Question No: 36 (Marks: 5)

Which factors should be studied by entrepreneur to conduct environmental analysis while preparing a business plan? Explain the factors. www.vuaskari.com

The entrepreneur should first conduct an environmental analysis to identify trends and changes occurring on a national and international level that may impact the new venture. Examples of environmental factors are:

· Economy

· Culture

· Technology

· Legal concerns

Economy: The entrepreneur first wants to know the economic situation of country where he wants to start the business because this has great impact on its success. If economical situation is not stabilizes then investors will not willing to invest with us, which is the first step for every beginning of business.

Culture: It has too much influence on our products which we made. If we produce such thing which is not familiar to people where the business operate there should be loss for. For example; if Bonanza will start to produce Shalwar & Kameez suits in Arab countries who will buy, because in Arab countries there culture is different from us. So, entrepreneur must first look about the culture trends.

Technology: Now a day's technology changes day to day. Every day or week new inventions is there in market, which help us to make business easy for us. We should keep update ourselves in technology perspective to save more money and produce more.

Legal Concerns: These are important issue for every entrepreneur. As every country have its own and different laws there. Therefore, he/she must be having knowledge about the limitations and permissions from government of that country where he/she want to do business.

Strategic Planning offers ideas on how to match the organization's design to its products and capabilities, goals and resources. This process is much easier to execute once you have obtained a basic knowledge of exporting value-added food products, understand the marketing research process, and analyzed the elements of the marketing mix. Proper organization, both internally and externally, allow the firm to become more efficient in its operations and expansion.

After the information the first step in building a successful export strategy is determining the firm's readiness to export. The following are guidelines on preparing an export business plan, developing export marketing skills, designing a template for an export marketing plan and considering marketing tools prior to engaging directly in promotional activities.

Question No: 35 (Marks: 3)
What is copyright? What are its limitations?
A copyright protects original works of authorship. The protection does not protect the idea itself. It is a set of exclusive rights granted by the law of a jurisdiction to the author or creator of an original work, including the right to copy, distribute and adapt the work. It allows someone else to use the idea in a different manner.
It's Limitation:
Exceptions and limitations to these rights strive to balance the public interest in the wide distribution of the material produced and to encourage creativity. Exceptions include fair dealing and fair use, and such use does not require the permission of the copyright owner. All other uses require permission and copyright owners can license or permanently transfer or assign their exclusive rights to others. Copyright does not protect ideas, only their expression or fixation. In most jurisdictions, copyright arises upon fixation and does not need to be registered. Copyright protection applies for a specific period of time, after which the work is said to enter the public domain.

Question No: 36 (Marks: 5)
While using brain storming for new idea creation what measures should be taken to acquire a good idea?
You can often get the best results by combining individual and group brainstorming, and by managing the process carefully and according to the "rules" below. That way, you get people to focus on the issue without interruption (this comes from having everyone in a dedicated group meeting), you maximize the number of ideas you can generate, and you get that great feeling of team bonding that comes with a well-run brainstorming session!
To run a group brainstorming session effectively, do the following:

- Find a comfortable meeting environment, and set it up ready for the session.
- Appoint one person to record the ideas that come from the session. These should be noted in a format than everyone can see and refer to. Depending on the approach you want to use, you may want to record ideas on flip charts, whiteboards, or computers with data projectors.
- If people aren't already used to working together, consider using an appropriate warm-up exercise or ice-breaker.
- Define the problem you want solved clearly, and lay out any criteria to be met. Make it clear that that the objective of the meeting is to generate as many ideas as possible.
- Give people plenty of time on their own at the start of the session to generate as many ideas as possible.
- Ask people to give their ideas, making sure that you give everyone a fair opportunity to contribute.

vuaskari.com

- Encourage people to develop other people's ideas, or to use other ideas to create new ones.
- Encourage an enthusiastic, uncritical attitude among members of the group. Try to get everyone to contribute and develop ideas, including the quietest members of the group.
- Ensure that no one criticizes or evaluates ideas during the session. Criticism introduces an element of risk for group members when putting forward an idea. This stifles creativity and cripples the free running nature of a good brainstorming session.
- Let people have fun brainstorming. Encourage them to come up with as many ideas as possible, from solidly practical ones to wildly impractical ones. Welcome creativity!
- Ensure that no train of thought is followed for too long. Make sure that you generate a sufficient number of different ideas, as well as exploring individual ideas in detail.
- In a long session, take plenty of breaks so that people can continue to concentrate.

Question No: 37 (Marks: 5)

While developing the web site what characteristics should be kept in mind?

1. The pleasant outlook of a website is the first important thing to keep in mind. Too much use of pattern or colors can drive the viewers away.
2. DO NOT use unnecessary audio or video. I once opened a site where a woman started speaking something as soon as the site opened. It startled me and I closed it immediately. So don't let that happen. Correct use of flash will make the website attractive but too much of it might distract the visitors from the main goal. We do not want to do that.
3. Don't put a welcome page where you have to click and enter your main page. Wasting time there might drive the visitors away.
4. The website shouldn't take a lot of time to load. Visitors might not have so much of patience and that means they'll leave your site immediately
5. Unnecessary banners ads or links. Unless you are an advertiser, banner ads or link ads can drive potential customers away. Even if you have to do so use a pop-up to open a certain link, making sure the visitors still have your window open.
6. Avoid using colorful fonts, use of many fonts or use of unreadable fonts. As I said pleasant outlooks keeps the visitors hooked on your site
7. Keep the color of links constant. The formal color for links is blue, underlined. If the color of the normal text and that of the link is same the visitors wouldn't know the difference.
8. Avoid using lot of graphics or images that are hard to load. Unless you are selling different products, do not use many graphics, images making you page hard to load.
9. Headline plays a significant role in attracting customers. Hence use catchy phrases for the headline, it'll work well.
10. The 10th and the most important is the content. Relevant content is the best way to keep the visitors hooked up and more over buy what you are selling. Correct use of words

www.vuaskari.com

and sentences not only attracts the prospects but also helps the search engines to crawl it easily. Proper content, with relevant use of keywords is a MUST.

Question No: 35 (Marks: 3)

Briefly discuss licensing and its benefits.

Licensing is an arrangement between two parties, where one party has proprietary rights protected by a patent, trademark, or copyright. This requires the licensee to pay a royalty to the holder of the proprietary rights in return for permission to copy the patent. Licensing has significant value as a marketing strategy to holders of patents.

Benefits:

There are various ways in which a license agreement can give the licensee the possibility of increasing revenues and profits, and of enlarging market share:

- There is often a rush to bring new products onto the market. A license agreement that gives access to technologies which are already established or readily available can make it possible for an enterprise to reach the market faster.
- Small companies may not have the resources to conduct the research and development necessary to provide new or superior products. A license agreement can give an enterprise access to technical advances that would otherwise be difficult for it to obtain.
- A license can also be necessary for the maintenance and development of a market position that is already well established but is threatened by a new design or new production methods. The costs entailed in following events and trends can be daunting, and quick access to a new technology through a license agreement may be the best way to overcome this problem.
- There may also be licensing-in opportunities which, when paired with the company's current technology portfolio, can create new products, services and market opportunities.

Question No: 36 (Marks: 5)

What is a business plan and what purpose does it serve?

Business Plan:

A business plan is a written document prepared by the entrepreneur that describes all the relevant external and internal elements involved in starting a new venture. It addresses both short- and long-term decision making. The business plan is like a road map for the business' development. The Internet also provides outlines for business planning. Entrepreneurs can also hire or offer equity to another person to provide expertise in preparing the business plan. In developing the business plan the entrepreneur

www.vuaskari.com

can determine how much money will be needed from new and existing sources.

Purpose of Business Plan:

The business plan must be comprehensive enough to address the concerns of employees, investors, bankers, venture capitalists, suppliers, and customers. Three perspectives need to be considered:

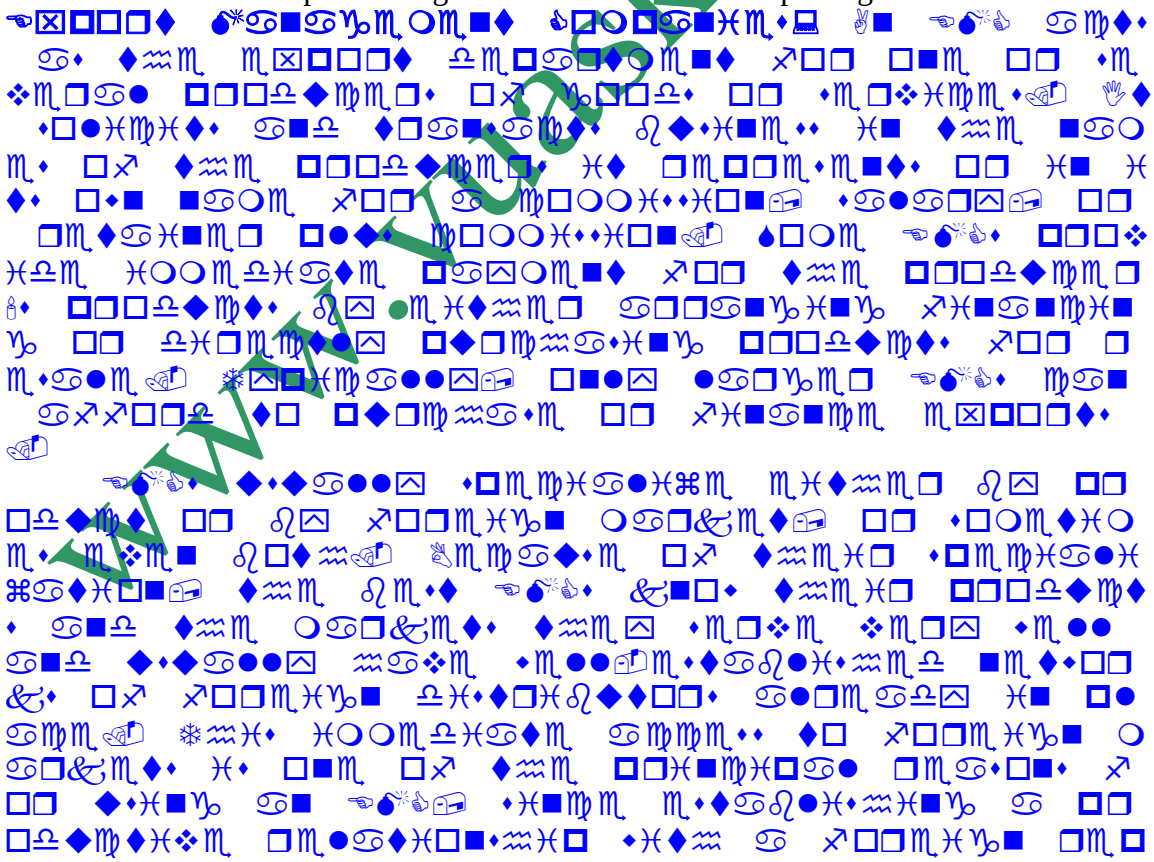

The entrepreneur understands the new venture better than anyone. The marketing perspective considers the venture through the eyes of the customer. The investor looks for sound financial projections. The depth of the business plan depends on the size and scope of the proposed venture.

The business plan is valuable to the entrepreneur and investors because:

1. It helps determine the viability of the venture in a designated market.
2. It gives guidance in organizing planning activities.
3. It serves as an important tool in obtaining financing. Potential investors are very particular about what should be included in the plan. The process of developing a business plan also provides a self-assessment of the entrepreneur. This self-evaluation requires the entrepreneur to think through obstacles that might prevent the venture's success. It also allows the entrepreneur to plan ways to avoid such obstacles.

In the given situations what types of merger is suitable for each situation and why?

• McDonald's with KFC
• One steel mill with another steel mill
• ABN AMRO with Royal bank of Scotland
• Steel mill with a fertilizer producing firm
• An oil cooking producing company with Desi Ghee producing company

Answer:

McDonald's with KFC: The merger in this case will be a horizontal merger because they both produce related products, which is the condition of horizontal merger.

One Steel Mill with other Steel Mill: The two steel mills will merge horizontally because both the mills are producing similar product.

ABN AMRO with Royal Bank of Scotland: Both the banks will merge horizontally because both are providing similar type of services.

Steel mill with a fertilizer producing firm: Since both the firms are non-interrelated so this merger will be a diversified merger.

An oil cooking producing company with Desi Ghee producing company: The merger in this situation will be a production merger because production of both products is

Question No: 2

Which one of the following gives suggestions for new product and also help to market new products?

- ► Existing products and services
- ► Distribution channels
- ► Federal government
- ► Consumers

Reference & Explanation:
Consumers Potential entrepreneurs should pay close attention to the final focal point of a new product-the customer. This can be an informal or formal survey of consumers expressing their opinions. Care should be taken to ensure that the idea represents a large enough market.
Existing Companies Entrepreneurs should establish a formal method for monitoring and evaluating the products and services in the market. This may uncover ways to improve on present products, resulting in new product ideas.
Distribution Channels
Members of distribution channels are also excellent sources for new ideas because they are familiar with the needs of the market. Not only do channel members frequently have suggestions for new product, but they can also help in marketing the entrepreneur's newly developed products.
Federal Government

The federal government can be source of new product ideas in two ways. First the files of the Patent Office contain numerous new product possibilities. Although the patents may not be feasible new product introduction, they can suggest other marketable product ideas. Several government agencies and publications are helpful in monitoring patent applications. Second new product ideas can come in response to government regulations. For example the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA), aimed at eliminating unsafe working condition in industry, mandated that first aid kits be made available in business establishments employing more than three people. The kit had to contain specific item that varied according to the company and the industry. In response to OSHA, both established and newly formed ventures marketed a wide variety of first aid kits.

Middle Ages

In this age the term entrepreneur was used to describe both an actor and a person who managed large production projects. In such large production projects, this person did not take any risks, managing the project with the resources provided. A typical entrepreneur was the cleric who managed architectural projects.

18th Century

In the 18th century the person with capital was differentiated from the one who needed capital. In other words, entrepreneur was distinguished from the capital provider.

17th Century

In the 17th century the entrepreneur was a person who entered into a contract with the government to perform a service Richard Cantillon, a noted economist of the 1700s, developed theories of the entrepreneur and is regarded as the founder of the term. He viewed the entrepreneur as a risk taker who "buy[s] at certain price and sell[s] at an uncertain price, therefore operating at a risk."

19th and 20th Centuries

In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, entrepreneurs were viewed mostly from an economic perspective. The entrepreneur "contributes his own initiative, skill and ingenuity in planning, organizing and administering the enterprise, assuming the chance of loss and gain."

Question No: 6

A person who managed large project was termed as the entrepreneur in the _____.

- ► Earliest period
- ► Middle ages
- ► 17th century
- ► 19th and 20th century

Referece and Explanation:

Earliest Period

In this period the money person (forerunner of the capitalist) entered into a contract with the go-between to sell his goods. While the capitalist was a passive risk bearer, the merchant bore all the physical and emotional risks.

Middle Ages

In this age the term entrepreneur was used to describe both an actor and a person who managed large production projects. In such large production projects, this person did not take any risks, managing the project with the resources provided. A typical entrepreneur was the cleric who managed architectural projects.

Question No: 7

What is the process by which individuals pursue opportunities without regard to resources they currently control?

- ► Startup management
- ► Entrepreneurship
- ► Financial analysis
- ► Feasibility planning

Reference & Explanation:

Entrepreneurship is a process by which individuals - either on their own or inside organizations - pursue opportunities without regard to the resources they currently control. (Stevenson & Jarillo, 1990, p. 23)
(http://findarticles.com/p/articles/mi_hb6648/is_n3_v19/ai_n28666393/)

Stevenson's definition would be as follows: The continuous process by which individuals pursue opportunities without regard to resources they currently control, with the intent of increasing value and/or advantage. I have made the underlined additions because entrepreneurship should never be considered a single event. It is a continuing, non–ending process in search of increasing value and ever increasing advantage.

Question No: 16

Which one of the following is an important source of idea generation due to their familiarity with the needs of market?

► Existing products and services
► Distribution channels
► Federal government
► Consumers

Reference & Explanation:
Consumers Potential entrepreneurs should pay close attention to the final focal point of a new product-the customer. This can be an informal or formal survey of consumers expressing their opinions. Care should be taken to ensure that the idea represents a large enough market.
Existing Companies Entrepreneurs should establish a formal method for monitoring and evaluating the products and services in the market. This may uncover ways to improve on present products, resulting in new product ideas.
Distribution Channels
Members of distribution channels are also excellent sources for new ideas because they are familiar with the needs of the market. Not only do channel members frequently have suggestions for new product, but they can also help in marketing the entrepreneur's newly developed products.
Federal Government
The federal government can be source of new product ideas in two ways. First the files of the Patent Office contain numerous new product possibilities. Although the patents may not be feasible new product introduction, they can suggest other marketable product ideas. Several government agencies and publications are helpful in monitoring patent applications. Second new product ideas can come in response to government regulations. For example the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA), aimed at eliminating unsafe working condition in industry, mandated that first aid kits be made available in business establishments employing more than three people. The kit had to contain specific item that varied according to the company and the industry. In response to OSHA, both established and newly formed ventures marketed a wide variety of first aid kits.

How the business plan is presented to potential investors?

The description of the venture should be comprehensive. This should begin with the mission statement or company mission, which describes the nature of the business and what the entrepreneur hopes to accomplish. The new venture should be described in detail, including the product, location, personnel, background of entrepreneur, and history of the venture. The emphasis placed on location is a function of the type of business. Maps that locate customers, competitors, and alternative locations can be helpful. Then the marketing plan describes how the products will be distributed, priced, and promoted. Potential investors regard the marketing plan as critical to the venture's success.

Question No: 36 (Marks: 5)

Which factors should be studied by entrepreneur to conduct environmental analysis while preparing a business plan? Explain the factors. www.vuaskari.com

The entrepreneur should first conduct an environmental analysis to identify trends and changes occurring on a national and international level that may impact the new venture. Examples of environmental factors are:

· Economy

· Culture

· Technology

· Legal concerns

Economy: The entrepreneur first wants to know the economic situation of country where he wants to start the business because this has great impact on its success. If economical situation is not stabilizes then investors will not willing to invest with us, which is the first step for every beginning of business.

Culture: It has too much influence on our products which we made. If we produce such thing which is not familiar to people where the business operate there should be loss for. For example; if Bonanza will start to produce Shalwar & Kameez suits in Arab countries who will buy, because in Arab countries there culture is different from us. So, entrepreneur must first look about the culture trends.

Technology: Now a day's technology changes day to day. Every day or week new inventions is there in market, which help us to make business easy for us. We should keep update ourselves in technology perspective to save more money and produce more.

Legal Concerns: These are important issue for every entrepreneur. As every country have its own and different laws there. Therefore, he/she must be having knowledge about

www.vuaskari.com

the limitations and permissions from government of that country where he/she want to do business.

Question No: 37 (Marks: 5)

While entering into the international market the companies usually have strategic planning process. What should be considered in the strategic planning?

Strategic Planning offers ideas on how to match the organization's design to its products and capabilities, goals and resources. This process is much easier to execute once you have obtained a basic knowledge of exporting value-added food products, understand the marketing research process, and analyzed the elements of the marketing mix. Proper organization, both internally and externally, allow the firm to become more efficient in its operations and expansion.

After the information the first step in building a successful export strategy is determining the firm's readiness to export. The following are guidelines on preparing an export business plan, developing export marketing skills, designing a template for an export marketing plan and considering marketing tools prior to engaging directly in promotional activities.

Question No: 35 (Marks: 3)
What is copyright? What are its limitations?
A copyright protects original works of authorship. The protection does not protect the idea itself. It is a set of exclusive rights granted by the law of a jurisdiction to the author or creator of an original work, including the right to copy, distribute and adapt the work. It allows someone else to use the idea in a different manner.
It's Limitation:
Exceptions and limitations to these rights strive to balance the public interest in the wide distribution of the material produced and to encourage creativity. Exceptions include fair dealing and fair use, and such use does not require the permission of the copyright owner. All other uses require permission and copyright owners can license or permanently transfer or assign their exclusive rights to others. Copyright does not protect ideas, only their expression or fixation. In most jurisdictions, copyright arises upon fixation and does not need to be registered. Copyright protection applies for a specific period of time, after which the work is said to enter the public domain.

Question No: 36 (Marks: 5)
While using brain storming for new idea creation what measures should be taken to acquire a good idea?
You can often get the best results by combining individual and group brainstorming, and by managing the process carefully and according to the "rules" below. That way, you get people to focus on the issue without interruption (this comes from having everyone in a dedicated group meeting), you maximize the number of ideas you can generate, and you get that great feeling of team bonding that comes with a well-run brainstorming session!
To run a group brainstorming session effectively, do the following:

- Find a comfortable meeting environment, and set it up ready for the session.
- Appoint one person to record the ideas that come from the session. These should be noted in a format than everyone can see and refer to. Depending on the approach you want to use, you may want to record ideas on flip charts, whiteboards, or computers with data projectors.
- If people aren't already used to working together, consider using an appropriate warm-up exercise or ice-breaker.
- Define the problem you want solved clearly, and lay out any criteria to be met. Make it clear that that the objective of the meeting is to generate as many ideas as possible.
- Give people plenty of time on their own at the start of the session to generate as many ideas as possible.

- Ask people to give their ideas, making sure that you give everyone a fair opportunity to contribute.
- Encourage people to develop other people's ideas, or to use other ideas to create new ones.
- Encourage an enthusiastic, uncritical attitude among members of the group. Try to get everyone to contribute and develop ideas, including the quietest members of the group.
- Ensure that no one criticizes or evaluates ideas during the session. Criticism introduces an element of risk for group members when putting forward an idea. This stifles creativity and cripples the free running nature of a good brainstorming session.
- Let people have fun brainstorming. Encourage them to come up with as many ideas as possible, from solidly practical ones to wildly impractical ones. Welcome creativity!
- Ensure that no train of thought is followed for too long. Make sure that you generate a sufficient number of different ideas, as well as exploring individual ideas in detail.
- In a long session, take plenty of breaks so that people can continue to concentrate.

Question No: 37 (Marks: 5)

While developing the web site what characteristics should be kept in mind?

1. The pleasant outlook of a website is the first important thing to keep in mind. Too much use of pattern or colors can drive the viewers away.
2. DO NOT use unnecessary audio or video. I once opened a site where a woman started speaking something as soon as the site opened. It startled me and I closed it immediately. So don't let that happen. Correct use of flash will make the website attractive but too much of it might distract the visitors from the main goal. We do not want to do that.
3. Don't put a welcome page where you have to click and enter your main page. Wasting time there might drive the visitors away.
4. The website shouldn't take a lot of time to load. Visitors might not have so much of patience and that means they'll leave your site immediately
5. Unnecessary banners ads or links. Unless you are an advertiser, banner ads or link ads can drive potential customers away. Even if you have to do so use a pop-up to open a certain link, making sure the visitors still have your window open.
6. Avoid using colorful fonts, use of many fonts or use of unreadable fonts. As I said pleasant outlooks keeps the visitors hooked on your site
7. Keep the color of links constant. The formal color for links is blue, underlined. If the color of the normal text and that of the link is same the visitors wouldn't know the difference.
8. Avoid using lot of graphics or images that are hard to load. Unless you are selling different products, do not use many graphics, images making you page hard to load.
9. Headline plays a significant role in attracting customers. Hence use catchy phrases for the headline, it'll work well.

Note: Solve these papers by yourself

10. The 10th and the most important is the content. Relevant content is the best way to keep the visitors hooked up and more over buy what you are selling. Correct use of words and sentences not only attracts the prospects but also helps the search engines to crawl it easily. Proper content, with relevant use of keywords is a MUST.

Question No: 35 (Marks: 3)

Briefly discuss licensing and its benefits.

Licensing is an arrangement between two parties, where one party has proprietary rights protected by a patent, trademark, or copyright. This requires the licensee to pay a royalty to the holder of the proprietary rights in return for permission to copy the patent. Licensing has significant value as a marketing strategy to holders of patents.

Benefits:

There are various ways in which a license agreement can give the licensee the possibility of increasing revenues and profits, and of enlarging market share:

- There is often a rush to bring new products onto the market. A license agreement that gives access to technologies which are already established or readily available can make it possible for an enterprise to reach the market faster.
- Small companies may not have the resources to conduct the research and development necessary to provide new or superior products. A license agreement can give an enterprise access to technical advances that would otherwise be difficult for it to obtain.
- A license can also be necessary for the maintenance and development of a market position that is already well established but is threatened by a new design or new production methods. The costs entailed in following events and trends can be daunting, and quick access to a new technology through a license agreement may be the best way to overcome this problem.
- There may also be licensing-in opportunities which, when paired with the company's current technology portfolio, can create new products, services and market opportunities.

Question No: 36 (Marks: 5)

What is a business plan and what purpose does it serve?

Business Plan:

A business plan is a written document prepared by the entrepreneur that describes all the relevant external and internal elements involved in starting a new venture. It addresses both short- and long-term decision making. The business plan is like a road map for the business' development. The Internet also provides outlines for business planning. Entrepreneurs can also hire or offer equity to another person to provide expertise in preparing the business plan. In developing the business plan the entrepreneur can determine how much money will be needed from new and existing sources.

Purpose of Business Plan:

The business plan must be comprehensive enough to address the concerns of employees, investors, bankers, venture capitalists, suppliers, and customers. Three perspectives need to be considered:

The entrepreneur understands the new venture better than anyone. The marketing perspective considers the venture through the eyes of the customer. The investor looks for sound financial projections. The depth of the business plan depends on the size and scope of the proposed venture.

The business plan is valuable to the entrepreneur and investors because:

1. It helps determine the viability of the venture in a designated market.
2. It gives guidance in organizing planning activities.
3. It serves as an important tool in obtaining financing. Potential investors are very particular about what should be included in the plan. The process of developing a business plan also provides a self-assessment of the entrepreneur. This self-evaluation requires the entrepreneur to think through obstacles that might prevent the venture's success. It also allows the entrepreneur to plan ways to avoid such obstacles.

Question No: 37 (Marks: 5)

Discuss the role of "export management firm" in indirect exporting.

Export Management Companies: An EMC acts as the export department for one or several producers of goods or services. It solicits and transacts business in the names of the producers it represents or in its own name for a commission, salary, or retainer plus commission. Some EMCs provide immediate payment for the producer's products by either arranging financing or directly purchasing products for resale. Typically, only larger EMCs can afford to purchase or finance exports.

EMCs usually specialize either by product or by foreign market, or sometimes even both. Because of their specialization, the best EMCs know their products and the markets they serve very well and usually have well-established networks of foreign distributors already in place. This immediate access to foreign markets is one of the principal reasons for using an EMC, since establishing a productive relationship with a foreign representative may be a costly and lengthy process.

One disadvantage of using an EMC is that a manufacturer may lose control over foreign sales. Most manufacturers are properly concerned that their product and company image be well maintained in foreign markets. An important way for a company to retain sufficient control in such an arrangement is to carefully select an EMC that can meet the company's needs and maintain close communication with it. For example, a company may ask for regular reports on efforts to market its products and may require approval of certain types of efforts, such as advertising programs or service arrangements. If a company wants to maintain this type of relationship with an EMC, it should negotiate points of concern before entering an agreement, since not all EMCs are willing to comply with the company's concerns.

INTRODUCTION Lesson 01

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. 1. To introduce the concept of entrepreneurship and its historical development.
2. 2. To explain the entrepreneurial decision process.
3. 3. To identify the basic types of start-up ventures.
4. 4. To explain the role of entrepreneurship in economic development.
5. 5. To discuss the ethics and racial responsibility of entrepreneurs.

NATURE AND DEVELOPMENT OF ENTREPRENEURSHIP

The term entrepreneur comes from the French and translates "between-taker" or "go-between."

Earliest Period

In this period the money person (forerunner of the capitalist) entered into a contract with the go-between to sell his goods. While the capitalist was a passive risk bearer, the merchant bore all the physical and emotional risks.

Middle Ages

In this age the term entrepreneur was used to describe both an actor and a person who managed large production projects. In such large production projects, this person did not take any risks, managing the project with the resources provided. A typical entrepreneur was the cleric who managed architectural projects.

17th Century

In the 17th century the entrepreneur was a person who entered into a contract with the government to perform a service Richard Cantillon, a noted economist of the 1700s, developed theories of the entrepreneur and is regarded as the founder of the term. He viewed the entrepreneur as a risk taker who "buy[s] at certain price and sell[s] at an uncertain price, therefore operating at a risk."

18th Century

In the 18th century the person with capital was differentiated from the one who needed capital. In other words, entrepreneur was distinguished from the capital provider.
Many of the inventions developed during this time as was the case with the inventions of Eli Whitney and Thomas Edison were unable to finance invention themselves. Both were capital users (entrepreneurs), not capital providers (venture capitalists.) Whitney used expropriated crown property. Edison raised capital from private sources.

A venture capitalist is a professional money manager who makes risk investments from a pool of equity capital to obtain a high rate of return on investments.

19th and 20th Centuries

In the late 19th and early 20th centuries, entrepreneurs were viewed mostly from an economic perspective. The entrepreneur "contributes his own initiative, skill and ingenuity in planning, organizing and administering the enterprise, assuming the chance of loss and gain."
Andrew Carnegie is one of the best examples of this definition, building the American steel industry on of the wonders of industrial world, primarily through his competitiveness rather than creativity.
In the middle of the 20th century, the notion of an entrepreneur as an innovator was established.

Innovation, the act of introducing something new, is one of the most difficult tasks for the entrepreneur.

Edward Harriman and John Pierpont Morgan are examples of this type of entrepreneur. Edward reorganized the Ontario and southern railroad through the northern pacific trust and john developed his large banking house by reorganizing and financing the nation's industries.

This ability to innovate is an instinct that distinguishes human beings from other creatures and can be observed throughout history.

DEFINITION OF ENTREPRENEUR

The concept of entrepreneurship from a personal perspective has been explored in this century. This exploration is reflected in the following three definitions of an entrepreneur:

In almost all definitions of entrepreneurship, there is agreement that we are talking about a kind of behavior that includes:

1. Initiative taking
2. The organizing and reorganizing or social/economic mechanisms to turn resources and situations to practical account.
3. The acceptance of risk or failure.

To an economist, an entrepreneur is one who brings resources, labor, materials, and other assets into combinations that make their value greater than before, and one who introduces changes, innovations, and a new order.

To a psychologist, such a person is typically driven by certain forces- the need to obtain something, to experiment, to accomplish or perhaps to escape the authority of others.

Entrepreneurship is the dynamic process of creating incremental wealth. Our definition of entrepreneurship involves four aspects:

1. Entrepreneurship involves the creation process.
2. It requires the devotion of the necessary time and effort.
3. It involves assuming the necessary risks.
4. The rewards of being an entrepreneur are independence, personal satisfaction, and monetary reward.

For the person who actually starts his or her own business there is a high failure rate due to poor sales, intense competition, lack of capital or lack of managerial ability.

THE ENTR EPRENEURIAL DECISION PROCESS
(Deciding to become an entrepreneur by leaving present activity)

Many individuals have difficulty bringing their ideas to the market and creating new venture entrepreneurship and the actual entrepreneurial decisions have resulted in several million new businesses being started throughout the world. Although no one knows the exact number in the United States.

Indeed, millions of ventures are formed despite recession, inflation, high interest rates, and lack of infrastructure, economic uncertainty and the high probability of failure

The entrepreneurial decision process entails a movement from something to something— a movement from a present life style to forming a new enterprise.

To leave a present live-style to create something new comes from a negative force--disruption. Many companies are formed by people who have retired, moved, or been fired. Another cause of disruption is completing an educational degree.

The decision to start a new company occurs when an individual perceives that forming a new enterprise is both desirable and possible.

THE NATURE AND IMPORTANCE OF ENTREPRENEURSHIP Lesson 02

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To introduce the concept of entrepreneurship and its historical development.
2. To explain the entrepreneurial decision process.

Desirability of New Venture Formation

(Aspects of a situation that make it desirable to start a new company)

The perception that starting a new company is desirable results from an individual's culture, subculture, family, teachers and peers.

American culture places a high value on being your own boss, being a success and making money therefore, it is not surprising to find a high rate of company formation in the United States. On the other hand in some countries making money is not as valued and failure may be a disgrace. The rate of business formation in these countries is not as high. Many subcultures that shape value systems operate within a cultural framework.

Studies indicate that a high percentage of founders of companies had fathers and/or mothers who valued independence. Encouragement to form a company is also gained from teachers, who can significantly influence individuals. An area having a strong educational base is also a requirement for entrepreneurial activity. Peers are important, also, as is an area with an entrepreneurial pool and peer-meeting place.

Possibility of New Venture Formation

(Factors making it possible to create a new venture)

Although the desire of new venture formation derived from the individual's culture, subculture, family, teachers and peers needs to be present before any action is taken, the second feature necessary centers around this question "What makes it possible to form a new company?"

Formal education and previous business experience give a potential entrepreneur the skills needed to form and manage a new enterprise. Although educational systems are important in providing the needed business knowledge, individual will tend to be more successful in forming in fields in which they have worked. The government also contributes by providing the infrastructure to help a new venture.

The market must be large enough and the entrepreneur must have the marketing know-how to put together the entire package.

Finally, financial resources must be readily available. Although most start-up money comes from personal savings, credit, and friends, but there is often a need for additional capital. Risk-capital availability plays an essential role in the development and growth of entrepreneurial activity.

ENTREPRENEURIAL PROCESS/START UPS Lesson 03

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To identify the basic types of start-up ventures.
2. To explain the role of entrepreneurship in economic development
3. To discuss the ethics and racial responsibility of

TYPES OF START-UPS

Life-Style Firms

A life-style firm exists primarily to support the owners and usually has little growth opportunity. This type of firm may grow after several years to 30 or 40 employees.

Foundation Companies

A type of company formed from research and development that usually does not go public. This firm can grow in five to ten years from 40 to 400 employees.

High-Potential Venture

A venture has high growth potential and therefore receives great investor interest. The company may start out like a foundation company, but its growth is far more rapid. After five to ten years the company could employ around 500 employees. These firms are also called gazelles and are most important for the economic development of an area

ROLE OF ENTREPRENEURSHIP IN ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

The role of entrepreneurship in economic development involves initiating change in the structure of business and society. One theory of economic growth depicts innovation as the key, not only in developing new products, but also in stimulating investment interest. The new capital created expands the capacity for growth (supply side), and new spending utilizes the new capacity and output (demand side.)

In spite of the importance of investment and innovation in the economic development of an area, there is still a lack of understanding of few factors which are as follows:

- The product-evolution process is the process through which innovation develops and commercializes through entrepreneurial activity, which in turn stimulates economic growth. It begins with knowledge in the base technology and ends with products or services available in the marketplace.
- The critical point in the process is the intersection of knowledge and a recognized social need, called the iterative synthesis. This point often fails to evolve into a marketable innovation.
- Most innovations introduced in the market are ordinary innovations, with little uniqueness.
- Technological innovations refer to new products with significant technological advancements.
- Breakthrough innovations mean the development of new products with some technological change.

Regardless of the level of uniqueness or technology, each innovation evolves into and develops towards commercialization through one of three mechanisms: the government, entrepreneurship, or entrepreneurship. Entrepreneurship has assisted in revitalizing areas of the inner city. Individuals in inner-city areas can relate to the concept and see it as a possibility for changing their present situation.

GOVERNMENT AS AN INNOVATOR

A government active in commercializing technology is known as an innovative government. Commercializing technology is frequently called technology transfer.

However, few inventions resulting from government-sponsored research have reached the commercial market. Most of the by-products from scientific research have little application to any social need. The government lacks the business skills needed for successful commercialization. Government bureaucracy and red tape also often inhibit the timely formation of the business. Recently, federal labs have been required to commercialize some of their technology each year and some are providing entrepreneurial training

Intrapreneurship

Intrapreneurship refers to entrepreneurship within an existing organization or business structure. Existing businesses have the financial resources, business skills, and marketing and distribution system to commercialize innovation successfully. Often the bureaucratic structure, emphasis on short-term profits, and structured organization inhibit creativity. Some corporations have tried to establish an Entrepreneurial spirit in their organization, some in the form of strategic business units (SBUs.)

Intrapreneurship can also bridge the gap between science and the marketplace. It is the practice of using entrepreneurial skills without taking on the risks or accountability associated with entrepreneurial activities. It is practiced by employees within an established organization using a systemized business model. Employees, perhaps engaged in a special project within a larger firm are supposed to behave as entrepreneurs, even though they have the resources and capabilities of the larger firm to draw upon. Capturing the dynamic nature of entrepreneurial management (trying things until successful, learning from failures, attempting to conserve resources, etc.) adds to the potential of otherwise static organizations without exposing those employees or self employed people to the risks or accountability normally associated with entrepreneurial failure.

Employee Intrapreneur

An employee Intrapreneur is the person who focuses on innovation and creativity and who transforms a dream or an idea into a profitable venture, by operating within the organizational environment. Thus, Intrapreneurs are inside entrepreneurs who follow the goal of the organization.
Employees, perhaps engaged in a special project within a larger firm are supposed to behave as entrepreneurs, even though they have the resources, capabilities and security of the larger firm to draw upon. Capturing a little of the dynamic nature of entrepreneurial management (trying things until successful, learning from failures, attempting to conserve resources, etc.) adds to the potential of an otherwise static organizations without exposing those employees to the risks or accountability normally associated with entrepreneurial failure

The third method for bridging the gap between the science and the marketplace is via entrepreneurship. Many entrepreneurs have difficult time bridging this gap and creating new ventures. They may often lack managerial skills, marketing capabilities, or financial resources. They frequently do not know how to interface with banks, suppliers, customers, and distributors. Yet, entrepreneurship is the most effective method for bridging the gap and creating new enterprises, these activities affect an areas economy by building the economic base and providing jobs.

ENTREPRENEURIAL CAREERS AND EDUCATION

Since 1985 there has been an increased interest in entrepreneurial careers fostered by factors such as increased media coverage of entrepreneurs and employment shifts.
A conceptual model for understanding entrepreneurial careers views the career stages as interacting with other stages and events in the individual's life, the life-cycle approach. This approach conceptualizes entrepreneurial careers in nine categories.

1. Educational environment
2. The individual's personality
3. Childhood family environment
4. Employment history
5. Adult development history
6. Adult family/non-work history
7. Current work situation
8. The individual's current perspective
9. The current family situation

Although there exist a common perception that entrepreneur are less educated than the general population however studies have found entrepreneurs overall and female entrepreneurs in particular, are far more educated than the general population. However, this education sometimes does not develop the specific skills needed in the venture, especially for women entrepreneurs.

Childhood influences have been explored, particularly in terms of values and the individual's personality .The traits most frequently researched are the need for achievement, locus of control, risk-taking, and gender identity.
The research on the childhood family environment of the entrepreneur has had more definite results.
Entrepreneurs tend to have self-employed fathers, and many also have entrepreneurial mothers. The family plays an important role in establishing the desirability of entrepreneurship as a career.
Employment history also has an impact on entrepreneur careers in both positive and a negative sense. Entrepreneurs tend to have a higher probability of success when the venture created is in their field of experience. Negative displacement (such as dissatisfaction with various aspects of ones job) also encourages entrepreneurship.

Although no definite research has been done on the adult development history of entrepreneurs, it appears to also affect entrepreneur's careers. One's development history has somewhat more of an impact on women, since they tend to start businesses at a later stage in life.
There is a lack of data on adult family/non-work history and the available data adds little understanding towards entrepreneurial career development.
Entrepreneurs are known for their strong work values, their long workdays, and their dominant management style. They tend to fall in love with the organization and will sacrifice almost anything in order for it to survive.

While in college, few future entrepreneurs realize that they will pursue entrepreneurship as their major life goal. Relatively few individuals will start a business immediately after graduation. Entrepreneurship education is a fast growing area in colleges and universities. While the courses vary by university, there is a great commonality, especially in the initial few courses.

The skills required by entrepreneurs can be classified in to three main areas:

1. Technical skills involve such things as writing, listening, oral presentations, coaching, and technical know-how.
2. Business management skills include those areas involved in starting, developing and managing any enterprise.
3. Personal entrepreneurial skills differentiate an entrepreneur from a manager and include inner control (discipline), risk taking, innovativeness, persistence, visionary leadership, and being change oriented.

These skills and objectives form the basis of the modular approach to an entrepreneurship curriculum. Today entrepreneurs are recognizing the need to learn some of the science of management in an MBA program in order to grow their businesses effectively in the global environment.

ETHICS AND SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY OF ENTREPRENEURS

The entrepreneur must establish a balance between ethical exigencies, economic expediency, and social responsibility. A managers attitudes concerning corporate responsibility tend to be supportive of laws and professional codes of ethics. Entrepreneurs have few reference persons, role models, and developed internal ethics codes. Entrepreneurs are sensitive to peers pressure and social norms in the community as well as pressures from their companies.

While ethics refers to the "study of whatever is right and good for humans," business ethics concerns itself with the investigation of business practices in light of human values. The word "ethics" stems from the Greek êthos, meaning custom and usage.
Development of Our Ethical Concepts Socrates, Plato, and Aristotle provide the earliest writings dealing with ethical conceptions; earlier writings involving moral codes can be found in both Judaism and Hinduism.

American attitudes on ethics result from three principle influences: Judeo-Christian heritage, a belief in individualism and opportunities based on ability rather than social status.
Research on business ethics can be broken down into four broad classifications:

1. Pedagogically-oriented inquiry
2. Theory-building without empirical testing
3. Empirical research, measuring the attitudes and ethical beliefs of students and academic faculty
4. Empirical research within business environments

THE FUTURE OF ENTREPRENE URSHIP

In spite of the differences in definition of entrepreneurship, there are common aspects such as risk taking, creativity, independence, and rewards. Entrepreneurship is currently being embraced by educational institutions, governments, societies, and corporations. Schools are increasing their emphasis on entrepreneurship in terms of courses and academic research. In Europe many universities have started programs in entrepreneurship.

There has also been an increase in academic research, endowed chairs and centers of entrepreneurial activity. Governments have also promoted the growth of entrepreneurship. Individuals are encouraged to form new businesses and provided tax incentives, roads, and a communications system to facilitate this creative process. Some state governments are developing strategies for fostering entrepreneurial activity.

The venture capital industry has benefited from lowering of capital gains tax rates and more relaxed rules regarding pension fund investment.

Society's support of entrepreneurship is critical in providing motivation and public support. The media has played a powerful role in developing public support. Media coverage uplifts the image of the entrepreneur and growth companies. Articles have appeared in newspapers such as New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, and the Washington Post. Business magazines such as Barrons, Business Week, Forbes, and Fortune have provided coverage. Magazines such as Black Enterprise, Entrepreneur, Inc., and Venture focus on issues of the entrepreneurial process. Television on both a national and local level has highlighted entrepreneurship.

Large companies will continue to have a special interest in Entrepreneurship in the future. The largest 15 companies account for over 20 percent of the total U.S. research and development. Other companies will create more new businesses through Entrepreneurship.

THE ENTREPRENEURIAL AND INTRAPRENEURIAL MIND Lesson 04

LEARNING OBJECTIV ES

1. To explain the aspects of the entrepreneurial process.
2. To explain the differences between entrepreneurial and managerial domains.
3. To explain the organizational environment conducive for entrepreneurship.
4. To identify the general characteristics of an Entrepreneur.
5. To explain the process of establishing entrepreneurship in an organization.

ENTREPR E NEURIAL PROCESS

The entrepreneurial process involves finding, evaluating, and developing an opportunity by overcoming the strong forces that resist the creation of something new.

Phase 1: Identifying and Evaluating the Opportunity

Most good business opportunities result from an entrepreneur being alert to possibilities. Some sources are often fruitful, including consumers and business associates. Channel members of the distribution system-retailers, wholesalers or manufacturer's reps-are also helpful. Technically-oriented individuals often identify business opportunities when working on other projects. Each opportunity must be carefully screened and evaluated-this is the most critical element of the entrepreneurial process.

a. The evaluation process involves looking at
b. The creation and length of the opportunity
c. Its real and perceived value
d. Its risks and return.
e. It's fit with the skills and goals of the entrepreneur
f. Its differential advantage in its competitive environment

It is important to understand the cause of the opportunity, as the resulting opportunity may have a different market size and time dimension. The market size and the length of the window of opportunity are the primarily bases for determining risks and rewards. The risks reflect the market, competition, technology, and amount of capital involved. The amount of capital forms the basis for the return and rewards. The return and reward of the present opportunity needs to be viewed in light of any possible subsequent opportunities as well. The opportunity must fit the personal skills and goals of the entrepreneur. The entrepreneur must be able to put forth the necessary time and effort required for the venture to succeed. One must believe in the opportunity enough to make the necessary sacrifices.

Opportunity analysis, or an opportunity assessment plan, should focus on the opportunity and provide the basis to make the decision, including:

a. A description of the product or service
b. An assessment of the opportunity
c. Assessment of the entrepreneur and the team
d. Specifications of all the activities and resources needed
e. The source of capital to finance the initial venture

The most difficult aspect of opportunity analysis is the assessment of the opportunity.

Phase 2: Develop a Business Plan

A good business plan must be developed in order to exploit the opportunity defined. A good business plan is important in developing the opportunity and in determining the resources required, obtaining those resources and successfully managing the venture.

Phase 3: Determine the Resources Required.

Assessing the resources needed starts with an appraisal of the entrepreneur's present resources. Any resources that are critical must be distinguished from those that are just helpful. Care must be taken not to underestimate the amount and variety of resources needed. Acquiring needed resources, while giving up as little control as possible, is difficult. The entrepreneur should try to maintain as large an ownership position as possible, particularly in the start-up stage. As the business develops, more funds will probably be needed, requiring more ownership be relinquished.

Alternative resource suppliers should be identified, along with their needs and desires, in order to structure a deal with the lowest cost and loss of control.

Phase 4: Manage the Enterprise.

The entrepreneur must employ these resources through implementation of the business plan. This involves implementing a management structure, as well as identifying a control system.

THE ENTREPRENEURIAL AND INTRAPRENEURIAL MIND (continued…) Lesson 05

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To explain the aspects of the entrepreneurial process.
2. To explain the differences between entrepreneurial and managerial domains.
3. To explain the organizational environment conducive for entrepreneurship.
4. To identify the general characteristics of an entrepreneur.
5. To explain the process of establishing entrepreneurship in an organization.

MANAGERIAL VERSUS ENTREPRENEURIAL DECISION MAKING

The difference between the entrepreneurial and managerial styles involves five business dimensions.

Strategic Orientation

The entrepreneur's strategic orientation depends on his or her perception of the opportunity. This orientation is most important when other opportunities have diminishing returns accompanied by rapid changes in technology, consumer economies, social values or political rules. When the use of planning systems is the strategic orientation, there is more pressure for the administrative domain to be operant.

Commitment to Opportunity

The entrepreneurial domainis pressured by the need for action and has a short time span in terms of opportunity commitment. The administrative domain (the ways mangers make decisions) is not only slow to act on an opportunity, but the commitment is usually for a longer time span.

Commitment of Resources

An entrepreneur is used to having resources committed at periodic intervals, often based on certain tasks or objectives being reached. In acquiring these resources the entrepreneur is forced to achieve significant milestones using very few resources. In the administrative domain, the commitment of resources is for the total amount needed. Administrative-oriented individuals receive personal rewards by effectively administering the resources under their control.

Control of Resources

The administrator is rewarded by effective resource administration and has a drive to own or accumulate as many resources as possible. The entrepreneur, under pressure of limited resources, strives to rent resources on an as-needed basis.

Managerial Structure

In the administrative domain, the organizational structure is formalized and hierarchical in nature. The entrepreneur employs a flat organizational structure with informal networks.

CAUSES FOR RECENT INTEREST IN INTRAPRENEURSHIP

Interest in intrapreneurship has resulted from events occurring on social, cultural, and business levels.

There is an increasing interest in "doing your own thing." Individuals frequently desire to create something of their own. They want responsibility and want more freedom in their organizations. Frustration can develop and result in the employee becoming less productive or leaving the organization. This has recently caused more discontent in structured organizations. When meaning is not provided within the organization, individuals often search for an institution, such as entrepreneurship, that will provide it.

Intrapreneurship is one method for stimulating and capitalizing on those who think that something can be done differently and better, such as Xerox Corporation's commitment to Xerox Technology Ventures.

It is important to instill the intrapreneurial spirit in an organization in order to innovate and grow.

In a large organization problems occur that thwart creativity and innovation. This growth and diversity that can result are critical, since large corporations are more efficient in a competitive market than are smaller firms. The resistance against flexibility, growth, and diversification can be overcome by developing a spirit of entrepreneurship, called Intrapreneurship, within the existing organization.

There are social, cultural, and business pressures for Entrepreneurship. Hyper competition has forced U.S. companies to focus on new product development and increased productivity.

Reductions in large corporation's staff are being absorbed in the workforce, particularly in small businesses. Entrepreneurial endeavors consist of four key elements.

1. New business venturing refers to the creation of new business within an existing organization.
2. Organizational innovativeness refers to product and service innovation with an emphasis on development and innovation in technology.
3. Self-renewal reflects the transformation of organizations through the renewal of the key ideas on which they are built.
4. Proactiveness includes initiative and risk taking, as well as competitive aggressiveness

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To explain the aspects of the entrepreneurial process.
2. To explain the differences between entrepreneurial and managerial domains.
3. To explain the organizational environment conducive for entrepreneurship.
4. To identify the general characteristics of an entrepreneur.
5. To explain the process of establishing entrepreneurship in an organization.

CORPORATE VERSUS INTRAPRENEURIAL CULTURE

Smaller, aggressive, entrepreneurial firms are developing more new products and becoming dominant in certain markets. Many companies are attempting to create the same spirit, culture, and rewards of entrepreneurship in their organizations.

The typical corporate culture has a climate and reward system that favors conservative decision making.

Emphasis is on gathering large amounts of data as the basis for a rational decision. Risky decisions are often postponed until hard facts are gathered or a consultant is hired.

Often there are so many approvals required that no individual feels personally responsible for the project.

The guiding principles in a traditional corporate culture are:

1. Follow instructions given
2. Do not make mistakes
3. Do not fail
4. Do not take initiative
5. Stay within your turf and protect your backside
6. This restrictive environment is not conducive to creativity, flexibility, and risk taking

The guiding principles of intrapreneurs

Aspects of an Entrepreneurial culture are quite different:

1. Develop visions, goals, and action plans
2. Be rewarded for actions taken
3. Suggest, try, and experiment
4. Create and develop
5. Take responsibility and ownership

There are differences in the norms of the two cultures.

The traditional culture is hierarchical in nature, with established procedures, lines of authority, and control mechanisms. These support the present corporate culture, and do not encourage new venture creation. The culture of an intrapreneurial firm has a flat organizational structure with networking, teamwork, sponsors, and mentors. Close working relationships help establish an atmosphere or trust that facilitates accomplishment of visions. Individuals make suggestions across functional areas, resulting in cross-fertilization of ideas. The two cultures produce different types of individuals and management styles.

Motivation
Traditional managers are motivated primarily by promotion and typical corporate rewards. Entrepreneurs and intrapreneurs thrive on independence and the ability to create. Intrapreneurs expect their performance to be suitably rewarded.

There are also time orientation differences.
Managers emphasize the short run, entrepreneurs the long run, and intrapreneurs somewhere in between. Intrapreneurs use a midpoint mode between delegation of managers and direct involvement of entrepreneurs.
Entrepreneurs and intrapreneurs are moderate risk takers; managers are much more cautious. Most entrepreneurs fail at least once, and Intrapreneurs learn to conceal risky projects from management until the last possible moment. Traditional managers tend to be most concerned about those at higher levels, entrepreneurs serve self and customers, and intrapreneurs add sponsors.

CLIMATE FOR INTRAPRENEURSHIP

In establishing an Intrapreneurial environment, certain factors and leadership characteristics need to be present.
The first of these is that the organization operates on the frontiers of technology. Since research and development are key sources for new product ideas, the firm must operate on the cutting edge of technology and encourage and supporting new ideas instead of discouraging them.
Second is experimentation, or trial and error, is encouraged. Successful new products usually do not appear fully developed; instead they evolve. A company wanting to establish an intrapreneurial spirit has to establish an environment that allows mistakes and failures. Without the opportunity to fail, few corporate intrapreneurial ventures will be developed.
Third an organization should make sure that there are no initial opportunity parameters, such as turf protection, inhibiting creativity in new product development.
Fourth, the resources of the firm need to be available and easily accessible. Often, insufficient funds are allocated not to creating something new but instead to solving a problem that have an immediate effect on the bottom line. Some companies, such as Xerox, 3M, and AT&T have established separate venture capital areas for funding new internal ventures.
Fifth a multidisciplinary team approach needs to be encouraged. One key to Intrapreneurial success is the existence of "skunkworks" involving key people. Developing the needed team work for a new venture is further complicated by the fact that a team member's promotion within the corporation is related to performance in the current position, not in the new venture. The corporate environment must establish a long time horizon for evaluating the success of the overall program. Sixth the spirit of intrapreneurship cannot be forced on individuals; it must be voluntary. Most managers in a corporation are not capable of being successful intrapreneurs. Those who do emerge from this self selection process must be allowed the latitude to carry a project through to completion. An intrapreneur falls in love with the new venture and will do almost anything to ensure its success. The seventh characteristic is a reward system. The intrapreneur needs to be appropriately rewarded for the energy and effort expended on the new venture. An equity position in the new venture is one of the best motivational methods.
Eight a corporate environment favorable for intrapreneurship has sponsors and champions throughout the organization that supports the creative activity and resulting failures.
Finally the intrapreneurial activity must be whole-heartedly supported by top management.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To explain the aspects of the entrepreneurial process.
2. To explain the differences between entrepreneurial and managerial domains.
3. To explain the organizational environment conducive for entrepreneurship.
4. To identify the general characteristics of an Entrepreneur.
5. To explain the process of establishing entrepreneurship in an organization.

INTRAPRENEURIAL LEADERSHIP CHARACTERISTICS

There are certain individual characteristics needed for a person to be successful Entrepreneurs, including:

1. Understanding the environment
2. Being visionary and flexible
3. Creating management options
4. Encourage teamwork while employing a multi-disciplined approach
5. Encouraging open discussion
6. Building a coalition of supporters, and persisting

An Entrepreneur needs to understand all aspects of the environment. Part of this ability is reflected in individual's level of creativity. Creativity tends to decrease with age and education. The individual must be creative and have a broad understanding of the internal and external environments of the corporation. The intrapreneurial person must be a visionary leader-a person who dreams great dreams. Leadership is the ability to dream great things and communicate them in a way that people say yes to being a part of the dream. To establish a successful new venture, the intrapreneurial leader must have a dream and overcome all obstacles to achieve it. The third necessary characteristic is that the intrapreneur must be flexible and create management options. An intrapreneur is open to and encourages change. By challenging the beliefs and assumptions of the corporation, an intrapreneur can create something new in the organization structure. He or she must possess the ability to encourage teamwork and use a multi-disciplined approach. Every new company formation requires a broad range of business skills. The intrapreneur must be a good diplomat to minimize disruption. Open discussion must be encouraged to develop a good team for creating something new. Many corporate managers have forgotten that frank, open discussion is part of the learning process. A successful venture can be formed only when the team feels the freedom to disagree and to critique an idea. The degree of openness among the team depends on the degree of openness of the intrapreneur. Openness leads to a strong coalition of supporters and encouragers. The intrapreneur must encourage each team member, particularly during hard times. A good intrapreneur makes everyone a hero. Only through persistence will a new venture be created and successful commercialization result.

ESTABLISHING INTRAPRENEURSHIP IN THE ORGANIZATION

To establish an intrapreneurial environment, the organization must implement a procedure. This can be done internally, but it is easier to use an outsider to facilitate the process. This is particularly true when the environment is very traditional. There are some steps involved in it.

Step 1: The first step is to secure a commitment to intrapreneurship in the organization by top, upper, and middle management. Without top management commitment, the organization will never be able to make the necessary changes. Once top management has committed to intrapreneurship for a sufficient length of time, the concept is introduced throughout the organization. This is effectively accomplished through seminars. General guidelines need to be established for intrapreneurial venture development. Next, intrapreneurial leaders need to be identified, selected, and trained.

Step 2: Ideas and general interest areas should be identified, along with the amount of risk money that is available. The overall expectations and target results should be established, specifying time frame, profitability requirements, and impact of the organization. A mentor/sponsor system needs to be established. Step 3:* A company needs to use technology to make itself faster and more flexible. Technology has allowed small companies to act like they are big ones. Large companies can use technology to make them responsive and flexible. Step 4: The organization can use a group of managers to train and share their experiences with other members. These sessions should be conducted one day per month for a specified period of time. Information about intrapreneurship and about the company's specific activities should be well publicized. Step 5: The organization needs to develop ways to get closer to its customers by tapping the data base, hiring from smaller rivals, and helping the retailer. Step 6: An organization must learn to be more productive with fewer resources. With middle management cutbacks, more control has been given to lower levels of the organization. The span of control should be increased. Step 7: The organization needs to establish a strong support structure. Because they do not immediately affect the bottom line, intrapreneurial activities can be overlooked and receive little funding. These ventures require flexible, innovative behavior, with the intrapreneurs having total authority over expenditures and access to funds. Step 8: The support must involve trying the rewards to the performance of the intrapreneurial unit. This encourages team members to work harder and compete more effectively. The equity portion of the compensation is particularly difficult to handle. Step 9: The organization needs to implement an evaluation system that allows successful units to expand and unsuccessful ones to be eliminated.

PROBLEMS AND SUCCESSFUL EFFORTS

Intrapreneurship, also called corporate venturing, is not without problems. One study found that new ventures started within a corporation performed worse than those started independently. Independent start-ups tend to outperform corporate start-ups. There are many examples of companies that have successfully implemented intrapreneurship. 3M allows employees to devote 15 percent of their time to independent projects. After failing to recognize the potential of Wozniak's personal computer, Hewlett-Packard has taken steps to take advantage of future opportunities. Even IBM has developed the independent business unit concept. The problems of intrapreneurship are not insurmountable, and the concept can lead to new products, growth and the development of an entirely new corporate environment and culture.

THE INDIVIDUAL ENTREPRENEUR Lesson 08

LEARNING OBJECTIV ES

1. To identify some key entrepreneurial feelings and motivations.
2. To identify key elements in an entrepreneur's background.
3. To discuss the importance of role models and support systems.
4. To identify the similarities and differences between male and female entrepreneurs.
5. To explain the differences between inventors and entrepreneurs.

ENTREPR E NEURIAL FEELINGS

There is no "true entrepreneurial profile"- entrepreneurs come from many educational backgrounds, family situations, and work experiences. A potential entrepreneur may presently be a nurse, secretary, assembly line worker, sales person, mechanic, home maker, manager or engineer. A potential entrepreneur can be male or female and of any race or nationality.

Locus of Control

One concern people have when forming is whether they will be able to sustain the drive and energy required to form something new and to manage the new enterprise and make it grow. While research results are inconsistent, internal control seems to be a characteristic of entrepreneurs.

Internal beliefs appear to differentiate entrepreneurs from the general public, but not from managers. Managers and entrepreneurs both have an internality tendency.

Feelings about Independence and Need for Achievement.

The entrepreneur also has the need for independence, to do things in his or her own way and time.

Another controversial characteristic is the entrepreneur's need for achievement. McClelland specified three attributes as characteristics of entrepreneurs:

1. Individual responsibility for solving problems and setting and achieving goals.
2. Moderate risk taking as a function of skill.
3. Knowledge of results of decision/task accomplishment. McClelland concluded that a high need for achievement leads individuals to engage in entrepreneurial behavior, although other studies have been inconsistent.

Risk Taking

Risk taking seems a part of the entrepreneurial process. However, it has not yet been empirically established whether risk-taking is a distinguishing characteristics of entrepreneurs.

ENTREPR E NEURIAL BACKGRO UND AND CHARACT E RIST ICS

Only a few background characteristics have differentiated the entrepreneur from the general populace or managers.

Childhood Family Environment The impact of birth order and social status has had conflicting research results. There is strong evidence that entrepreneurs, both male and female, tend to have self-employed or entrepreneurial fathers. Having a father who is self-employed provides a strong inspiration in the example of independence and flexibility of self-employment. This feeling of independence is often further enforced by an entrepreneurial mother. The overall parental relationship may be the most important aspect of the childhood environment in establishing the desirability of entrepreneurial activity. Parents of entrepreneurs need to be supportive and encourage independence, achievement, and responsibility. This supportive relationship appears to be most important for females. Female entrepreneurs tend to grow up in middle- to upper-class environments, where families are child-centered, and are similar to their fathers in personality.

2. To identify key elements in an entrepreneur's background.
3. To discuss the importance of role models and support systems.
4. To identify the similarities and differences between male and female entrepreneurs.
5. To explain the differences between inventors and entrepreneurs.

ENTREPRENEURIAL BACKGROUND AND CHARACTERISTICS

Education

Education appears important in the upbringing of the entrepreneur, in the level of education obtained and in playing a major role in coping with problems. Although formal education is not necessary for starting a new business, it does provide a good background. In education, female entrepreneurs previously experienced some disadvantage, with few having degrees in engineering, science, or math. The ability to deal with people and communicate clearly in written and spoken work is also important.

Personal Values

Studies have failed to indicate that entrepreneurs can be differentiated on personal valued from managers, unsuccessful entrepreneurs, or the general public. Leadership, support, aggression, benevolence, conformity, creativity, veracity, and resource seeking may also be important. A successful entrepreneur is frequently characterized as a winner; winning may be a prerequisite for his or her actually becoming one.

Age

Entrepreneurial age is the age of the entrepreneur reflected in the experience. Entrepreneurial experience is one of the best predictors of success. In chronological age, most entrepreneurs start their careers between ages 22 and 55. Earlier starts in an entrepreneurial career seem to be better than later ones. Generally, male entrepreneurs start their first venture in their early 30s, while women tend to do so in their middle 30s.

Work History

Dissatisfaction with one's job often motivates the launching of a new venture. Previous technical and industry experience is also important once the decision to start a business is made. Experience in the following areas is particularly important: financing; product or service development; manufacturing; development of distribution channels; and preparation of a marketing plan. As the venture becomes established, managerial experience and skills become more important. Entrepreneurial experience becomes increasingly important as the complexity of the venture increases.

MOTIVATION While motivations may vary, the reason cited most often for becoming an entrepreneur independence-not wants to work for anyone else. Other motivating factors differ between male and female entrepreneurs. Money is the second reason for men's starting a venture. Job satisfaction, achievement, opportunity, and money are the second order reasons for women.

THE INDIVIDUAL ENTREPRENEUR (continued…) Lesson 10

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To identify some key entrepreneurial feelings and motivations.
2. To identify key elements in an entrepreneur's background.
3. To discuss the importance of role models and support systems.
4. To identify the similarities and differences between male and female entrepreneurs.
5. To explain the differences between inventors and entrepreneurs.

ROLE MODELS AND SUPPORT SYSTEMS One of the most important factors influencing entrepreneurs in their career choice is role models. Role models can be parents, relatives, or successful entrepreneurs in the community. Role models can also serve in a supportive capacity as mentors during and after the new venture is launched. This support system is most crucial during the start-up phase.

It is important that an entrepreneur establish connections to support resources early in the venture formation process. As contacts expand they form a network with density (extensiveness of ties between two individuals) and centrality (the total distance of the entrepreneur to all other individuals.) The strength of ties between the entrepreneur and any individual is dependent on the frequency, level, and reciprocity of the relationship. An informal network for moral and professional support benefits the entrepreneur.

Moral-Support Network It is important for the entrepreneur to establish a moral support network of family and friends. Most entrepreneurs indicate that their spouses are their biggest supporters. Friends can provide advice that is more honest than that received from others, plus encouragement, understanding, and assistance. Relatives can also be sources of moral support, particularly if they are also entrepreneurs.

Professional-Support Network The entrepreneur also needs advice and counsel, which can be obtained from members of a professional support network. A mentor-protégé relationship is an excellent way to secure the needed professional advice. The mentor is a coach, sounding board, and advocate. The individual selected needs to be an expert in the field. An entrepreneur can initiate the "mentor-finding process" by identifying and contacting a number of experts. The mentor should be periodically apprised of the progress of the business so that a relationship can gradually develop. Another source of advice is a network of business associates. Self-employed individuals who have experience in starting a business are good sources. Clients and buyers are also important as they provide word-of-mouth advertising. Suppliers are good components of the professional-support network-they help to establish credibility with creditors and customers, and provide good information on trends in the industry. Trade associations are good network additions, as they keep up with new developments and can provide overall industry data. Affiliations with individuals developed in hobbies, sporting events, civic involvements and school alumni groups are excellent sources of referrals, advice, and information. Each entrepreneur needs to establish both a moral- and a professional-support network to share problems with and gain overall support.

MALE VERSUS FEMALE ENTREPRENEURS

Women are now starting new ventures at three times the rate of men. Women form over 70 percent of all new businesses. Women now own over 8.5 million small businesses, an increase of over 45 percent since 1990. In some respects female entrepreneurs possess very different motivations, business skills, and occupational backgrounds. Factors in the start-up process for male and female entrepreneurs are different, especially in such areas as support systems, sources of funds, and problems. Men are motivated by the drive to control their own destinies. Women tend to be more motivated by the need for achievement arising from job frustration.

Departure points and reasons for starting the business are similar for both men and women. Both generally have a strong interest and experience in the area of their venture. For men, the transition to a new venture is easier when the venture is an outgrowth of a present job. Women often leave a previous occupation with a high level of frustration and enthusiasm for the new venture rather than experience.

Start-Up Financing
Males often have investors, bank loans, or personal loans in addition to personal funds as sources of startup capital. Women usually rely solely on personal assets or savings. Obtaining financing and lines of credit are major problems for women.

Occupations
Both groups tend to have experience in the field of their ventures. Men more often have experience in manufacturing, finance, or technical areas. Most women usually have administrative experience, often in service-related fields.

Personality
Both men and women tend to be energetic, goal-oriented, and independent. Men are often more confident and less flexible and tolerant than women.

Backgrounds
The backgrounds of male and female entrepreneurs tend to be similar. Women are little older when they embark on their careers. Men often have studied in technical- or business-related areas, while women tend to have liberal arts education. Many women business owners are empty nesters or single and need business insurance as well as personal life insurance.

Support Groups
Men usually list outside advisors as most important supporters, with spouse being second. Women list their spouse first, close friends second, and business associates third. Women usually rely more heavily on a variety of sources for support and information than men.

Nature of the Venture
Women are more likely to start a business in a service-related area. Men are more likely to enter manufacturing, construction, or high-technology fields.

MINORITY ENTREPRENEURSHIP
It is difficult to research race and ethnicity as entrepreneurial factors as the differences in behavior of various groups must be understood in the context of the environment and economic opportunities available. Most literature dealing with minority entrepreneurship has focused on the characteristics of the group under study. In terms of ownership, one study found:

- The lowest participation rate is for blacks.
- The second highest but fastest growing rate is for Hispanics.

- The highest rate is for Asians.

Studies have also found differences in education, age, family background, and age when starting the venture. Black businesses tend to be smaller and less profitable, but there are no differences in survival rates between black- and white-owned businesses. Studies have also found differences between ethnic groups in benefiting from community resources. Entrepreneurship has increased among Asians, African Americans, Hispanics, and Native Americans.

ENTREPR E NEURS VERSUS INVENTORS

An inventor, an individual who creates something for the first time, is a highly driven individual motivated by his or her own work and personal ideas. An inventor:

1. Tends to be well-educated.
2. Has family, educational, and occupational experiences that contributes to freethinking.
3. Is a problem solver.
4. Has a high level of self-confidence.
5. Is willing to take risks.
6. Has the ability to tolerate ambiguity and uncertainty.
7. A typical inventor places a high premium on being an achiever, and is not likely to view monetary benefits as a measure of success.
8. An inventor differs from an entrepreneur.
9. An entrepreneur falls in love with the new venture, while the inventor falls in love with the invention.
10. The development of a new venture based on an inventor's work often requires the expertise of an entrepreneur.

INTERNATIONAL ENTREPRENEURIAL OPPORTUNITIES Lesson 11

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To identify the aspects and importance of international entrepreneurship.
2. To identify the important strategic issues in international entrepreneurship.
3. To identify the available options for entering international markets.
4. To present the problems and barriers to international entrepreneurship.

THE NATURE OF INTERNATIONAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP

As more countries become market oriented and developed, the distinction between foreign and domestic markets is becoming less pronounced. International entrepreneurship is the process of an entrepreneur conducting business activities across national boundaries. It is exporting, licensing, or opening a sales office in another country. When an entrepreneur executes his or her business in more than one country, international entrepreneurship occurs.

THE IMPORTANCE OF INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS TO THE FIRM

International business has become increasingly important to firms of all sizes. The successful entrepreneur will be someone who understands how international business differs from domestic business and is able to act accordingly.

INTERNATIONAL VERSUS DOMESTIC ENTREPRENEURSHIP

Whether international or domestic, an entrepreneur is concerned about the same basic issues- sales, costs, and profits. What varies is the relative importance of the factors being considered. International entrepreneurial decisions are more complex due to uncontrollable factors such as the following.

Economics

A domestic business strategy is designed under a single economic system. Creating a business strategy for multiple countries means dealing with different levels of economic development and different distribution systems.

Balance of Payments A country's balance of payments affects the valuation of its currency. This economic variable will affect how companies do business in other countries.

Type of System Barteror third-party arrangements have been used to increase business activity with the Commonwealth of Independent States, the former U.S.S.R. There are still many difficulties in doing business in developing and transition economies due to:

a. Gaps in the knowledge of the Western system regarding business plans, marketing, and profits
b. Widely variable rates of return.
c. Non-convertibility of the ruble.
d. Differences in the accounting system.
e. Nightmarish communications.

Political-Legal Environment

Multiple political and legal environments create different business problems. Each element of the international business strategy can potentially be affected by multiple legal environments. Laws governing business arrangements also vary greatly in the 150 different legal systems and sets of national laws.

Cultural Environment
The impact of culture on entrepreneurs and strategies is significant. Understanding the local culture is necessary when developing worldwide plans.

Technological Environment
Technology varies significantly across countries. New products in a country are created based on the conditions and infrastructure of that country.

Strategic Issues
Four strategic issues are important to the international entrepreneur:

1. The allocation of responsibility between the U.S. and foreign operations.
2. The nature of the planning and control systems to be used.
3. The appropriate organizational structure for conducting international operations.
4. The degree of standardization possible.

With experience in international operations, entrepreneurs tend to change their approach to responsibility.

Stage 1: In the first stages the entrepreneur typically follows a highly centralized decision-making process.

Stage 2: When success occurs, it is no longer possible to use completely centralized decision-making process.

Stage 3: Decentralization is scaled back and major strategic decisions are again centralized.

To understand what is required for effective planning, reporting, and control, the entrepreneur should consider:

1. Environmental analysis.
2. Strategic planning.
3. Structure.
4. Operational planning.
5. Controlling the marketing program. The first step in identifying markets is to analyze data in the following areas:

1. Market characteristics.
2. Marketing institutions.
3. Industry conditions.
4. Legal environment.
5. Resources.
6. Political environment.

ENTREPRENEURIAL ENTRY INTO INTERNAT IONAL BUSINESS
The choice of entry method depends on the goals of the entrepreneur and the company's strengths and weaknesses.

Exporting
As a general rule, an entrepreneur starts doing international business through exporting.

- Indirect exporting involves a foreign purchaser in the local market or using an export management firm. For certain commodities, foreign buyers seek out sources of supply. Export management firms, another indirect method, are located in many commercial centers.
- Direct exporting through independent distributors or through one's own overseas sales office is another entry method. An independent foreign distributor directly contacts foreign customers and takes care of all technicalities.

Entrepreneurs who do not wish to give up control over marketing can open overseas sales offices and hire their own salespeople.

Non equity arrangements

Non equity arrangements allow the entrepreneur to enter a market without direct equity investment in the foreign market.

- Licensing involves a manufacturer giving a foreign manufacturer the right to use a patent, trademark, or technology in return for a royalty. This arrangement is most appropriate when the entrepreneur has no prospect of entering the market through exporting or direct investment. The process is usually low risk and an easy way to generate incremental income. Without careful analysis, licensing arrangements have several pitfalls.

- Turn-key projects

  Lesser-developed countries are able to obtain manufacturing technology without surrendering economic control through turn-key projects. A foreign entrepreneur builds a facility, trains the workers, and trains the management to run the installation.

  Once the operation is on line, it is turned over to local owners. Initial profits can lead to follow-up sales. Financing is often provided by the local company or government.

- Management contracts

  Entrepreneurs can contract their management techniques and skills, often following a turn-key project. The management contract allows the purchasing country to gain foreign expertise without turning ownership over to a foreigner.

Direct Foreign Investment

The wholly owned foreign subsidiary has been the preferred mode of ownership for direct investment.

- Minority interests The minority interest provides the firm with either a source of raw materials or a captive market for products. Entrepreneurs have used minority positions to gain a foothold in the market before making a major investment.

- Joint ventures

  Two firms get together and form a third company in which they share the equity.

LEARNING OBJECTIV ES

1. To identify the aspects and importance of international entrepreneurship.
2. To identify the important strategic issues in international entrepreneurship.
3. To identify the available options for entering international markets.
4. To present the problems and barriers to international entrepreneurship.

DIRECT FOREIGN INVESTME NT

The wholly owned foreign subsidiary has been the preferred mode of ownership for direct investment.

Minority interests The minority interest provides the firm with either a source of raw materials or a captive market for products. Entrepreneurs have used minority positions to gain a foothold in the market before making a major investment.

Joint ventures

Two firms get together and form a third company in which they share the equity. Joint ventures have been used by entrepreneurs in two situations:

1. When the entrepreneur wants to purchase local knowledge and an established facility.
2. When rapid entry into a market it needed. The keys to success of joint ventures have not been well understood. Reasons for forming a joint venture today are different than those in the past. Originally, joint ventures were used for trading purposes and were one of the oldest ways of transacting business. Joint ventures in the U.S. took the form of vertical joint ventures used by mining concerns and railroads. Motives for the significant increase in the use of joint ventures:

a. To share the costs and risks of an uncertain project.
b. To gain synergy between the two firms.
c. To obtain a competitive advantage.
d. To enter markets that pose entrance difficulties.

Majority interest Another equity method is to purchase a majority interest in a foreign business. The majority interest allows the entrepreneur to obtain managerial control while maintaining the company's local identity. In technical sense anything over 50% of the equity of the firm is majority interest.

100 percent ownership

One hundred percent ownership assures control. One form of 100 percent ownership is mergers and acquisitions, but the entrepreneur needs to have a general understanding of the benefits and problems of mergers as a strategic option. A horizontal merger is the combination of two firms that produce closely related projects in the same area. A vertical merger is the combination of firms in successive stages of production. A product extension merger occurs when acquiring and acquired companies have related production but do not have directly competing products. A market extension merger is when two firms produce the same products but sell them in different areas. A diversified activity merger is a conglomerate merger involving the consolidation of two unrelated firms. Mergers are a sound strategic option for an entrepreneur when synergy is present. Economies of scale are the most common reason for mergers. A second factor that causes synergy is taxation, or unused tax credits. The final factor is the benefits received in combining complementary resources.

BARRIERS TO INTER N AT IONAL TRADE

The positive attitude toward free trade began about 1947 with the development of general trade agreements and reduction of trade barriers.

General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT)

GATT is a multilateral agreement with the objective of liberalizing trade by eliminating tariffs and import quotas. In each round, mutual tariff reductions are negotiated between member nations. Members can ask for investigation of violations. While GATT has helped develop more unrestricted trade, its voluntary membership gives it little authority.

Increasing Protectionist Attitudes

Support of free trade increased significantly in the 1980s due to the rise in protectionist pressures in many countries. The persistent U.S. trade deficit has strained the world trading system. The economic success of a country (Japan) perceived as not playing by the rules has also strained the trading system. In response many countries have established bilateral voluntary export restrictions.

Trade Blocks and Free Trade Areas

Groups of nations are banding together to increase investment between nations in the group and exclude others. The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) between the U.S., Canada, and Mexico reduces barriers and encourages investment. The Americas, Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay, and Uruguay have created the Mercosul trade zone, a free trade zone between the countries. The European Community (EC) is founded on the principle of supra-nationality, with member nations not being able to enter into trade agreements on their own that are inconsistent with EC regulations.

Entrepreneur's Strategies and Trade Barriers

Trade barriers pose problems for entrepreneurs who want to become involved in international business.

Trade barriers increase the costs of exporting projects to a country. Voluntary export restrictions may limit the ability to sell products in a country from production facilities outside the country. An entrepreneur may have to locate assembly or facilities in a country to conform to the local content regulations.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To explain the aspects of the entrepreneurial process.
2. To explain the differences between entrepreneurial and managerial domains.
3. To explain the organizational environment conducive for entrepreneurship.
4. To identify the general characteristics of an Entrepreneur.
5. To explain the process of establishing entrepreneurship in an organization.

ENTREPRENEURIAL PARTNERING

One of the best methods to enter an international market is to partner with an entrepreneur in that country. These foreign entrepreneurs know the country and culture and therefore facilitate business transactions while keeping the entrepreneur current on business, economic and political conditions. This partnering is facilitated by understanding the nature of entrepreneurship in the country. Three areas of particular interest to U.S. entrepreneurs are Europe, the Far East and transition economies.

Europe

1. Europe has only recently become interested in entrepreneurship.
2. Risk taking has been discouraged and business failure considered a social disgrace.
3. Several changes in the social and political climate have changed this traditional, security-conscious culture.
4. Exemplifying this new thinking are academics, especially scientists and engineers.
5. Today more individuals are emerging in both academic circles and large companies who are look for a challenge.
6. New government policies are making it easier to raise money for starting up businesses.
7. The U.K. created the Business Expansion Scheme in 1983 to provide capital to new business ventures.
8. In France several economic and social factors cause difficulties.
9. Venture capital is managed by bankers, who are risk averse.
10. Another hurdle is the French contempt for both failure and success.
11. Research in Ireland and Sweden has explored the nature of European entrepreneurship.

The Far East

1. Entrepreneurial success in some Asian countries has been significant because of the culture and the political and economic systems.
2. The Malaysian government has established the Malaysian Industrial Development authority to promote efforts to eradicate poverty, but has not accomplished much.

3. In Singapore, entrepreneurial success is greatly esteemed.
4. Japan's social structure discourages entrepreneurship.
5. Hong Kong is a major entrepreneurial center.

Controlled and Transition Economies

1. China's planned economy has not openly encouraged entrepreneurship, but a deal of entrepreneurial activity is taking place.
2. In Poland, the transitional upheaval and lack of reform has led to a thriving black market.
3. The Overseas Private Investment Corporation of the U.S. government has supported economic reforms in these countries, through services such as:
   - Selling political risk insurance.
   - Offering direct loans.
   - Providing loan guarantees.
   - Organizing overseas missions.
   - Providing investor information services.
   - Due in part to OPIC, reforms in Hungary have supported decentralization, private initiative, and market-orientation of the economy

SOURCE S OF NEW ID EAS

A sound idea for a new product or service, properly evaluated, is essential to successfully launch a new venture. Some of the more frequently used ideas for new entrepreneur include consumers, existing companies, distribution channels, the federal government and research and development.

Consumers

Potential entrepreneurs should pay close attention to the final focal point of a new product-the customer. This can be an informal or formal survey of consumers expressing their opinions. Care should be taken to ensure that the idea represents a large enough market.

Existing Companies

Entrepreneurs should establish a formal method for monitoring and evaluating the products and services in the market. This may uncover ways to improve on present products, resulting in new product ideas.

Distribution Channels

Because they are familiar with the needs of the market, channel members often have suggestions for new products. These channel members can also help in marketing the new product.

Federal Government

The files of the Patent Office contain numerous new product possibilities. The patents can suggest other new product ideas. Several government agencies and publications are helpful in monitoring patent applications. New product ideas can also come in response to government regulations.

Research and Development

The largest source for new ideas is the entrepreneur's own research and development. This can be a formal endeavor connected with one's current employment

SOURCES OF NEW IDEAS

A sound idea for a new product or service, properly evaluated, is essential to successfully launch a new venture. Some of the more frequently used ideas for new entrepreneur include consumers, existing companies, distribution channels, the federal government and research and development

Consumers
Potential entrepreneurs should pay close attention to the final focal point of the idea for a new product or service the potential consumer. This can be an informal or formal survey of consumers expressing their opinions. Care should be taken to ensure that the idea represents a large enough market.

Existing Companies
Entrepreneurs should establish a formal method for monitoring and evaluating the products and services in the market. Frequently this analysis uncovers ways to improve on these offering that may result in a new product that has more market appeal.

Distribution Channels
Members of distribution channels are also excellent sources for new ideas because they are familiar with the needs of the market. Not only do channel members frequently have suggestions for new product, but they can also help in marketing the entrepreneur's newly developed products.

Federal Government
The federal government can be source of new product ideas in two ways. First the files of the Patent Office contain numerous new product possibilities. Although the patents may not be feasible new product introduction, they can suggest other marketable product ideas. Several government agencies and publications are helpful in monitoring patent applications. Second new product ideas can come in response to government regulations. For example the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA), aimed at eliminating unsafe working condition in industry, mandated that first aid kits be made available in business establishments employing more than three people. The kit had to contain specific item that varied according to the company and the industry. In response to OSHA, both established and newly formed ventures marketed a wide variety of first aid kits.

Research and Development
The largest source for new ideas is the entrepreneur's own research and development. This can be a formal endeavor connected with one's current employment. A more formal research and development department is often better equipped and enables the entrepreneurs to conceptualize and develop successful new product ideas.

CREATIVITY AND THE BUSINESS IDEA Lesson 16

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To identify various sources of ideas for new ventures.
2. To discuss methods available for generating new venture ideas.
3. To discuss creativity and the techniques for creative problem solving.

METHODS OF GE NER A TI NG NE W IDEA S

Even with the wide variety of sources available, coming up with an idea to serve as the basis for the new venture can still be a difficult problem. The entrepreneur can use several methods to help generate and test new ideas, including focus groups, brain storming and problem inventory analysis.

Focus groups

Group of individuals providing information in a structured format is called a focus group. The group of 8 to 14 participants is simulated by comments form other group members in creatively conceptualizing and developing new product idea to fulfill a market need.

Brainstorming

A group method of obtaining new ideas and solutions is called brainstorming. The brainstorming method for generating new ideas is based on the fact that people can be stimulated to greater creativity by meeting with others an d participating with organized group experiences. Although most of the ideas generated from the group have no basis for further development, often a good idea emerges.

Problem inventory analysis

Problem inventory analysis uses individuals in a manner that is analogous to focus groups to generate new product ideas. However instead of generating new ideas themselves, consumers are provided with a list of problems in a general product category. They are then asked to identify and discuss products in this category that have the particular problem. This method is often effective since it is easier to relate known products to suggested problems and arrive at a new product idea then to generate an entirely new idea by itself.

CREATIVE PROBLEM SOLVING

Creative problem solving is a method for obtaining new ideas focusing on the parameters.

Brainstorming

The first technique, brainstorming, is probably the most well known and widely used for both creative problem solving and idea generation. It is an unstructured process for generating all possible ideas about a problem within a limited time frame through the spontaneous contribution of participants. All ideas, no matter how illogical, must be recorded, with participants prohibited from criticizing or evaluating during the brainstorming session.

Reverse brainstorming

Similar to brainstorming, but criticism is allowed and encouraged as a way to bring out possible problems with the ideas.

Synectics

Synectics is a creative process that forces individuals to solve problems through one of four analogy mechanisms: personal, direct, symbolic and fantasy. This forces participants to consciously apply preconscious mechanisms through the use of analogies in order to solve problems.

Gordon method
Gordon method is a method of developing new ideas when the individuals are unaware of the problem. In this method the entrepreneur starts by mentioning a general concept associated with the problem. The group responds with expressing a number of ideas.

Checklist method
Developing a new idea through a list of related issues is checklist method of problem solving.

Free association method
Developing a new idea through a chain of word association is free association method of problem.

Forced relationship
Forced relationship is the process of forcing relationship among some product combination. It is technique that asks questions about objects or ideas in an effort to develop a new idea.

Collective notebook method
It is method in which ideas are generated by group members regularly recording ideas.

Heuristics
It is method of developing a new idea through a thought process progression.

Scientific method
This is a more structured method of problem solving, including principles and rules for concept formation, making observations and experiments, and finally validating the hypothesis.

Value analysis
Value analysis is developing a new idea by evaluating the worth of aspects of ideas.

Attribute listing
This is an idea finding technique that requires the entrepreneur to list the attributes of an item or problem and then look at each from a variety of viewpoints.

Matrix charting
Matrix charting is a systematic method of searching for new opportunities by listing important elements for the product area along two axis of chart and then asking questions regarding each of these elements.

Big dream approach
Developing a new idea by thinking about constraints is big-dream approach of problem solving.

Parameter analysis
Parameter analysis is developing a new idea by focusing on parameter identification and creative synthesis.

CREATIVITY AND THE BUSINESS IDEA Lesson 17

LEARNING OBJECTIV ES

1. To discuss the aspects of the product planning and development process
2. To discuss aspects of e-commerce and starting an e-commerce business

PRODUC T PLA N NI N G AND DEV E LOPME N T PROCES S

Once idea emerges from idea sources or creative problem solving, they need further development and refinement in to final product or service to be offered. This refining process- the product planning and development process – is divided in to five major stages. Idea stage, concept stage, product development stage, test marketing stage and commercializing; it result in the product life cycle.

Establishing evaluation criteria

At each stage of product planning and development process, criteria for evaluation need to be established. These criteria should be broad, yet quantitative enough to screen the product carefully in the particular stage of development. Criteria should be developed to evaluate the new product in terms of market opportunity, competition the marketing system, financial factors and production factors. A market opportunity and adequate market demand must exist. Current competing producers, prices, and policies should be evaluated in their impact on market share. The new product should be compatible with existing management capabilities. The product should be able to be supported by and contribute to the company's financial structure. The compatibility of new product's production requirements with existing plant, machinery, and personnel should be determined. Entrepreneurs should formally evaluate an idea throughout its evolution.

Idea Stage

Promising new product ideas should be identified and impractical ones eliminated in the idea stage allowing maximum use of company's resources. In the systematic market evaluation checklist method, each new product idea is expressed in terms of its chief values, merits, and benefits. This technique can be used to determine which new products should be pursued. The company should also determine the need for the new product and its value to the company. Need determination should focus on the type of need, its timing, the users involved, the importance of marketing variables, and the overall market structure and characteristics. In determining the product's value to the firm, financial scheduling should be evaluated.

Concept Stage

In the concept stage the refined idea is tested to determine consumer acceptance without manufacturing it. One method of testing is the conversational interview in which respondents are exposed to statements that reflect attributes of the product. Features, price, and promotion should be evaluated in comparison to major competitors to indicate deficiencies or benefits. The relative advantages of the new product versus competitors should be determined.

Product Development Stage

In this stage, consumer reaction is determined, often through a consumer panel. The panel can be given samples of the product and competitors' products to determine consumer preference. Participants keep the record of their use of product and comment on its virtues and deficiencies. The panel of consumers is also given a sample of product and one or more competitive product simultaneously. One test product may already be on the market, whereas the other test product is new.

Test Marketing Stage

Although the results of product development stage provide the basis of the final marketing plan, the market test can be done to increase the certainty of successful commercialization. The last step in the evaluation process, the test marketing stage, provides actual sales results which indicate the acceptance level of consumers. Positive test results indicate the degree of probability of a successful product launch and company formation.

E-Commerce and Business Start-Up and Growth

The Internet

The Internet started in the 1970s with a U.S. Defense Department program named ARPA. In the early 1990s the concept of World Wide Web pages was developed. The Internet is a channel for the creation of profitable companies. Electronic business (e-business) is any process that a business organization conducts over a computer-mediated network. Electronic commerce (e-commerce) is any transaction completed over a computer-mediated network that involves the transfer of ownership or rights to use goods or services. Factors that facilitate the growth of e-commerce are:

1. The widespread use of personal computers.
2. The adoption of intranets in companies.
3. The acceptance of the Internet as a business communications platform.

Starting an E-Commerce Company

The Internet is especially important for small and medium-sized companies as it lets them minimize marketing costs while reaching broader markets. An entrepreneur starting an Internet commerce venture needs to address many of the same strategic and tactical questions as other companies plus some specific online issues. One decision is whether to run the Internet operations within the company or outsource these operations. If handled in-house, expensive equipment and software have to be maintained. There are numerous possibilities for outsourcing the Internet business. The two major components of Internet commerce are front-end and back-end operations.

- Front-end operations are encompassed in the website's functionality, such as search capabilities, shopping cart, and secure payment. Back-end operations involve integrating customer orders with distribution channels and manufacturing capabilities.

Website

A website is an online connection between the company and its customers and can be developed in-house or outsourced. There are several important features of every website. Each website should have search capabilities. Other functions include shopping cart, secure server connection, credit card payment, and customer feedback features. Orders and other sensitive customer information should be transferred only through secure servers. An Internet company should also obtain a merchant account, which will allow the acceptance of major credit cards.

A successful website has three characteristics: speed, speed, and speed. Short download time should be the primary concern of website developers. A website should be easy to use, customized for specific market target groups, and compatible with different browsers. If the company is targeting international markets, then translation and cultural adaptation need to be considered. Probably the most difficult aspect of setting up an online business is advertising and promoting the web pages. A company can advertise its website through search engines, banner ads, e-mail, and classifieds. Banner ads can be targeted to the exact audience of the firm. The entrepreneur should collect e-mail addresses from customers for targeted e-mail campaigns. The Internet offers many low-cost or free services for small businesses, including Internet access, unlimited e-mail accounts, online calendar, instant messaging, and online conference rooms.

Tracking Customer Information
Electronic databases support personal marketing targeted at individual clients. The online company can capture customers' information in many ways. The U.S. government has generally maintained a policy of noninvolvement with Internet regulation, but the Federal Trade Commission has also pressed for new laws to protect minors.

Relationships and Endorsements by Other Companies
The company needs to establish strong connections with other companies in the supply chain to create an end-to-end value stream. The entrepreneur should protect its innovations and its relationship with other companies. Another type of relationship is endorsements by prominent Internet companies and associations. Participation in merchant networks can bring needed credibility.

Doing E-Commerce as an Entrepreneurial Company
The decision to go online should be made on a case-by-case basis. The products should be able to be delivered economically and conveniently. The product has to be interesting for a large number of people. Online operations have to bring significant cost reductions compared with brick-and-mortar operations. The company must have the ability to economically draw customers to its website. Conflict between traditional and online marketing channels can lead to a hostile, competing position of once partnering companies.

KEY TERMS Product development stage
In this stage, the new product is further developed into a prototype and tested
Product life cycle
This cycle is generally divided into four major stages: product introduction, market growth, market maturity, and sales decline

LEGAL ISSUES FOR THE ENTREPRENEUR Lesson 18

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To identify and distinguish intellectual property assets of a new venture including software websites.
2. To understand the nature of patents, the rights they provide, and the process for filing one.

WHAT IS INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY?

Intellectual property which includes patents, trademarks, copyrights, and trade secrets represent important assets of entrepreneur and should be understood even before engaging the services of an attorney. Because entrepreneurs often don't understand intellectual property, they can ignore steps that should be taken to protect these assets.

NEED FOR A LAWYER

All business is regulated by law. The entrepreneur needs to be aware of regulations that affect the new venture. At different stages the entrepreneur will need legal advice. The legal expertise required will vary based on factors such as type of product and organizational status. The entrepreneur should carefully evaluate his or her needs before hiring a lawyer.

HOW TO SELECT A LAWYER Why hire a lawyer?

The entrepreneur does not usually have the expertise to handle possible risks associated with difficult laws. An attorney is in a better position to understand all outcomes related to any legal action. The lawyer may work on a retainer basis (stated amount per month,), which provides office and consulting time. This does not include court time or other legal fees. The lawyer may be hired for a one-time fee, i.e. filing for a patent. Choosing a lawyer is like hiring an employee- The lawyer you work with should be someone to whom you can relate personally. When resources are limited, the entrepreneur may offer the lawyer stock in exchange for his or her services

LEGAL ISSUES IN SETTING UP THE ORGANIZATION

There are many options an entrepreneur can choose in setting up an organization. Legal advice is also needed to prepare the agreements necessary to begin a partnership, franchise, or corporation.

PATENTS

A patent is a contract between the government and an inventor. The government grants the inventor exclusivity for a specified amount of time. At the end, the government publishes the invention, and it becomes part of the public domain. The patent gives the owners a negative right, preventing anyone from making, using, or selling the invention.

Types of Patents

1. Utility Patents

   A utility patent has a term of 17 years, beginning on the date the Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) issues it. NAFTA (North American Free Trade Agreement) establishes a minimum period of 20 years from the date of filing or 17 years from the date of the grant. Patents on any invention requiring FDA approval are extended by the amount of time it takes the FDA to review the invention. The patent grants the owner protection from anyone making, using, and/or selling the invention.

2. Design Patents

Covering new, original, ornamental, and unobvious designs for articles, a design patent reflects the appearance of an object. These are for a 14-year term and provide a negative right, excluding others from making an article having the same ornamental appearance. Filing fees are lower than for utility patents.

3. Plant patents

Plant patents are issued for 17 years on new varieties of plants.
Patents are issued by the Patent and Trademark Office (PTO.) This office also administers the Disclosure Document Program, in which the inventor files disclosure of the invention, giving recognition that he or she was the first to develop the idea. Another program is the Defensive Publication Program, which lets the inventor protect an idea by preventing anyone else from patenting this idea, but gives the public access to it.

4. International Patents

With the new GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) that took effect on January 1, 1996, any application by a foreign company will be treated equally to an American firm. Previously American firms were given priority. Now the decision is totally based on when the filing companies began work on the idea. The GATT pact has been signed by 124 countries. An additional 144 are due to be included by the end of the century. China is excluded because of issues related to piracy. The pact will mandate stronger protection for entrepreneurs by requiring protection for the following terms:

1. Seven years for trademarks.
2. Twenty years for patents.
3. Fifty years for films, music, and software.

There are still some problems with international patents, such as the attitudes in China and other Southeast Asian countries toward "knock-offs."

The Disclosure Document

The entrepreneur should first file a disclosure document to establish a date of conception. To file, the entrepreneur must prepare a clear description of the invention along with photos and a cover letter. Upon receipt, the PTO stamps and returns a duplicate copy establishing evidence of conception. Before actually applying for the patent, the entrepreneur should retain a patent attorney to conduct a patent search.

The Patent Application

The patent application must contain a complete history and description of the invention as well as claims for its usefulness. The application is divided into sections: The Introduction Section contains the background and advantages of the invention and the nature of problems it overcomes. The d*escription of Invention Section,* this section contains a description of the drawings, which must comply with PTO requirements. A detailed description of the invention follows, including engineering specifications, materials, and components. In Claims Section, Claims are the criteria by which any infringements will be determined. Essential parts of the invention should be described in broad terms. The claims must not be so general that they hide the invention's uniqueness. The application should contain a declaration signed by the inventor.

When the application is sent, the status of the invention becomes "patent pending," providing protection until the application is approved. A carefully written patent should provide protection, but is also an invitation to sue or be sued if there is any infringement.

Patent Infringement
Many inventions are the result of improvements in existing products. Copying and improving a product may be legal. If improvement is impossible, it may be possible to license the product from the patent holder. To ascertain the existence of a patent, the entrepreneur can now use the Internet. If there is an existing patent that might involve infringement, licensing may be considered. If there is any doubt on this issue, the entrepreneur should hire a patent attorney.

ONL I NE PATENT ISSUES
The question of whether patents are applicable to e-commerce has been raised lately by stamp.com and Pitney Bowes. Large corporations, like Pitney Bowes, are suing start-up companies to get compensation for their intellectual property such as research and development and patents.

LEGAL ISSUES FOR THE ENTRE P RENEUR Lesson 19

LEARNING OBJECTIV ES

1. To understand the purpose of a trademark and the procedure for filing.
2. To learn the purpose of a copyright and how to file for one.
3. To identify procedures that can protect a venture's trade secrets.
4. To understand the value of licensing to either expand a business or to start a new venture.

TRADEMARKS

A trademark may be a word, symbol, design, or some combination that identifies the source of certain goods. A trademark can last indefinitely, as long as it continues to perform its indicated function. The trademark is given a 20-year registration with 20-year renewable terms. In the fifth to sixth year, you must file an affidavit with the PTO indicating that the patent is in commercial use. Today the law allows filing a trademark solely on the intent to use the trademark in interstate commerce. There are benefits to registering a mark that has already been in use. Categories of trademarks: Coined marks denote no relationship between the mark and the goods and afford the possibility of expansion. An arbitrary mark is one that has another meaning in our language. A suggestive mark is used to suggest certain features or characteristics of a product or service. A descriptive mark must have become distinctive and gained recognition before it can be registered. Registering a trademark can offer significant advantages to the entrepreneur.

Registering the Trademark

The PTO is responsible for federal registration of trademarks. To file, the entrepreneur must complete the application form, which can be downloaded from the PTO website. Filing of the registration involves four requirements:

a. Completion of the written form.
b. A drawing of the mark.
c. Five specimens showing actual use of the mark.
d. The fee. An examining attorney at the PTO determines whether the mark is suitable for registration. Once accepted, the trademark is published in the Trademark Official Gazette to allow any party 30 days opposing. If no opposition is filed, the registration is issued. The entire process usually takes about 13 months.

COPYRIGHT

A copyright protects original works of authorship. The protection does not protect the idea itself. It allows someone else to use the idea in a different manner. In 1980 the Computer Software Copyright Act was added to provide explanation of the nature of software protection under copyright law. Authors of software are protected in a manner similar to authors of artistic works. The idea is not eligible for protection, but the actual software program is eligible. The PTO issues registration for software source codes and object codes programs. Protection of material on the Internet has become an important issue. The New York Time recently claimed that Amazon.com couldn't use its best-seller list without its permission. Ownership of stock quotes, judicial decision, and real estate postings is also being questioned. Copyrights are registered with the Library of Congress. All that is needed is the form, two copies of the work, and the appropriate fee sent to the Register of Copyrights. The term of the copyright is the life of the author plus 50 years. In some instances, several forms of protection may be available: trademark, patent, and copyright.

TRADE SE CRETS A trade secret is not covered by any federal law but is recognized under common laws in each state. Employees may be asked to sign a confidential information agreement. The holder of the trade secret has the right to sue any signee who breaks the agreement. Non-protected ideas could become a serious problem in the future unless the entrepreneur takes precautions. To maintain secrecy

1. Train employees to refer sensitive questions to one person.
2. Provide escorts for all office visitors.
3. Avoid discussing business in public places.
4. Control information that might be presented by employees at conferences or in journals.
5. Use simple security such as locked file cabinets and shredders.
6. Have employees and consultants sign non-disclosure agreements.
7. Debrief departing employees.
8. Avoid faxing any sensitive information.
9. Mark documents "confidential" that need to be.
10. Protection against the leaking of trade secrets is difficult to enforce, and legal action can be taken only after the secret has been revealed.

LICENSING

Licensing is an arrangement between two parties, where one party has proprietary rights protected by a patent, trademark, or copyright. This requires the licensee to pay a royalty to the holder of the proprietary rights in return for permission to copy the patent. Licensing has significant value as a marketing strategy to holders of patents.

Procedure

A patent license agreement specifies how the licensee would have access to the patent. Licensing a trademark usually involves an agreement where the entrepreneur operates a business using the trademark and agrees to specific requirements. The agreement must be carefully worded and should involve a lawyer. Licensing a trademark generally involves a franchising agreement. The entrepreneur operates a business using the trademark and agrees to pay a fixed sum for use of the trademark.

The franchisee also pays a royalty based on sales volume, buys supplies from the franchiser, or some combination of these. Copyrights are also popular licensed property. They involve the right to use or copy books, software, music, photos, and plays. Celebrities will often license the right to use his or her name or image in a product. Hit movies can also result in new products. Licensing is also popular around special sports events.

Licensing opportunities are plentiful but should be carefully considered and planned. A significant player in licensing is Walt Disney, which has been actively engaged in licensing for 65 years. Licensing can be valuable for a firm that lacks resources to conduct R&D to develop a product. Technology licensing entails an agreement by which a firm (licensee) acquires rights to product technology from another firm (licensor.) Two reasons for licensing are to gain competitive advantage and to improve technical skills.

Benefits

Licensing can increase revenues, without the risk and costly start-up investment. Licensing can also be a way to start a new venture when the idea may infringe.

LEGAL ISSUES FOR THE ENTREPRENEURS Lesson 20

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To illustrate some of the fundamental issues related to contracts.
2. To understand important issues related to insurance and product safety and liability.

PRODUCT SAFETY AND LIABILITY

The Consumer Product Safety Act, passed in 1972, created a five-member commission that has the power to prescribe safety standards for products. The commission also has the power to identify what it considers to be substantial hazards and bar products it considers unsafe. The act was amended in 1990 to establish stricter guidelines for reporting product defects and resulting injuries and deaths. Manufacturers could be subject to fines of $1.25 million for not reporting product liability settlements or court awards. Any new product should be assessed as to whether it falls under the law. If it does, the entrepreneur has to follow appropriate procedures. Product liability problems are complex. Recent attempts to reform the legislation passed in Congress but were vetoed by the President. Claims regarding product safety and liability usually fall under one of these categories:

1. Negligence extends to all parts of the production and marketing process.
2. WarrantyConsumers may sue when advertising overstates the benefits of a product or when the product does not perform as stated.
3. Strict Liability. A consumer can sue on the basis that the product was defective prior to its receipt.
4. Misrepresentation occurs when advertising or other information misrepresents material facts concerning the quality of the product. The best protection against product liability is to produce safe products and to warn consumers of any potential hazards.

INSURANCE

The entrepreneur should purchase insurance in the event that problems do occur. Most firms should consider coverage in specific areas as a means of managing risk in the business. Common types of insurance include:

1. Property insurance.
2. Casualty insurance.
3. Life insurance.
4. Worker's compensation.
5. Bonding.

Each of these types of insurance provides a means of managing risk in the new business. Some insurance, such as disability and vehicle coverage, is required by law and cannot be avoided. Life insurance of key employees is not required but may be necessary to protect the venture. The entrepreneur should consider the increasing insurance premiums in cost projections. The entrepreneur should determine what kind of insurance to purchase, how much to purchase, and from what company. Skyrocketing medical costs have significant impact on insurance premiums, especially workers' compensation. Insurance companies calculate the premium for workers' compensation as a percentage of payrolls, type of business, and prior claims. Some states are undertaking reforms in this coverage.

Promoting safety through comprehensive guidelines and being personally involved with safety will help the entrepreneur control costs. Health care coverage is an important benefit to employees and a significant cost to businesses. A self-employed entrepreneur has limited options. If you are leaving a corporate position, consider extending your health care benefits with a COBRA, which allows you to continue on the same health policy for about three years. Individual health care policies hare available. One rule is to never rely on a handshake if the deal cannot be completed within one year.

The courts insist that a written contract exist for all transactions over $500. The safest way to conduct business deals is with a written contract. Any deal involving real estate must be in writing to be valid. Leases, rentals, and purchases all need written agreements.
Four essential items in an agreement to provide the best legal protection:

1. All parties involved should be named and their roles specified.
2. The transaction should be described in detail.
3. The exact value of the transaction should be specified.
4. Obtain signatures of the persons involved in the deal.

CREATING AND STARTING THE VENTURE Lesson 21

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To define what the business plan is, who prepares it, who reads it, and how it is evaluated.
2. To understand the scope and value of the business plan to investors, lenders, employees, suppliers, and customers.

PLANNING AS PART OF THE BUSINESS OPERATION

Planning is a process that never ends. In the early stages, the entrepreneur should prepare a preliminary plan. The plan will be finalized as the enterprise develops. Many different types of plans may be part of any business operation-financial, marketing, production, and sales plans. Plans may be short term or long term, or they may be strategic or operational. All of these plans have one purpose: to provide guidance and structure to management in a rapidly changing market environment.

WHAT IS THE BUSINESS PLAN

A business plan is a written document prepared by the entrepreneur that describes all the relevant external and internal elements involved in starting a new venture. It addresses both short- and long-term decision making. The business plan is like a road map for the business' development. The Internet also provides outlines for business planning. Entrepreneurs can also hire or offer equity to another person to provide expertise in preparing the business plan. In developing the business plan the entrepreneur can determine how much money will be needed from new and existing sources.

WHO SHOULD WRITE THE PLAN

The business plan should be prepared by the entrepreneur; however, he or she may consult many sources. Lawyers, accountants, marketing consultants, and engineers are useful supplemental sources. Other resources are the Small Business Administration, Service Core of Retired Executives, Small Business Development Centers, universities, friends, and relatives. To help determine whether to hire a consultant, the entrepreneur needs to make an objective assessment of his or her own skills.

SCOPE AND VALUE OF THE BUSINESS PLANCWHO READS THE PLAN

The business plan must be comprehensive enough to address the concerns of employees, investors, bankers, venture capitalists, suppliers, and customers. Three perspectives need to be considered:

The entrepreneur understands the new venture better than anyone. The marketing perspective considers the venture through the eyes of the customer. The investor looks for sound financial projections. The depth of the business plan depends on the size and scope of the proposed venture.

The business plan is valuable to the entrepreneur and investors because:

1. It helps determine the viability of the venture in a designated market.
2. It gives guidance in organizing planning activities.
3. It serves as an important tool in obtaining financing. Potential investors are very particular about what should be included in the plan. The process of developing a business plan also provides a self-assessment of the entrepreneur. This self-evaluation requires the entrepreneur to think through obstacles that might prevent the venture's success. It also allows the entrepreneur to plan ways to avoid such obstacles.

HOW DO POTENTIAL LENDERS AND INVESTORS EVALUATE THE PLAN

Because the business plan should address the needs of all the potential evaluators, software packages and Internet samples should be used only to assist in preparation. As the entrepreneur becomes aware of who will read the plan, changes will be necessary. Suppliers may want to see a business plan before signing a contract to supply products or services. Customers may also want to review the plan before buying the product. The business plan should consider the needs of these constituencies. Potential suppliers of capital will vary in their needs and requirements in the business plan. Lenders are primarily interested in the ability of the new venture to pay back the debt and focus on the four C's of credit:

1. The entrepreneur's credit history or character.
2. Their ability to meet debt and interest payments (cash flow.)
3. The collateral or tangible assets being secured.
4. Equity contribution or the amount of personal equity that has been invested by the entrepreneur.

Investors provide large sums of capital for ownership (equity) and expect to cash out within 5 to 7 years. They will often place more emphasis on the entrepreneur's character than lenders. The venture capitalist will play an important role in management of the business and wants the entrepreneurs to be pliable and willing to accept this involvement. These investors will also demand high rates of return and will thus focus on the market and financial projections. If the entrepreneur does not consider the needs of these sources, the plan may be an internalized document without consideration of the feasibility of meeting market goals. Most external advisors and potential investors are bound by a professional code of ethics regarding disclosure.

PRESENTING THE PLAN

It is often necessary for an entrepreneur to orally present the business plan to investors. Typically the entrepreneur provides a short (20-30 minutes) presentation of the business plan. The entrepreneur must sell their business concept in a short time period. A venture capitalist or angel group may also ask the entrepreneur to present the plan to their partners before making a final decision.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. To identify information needs and sources for business planning.
2. To enhance awareness of the ability of the Internet as an information resource and marketing tool
3. To present helpful questions for the entrepreneur at each stage of the planning process.
4. To understand how to monitor the business plan

INFORMATION NEEDS

Before preparing a business plan, the entrepreneur should do a quick feasibility study to see if there are possible barriers to success. The entrepreneur should clearly define the venture's goals, which provide a framework for the business plan. The business plan must reflect reasonable goals.

Market Information

It is important to know the market potential for the product or service. The first step is to define the market. A well-defined target market makes it easier to project market size and market goals. To assess the total market potential, the entrepreneur can use trade associations, government reports, and published studies.

Operations Information Needs

The entrepreneur may need information on:

1. Location
2. Manufacturing operations
3. Raw materials
4. Equipment
5. Labor skills
6. Space
7. Overhead

Each item may require some research but is needed by those who will assess the business plan.

Financial Information Needs

Before preparing the plan, the entrepreneur must evaluate the profitability of the venture through the following:

1. Expected sales and expense figures for the first three years
2. Cash flow figures for the first three years
3. Current balance sheets and pro forma balance sheets for the next three years

Determination of expected sales and expenses is based on the market information gathered earlier. Estimates of cash flow will consider the ability of the new venture to meet expenses at designated times. Current balance sheet figures show the assets, liabilities, and investments made by the owner.

USING THE INTERNET AS A RESOURCE TOOL

Thanks to technology, entrepreneurs are able to access information efficiently, expediently, and at very little cost. The Internet can serve as an important source of information in preparing the business plan. Information on industry analysis, competitor analysis, and measurement of market potential can be located. In addition, the Internet also provides opportunities for actually marketing the new venture's products. A web site, or home page, typically describes a firm's history, existing products, background of the founders, and other information to create a favorable image. The web site can be a vehicle for advertising or for direct marketing. Many new ventures use web pages to increase sales contacts and reach potential customers. An entrepreneur can also access competitors' web sites to gain knowledge of their strategy in the marketplace. To gather information anonymously the entrepreneur can also investigate newsgroups. All that is needed to use these sources is a small investment in hardware and software.

WRITI NG THE BUSINESS PLA N

The business plan should be comprehensive enough to give a potential investor a complete understanding of the venture

Introductory Page

The title page provides a brief summary of the business plan's contents, and should include:

1. The name and address of the company
2. The name of the entrepreneur and a telephone number
3. A paragraph describing the company and the nature of the business
4. The amount of financing needed
5. A statement of the confidentiality of the report It also sets out the basic concept that the entrepreneur is attempting to develop.

Executive Summary

This is prepared after the total plan is written. It should be three to four pages in length and should highlight the key points in the business plan. The summary should highlight in a concise manner the key points in the business plan. Issues that should be addressed include:

1. Brief description of the business concept
2. Any data that support the opportunity for the venture.
3. Statement of you this opportunity will be pursued.
4. Highlight some key financial results that can be achieved Because of the limited scope of the summary, the entrepreneur should ascertain what is important to the audience to whom the plan is directed.

Environmental and Industry Analysis

The entrepreneur should first conduct an environmental analysis to identify trends and changes occurring on a national and international level that may impact the new venture. Examples of environmental factors are:

Economy Culture Technology Legal concerns All of the above external factors are generally uncontrollable Next the entrepreneur should conduct an industry analysis that focuses on specific industry trends.

Some examples of industry factors include: Industry demand Competition The last part of this section should focus on the specific market. This would include such information as who the customer is and what the business environment is like. The market should be segmented and the target market identified

Description of the Venture

The description of the venture should be detailed in this section. This should begin with the mission statement or company mission, which describes the nature of the business and what the entrepreneur hopes to accomplish. The new venture should be described in detail, including the product, location, personnel, background of entrepreneur, and history of the venture. The emphasis placed on location is a function of the type of business. Maps that locate customers, competitors, and alternative locations can be helpful. If the building or site decision involves legal issues, the entrepreneur should hire a lawyer.

CREATING AND STARTING THE VENTURE (Continued….) Lesson 23

LEARNING OBJECTIV ES

1. To present examples and a step-by-step explanation of the business plan.
2. To explain how to write a business plan
3. To explain the procedure and list of document included in business plan
4. To discuss the contents of each document and how to prepare them

WRITI NG THE BUSINESS PLAN

Description of the Venture
The description of the venture should be detailed in this section. This should begin with the mission statement or company mission, which describes the nature of the business and what the entrepreneur hopes to accomplish. The new venture should be described in detail, including the product, location, personnel, background of entrepreneur, and history of the venture. The emphasis placed on location is a function of the type of business. Maps that locate customers, competitors, and alternative locations can be helpful. If the building or site decision involves legal issues, the entrepreneur should hire a lawyer.

Production Plan or Operations Plan
If a new venture is a manufacturing operation, a production plan is necessary. This plan should describe the complete manufacturing process, including whether or not the process is to be subcontracted. If the manufacturing is carried out by the entrepreneur, the plan should describe the physical plant layout and machinery and equipment needed. If the venture is not manufacturing, this section would be titled *operational plan. The entrepreneur would need to describe the chronological steps in completing a business transaction.

Marketing Plan
The marketing plan describes how the products will be distributed, priced, and promoted. Potential investors regard the marketing plan as critical to the venture's success.

Organizational Plan
The organizational plan section should describe the venture's form of ownership. If the venture is a corporation, this should include the number of shares authorized, share options, and names and addresses of the directors and officers. It is helpful to provide an organization chart indicating the line of authority. This chart shows the investor who controls the organization and how members interact.

Assessment of Risk
It is important that the entrepreneur make an assessment of risk in the following manner: The entrepreneur should indicate the potential risks to the new venture. Next should be a discussion of what might happen if these risks become reality. Finally the entrepreneur should discuss the strategy to prevent, minimize, or respond to these risks. The entrepreneur should also provide alternative strategies should these risk factors occur.

Financial Plan
The financial plan determines the investment needed for the new venture and indicates whether the business plan is economically feasible. The entrepreneur should summarize the forecasted sales and expenses for the first three years. Cash flow figure for three years are needed, with the first year's projections provided monthly. The projected balance sheet shows the financial condition of the business at a specific time.
