in unjustified discrimination. It is a focus on the historical dimensions of discourse formation and on (national, local, transnational, and global) identity politics and the politics of the past. It was oriented toward the critical theory of the Frankfurt School, and in particular toward Habermas's language philosophy (e.g. Reisigl & Wodak, 2015). A detailed DHA ideally follows an eight-stage program.

1. Literature review, activation of theoretical knowledge (i.e., recollection, reading, and discussion of previous research);

11:31

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 8 of 10 (Start time: 07:58:38 AM, 30 April 2024)

The key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS) is _____.

Select the correct option

- critique
- context
- identity
- language

key notion

Thus, a discourse involves multiple perspectives.

(x) Discourse undergoes historical change relating to social change. Historical change deserves special attention in the DHA. Discursive strategies may be included: Nomination, Predication, Argumentation, Perspectivisation, Mitigation and Intensification

Topic-03: The Concept of Context

Context is a key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS). It has become a defining moment of discourse, because (critical) discourse analysts frequently conceive of discourse as "text in context". CDS pay special attention to the social, political, historical and cognitive context. Context can be broken down into a macro, meso and micro-dimension. The Discourse-Historical Approach distinguishes among four dimensions of "context":

(i) The immediate, language internal co-text and co-discourse regards thematic and syntactic cohérences, lexical solidarités, collocations, connotations, implications, présuppositions and local interactive processes.

(ii) The intertextual and interdiscursive relationship between utterances, texts, genres and discourses (e.g. with respect to discourse representation, allusions, evocations) is a further contextual research dimension.

(iii) Social factors and institutional frames of a specific context of situation include: Degree of

11:31

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 7 of 10 (Start time: 07:57:58 AM, 30 April 2024)

The term Discourse Analysis was first introduced by _____.

Select the correct option

- (●) Zelling Harris
- ( ) Michael Halliday
- ( ) Norman Fairclough
- ( ) Noam Chomsky

Clic

first intro

Lecture-01

What is Critical Discourse Analysis (CDA)

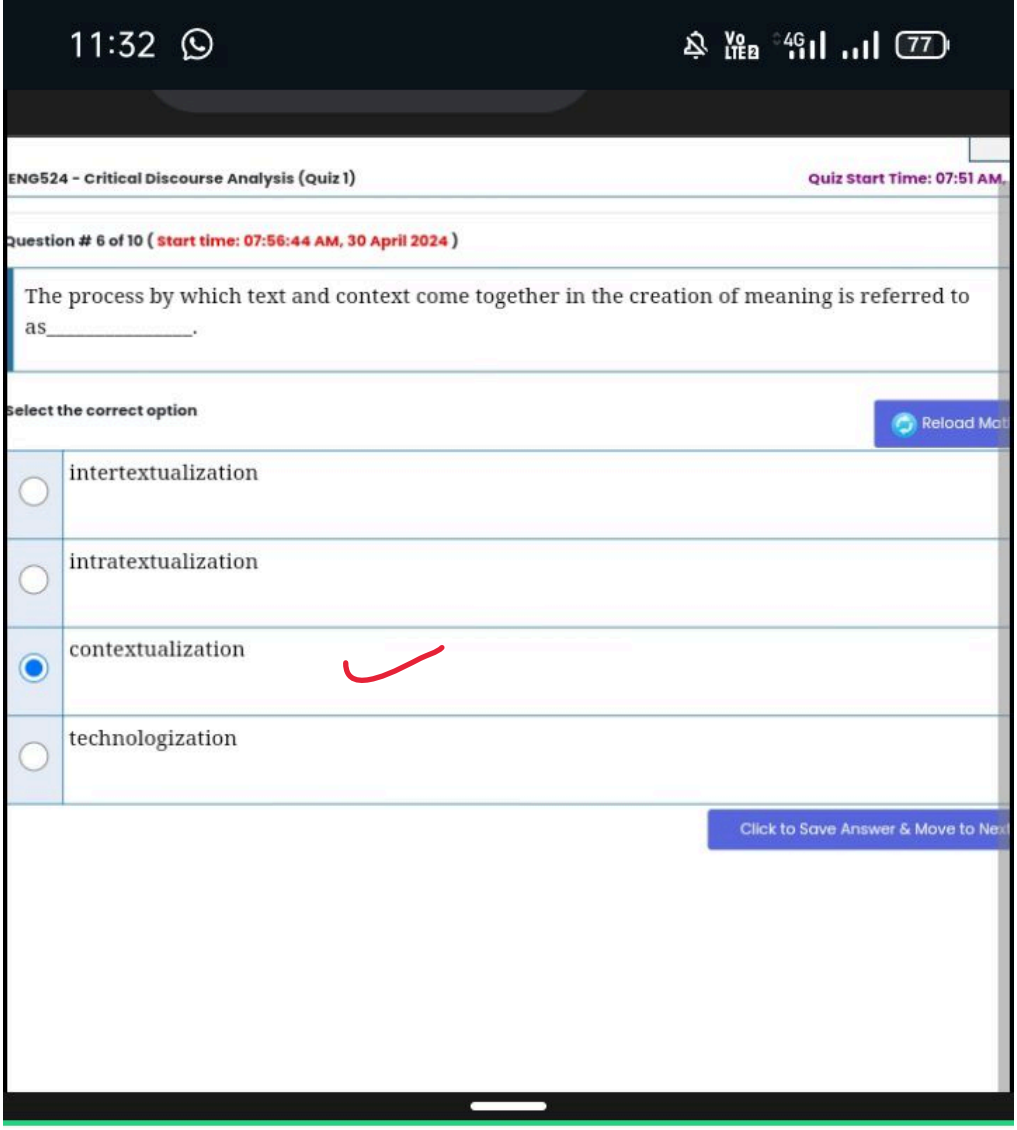

Topic-01: Introduction to Discourse Analysis

The term Discourse Analysis was first introduced by Zelling Harris (1952) to examine the language beyond the level of the sentence, relation between linguistic and non-linguistic behaviour. It looks at patterns of the language across texts as well as the social and cultural contexts in the texts occur. It ranges from textually oriented views of discourse to socially oriented views of discourse. Knowledge about language, beyond the word, clause, phrase and sentence is needed for successful communication. The relationship between language and context is quite significant. A pragmatic view of language is at the core of discourse analysis.

Different Views/Aspects of DA

Discourse is the social construction of reality. Discourse and socially situated identities are strongly related to each other. The ways we make visible and recognizable who we are and what we are doing always involve more than just language (Gee, 2005, cited in Paltridge, 2008). Discourse and Performance: 'a Discourse is a 'dance' (Gee, 2005, p. 19). While we say something, we also do it. Discourse and intertextuality are also relevant to each other.

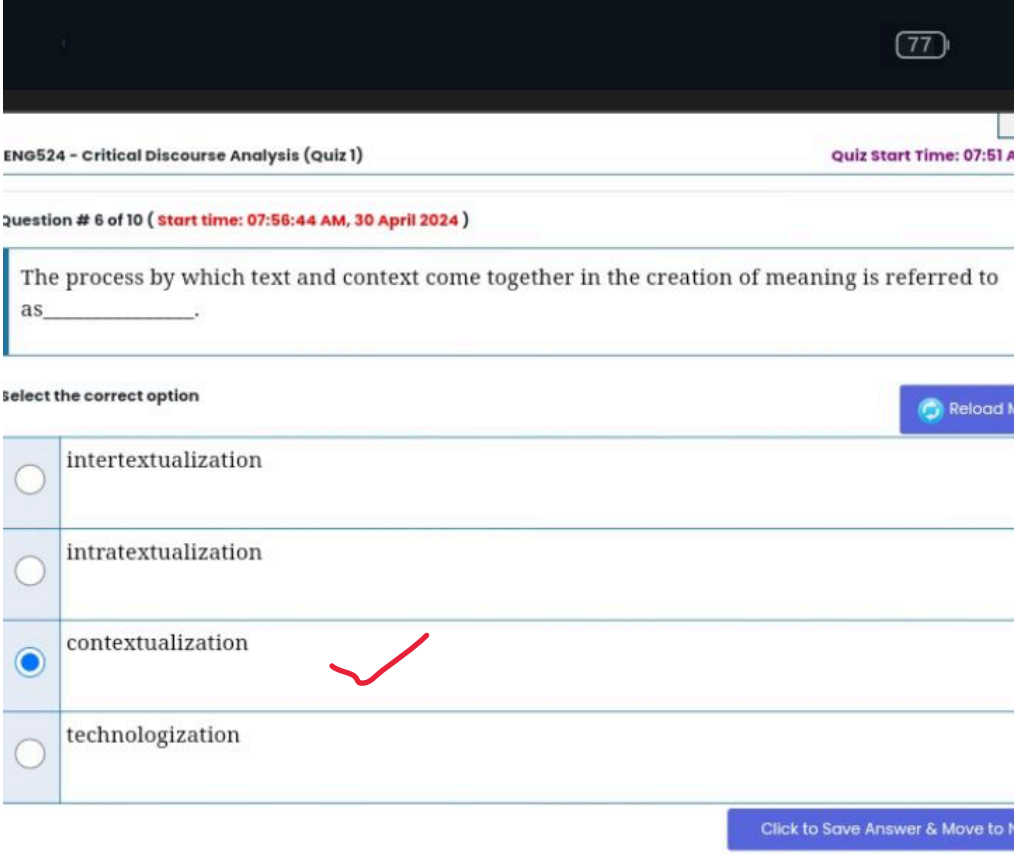

Assumptions of Discourse Analysis

text and con

adopt the metaphor of figure as text and ground as context. Other researchers prefer to focus on levels of context. Halliday & Hasan (1985) distinguish text, co-text, context of situation and context of culture. In addition to co-text, Wodak (2002) includes in her model of context the other texts and discourses; the conditions of text production, distribution and reception, the wider socio-political context (Flowerdew, 2018). Text and context are generally construed to be in a "mutually reflexive" relationship where text influences context and context influences text (Goodwin and Duranti 1992: 31; also van Dijk 2008). Analysis, according to this view, involves a continual shunting between text and context (Fairclough, Mulderrig and Wodak 2011). The process by which text and context come together in the creation of meaning is referred to as contextualization, i.e. by text; we nowadays mean any semiotic feature, including signs, symbols and physical embodiment (Flowerdew, 2018). According to van Dijk (2008), contextualization is regulated by 'K-device': which is the mutual knowledge shared by speaker and hearer. Knowledge – which may be personal, interpersonal, group, institutional, national or cultural – is invoked in the discourse processing (Van Dijk, 2005).

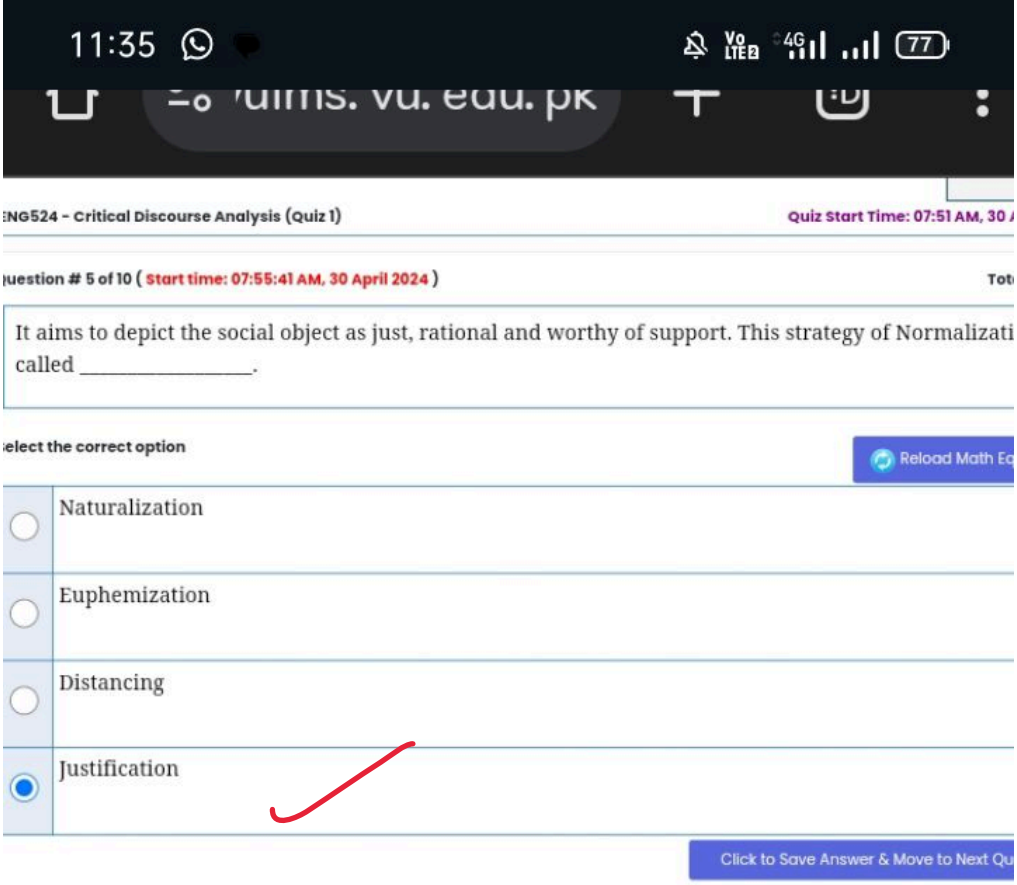

Context is dynamic, changing as the discourse progresses (Goodwin and Duranti 1992; O'Halloran, Tan and E 2014). It is also negotiated between the participants in a discourse, depending upon their mental models. Where mental models do not match, there may be misunderstanding. Power, which, as Foucault emphasizes, is another important contextual feature (e.g., Rabinow 1991) may decide which interpretation is to prevail. A particular type of

text and con

adopt the metaphor of figure as text and ground as context. Other researchers prefer to focus on levels of context. Halliday & Hasan (1985) distinguish text, co-text, context of situation and context of culture. In addition to co-text, Wodak (2002) includes in her model of context the other texts and discourses; the conditions of text production, distribution and reception, the wider socio-political context (Flowerdew, 2018). Text and context are generally construed to be in a "mutually reflexive" relationship where text influences context and context influences text (Goodwin and Duranti 1992: 31; also van Dijk 2008). Analysis, according to this view, involves a continual shunting between text and context (Fairclough, Mulderrig and Wodak 2011). The process by which text and context come together in the creation of meaning is referred to as contextualization, i.e. by text; we nowadays mean any semiotic feature, including signs, symbols and physical embodiment (Flowerdew, 2018). According to van Dijk (2008), contextualization is regulated by 'K-device': which is the mutual knowledge shared by speaker and hearer. Knowledge – which may be personal, interpersonal, group, institutional, national or cultural – is invoked in the discourse processing (Van Dijk, 2005).

Context is dynamic, changing as the discourse progresses (Goodwin and Duranti 1992; O'Halloran, Tan and E 2014). It is also negotiated between the participants in a discourse, depending upon their mental models. Where mental models do not match, there may be misunderstanding. Power, which, as Foucault emphasizes, is another important contextual feature (e.g., Rabinow 1991) may decide which interpretation is to prevail. A particular type of social ob

given society. On the other hand, the 'Peace-Estrangement Narrative' is a set of strategies intended for creating doubt as to the positive connotation usually associated with the concept of peace. For example, war can be depicted as an opportunity to demonstrate courage and brotherhood, while the actual condition of peace may be described as inherently dangerous, and peace initiatives may be represented as deceptive. 'War-Normalizing' strategies and 'Peace-Estrangement' strategies appear in various verbal and non-verbal contexts: these include political speeches, op-eds, literature, films, caricatures, and even national ceremonies.

tant question

Strategies of Normalization: Write the three strategies of Normalization?

a) Euphemization – aims to color the social object in positive tones, in terms of its appearance, character, or valuation;

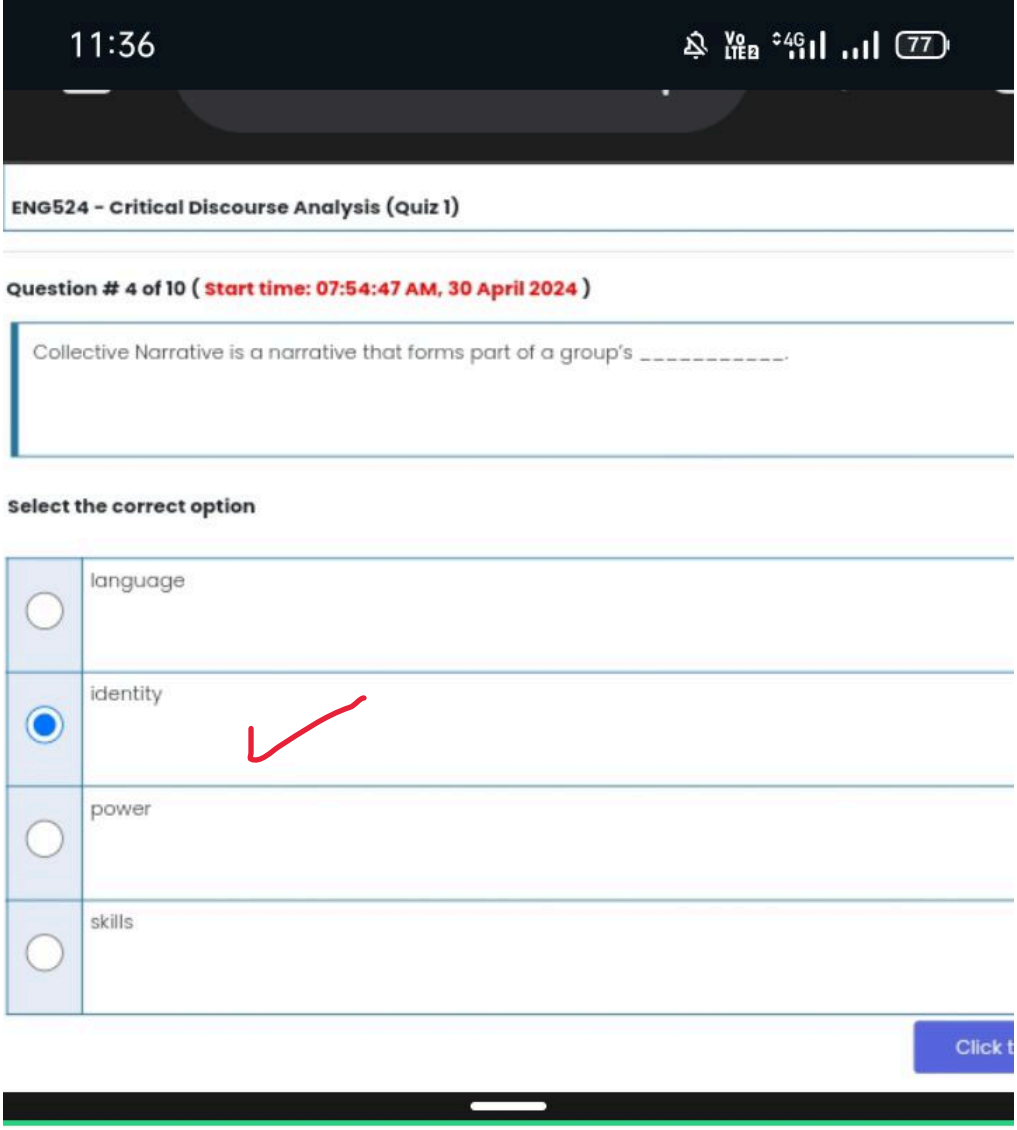

b) Naturalization – aims to represent the social object as a force or event independent of human agency, or as an inevitable outcome of the laws of nature;

c) Justification – aims to depict the social object as just, rational, worthy of support.

Strategies of Abstraction

Strategies of Abstraction are one of the most powerful strategies in the Israeli Peace-Estrangement discourse. The following strategies are included in this category:

Strategies of Distancing

collective narra

for a certain cause.

Critical Narrative Analysis (CNA) IV

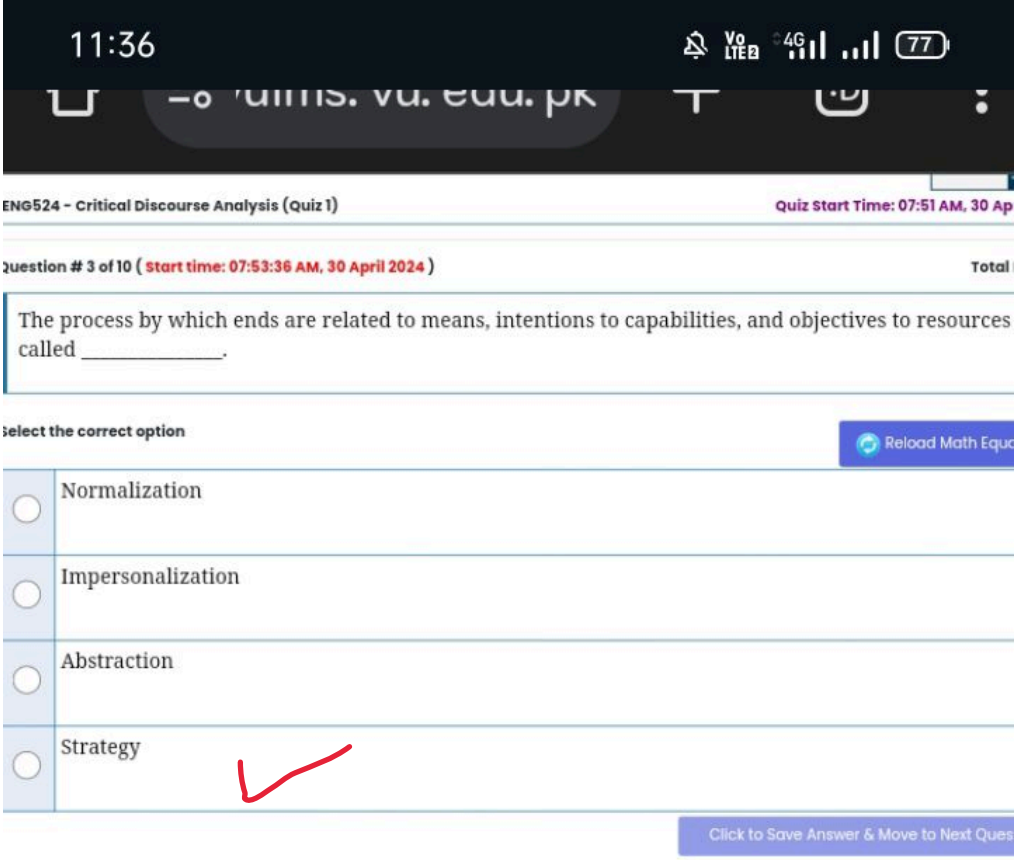

Narrative is a powerful tool in creating a new community and gaining its support or enthusiasm for a certain cause.

MCQs

Collective Narrative is a narrative that forms part of a group's identity. It is a story in a social and cultural context. It can also be defined as a story motivated by political interests and the wish to represent the consequences arising from such events in a way that reflects and serves political interests. Two 'mega' narratives for cultural construction. Cultural construction of social objects (such as a social group, a social phenomenon, or a social event) defines the social objects in one of two ways: either as a 'normal' object which forms part of normal life and normal society; or as a 'strange' object which does not form part of 'normal' life and normal society. Two mega-narratives are derived from this distinction, namely, one that 'normalizes' social objects and another that 'estranges' them.

Critical Narrative Analysis-2

A study published on War-Normalizing Narrative in Routledge Handbook of CDA. The concept of 'War-Normalizing Narrative' is in fact a set of strategies that aim to blur war's ends are re

this specific article I will focus mostly on verbal practices.

h) CCDA analyses factual and fictional discourses alike. This is based on the assumption that a fictional short story has the same ability as a political speech to act as a repository for cultural codes and assist the continuation of power abuses.

Topic-03: Cultural Codes and Discursive Strategies

CCDA aims to expose the specific discursive strategies that enable the exclusion or the symbolic annihilation of social objects. 'Strategy' is "the process by which ends are related to means intentions to capabilities, objectives to resources" (Gaddis 2005 [1982]: VIII). Considering that a strategy is a combination of goals and means (Fairclough 2009 [2001]: 174), CCDA is interested in discursive 'means' (e.g., metaphors, narratives, frames) that promote specific 'goals' (i.e., political agenda or specific policy).

ABBRIETATION

Topic-04: Critical Narrative Analysis-1

11:37

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 2 of 10 (Start time: 07:52:40 AM, 30 April 2024)

One of the main tenets of CDA is that _____ relations are discursive.

Select the correct option

- power
- language
- linguistic
- communicative

tenets

derived from quite different theoretical backgrounds" (Wodak, 2001:5).

Topic-06: Main tenets of CDA

Fairclough and Wodak (1997: 271-80) summarize the main tenets of CDA as follows:

- CDA addresses social problems
- Power relations are discursive
- Discourse constitutes society and culture
- Discourse does ideological work
- Discourse is historical
- The link between text and society is mediated
- Discourse analysis is interpretative and explanatory
- Discourse is a form of social action.
- Critical discourse analysts take explicit position, and thus want to understand, exp and ultimately resist social inequality.
- CDA has a purpose, clear-cut and strong message/ Socially Critical and analytical.

11:39

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 1 of 10 (Start time: 07:51:56 AM, 30 April 2024)

The Discourse Historical Approach is _____ oriented.

Select the correct option

- problem
- perspective
- application
- solution

orient and Örebro.

- In Vienna, former research interests remain relevant, e.g. doctor-patient interaction, feminist critical discourse analysis, and political commemoration.
- Recently, Discourse historical analysts seem to be interested in right-wing populism and fascist discourses in Europe
- Similarly, the discourses on environment and climate change.
- Various case studies embracing different genres - political posters, leaflets, comics, documentaries, etc., have been carried out in recent years.
- DHA is a flexible and productive variety of CDS that always opts for a problem-oriented perspective; demonstrates a clear preference for interdisciplinary research.
- Still, DHA has strong roots in linguistics.

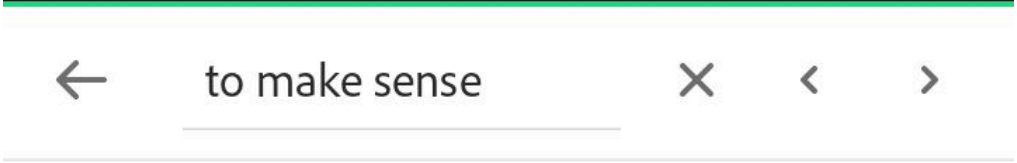

Topic-02: Characteristics and Research Interests of DHA

The DHA is problem-oriented. This implies that the study of (oral, written, visual) language remains only a part of the research. The investigation must be interdisciplinary. In order to analyze, understand, and explain the complexity of the objects, many different and accessible sources of data are analyzed from various analytical perspectives. The DHA is three-dimensional:

(1) Specific contents or topics of a specific discourse are identified;

(2) Discursive strategies are investigated;

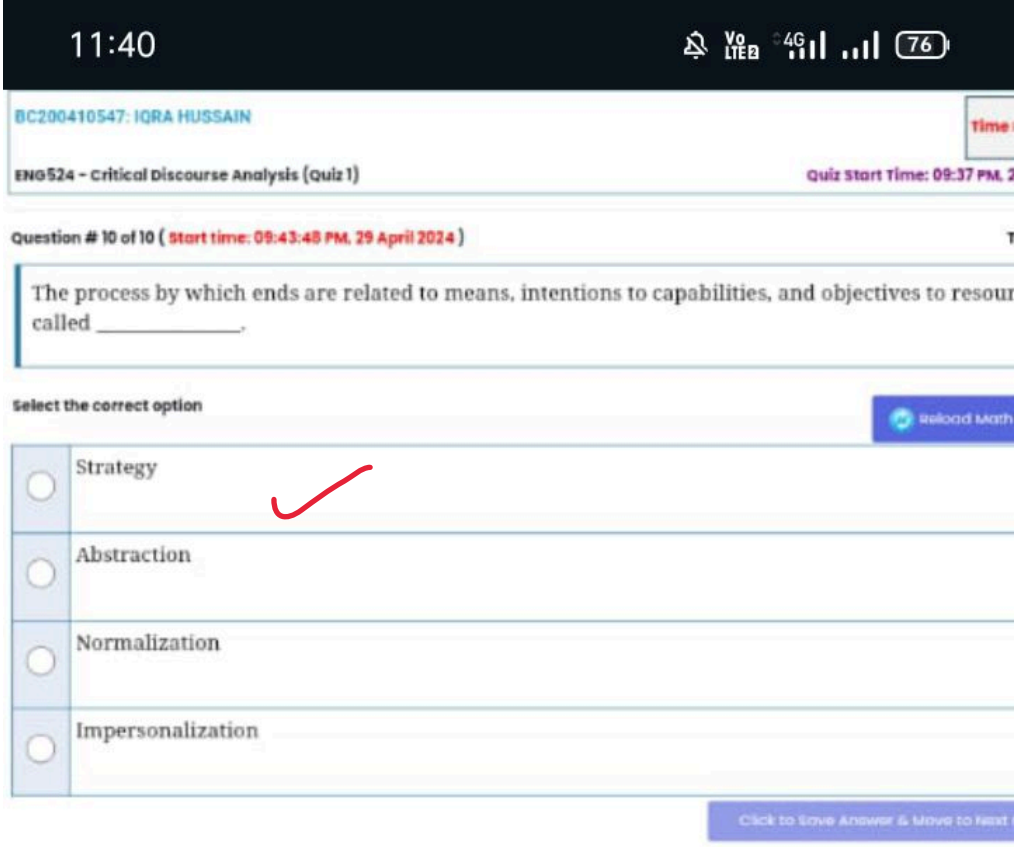

d. Language is never used all by itself. It is always combined with other things such as our tone of voice, facial expressions and gestures when we speak, and the fonts, layout and graphics we use in written texts.

Topic-02: Discourse and Text

Meaning is the most important thing that makes a text; it has to make sense (Halliday). A text, in his view, is everything that is meaningful in a particular situation. And the basis for meaning is choice (Halliday 1978: 137). Different patterns of texture are associated with different types of texts. Devices are structured in a conventional way with a summary of the main points in the beginning and with the details coming later. The study of the social functions of different kinds of texts is called genre analysis. Mitchell (1957) was one the first researchers to examine the discourse structure of texts. He looked at the ways in which people order what they say in buying and selling interactions. He looked at the overall structure of these kinds of texts, introducing the notion of stages into discourse analysis; that is the steps that language users go through. The notion of genre in discourse analysis goes beyond examining the conventional structures and features of different kinds of texts to asking what these structures and features can intentions to ca

this specific article I will focus mostly on verbal practices.

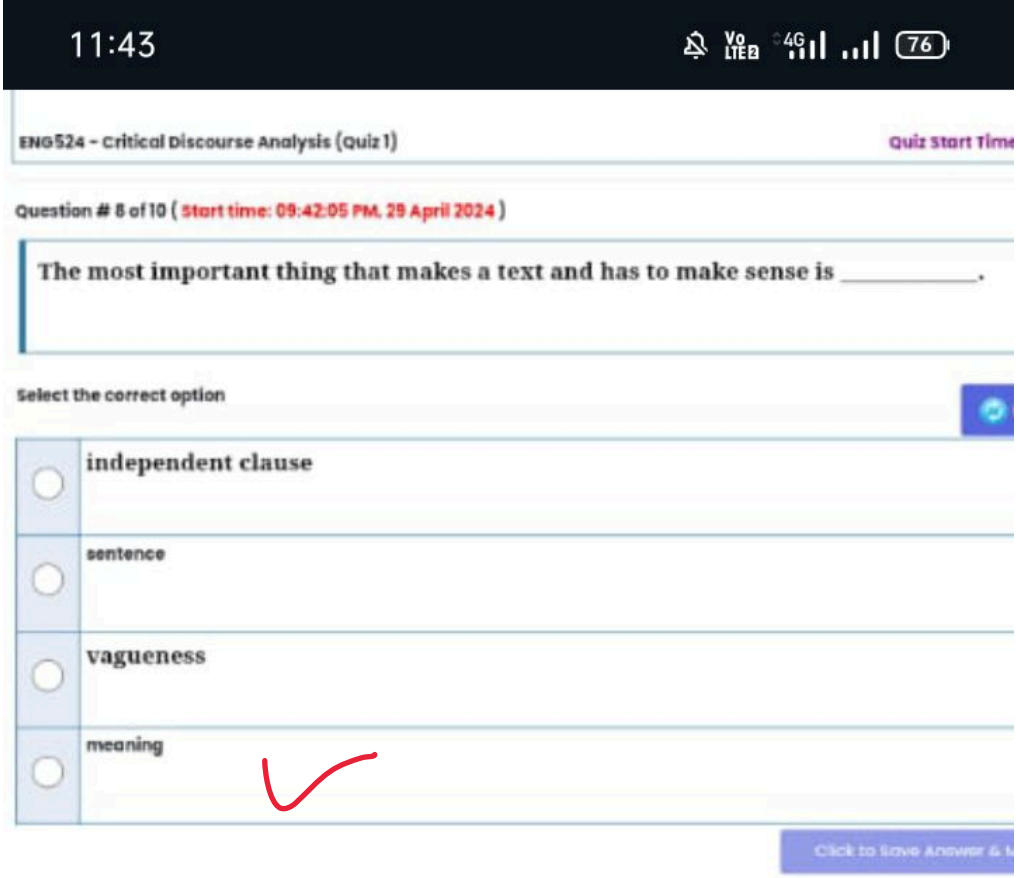

h) CCDA analyses factual and fictional discourses alike. This is based on the assumption that a fictional short story has the same ability as a political speech to act as a repository for cultural codes and assist the continuation of power abuses.

Topic-03: Cultural Codes and Discursive Strategies

CCDA aims to expose the specific discursive strategies that enable the exclusion or the symbolic annihilation of social objects. 'Strategy' is "the process by which ends are related to means intentions to capabilities, objectives to resources" (Gaddis 2005 [1982]: VIII). Considering that a strategy is a combination of goals and means (Fairclough 2009 [2001]: 174), CCDA is interested in discursive 'means' (e.g., metaphors, narratives, frames) that promote specific 'goals' (i.e., political agenda or specific policy).

BBRIETATION

Topic-04: Critical Narrative Analysis-1

make sense

d. Language is never used all by itself. It is always combined with other things such as our tone of voice, facial expressions and gestures when we speak, and the fonts, layout and graphics we use in written texts.

Topic-02: Discourse and Text

Meaning is the most important thing that makes a text; it has to make sense (Halliday). A text, in his view, is everything that is meaningful in a particular situation. And the basis for meaning is choice (Halliday 1978: 137). Different patterns of texture are associated with different types of texts. Devices are structured in a conventional way with a summary of the main points in the beginning and with the details coming later. The study of the social functions of different kinds of texts is called genre analysis. Mitchell (1957) was one the first researchers to examine the discourse structure of texts. He looked at the ways in which people order what they say in buying and selling interactions. He looked at the overall structure of these kinds of texts, introducing the notion of stages into discourse analysis; that is the steps that language users go through. The notion of genre in discourse analysis goes beyond examining the conventional structures and features of different kinds of texts to asking what these structures and features can

11:43

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 7 of 10 (Start time: 09:41:37 PM, 29 April 2024)

Discourse undergoes historical change relating to _____ change.

Select the correct option

- social
- economic
- political
- environmental

historical change re

and transform social relationships (including power relations) and social positions, institutions knowledge and ideologies, identities and subjects, etc.

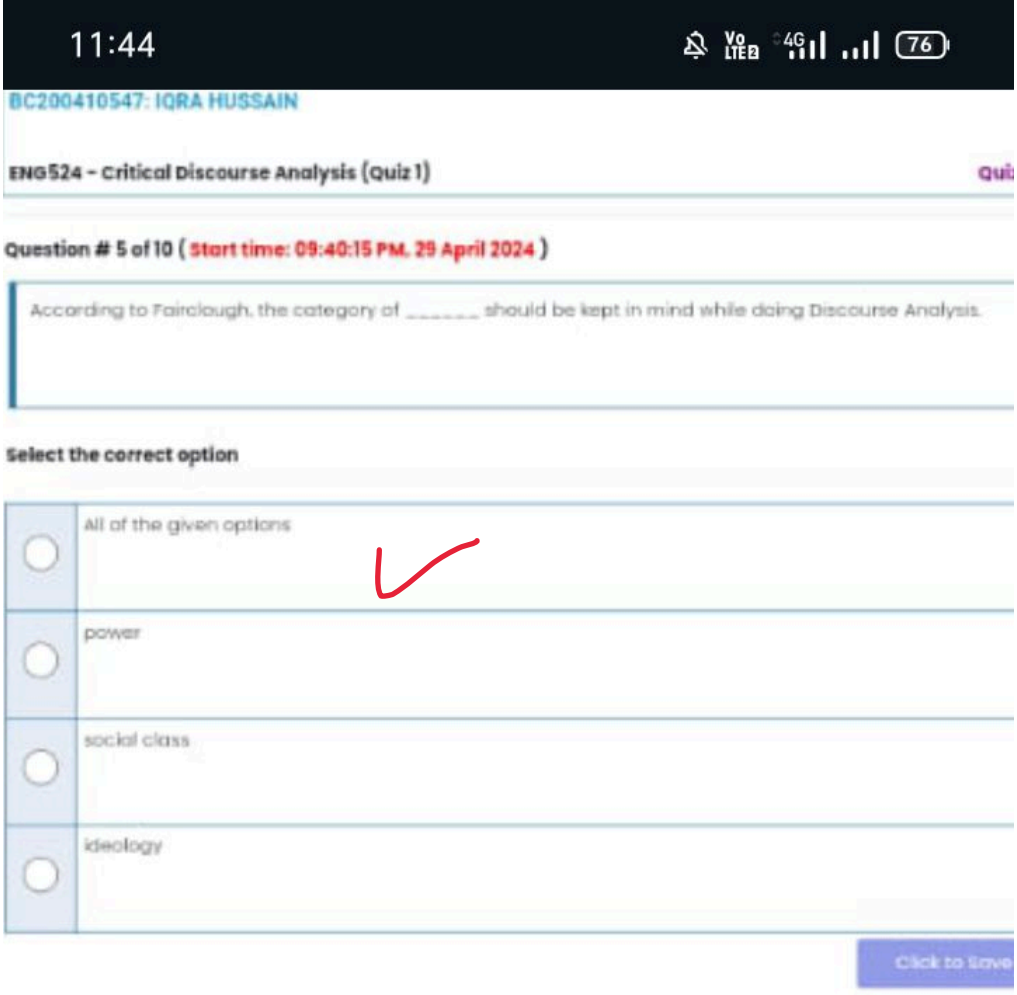

(ix) Discourses develop around social problems. The problems become starting points c argumentation. Argumentation is both a verbal (partly also visual) and cognitive pattern c problem-solving (see Kopperschmidt, 2000; Reisigl, 2014). These patterns surround claims c truth and/or claims of normative rightness. The claims are dealt with from different perspectives Thus, a discourse involves multiple perspectives.

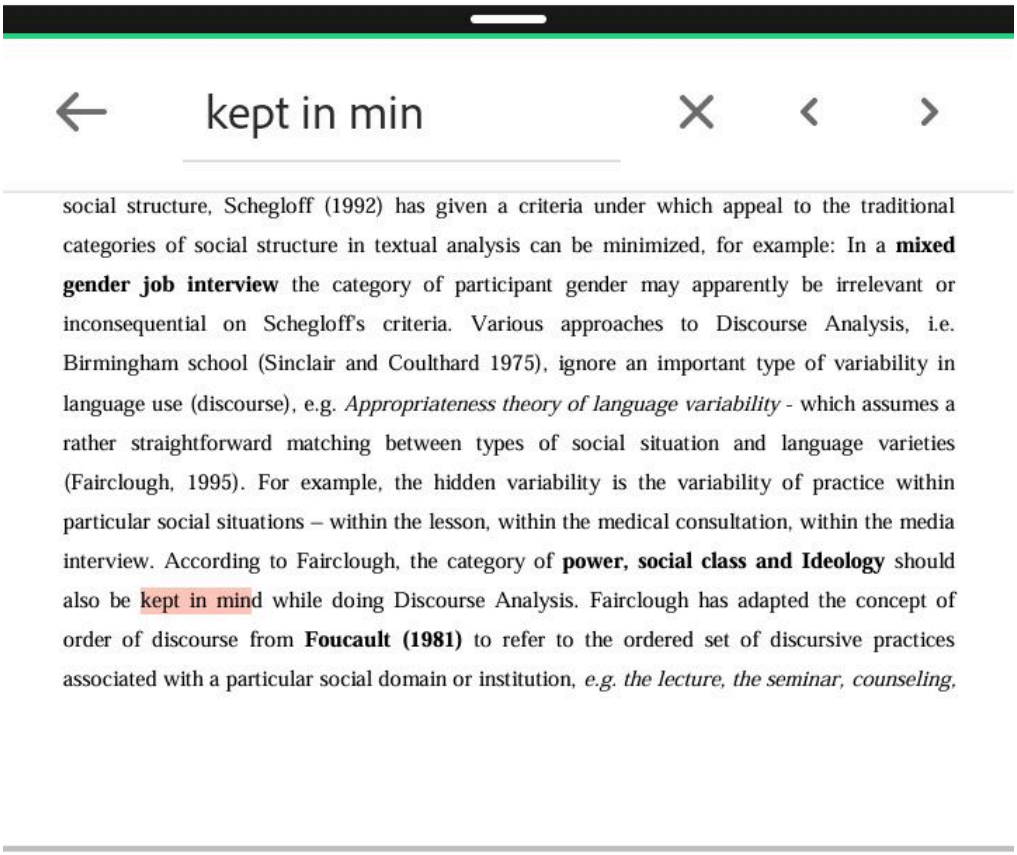

(x) Discourse undergoes historical change relating to social change. Historical change deserve special attention in the DHA. Discursive strategies may be included: Nomination, Predicatio Argumentation, Perspectivisation, Mitigation and Intensification

Topic-03: The Concept of Context

Context is a key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS). It has become a definin moment of discourse, because (critical) discourse analysts frequently conceive of discourse a "text in context". CDS pay special attention to the social, political, historical and cognitiv context. Context can be broken down into a macro, meso and micro-dimension. The Discourse Historical Approach distinguishes among four dimensions of "context":

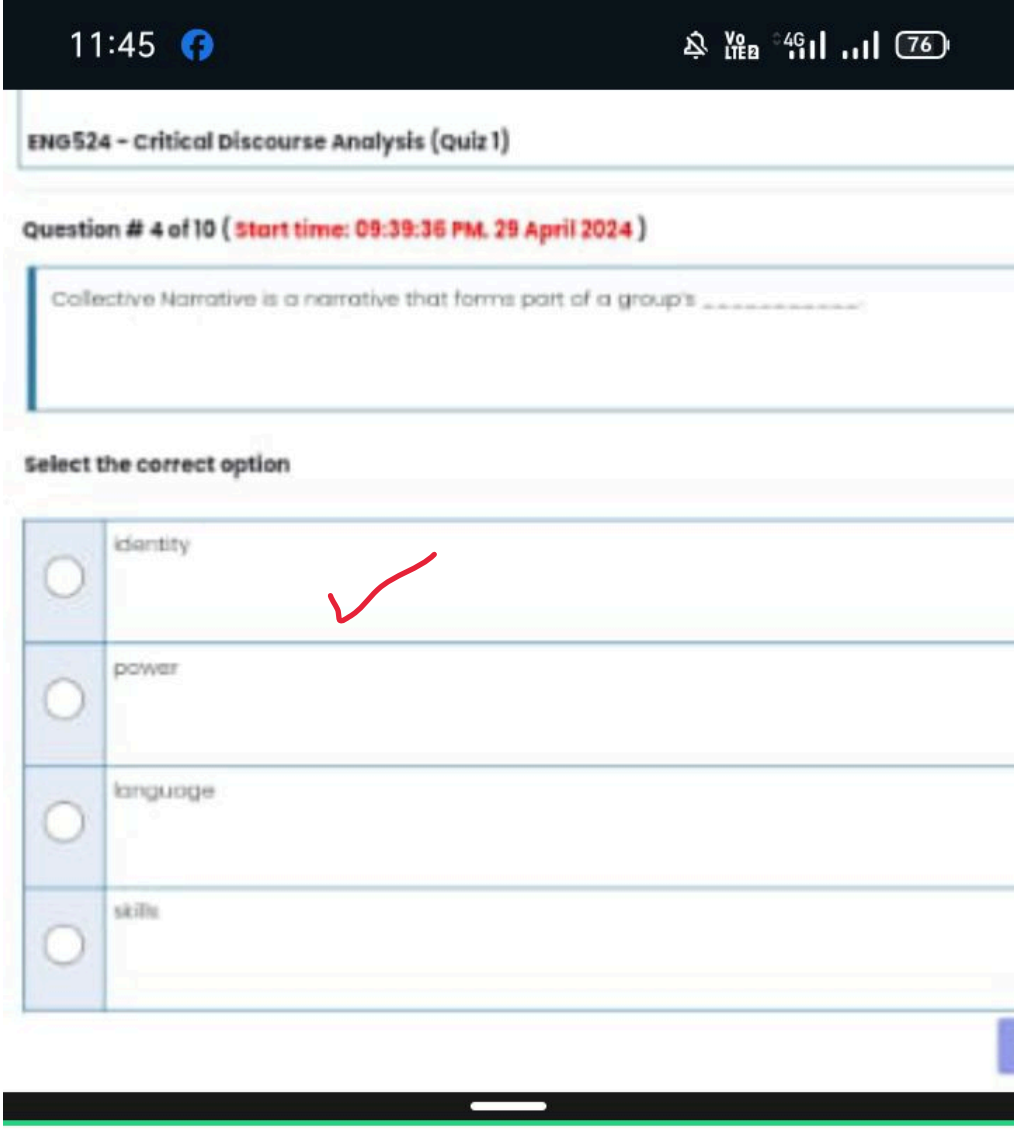

(i) The immediate, language internal co-text and co-discourse regards thematic and syntacti social structure, Schegloff (1992) has given a criteria under which appeal to the traditional categories of social structure in textual analysis can be minimized, for example: In a mixed gender job interview the category of participant gender may apparently be irrelevant or inconsequential on Schegloff's criteria. Various approaches to Discourse Analysis, i.e. Birmingham school (Sinclair and Coulthard 1975), ignore an important type of variability in language use (discourse), e.g. Appropriateness theory of language variability - which assumes a rather straightforward matching between types of social situation and language varieties (Fairclough, 1995). For example, the hidden variability is the variability of practice within particular social situations – within the lesson, within the medical consultation, within the media interview. According to Fairclough, the category of power, social class and Ideology should also be kept in mind while doing Discourse Analysis. Fairclough has adapted the concept of order of discourse from Foucault (1981) to refer to the ordered set of discursive practices associated with a particular social domain or institution, e.g. the lecture, the seminar, counseling, and informal conversation, in an academic institution; and boundaries and relationships between

collective na

Critical Narrative Analysis (CNA) III

Narrative helps to rearticulate the status quo from an undesired version to a desired version, in which identities and concepts acquire new positions and new mutual relations. Narrative is a powerful tool in creating a new community and gaining its support or enthusiasm for a certain cause.

Critical Narrative Analysis (CNA) IV

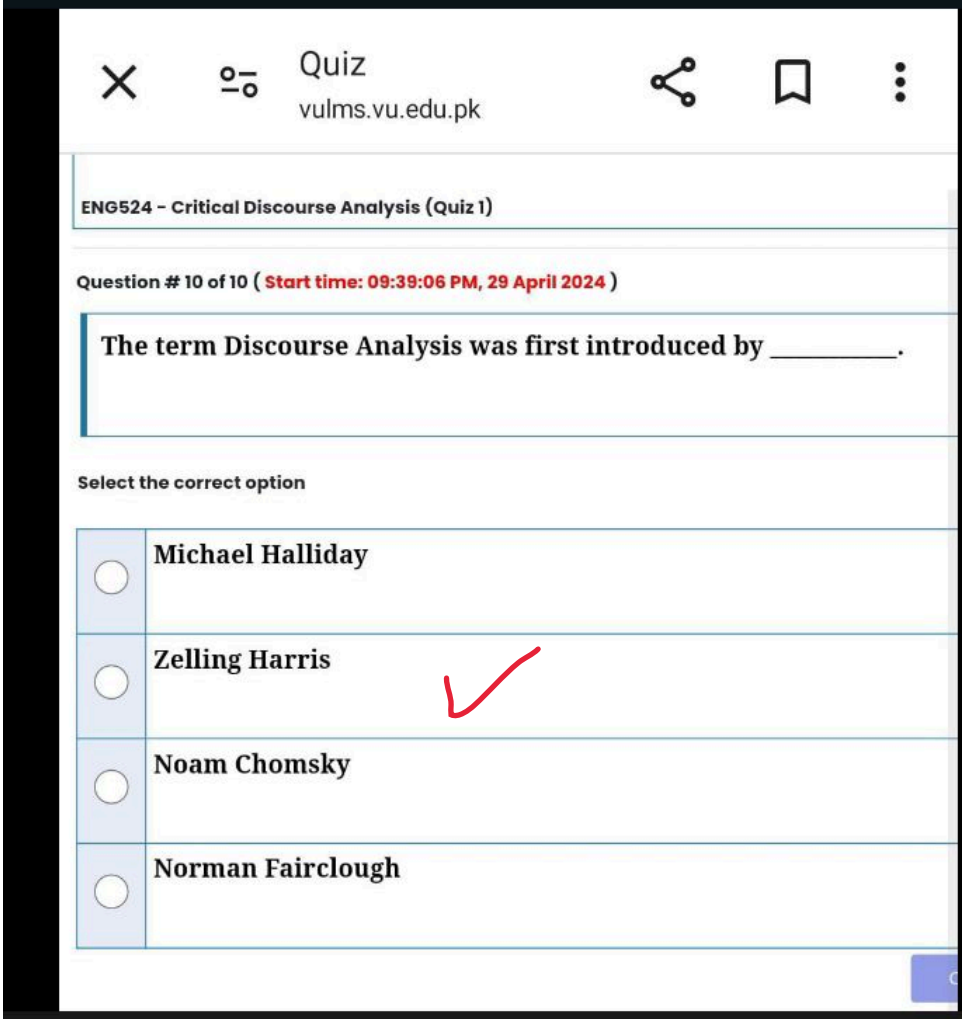

Narrative is a powerful tool in creating a new community and gaining its support or enthusiasm for a certain cause.

MCQs

Collective Narrative is a narrative that forms part of a group's identity. It is a story in a social and cultural context. It can also be defined as a story motivated by political interests and the wish to represent the consequences arising from such events in a way that reflects and serves political interests. Two 'mega' narratives for cultural construction. Cultural construction of social objects (such as a social group, a social phenomenon, or a social event) defines the social objects in one of two ways: either as a 'normal' object which forms part of normal life and normal society; or as a 'strange' object which does not form part of 'normal' life and normal society. Two mega-narratives are derived from this distinction, namely, one that 'normalizes' social objects and another that 'estranges' them.

Critical Narrative Analysis-2

A study published on War-Normalizing Narrative in Routledge Handbook of CDA. The first in

Lecture-01

What is Critical Discourse Analysis (CDA)

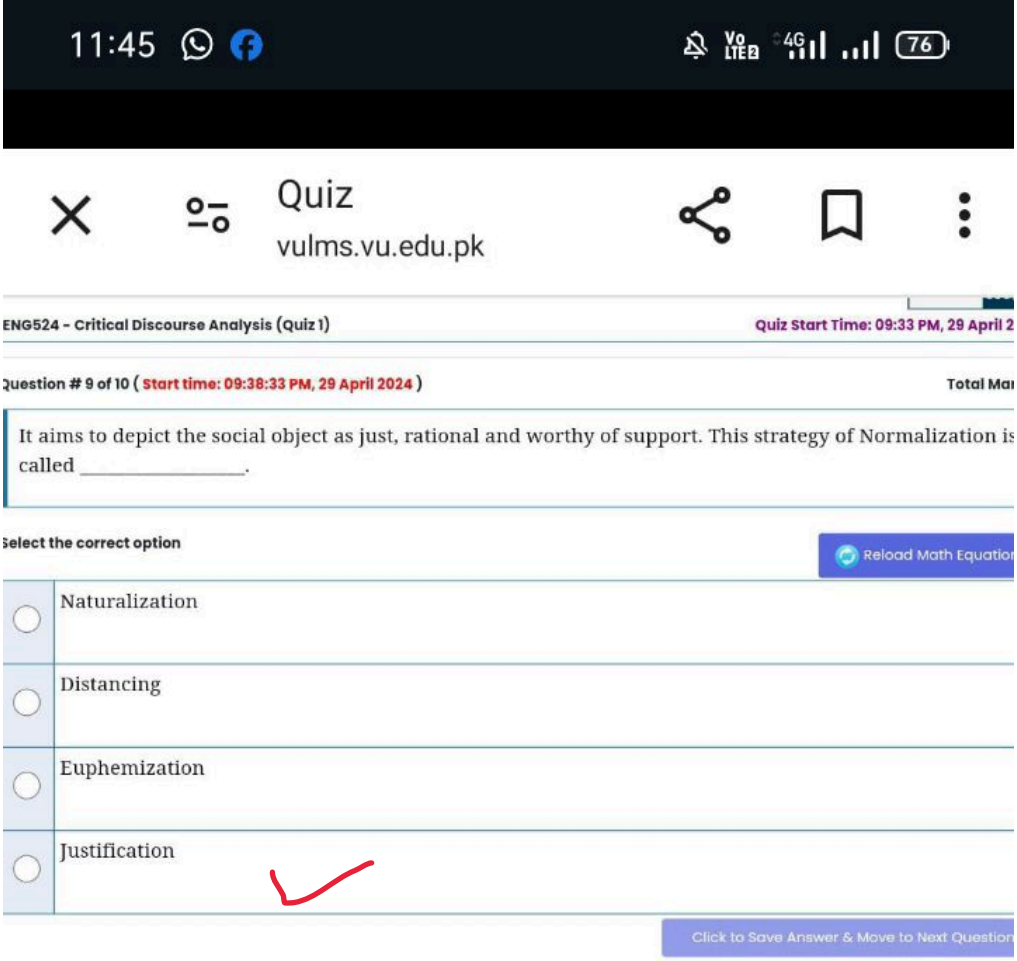

Topic-01: Introduction to Discourse Analysis

The term Discourse Analysis was first introduced by Zelling Harris (1952) to examine the language beyond the level of the sentence, relation between linguistic and non-linguistic behaviour. It looks at patterns of the language across texts as well as the social and cultural contexts in the texts occur. It ranges from textually oriented views of discourse to socially oriented views of discourse. Knowledge about language, beyond the word, clause, phrase and sentence is needed for successful communication. The relationship between language and context is quite significant. A pragmatic view of language is at the core of discourse analysis.

Different Views/Aspects of DA

Discourse is the social construction of reality. Discourse and socially situated identities are strongly related to each other. The ways we make visible and recognizable who we are and what we are doing always involve more than just language (Gee, 2005, cited in Paltridge, 2008). Discourse and Performance: 'a Discourse is a 'dance' (Gee, 2005, p. 19). While we say something, we also do it. Discourse and intertextuality are also relevant to each other.

Assumptions of Discourse Analysis

peace initiatives may be represented as deceptive. War-Normalizing strategies and 'Peace-Estrangement' strategies appear in various verbal and non-verbal contexts: these include political speeches, op-eds, literature, films, caricatures, and even national ceremonies.

ortant question

Strategies of Normalization: Write the three strategies of Normalization?

a) Euphemization – aims to color the social object in positive tones, in terms of its appearance, character, or valuation;

b) Naturalization – aims to represent the social object as a force or event independent of human agency, or as an inevitable outcome of the laws of nature;

c) Justification – aims to depict the social object as just, rational, worthy of support.

Strategies of Abstraction

Strategies of Abstraction are one of the most powerful strategies in the Israeli Peace-Estrangement discourse. The following strategies are included in this category:

Strategies of Distancing

Strategies of Distancing are a description that locates the targeted object in a distant conceptual realm. The description can be geographical, literal, conceptual, or metaphorical. The common narratives 'peace is a dream' and 'peace in heaven' are examples of distancing strategy.

Strategies of Impersonalization

11:46

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 2 of 10 (Start time: 09:38:20 PM, 29 April 2024)

The Discourse Historical Approach is _____ oriented.

Select the correct option

solution

application

perspective

problem

oriented and Orebro.

- In Vienna, former research interests remain relevant, e.g. doctor-patient interaction, feminist critical discourse analysis, and political commemoration.
- Recently, Discourse historical analysts seem to be interested in right-wing populism and fascist discourses in Europe
- Similarly, the discourses on environment and climate change.
- Various case studies embracing different genres - political posters, leaflets, comics, documentaries, etc., have been carried out in recent years.
- DHA is a flexible and productive variety of CDS that always opts for a problem-oriented perspective; demonstrates a clear preference for interdisciplinary research.
- Still, DHA has strong roots in linguistics.

Topic-02: Characteristics and Research Interests of DHA

The DHA is problem-oriented. This implies that the study of (oral, written, visual) language remains only a part of the research. The investigation must be interdisciplinary. In order to analyze, understand, and explain the complexity of the objects, many different and accessible sources of data are analyzed from various analytical perspectives. The DHA is three-dimensional:

(1) Specific contents or topics of a specific discourse are identified;

(2) Discursive strategies are investigated;

discursive stra

that yield concrete social applications.

Topic-03: Discursive Strategies in DHA Write the five strategies of discursive in DHA?

Nomination

Discursive construction of social actors discursive construction of objects, phenomena, events discursive construction of processes and actions. How persons, objects, phenomena, events, processes and actions are named and referred to linguistically in the discourse in question?

Predication

Prediction is a discursive characterization of social actors, objects, phenomena, events processes and actions (e.g. positively or negatively). What characteristics or qualities are attributed to social actors, objects, phenomena, events, processes and actions mentioned in the discourse?

Argumentation

Argumentation is persuading addressees of the validity of specific claims of truth and normative rightness. What arguments are employed in discourse?

Perspectivisation

Perspectivisation is positioning the speaker's or writer's point of view and expressing

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 7 of 10 (Start time: 09:37:24 PM, 29 April 2024)

The term "critical discourse analysis" was introduced in the _____.

Select the correct option

- ○ 1980s ✓
- ○ 1880s
- ○ 1850s
- ○ 1950s

critical discourse ana

Lecture-04

Discourse Historical Approach-II

Topic-01: The Concept of Critique

The term "critical discourse analysis" was introduced in the 1980s in order to mark a difference with an allegedly descriptive discourse analysis. What Fairclough, van Dijk and others had in mind when they stood up for "Critical Discourse Analysis" initially was particularly the political meaning of social critique? Political critique means to judge the status quo, e.g., a specific discourse or (dis)order of discourse, against the background of an alternative (ideal) state and preferred values, norms, standards or criteria with respect to shortcomings or contradictions. At least three theoretical sources are relevant for the understanding of "critique", as it prevails in the DHA.

(a) Critical Theory of the first generation (Adorno, Horkheimer, Benjamin) - inspires the DHA where it comes to criticizing oppressive, discriminatory and exploitative ideologies, power abuse as well as the culture industry. Here, ideologies are suspected of justifying particular interests and social inequalities under the guise of common public interests.

(b) The relationship to Foucault can be characterized as a relationship of strong interest with various reservations. Foucault's understanding of critique as an attitude and "the art of not being

11:47

Quiz
vulms.vu.edu.pk

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1) Quiz Start Time

Question # 5 of 10 (Start time: 09:36:24 PM, 29 April 2024)

The process by which text and context come together in the creation of meaning is referr as_____.

Select the correct option

- contextualization
- intertextualization
- intratextualization
- technologization

Click to Save Answer & M

text and con

"the cognitive, social, political, cultural and historical environments of discourse" (original emphasis).

Further Characterization

Early approaches used various metaphors to depict context. Goodwin and Duranti (1992) adopt the metaphor of figure as text and ground as context. Other researchers prefer to focus on levels of context. Halliday & Hasan (1985) distinguish text, co-text, context of situation and context of culture. In addition to co-text, Wodak (2002) includes in her model of context the other texts and discourses; the conditions of text production, distribution and reception, the wider socio-political context (Flowerdew, 2018). Text and context are generally construed to be in a "mutually reflexive" relationship where text influences context and context influences text (Goodwin and Duranti 1992: 31; also van Dijk 2008). Analysis, according to this view, involves a continual shunting between text and context (Fairclough, Mulderrig and Wodak 2011). The process by which text and context come together in the creation of meaning is referred to as contextualization, i.e. by text; we nowadays mean any semiotic feature, including signs, symbols and physical embodiment (Flowerdew, 2018). According to van Dijk (2008), contextualization is regulated by 'K-device': which is the mutual knowledge shared by speaker and hearer. Knowledge – which may be personal, interpersonal, group, institutional, national or cultural – is invoked in the discourse processing (Van Dijk, 2005).

Context is dynamic, changing as the discourse progresses (Goodwin and Duranti 1992; O'Halloran, Tan and E 2014). It is also negotiated between the participants in a discourse

11:48

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 4 of 10 (Start time: 09:35:48 PM, 29 April 2024)

The key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS) is _____.

Select the correct option

- language
- critique
- context
- identity

key notion

(x) Discourse undergoes historical change relating to social change. Historical change deserves special attention in the DHA. Discursive strategies may be included: Nomination, Predication, Argumentation, Perspectivisation, Mitigation and Intensification

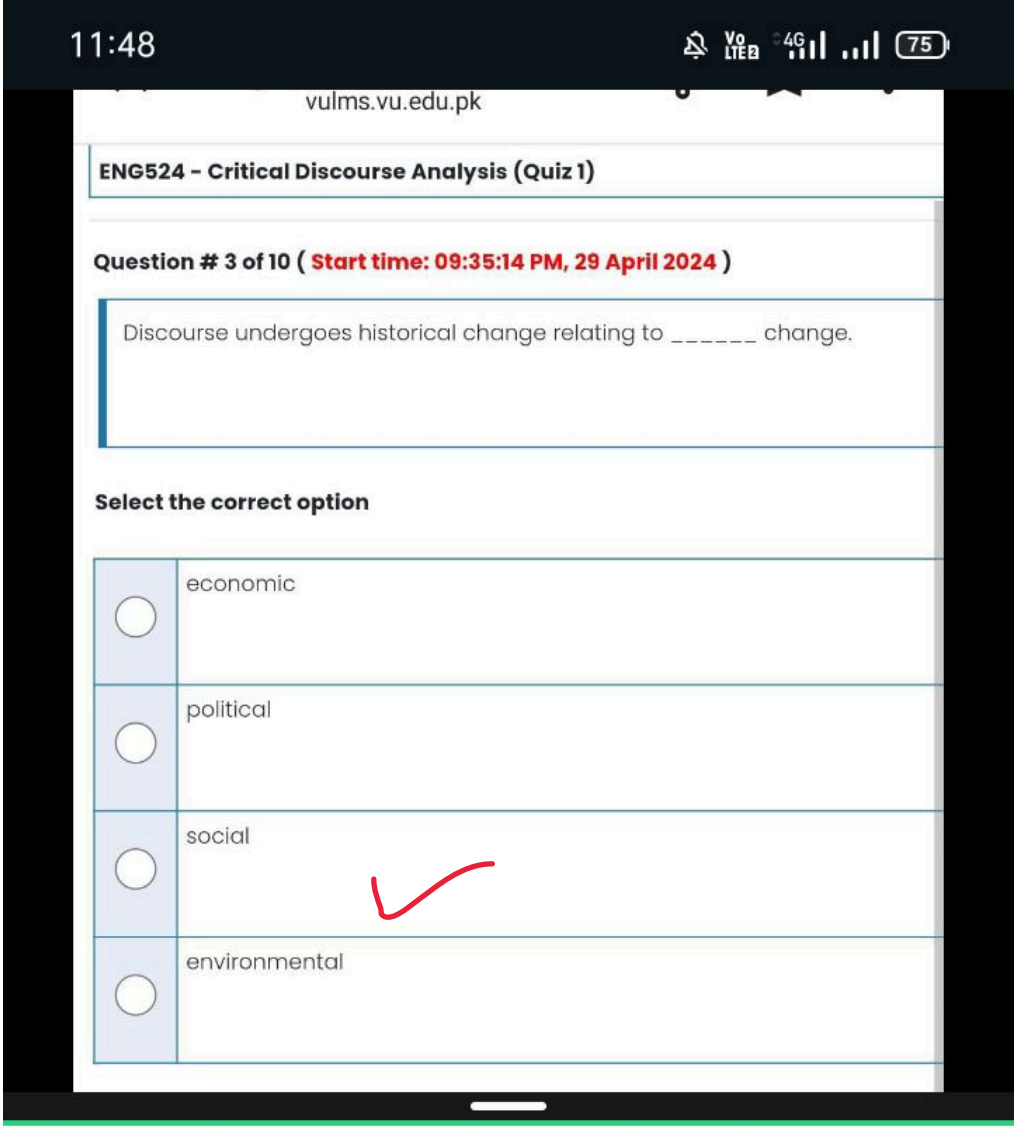

Topic-03: The Concept of Context

Context is a key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS). It has become a defining moment of discourse, because (critical) discourse analysts frequently conceive of discourse as "text in context". CDS pay special attention to the social, political, historical and cognitive context. Context can be broken down into a macro, meso and micro-dimension. The Discourse-Historical Approach distinguishes among four dimensions of "context":

(i) The immediate, language internal co-text and co-discourse regards thematic and syntactic cohérences, lexical solidarités, collocations, connotations, implications, présuppositions and local interactive processes.

(ii) The intertextual and interdiscursive relationship between utterances, texts, genres and discourses (e.g. with respect to discourse representation, allusions, evocations) is a further contextual research dimension.

(iii) Social factors and institutional frames of a specific context of situation include: Degree of formality, place, time, occasion, addressees, interactive and political roles, political and ideological orientation, gender, age, profession, level of education, ethnic, regional, national,

historical change re

and transform social relationships (including power relations) and social positions, institutions, knowledge and ideologies, identities and subjects, etc.

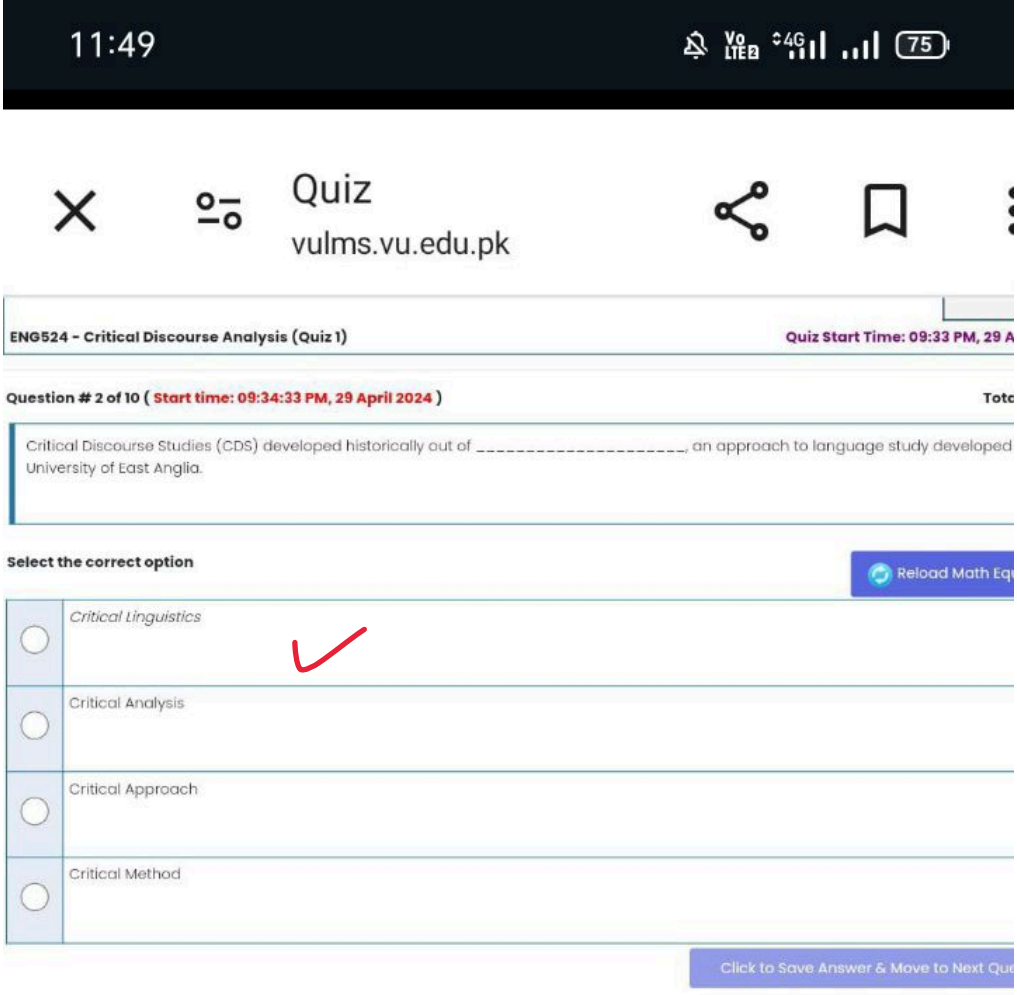

(ix) Discourses develop around social problems. The problems become starting points of argumentation. Argumentation is both a verbal (partly also visual) and cognitive pattern of problem-solving (see Kopperschmidt, 2000; Reisigl, 2014). These patterns surround claims of truth and/or claims of normative rightness. The claims are dealt with from different perspectives. Thus, a discourse involves multiple perspectives.

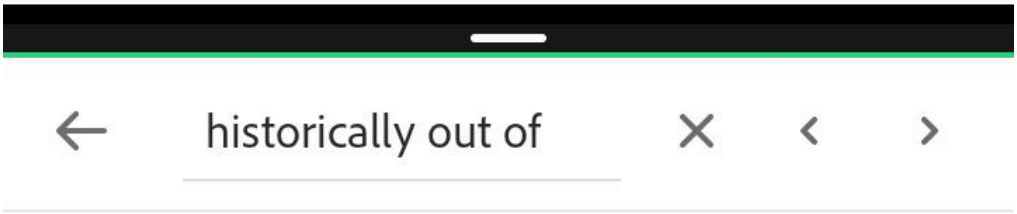

(x) Discourse undergoes historical change relating to social change. Historical change deserves special attention in the DHA. Discursive strategies may be included: Nomination, Predication, Argumentation, Perspectivisation, Mitigation and Intensification

Topic-03: The Concept of Context

Context is a key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS). It has become a defining moment of discourse, because (critical) discourse analysts frequently conceive of discourse as "text in context". CDS pay special attention to the social, political, historical and cognitive context. Context can be broken down into a macro, meso and micro-dimension. The Discourse-Historical Approach distinguishes among four dimensions of "context":

(i) The immediate, language internal co-text and co-discourse regards thematic and syntactic cohérences, lexical solidarités, collocations, connotations, implications, présuppositions and local interactive processes.

CDS developed historically out of Critical Linguistics (CL), an approach to language study developed at the University of East Anglia. CL emphasizes on the role of ideology and power relations in the practice of language use and the persuasive power of syntactic forms, such as the passive and nominalized forms (Kress 1989). Critical Discourse Studies (CDS) is an inter disciplinary approach to language in use - how discourse figures in social processes, social structures and social change. CDS is practiced in a wide range of fields, apart from language studies, such as anthropology, business studies, geography, health studies, media studies, psychology and tourism studies. CDS is not a method of discourse studies, but a group of varying approaches each with distinctive, but also overlapping methods (Wodak and Meyer, 2016). CDA is a linguistic approach that emerged in the early 1990s and is based on the view that discourse - including written and spoken texts -is socially determined. (CDA) is a type of discourse analytical research that primarily studies the way social power abuse, dominance, and inequality are enacted, reproduced, and resisted by text and talk in the social and political context (Van Dijk). Investigates how social practices, events and texts are interrelated and arise out of and are ideologically shaped by relations of power (Fairclough, 1995).

CDA as a Method of Research

Views the systematic analysis and interpretation of texts as potentially revelatory of ways in which discourses consolidate power and colonize human subjects through often covert

11:49

Quiz
vulms.vu.edu.pk

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1) Qui

Question # 1 of 10 (Start time: 09:33:58 PM, 29 April 2024)

According to Fairclough, the category of _____ should be kept in mind while doing Discourse Analysis.

Select the correct option

- social class
- ideology
- All of the given options
- power

Click to Save

kept in mind

categories of social structure in textual analysis can be minimized, for example: In a mixed gender job interview the category of participant gender may apparently be irrelevant or inconsequential on Schegloff's criteria. Various approaches to Discourse Analysis, i.e. Birmingham school (Sinclair and Coulthard 1975), ignore an important type of variability in language use (discourse), e.g. Appropriateness theory of language variability - which assumes a rather straightforward matching between types of social situation and language varieties (Fairclough, 1995). For example, the hidden variability is the variability of practice within particular social situations – within the lesson, within the medical consultation, within the media interview. According to Fairclough, the category of power, social class and Ideology should also be kept in mind while doing Discourse Analysis. Fairclough has adapted the concept of order of discourse from Foucault (1981) to refer to the ordered set of discursive practices associated with a particular social domain or institution, e.g. the lecture, the seminar, counseling, and informal conversation, in an academic institution; and boundaries and relationships between them (Fairclough, 1995). Discursive practices may have their own limitations in different

11:49

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 10 of 10 (Start time: 08:52:37 PM, 29 April 2024)

The most important thing that makes a text and has to make sense is _____.

Select the correct option

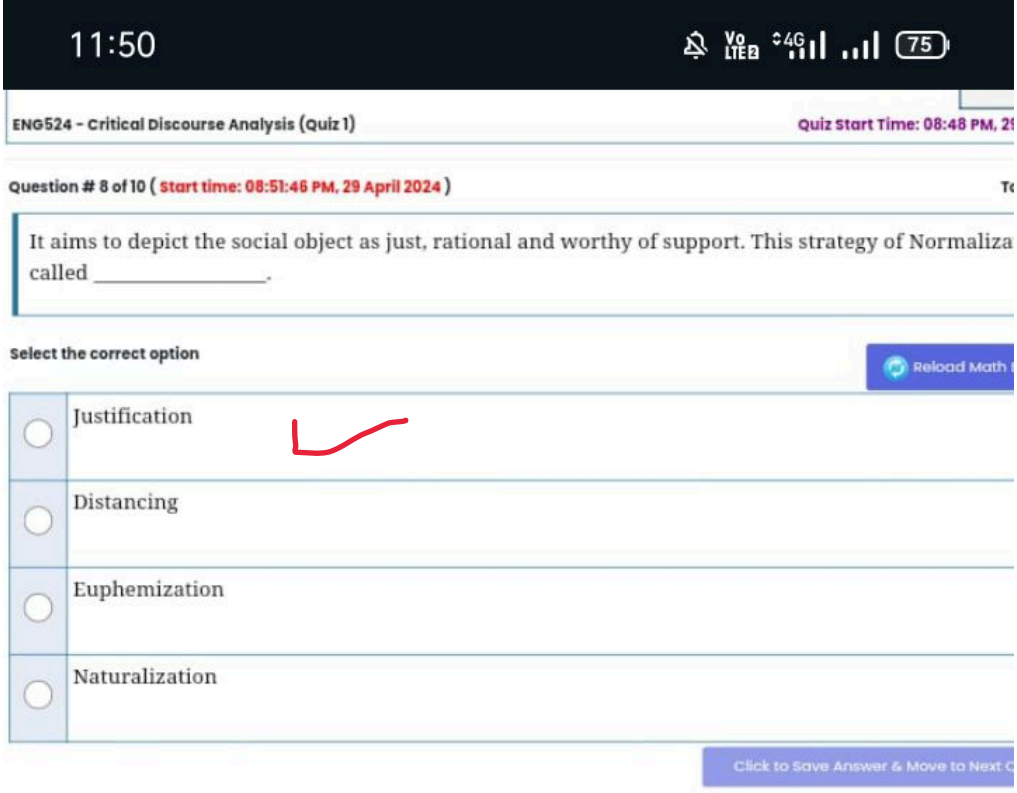

- meaning
- vagueness
- independent clause
- sentence

make sen

d. Language is never used all by itself. It is always combined with other things such as our tone of voice, facial expressions and gestures when we speak, and the fonts, layout and graphics we use in written texts.

Topic-02: Discourse and Text

Meaning is the most important thing that makes a text; it has to make sense (Halliday). A text, in his view, is everything that is meaningful in a particular situation. And the basis for meaning is choice (Halliday 1978: 137). Different patterns of texture are associated with different types of texts. Devices are structured in a conventional way with a summary of the main points in the beginning and with the details coming later. The study of the social functions of different kinds of texts is called genre analysis. Mitchell (1957) was one the first researchers to examine the discourse structure of texts. He looked at the ways in which people order what they say in buying and selling interactions. He looked at the overall structure of these kinds of texts, introducing the notion of stages into discourse analysis; that is the steps that language users go through. The notion of genre in discourse analysis goes beyond examining the conventional structures and features of different kinds of texts to asking what these structures and features can tell us about the people who use the texts and what they are using them to do. A genre is a recognizable communicative event characterized by a set of communicative purposes. Most often it is highly structured and conventionalized with constraints on allowable contributions in terms of their intent, positioning, form and functional value. Three important aspects of genres:

worthy of su

important question

Strategies of Normalization: Write the three strategies of Normalization?

a) Euphemization – aims to color the social object in positive tones, in terms of its appearance, character, or valuation;

b) Naturalization – aims to represent the social object as a force or event independent of human agency, or as an inevitable outcome of the laws of nature;

c) Justification – aims to depict the social object as just, rational, worthy of support.

Strategies of Abstraction

Strategies of Abstraction are one of the most powerful strategies in the Israeli Peace-Estrangement discourse. The following strategies are included in this category:

Strategies of Distancing

Strategies of Distancing are a description that locates the targeted object in a distant conceptual realm. The description can be geographical, literal, conceptual, or metaphorical. The common narratives 'peace is a dream' and 'peace in heaven' are examples of distancing strategy.

Strategies of Impersonalization

It is an explanation of the relevant social object (e.g., peace) which removes the human factor and focuses on abstract organizational structures (i.e., movements, states). The penetration

11:50

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 7 of 10 (Start time: 08:51:21 PM, 29 April 2024)

The term "critical discourse analysis" was introduced in the _____.

Select the correct option

- 1950s
- 1980s
- 1850s
- 1880s

critical discourse ana

Lecture-04

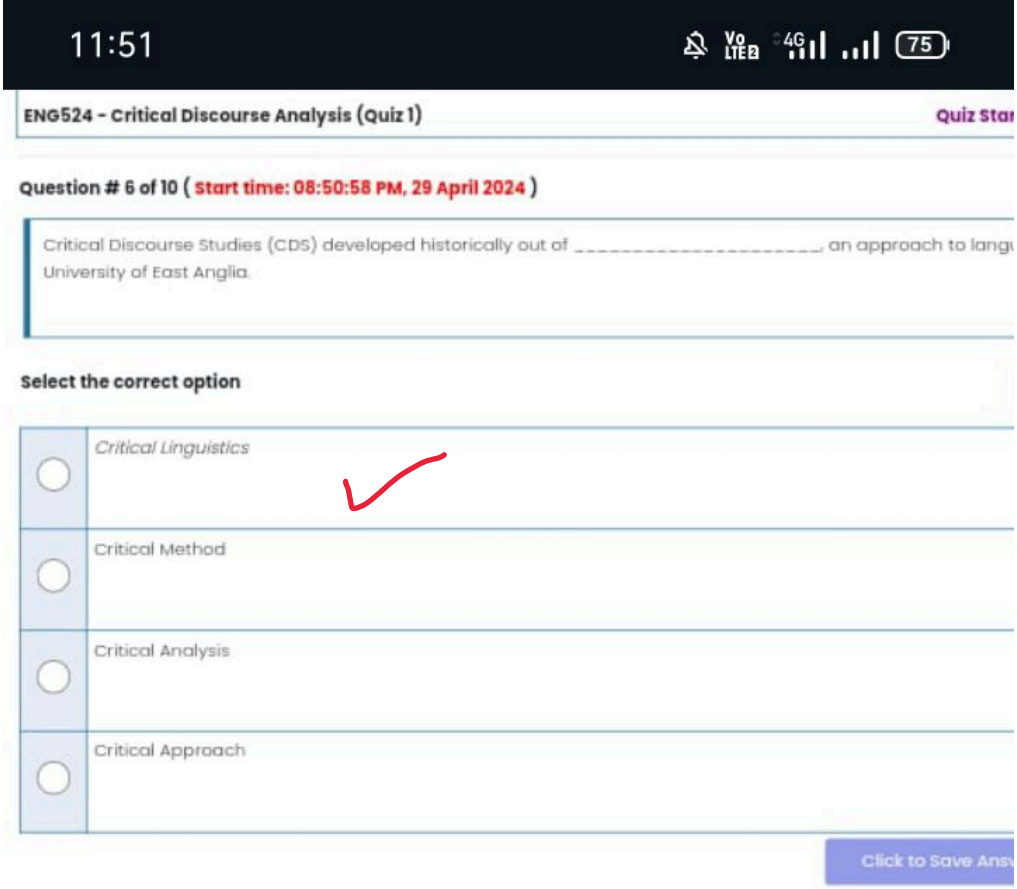

Discourse Historical Approach-II

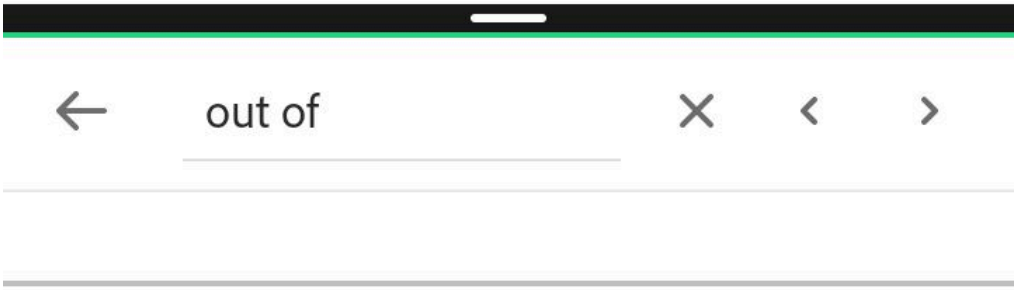

Topic-01: The Concept of Critique

The term "critical discourse analysis" was introduced in the 1980s in order to mark a difference with an allegedly descriptive discourse analysis. What Fairclough, van Dijk and others had in mind when they stood up for "Critical Discourse Analysis" initially was particularly the political meaning of social critique? Political critique means to judge the status quo, e.g., a specific discourse or (dis)order of discourse, against the background of an alternative (ideal) state and preferred values, norms, standards or criteria with respect to shortcomings or contradictions. At least three theoretical sources are relevant for the understanding of "critique", as it prevails in the DHA.

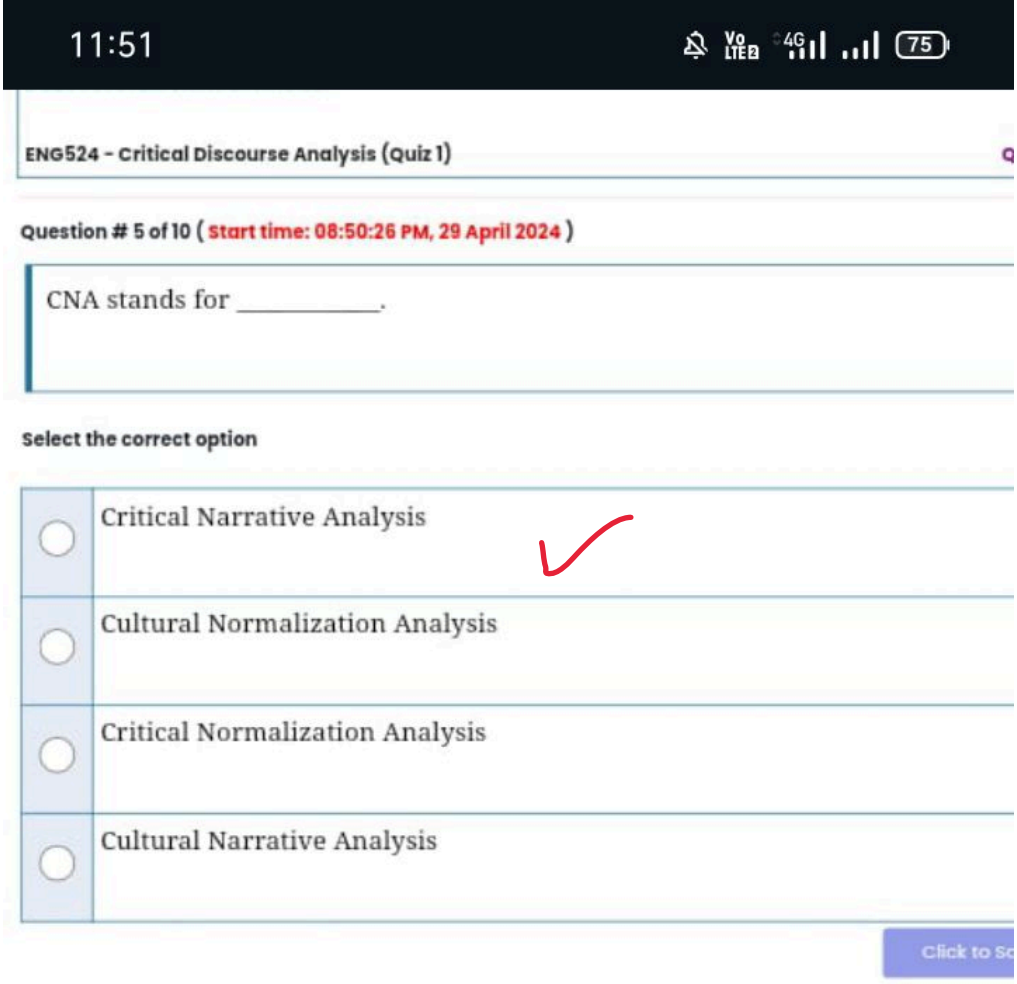

(a) Critical Theory of the first generation (Adorno, Horkheimer, Benjamin) - inspires the DHA where it comes to criticizing oppressive, discriminatory and exploitative ideologies, power abuse as well as the culture industry. Here, ideologies are suspected of justifying particular interests and social inequalities under the guise of common public interests.

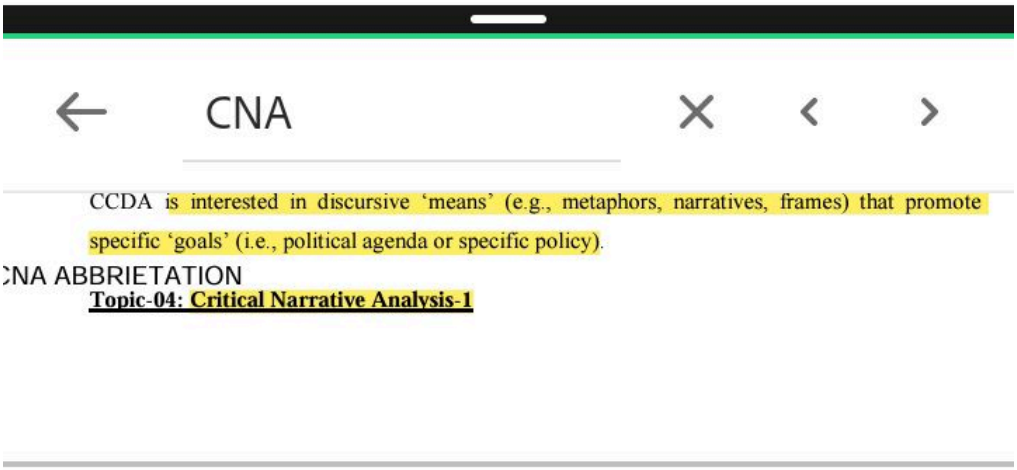

(b) The relationship to Foucault can be characterized as a relationship of strong interest with

CDS developed historically out of Critical Linguistics (CL), an approach to language study developed at the University of East Anglia. CL emphasizes on the role of ideology and power relations in the practice of language use and the persuasive power of syntactic forms, such as the passive and nominalized forms (Kress 1989). Critical Discourse Studies (CDS) is an inter disciplinary approach to language in use - how discourse figures in social processes, social structures and social change. CDS is practiced in a wide range of fields, apart from language studies, such as anthropology, business studies, geography, health studies, media studies, psychology and tourism studies. CDS is not a method of discourse studies, but a group of varying approaches each with distinctive, but also overlapping methods (Wodak and Meyer, 2016). CDA is a linguistic approach that emerged in the early 1990s and is based on the view that discourse - including written and spoken texts -is socially determined. (CDA) is a type of discourse analytical research that primarily studies the way social power abuse, dominance, and inequality are enacted, reproduced, and resisted by text and talk in the social and political context (Van Dijk). Investigates how social practices, events and texts are interrelated and arise out of and are ideologically shaped by relations of power (Fairclough, 1995).

Souto-Manning (2014) has used the hybrid concept of CNA in her own research and proposed that "CNA unites CDA and narrative analysis in a mutually beneficial partnership that addresses both theoretical and methodological dilemmas in discourse analysis."

Critical Narrative Analysis (CNA) II

Montesano, Montessori, and Morales Lopez (2015) define narrative as a powerful tool to depict a desired world or to envision alternatives to the status quo of any particular organization, community, economic, or political system. They expressed this idea in the following words:

Critical Narrative Analysis (CNA) III

Narrative helps to rearticulate the status quo from an undesired version to a desired

11:51

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 4 of 10 (Start time: 08:49:47 PM, 29 April 2024)

One of the main tenets of CDA is that _____ relations are discursive.

Select the correct option

- linguistic
- communicative
- language
- power ✓

are discursive

Ruth Wodak views discourse as a form of social practice. It problems in our society are too complex to be studied from a single point of view that "studies in CDA are multifarious, derived from quite different theoretical backgrounds" (Wodak, 2001:5).

Topic-06: Main tenets of CDA

Fairclough and Wodak (1997: 271-80) summarize the main tenets of CDA as follows:

- CDA addresses social problems
- Power relations are discursive
- Discourse constitutes society and culture
- Discourse does ideological work
- Discourse is historical
- The link between text and society is mediated
- Discourse analysis is interpretative and explanatory
- Discourse is a form of social action.
- Critical discourse analysts take explicit position, and thus want to understand, expose, and ultimately resist social inequality.
- CDA has a purpose, clear-cut and strong message/ Socially Critical and analytical.

11:53

Question # 10 of 10 (Start time: 08:49:23 PM, 29 April 2024)

Which of the following is NOT the discursive strategy of DHA?

Select the correct option

- Nomination
- Perspectivisation
- Predication
- Abstraction ✓

discursive stra

and transform social relationships (including power relations) and social positions, institutions, knowledge and ideologies, identities and subjects, etc.

(ix) Discourses develop around social problems. The problems become starting points of argumentation. Argumentation is both a verbal (partly also visual) and cognitive pattern of problem-solving (see Kopperschmidt, 2000; Reisigl, 2014). These patterns surround claims of truth and/or claims of normative rightness. The claims are dealt with from different perspectives. Thus, a discourse involves multiple perspectives.

(x) Discourse undergoes historical change relating to social change. Historical change deserves special attention in the DHA. Discursive strategies may be included: Nomination, Predication, Argumentation, Perspectivisation, Mitigation and Intensification

Topic-03: The Concept of Context

Context is a key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS). It has become a defining moment of discourse, because (critical) discourse analysts frequently conceive of discourse as "text in context". CDS pay special attention to the social, political, historical and cognitive context. Context can be broken down into a macro, meso and micro-dimension. The Discourse-Historical Approach distinguishes among four dimensions of "context":

(i) The immediate, language internal co-text and co-discourse regards thematic and syntactic cohérences, lexical solidarités, collocations, connotations, implications, présuppositions and local interactive processes.

11:53

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 3 of 10 (Start time: 08:49:13 PM, 29 April 2024)

The key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS) is _____

Select the correct option

- identity
- language
- context
- critique

key notion

and transform social relationships (including power relations) and social positions, institutions, knowledge and ideologies, identities and subjects, etc.

(ix) Discourses develop around social problems. The problems become starting points of argumentation. Argumentation is both a verbal (partly also visual) and cognitive pattern of problem-solving (see Kopperschmidt, 2000; Reisigl, 2014). These patterns surround claims of truth and/or claims of normative rightness. The claims are dealt with from different perspectives. Thus, a discourse involves multiple perspectives.

(x) Discourse undergoes historical change relating to social change. Historical change deserves special attention in the DHA. Discursive strategies may be included: Nomination, Predication, Argumentation, Perspectivisation, Mitigation and Intensification

Topic-03: The Concept of Context

Context is a key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS). It has become a defining moment of discourse, because (critical) discourse analysts frequently conceive of discourse as "text in context". CDS pay special attention to the social, political, historical and cognitive context. Context can be broken down into a macro, meso and micro-dimension. The Discourse-Historical Approach distinguishes among four dimensions of "context":

(i) The immediate, language internal co-text and co-discourse regards thematic and syntactic cohérences, lexical solidarités, collocations, connotations, implications, présuppositions and local interactive processes.

11:53

Question # 9 of 10 (Start time: 08:48:57 PM, 29 April 2024)

Critical Discourse Studies (CDS) developed historically out of _____, an approach to la

Select the correct option

- Critical Analysis
- Critical Method
- Critical Linguistics ✓
- Critical Approach

historically out of

CDS developed historically out of Critical Linguistics (CL), an approach to language study developed at the University of East Anglia. CL emphasizes on the role of ideology and power relations in the practice of language use and the persuasive power of syntactic forms, such as the passive and nominalized forms (Kress 1989). Critical Discourse Studies (CDS) is an inter disciplinary approach to language in use - how discourse figures in social processes, social structures and social change. CDS is practiced in a wide range of fields, apart from language studies, such as anthropology, business studies, geography, health studies, media studies, psychology and tourism studies. CDS is not a method of discourse studies, but a group of varying approaches each with distinctive, but also overlapping methods (Wodak and Meyer, 2016). CDA is a linguistic approach that emerged in the early 1990s and is based on the view that discourse - including written and spoken texts -is socially determined. (CDA) is a type of discourse analytical research that primarily studies the way social power abuse, dominance, and inequality are enacted, reproduced, and resisted by text and talk in the social and political context (Van Diik). Investigates how social practices, events and texts are interrelated and arise out of

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 2 of 10 (Start time: 08:48:41 PM, 29 April 2024)

How many assumptions of discourse analysis are there?

Select the correct option

- four
- three
- five
- six

assumptions

are strongly related to each other. The ways we make visible and recognizable who we are and what we are doing always involve more than just language (Gee, 2005, cited in Paltridge, 2008). Discourse and Performance: 'a Discourse is a 'dance' (Gee, 2005, p. 19). While we say something, we also do it. Discourse and intertextuality are also relevant to each other.

Assumptions of Discourse Analysis

Four main assumptions:

a. Language is ambiguous - What things mean is never absolutely clear. All communication involves interpreting what other people mean.

b. Language is always 'in the world' - what language means is always a matter of where and when it is used and what it is used to do.

c. The way we use language is inseparable from who we are and the different social groups to which we belong. We use language to display different kinds of social identities.

11:54

Question # 8 of 10 (Start time: 08:47:55 PM, 29 April 2024)

The acronym "DHA" stands for:

Select the correct option

- Debate-Historical Approach
- Discourse-Historical Approach
- Discourse-Holistic Approach
- Dialogue-Historical Approach

DHA

Lecture-03

Introduction of Discourse Historical Approach-1

Topic-01: Introduction

In English-speaking countries, the label "Discourse-Historical Approach" and its acronym "DHA" stand for one of the most prominent critical approaches to the study of discourse. The label stresses the strong historical research interest of the approach. Many theoretical and also methodological concepts used in the DHA are equally valid for other strands in critical discourse studies—even if their contexts of emergence have led to different toolkits (e.g., Hart & Cap 2014; Wodak & Meyer 2015). The DHA is distinctive both at the level of research interest and methodological orientation (an interest in identity construction and in unjustified discrimination. It is a focus on the historical dimensions of discourse formation and on (national, local, transnational, and global) identity politics and the politics of the past. It was oriented toward the critical theory of the Frankfurt School, and in particular toward Habermas's language philosophy (e.g. Reisigl & Wodak, 2015). A detailed DHA ideally follows an eight-stage program.

1. Literature review, activation of theoretical knowledge (i.e., recollection, reading, and discussion of previous research);

2. Systematic collection of data and context information (depending on the research questions,

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 1 of 10 (Start time: 08:48:10 PM, 29 April 2024)

Discourse undergoes historical change relating to _____ change.

Select the correct option

- ○ social
- ○ economic
- ○ political
- ○ environmental

undergoes his

and transform social relationships (including power relations) and social positions, institutions, knowledge and ideologies, identities and subjects, etc.

(ix) Discourses develop around social problems. The problems become starting points of argumentation. Argumentation is both a verbal (partly also visual) and cognitive pattern of problem-solving (see Kopperschmidt, 2000; Reisigl, 2014). These patterns surround claims of truth and/or claims of normative rightness. The claims are dealt with from different perspectives. Thus, a discourse involves multiple perspectives.

(x) Discourse undergoes historical change relating to social change. Historical change deserves special attention in the DHA. Discursive strategies may be included: Nomination, Predication, Argumentation, Perspectivisation, Mitigation and Intensification

Topic-03: The Concept of Context

Context is a key notion of Critical Discourse Studies (CDS). It has become a defining moment of discourse, because (critical) discourse analysts frequently conceive of discourse as "text in context". CDS pay special attention to the social, political, historical and cognitive context. Context can be broken down into a macro, meso and micro-dimension. The Discourse-Historical Approach distinguishes among four dimensions of "context":

(i) The immediate, language internal co-text and co-discourse regards thematic and syntactic cohérences, lexical solidarités, collocations, connotations, implications, présuppositions and

11:55

uestion # 7 of 10 (Start time: 08:47:20 PM, 29 April 2024)

The process by which text and context come together in the creation of meaning is referred to a

elect the correct option

- intertextualization
- intratextualization
- contextualization
- technologization

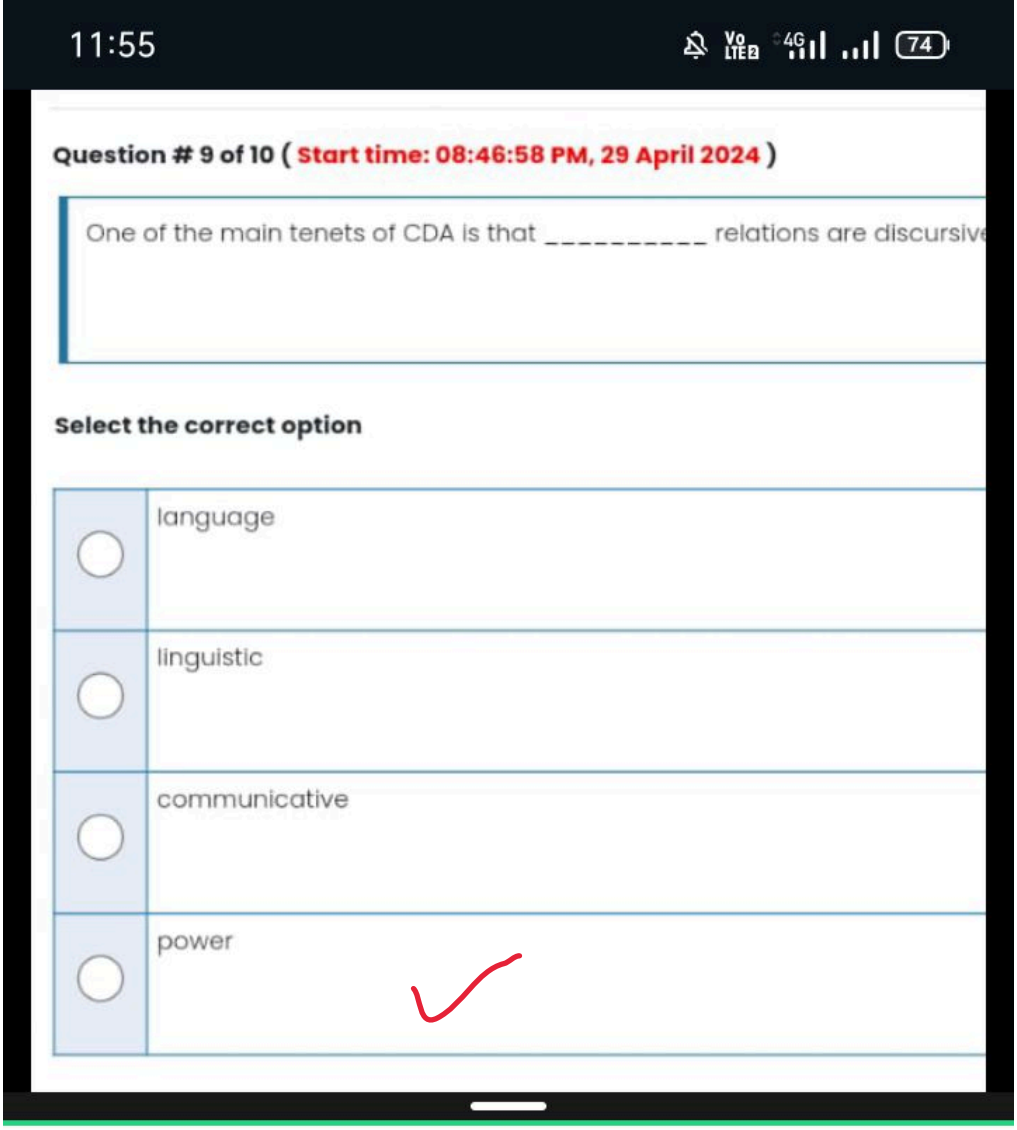

text and con

"the cognitive, social, political, cultural and historical environments of discourse" (original emphasis).

Further Characterization

Early approaches used various metaphors to depict context. Goodwin and Duranti (1992) adopt the metaphor of figure as text and ground as context. Other researchers prefer to focus on levels of context. Halliday & Hasan (1985) distinguish text, co-text, context of situation and context of culture. In addition to co-text, Wodak (2002) includes in her model of context the other texts and discourses; the conditions of text production, distribution and reception, the wider socio-political context (Flowerdew, 2018). Text and context are generally construed to be in a "mutually reflexive" relationship where text influences context and context influences text (Goodwin and Duranti 1992: 31; also van Dijk 2008). Analysis, according to this view, involves a continual shunting between text and context (Fairclough, Mulderrig and Wodak 2011). The process by which text and context come together in the creation of meaning is referred to as contextualization, i.e. by text; we nowadays mean any semiotic feature, including signs, symbols and physical embodiment (Flowerdew, 2018). According to van Dijk (2008), contextualization is regulated by 'K-device': which is the mutual knowledge shared by speaker and hearer. Knowledge – which may be personal, interpersonal, group, institutional, national or cultural – is invoked in the discourse processing (Van Dijk, 2005).

Context is dynamic, changing as the discourse progresses (Goodwin and Duranti 1992; O'Halloran, Tan and E 2014). It is also negotiated between the participants in a discourse,

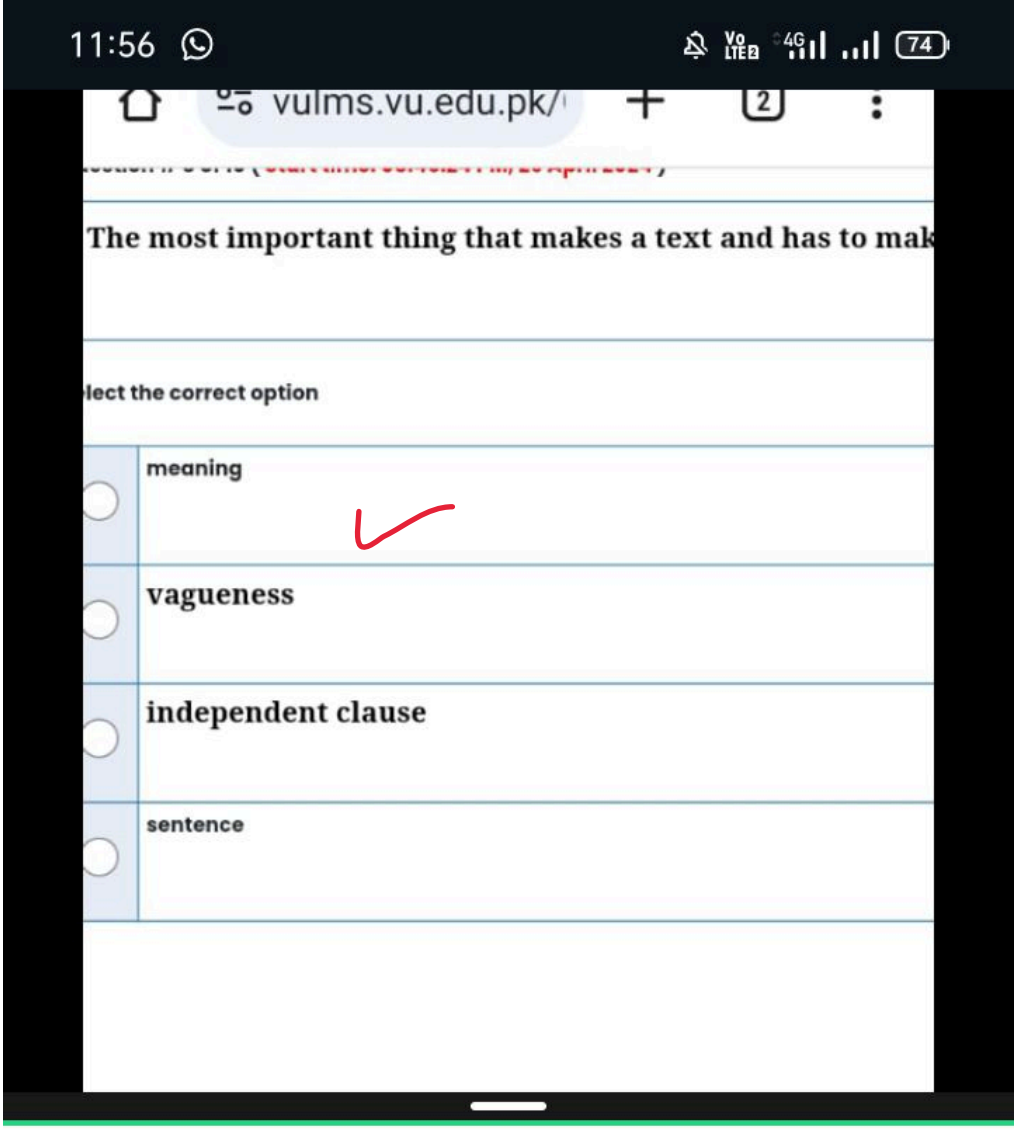

are discursive

Ruth Wodak views discourse as a form of social practice. It problems in our society are too complex to be studied from a single point of view that "studies in CDA are multifarious, derived from quite different theoretical backgrounds" (Wodak, 2001:5).

Topic-06: Main tenets of CDA

Fairclough and Wodak (1997: 271-80) summarize the main tenets of CDA as follows:

- CDA addresses social problems
- Power relations are discursive
- Discourse constitutes society and culture
- Discourse does ideological work
- Discourse is historical
- The link between text and society is mediated
- Discourse analysis is interpretative and explanatory
- Discourse is a form of social action.
- Critical discourse analysts take explicit position, and thus want to understand, expose, and ultimately resist social inequality.
- CDA has a purpose, clear-cut and strong message/ Socially Critical and analytical.

makes a text

d. Language is never used all by itself. It is always combined with other things such as our tone of voice, facial expressions and gestures when we speak, and the fonts, layout and graphics we use in written texts.

Topic-02: Discourse and Text

Meaning is the most important thing that makes a text; it has to make sense (Halliday). A text, in his view, is everything that is meaningful in a particular situation. And the basis for meaning is choice (Halliday 1978: 137). Different patterns of texture are associated with different types of texts. Devices are structured in a conventional way with a summary of the main points in the beginning and with the details coming later. The study of the social functions of different kinds of texts is called genre analysis. Mitchell (1957) was one the first researchers to examine the discourse structure of texts. He looked at the ways in which people order what they say in buying and selling interactions. He looked at the overall structure of these kinds of texts, introducing the notion of stages into discourse analysis; that is the steps that language users go through. The notion of genre in discourse analysis goes beyond examining the conventional structures and features of different kinds of texts to asking what these structures and features can tell us about the people who use the texts and what they are using them to do. A genre is a

11:56

Question # 4 of 10 (Start time: 08:45:29 PM, 29 April 2024)

The Discourse Historical Approach is _____ oriented.

Select the correct option

- ○ perspective
- ○ application
- ○ solution
- ○ problem ✓

oriented

which Isabela advocated in earlier publications. https://lancaster.academia.edu/NormanFairclough

Ruth Wodak

Ruth is Emeritus Distinguished Professor at Lancaster University - also affiliated to the University of Vienna. She did a project on the "Discursive Construction of National Identity (Austria 2015). It consisted of the development of theoretical approaches in discourse studies (combining ethnography, argumentation theory, rhetoric, and text linguistics); identity politics and politics of the past; language and/in politics; racism, prejudice, and discrimination. Combining several fields in discourse studies, she continues to develop the Discourse-Historical Approach in CDS, an interdisciplinary, problem-oriented approach which analyses the changes of discursive practices over time and in various genres.

Teun A.van Dijk

Teun A. van Dijk (1943) was professor of Discourse Studies at the University of Amsterdam until 2004. In the 90s, his work extended towards a more general study of the role of power and ideology in discourse and the reproduction of sociopolitical beliefs in society. His

[redacted]

Question # 1 of 10 (Start time: 08:43:58 PM, 29 April 2024)

According to Fairclough, the category of _____ should be kept in mind while doing Discourse Analysis.

Select the correct option

○	social class
○	All of the given options ✓
○	ideology
○	power

[redacted]

8:40 PM

vulms.vu.edu.pk/

Question # 3 of 10 (Start time: 08:43:26 PM, 29 April 2024)

How many assumptions of discourse analysis are there?

Select the correct option

○	four
○	six
○	five
○	three

8:40 PM

vulms.vu.edu.pk/

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 2 of 10 (Start time: 08:42:53 PM, 29 April 2024)

Which of the following is NOT the discursive strategy of DHA?

Select the correct option

- ○ Perspectivisation
- ○ Predication
- ○ Abstraction ✓
- ○ Nomination

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 9 of 10 (Start time: 08:27:17 PM, 29 April 2024)

The Discourse Historical Approach is _____ oriented.

Select the correct option

- solution
- problem
- application
- perspective

BC200205366: EIZA IMRAN

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 8 of 10 (Start time: 08:26:40 PM, 29 April 2024)

Discourse undergoes historical change relating to _____ change.

Select the correct option

- ○ economic
- ○ political
- ○ social ✓
- ○ environmental

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 7 of 10 (Start time: 08:25:52 PM, 29 April 2024)

How many assumptions of discourse analysis are there?

Select the correct option

- four
- six
- five
- three

BC200205366: EIZA IMRAN

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 6 of 10 (Start time: 08:25:08 PM, 29 April 2024)

The most important thing that makes a text and has to make sense is _____

Select the correct option

- meaning
- vagueness
- sentence
- independent clause

Click to S

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 5 of 10 (Start time: 08:23:34 PM, 29 April 2024)

Collective Narrative is a narrative that forms part of a group's _____.

Select the correct option

- skills
- identity ✓
- language
- power

BC200205366: EIZA IMRAN

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 4 of 10 (Start time: 08:22:50 PM, 29 April 2024)

The term "critical discourse analysis" was introduced in the _____.

Select the correct option

- 1880s
- 1980s
- 1950s
- 1850s

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 2 of 10 (Start time: 08:21:46 PM, 29 April 2024)

The acronym "DHA" stands for:

Select the correct option

- ○ Dialogue-Historical Approach
- ○ Discourse-Historical Approach ✓
- ○ Debate-Historical Approach
- ○ Discourse-Holistic Approach

20:21 16.0 KB/S 75
vulms.vu.edu.pk/Quiz/QuizQu

BC200205366: EIZA IMRAN

Time Left 88 sec(s)

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Quiz Start Time: 08:20 PM, 29 April 2024

Question # 1 of 10 (Start time: 08:20:59 PM, 29 April 2024)

Total Marks: 1

It aims to depict the social object as just, rational and worthy of support. This strategy of Normalization is called _____.

Select the correct option

Reload Math Equations

- Euphemization
- Naturalization
- Justification
- Distancing

Click to Save Answer & Move to Next Question

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1) Quiz

Question # 8 of 10 (Start time: 05:08:27 PM, 29 April 2024)

How many assumptions of discourse analysis are there?

Select the correct option

- five
- four ✓
- six
- three

Click to Save

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1) Quiz Start Time: 05:04 PM,

Question # 10 of 10 (Start time: 05:09:12 PM, 29 April 2024)

The process by which ends are related to means, intentions to capabilities, and objectives to resou called _____.

Select the correct option

Reload Mat

- Abstraction
- Normalization
- Strategy ✓
- Impersonalization

Click to Save Answer & Move to Next

11:59 74

ENG524 - Critical Discourse Analysis (Quiz 1)

Question # 2 of 10 (Start time: 05:05:04 PM, 29 April 2024)

MMDA stands for _____.

Select the correct option

- Micro-Model discourse analysis
- Multi-Modal discourse analysis ✓
- Meso-Model discourse analysis
- Macro-Model discourse analysis

MMDA

Corpus Linguistics

It is the study of the text/context interface in order to compare the use of language in a specific corpus of text and a reference corpus, to show how language-use in a specific conte varies from general context. Corpus Linguistics allows CDS to work with much larger da volumes, thus reducing researcher bias (Hardt-Mautner 1995). CDA and genre allows CDS to qualitatively and quantitatively examine a given language feature's collocational environments, semantic patterns and discourse functions (Hardt-Mautner 1995). Corpus Linguistics has been criticized for decontextualizing data and for limiting the analysis to a bottom-up type of investigation (Widdowson, 2004).

Multi-Modal Discourse Analysis (MMDA)

This type of analysis involves all semiotic systems, not just language use. MMDA is influenced by the work of Halliday (1978) and was pioneered by Kress and van Leeuwen (1996) (both followers of Halliday and CDS practitioners). MMDA focuses "specifically on how different semiotic resources are deployed in the re-contextualization of social practices for ideological purposes". An interesting example of critical MMDA is study on televised and online news - construe discourse, context and culture" (O'Halloran, 2014: 249).