Topic 043
Evaluation of Performing Arts

George Gadamer in Truth and Method in 1989

Q.1 How Aesthetic Influence in a performance is determined?

1) Presence: He knows all about how it really was
2) Sharing: His mind and its own functioning becomes a shared activity with performance.
3) Self-forgetfulness: The condition where a spectator is carried out by the performance. It is important if we consider puppetry as a tool to educate children.
4) Contemporaneity: Which means that a single thing that presents itself to us achieves in its presentation full presentness, however remote its origin may be
5) Absolute Presence: Which is a result of Self-forgetfullness and Contemporaneity?

Topic 044
Evaluation Theory 1

Paul Thom (p.205) which he termed as playful attention is performing is a process; an audience's attention can play between the performer's present actions and recollected past actions or anticipated future ones.

James Young's book Art and Knowledge (2001) casts light on performing art as affective illustrative representation through strategies that provide right perspectives to a suitably qualified audience.

1) Cognitive Value: This principle states that works of art with a high degree of aesthetic value can contribute importantly to the knowledge of an audience.
2) Interpretability principle: Artworks have cognitive (and aesthetic) value qua representations but can only have this value if audiences can interpret them. Consequently, the interpretability principle follows from the fact that artworks have value

Edit with WPS Office

qua representations

3) Subject Matter Principle: suggests that art does not need to be necessarily morally 'right' but it should turn attention towards important subject matter. This means that the mere knowledge of important subject matter can put things on track. Art should provide the right perspective on important subject matter. He demands rationality over and above morality.

4) Originality Principle: holds that art must simplify puzzling issues through original perspective on things, this originality is essential for establishing an aesthetic value of an art work.

Topic 047
Teaching
Art

21st century (Age of Science and Technology, Media, Globalization, Information Technology, Brain and Mind Sciences.

Disciplines dealing with the understanding of whole world:

1) Macro: History, Philosophy, Science, Mathematics, Religion, Mysticism,

2) Micro: Quantum Physics, Nano-technology, Genetics

Disciplines dealing with the understanding of individual and Society:

- Anthropology, Psychology, Cognitive Science, Neurobiology, Evolutionary Sciences, Neuroaesthetics, Computational Sciences, Social and Cultural Studies

Few strategies to consider in teaching art to children:

1) Modeling Artists' Thinking & Process: Trenchers should encourage each student to think like an artist by modeling their own artistic process as well as exposing them to works of art and a variety of ideas and approaches.

2) Reflective Practice: is an integral component of every teacher residency and can take the form of group discussions of student artwork, individual sketchbook reflections, and checklists of goals generated by students.

Edit with WPS Office

3) Open-ended and extended investigations: Teachers should begin with developing an Essential Question, a question that is designed to address a big idea within the chosen curriculum area.
4) Material and idea explorations: In order to build technique and foster student innovation, teachers should include sessions that are solely dedicated to investigating the properties and possibilities of materials and ideas.
5) Collaborative and interdisciplinary projects: The structure teaching should be designed to foster collaboration with educators from other disciplines, and to create group projects. These collaborative approaches create natural opportunities for interdisciplinary learning
6) Balancing process and product: is important for teachers, parents, and students value the importance of exploring, thinking, and participating in the artistic process.

Topic 048

New Teaching Method

The main objective is to develop a student in terms of artistic genius and skill. Following aspects are important:

7) Understand the Artist
8) Understand the Product
9) Understand the Viewer
10) Relation between Artist and Product
11) Relation between the product and viewer
12) Relation between the artist and viewer

In new teaching method some given goals should be prefer:

Edit with WPS Office

1) Field Specific Knowledge: Teacher should have proficiencies that a student required it is because qualified teachers provides brilliant students and these students build the nation strong. Teacher should have knowledge:

2) Critical Thinking: Teacher should have level of thinking that helps in judge the student nature and way of learning art. Critical thing is one of that factors that helps teacher to evaluate and explain better art calligraphy.

3) Application of Art: Teacher should be punctual and active so that he has knowledge all about that how to perform art works to final completion by demonstration their "practice" of art.

Topic 055

Independent

Thinking

Following Damasio's Model:

What we have now is mental functions determining mental capabilities, which in turn determine artistic qualities. We have 7 principles which are again about developing mental capabilities and as a result artistic qualities.

Curiosity

An insatiably curious approach to life and an unrelenting quest for continuous learning

Independent Thinking

A commitment to test knowledge through experience, persistence, and a willingness to learn from mistakes

Topic 056

Embrace

Uncertainty

Refine Senses: The continual refinement of the senses, especially sight, as the means to clarify experience

Embrace Uncertainty: A willingness to embrace ambiguity, paradox, and uncertainty

Holistic thinking: The development of the balance between science and art, logic and

Edit with WPS Office

imagination

Mind/Body Care: The cultivation of grace, ambidexterity, fitness, and poise

Systems Thinking: A recognition and appreciation for the connectedness of all things and phenomena.

Topic 057

Four Steps of Teaching

Q. Write down the four steps that are adopted in 21st century teaching?

1) Upgrading the source that produces art
2) Changing the source and monitoring the change in work
3) Analyzing the work and assessing the source
4) Constantly Evolving your own knowledge and approach

Topic 060

Stone Age

Art

The Stone Age lasted from 30,000 BC to about 3,000 BC, and is named after the main technological tool developed at that time, stone. It ended with the advent of the Bronze Age and Iron Age.

The Stone Age is divided in three distinct periods:

13) The Paleolithic Period or Old Stone Age (30,000 BC – 10,000 BC),
14) The Mesolithic Period or Middle Stone Age (10,000 BC – 8,000 BC),
15) The Neolithic Period or New Stone Age (8,000 BC – 3,000 BC).

Types of art in Stone Age:

- Petroglyphs (cupules, rock carvings and engravings);
- Pictographs (pictorial imagery, or symbols), a category that includes cave painting and drawing
- Prehistoric sculpture (Venus Figurines, various forms of ivory carving, and relief sculptures); and
- Megalithic art(arrangements of stones)

The Cave of the Castle is a Stone Age rock shelter in Spain (39000 BC) which contains the oldest cave painting named as a panel of abstract signs and hand stencils rock art.

Edit with WPS Office

Altamira Cave Spain (34000 BC) artists relied on the same basic prehistoric color palette, of black, most shades of red, along with a range of warm colors, from earth brown to straw yellow.

Lascaux (17000 BC, France): The three graphic techniques used by artists at Lascaux were painting, drawing and engraving. They were used independently or in combination.

Bhimbetka India 30000 BC:

The word "megalithic" describes structures made of such large stones, utilizing an interlocking system without the use of mortar or concrete.

Turkey ritual site 8000 BC,

Stonehenge burial ground 3000 BC in UK, worshipping

Topic 061

Mesopotamian

Art

The ancient civilizations of Mesopotamia are the source of the earliest surviving art. These civilizations were situated between the Tigris and the Euphrates Rivers. Dating back to 3500 BC Mesopotamian art was intended to serve as a way to glorify powerful rulers and their connection to divinity.

Q. How art is made?

Art was made from natural resources such as stone, shells, alabaster and marble, and was often created as didactic pieces.

Q. Why no signature can be found in art?

No artist signatures can be found on most of the work, because the pieces were meant to embody the subject matter, rather than the creator.

Q. Write down the major civilizations that flourished during the Mesopotamian time?

16)The Sumerians (3500- 2300 BC), 17)Akkadians (2180-2340 BC),

18)Babylonians (1792-1750 BC),

19)Hitties (1600-1200 BC),

20)Assyrains (1000-612 BC)

21)The Persians (559-331 BC).

Warrior art and narration in stone relief Standard of Ur, 2600 BC

Edit with WPS Office

- Akkadian culture was the first work that depicted a man as synonymous to a god and made from sandstone
- This work utilizes two important staples of ancient art: hierarchy of scale and symbolism.
- Naram-Sin is physically shown above all other figures in the piece, establishing him as the most important. He is also wearing a horned crown and standing under stars that appear close enough for the ruler to touch them. Such imagery was meant to indicate his divinity.

Babylonian Art

Ishtar Gate, 575 B.C.E:

This gate is made from blue-glazed brick with images of alternating bas-relief dragons and wild cattle. Commissioned by King Nebuchadnezzar II, this structure was once considered one of the Seven Wonders of the World. It was later replaced in this list by the Lighthouse of Alexandria. This gate was dedicated to the Babylonian goddess, Ishtar, and played a large part in processional festivals.

Assyrian Art

Lamassu, 720-705 B.C.:

This statue is a combination of a bull's body, eagle's wings, and a human crowned head, and represents the ultimate protection from evil. Often, as is the case with this particular piece, it was placed with an identical twin by the entrance to a city, serving as a permanent protector.

Persian Art

Persepolis, 500 B.C.:

This architectural feat was built by architects Darius I and Xerxes I.

Located in what is now Iran, this structure was once a place for spectacular receptions. It was constructed on artificial terraces made of mud-brick. Lamassu gates, relief sculptures and bell-shaped columns characterize this structure

Edit with WPS Office

Topic 062

Egyptian Art

Egyptian (3100 BC–30 BC)

Art with an afterlife focus: pyramids and tomb painting. Symbolism also played an important role in establishing a sense of order. Symbolism, ranging from the pharaoh's regalia (symbolizing his power to maintain order) to the individual symbols of Egyptian gods and goddesses, is omnipresent in Egyptian art. Animals were usually also highly symbolic figures in Egyptian art.

Q. What types of colors are used in Egyptian Painting?

The use of color in Egyptian paintings was also regulated and used symbolically. Egyptian artists used six colors in their paintings red, green, blue, yellow, white and black.

Q. Describe the each color symbolically meaning in Egyptian Painting?

1) Red considered the color of power, symbolized life and victory, as well as anger and fire.
2) Green symbolized new life, growth, and fertility
3) Blue symbolized creation and rebirth
4) Yellow symbolized the eternal, such as the qualities of the sun and gold.
5) White was the color of purity, symbolizing all things sacred, and was typically used in religious objects and tools used by the priests.
6) Black was the color of death and represented the underworld and the night.

The Nefertiti Bust: is a 3,300-year-old painted limestone bust of Nefertiti, the Great Royal Wife of the Egyptian Pharaoh Akhenaten, and one of the most copied works of ancient Egypt. Owing to the work, Nefertiti has become one of the most famous women of the ancient world, and an icon of feminine beauty.
The work is believed to have been crafted in 1345 BC by the sculptor Thutmose.

Topic

063

Classicis

m

When used to refer to an aesthetic attitude, Classicism invokes those characteristics normally associated with the art of antiquity, harmony, clarity, restraint, universality, and idealism.

It is taken to begin with the earliest-recorded Epic Greek poetry of Homer (8th–7th century BC), and continues through the emergence of Christianity and the decline of the

Edit with WPS Office

Roman Empire (5th century AD). It ends with the dissolution of classical culture at the close of Late Antiquity (300– 600), blending into the Early Middle Ages (600–1000).

Archaic: This period was between 600 and 480 B.C. Many of the archaic sculptures are compared to the style of the Egyptians, due to the stiff poses that lacked movement. The statues were often used to line the entrance ways to temples or for marking graves.

The statues are either male or female and are robed in a standing position. The male statues are called kouroi ("young men") and the female statues are called kourai. The males are depicted as athletes, warriors and gods. The women represent goddesses, nymphs and priestesses.

. One of the famous archaic sculptures is called "The Calf Bearer" and exhibits the tell-tale signs of the archaic period.

Classical: This period is from 500 B.C. to 323 B.C. During the classical period Greece reached its height of success, economically and culturally. The human form began being depicted in stances of movement, particularly in athletic movement; it was also the beginning of the Greek physical ideal. Bodies took on a natural, more realistic form.

The male form was represented as a fit, healthy and young man whose muscles and shape were carved out of the marble.

Women were often nude on top and robed on the bottom or completely nude. They had soft round abdomens, full hips and legs and small breasts.

Hellenistic: This period spanned from the mid third century to the first century B.C. The Hellenistic period was varied and delved more into reality and artistic flourish.

After centuries of carving out the human form, the Hellenistic sculptors were at the height of their abilities. The use of shadowing, the incredibly real depiction of fabric draping, facial expression, age and emotion are all in evidence.

Topic 064

Byzantine Art

Byzantine art is almost entirely concerned with religious expression and, more specifically, with the impersonal translation of carefully controlled church theology into artistic terms. Its forms of architecture and painting grew out of these concerns and remained uniform and anonymous.

Byzantine art is a combination of Eastern and classical Western art.

The Byzantine Empire inherited the ideas and forms of art of the classical world of Greece and

Edit with WPS Office

Rome.

The art of Greece and Rome was naturalistic--artists wanted to show the world about them as it actually looked.

The art of the ancient Near East was more an art of decoration

A mosaic picture or design is made of thousands of small glass or marble cubes, called tesserae, set in cement

The walls and domes of the great churches of Ravenna and Constantinople were decorated with glass tesserae, brilliantly colored or covered with gold.

Topic 065

Islamic Art 1

The phrase "Islamic art" is an umbrella term for post 7th century visual arts, created by Muslim and non-Muslim artists within the territories occupied by the people and cultures of Islam.

Islamic art has developed from a wide variety of different sources. It includes elements from Greek and early Christian art which it combines with the great Middle Eastern cultures of Egypt, Byzantium, and ancient Persia, along with far eastern cultures of India and China.

Arab (Holy Book), Turkish (Abstraction), Persian (lyrical, metaphysical)

The most fundamental is the creation of the infinite pattern that appears in a fully developed form very early on and is a major element of Islamic Art in all periods.

The infinite continuation of a given pattern, whether abstract, semi-abstract or even partly figurative, is the expression of a profound belief in the eternity.

An Arabesque design, based on an infinite leaf-scroll pattern that, by division of elements.
The cover of a small metal box or the glazed curve of a momumental dome.

Topic 066

Islamic Art 2

Cut tile: It is made up of dozens of individually cut ceramic tile pieces fitted precisely together,

Edit with WPS Office

emphasizes the clarity of the colored shape

Muqarnas: It consists of small niche like components, usually stacked in multiples as successive units in arches, cornices, and domes, hiding the transition from the vertical to the horizontal plane

Wooden strap work: In this artist finely cut wooden pieces to create the appearance of geometrically interlacing ribbons, often framing smaller panels of carved wood and inlaid ivory

Glass mosaic: It is comprised of thousands of small glass or glazed ceramic tesserae set on a plaster ground.

Water work: Water is a fluid architectural element that reflects surrounding architecture, adds visual dynamism and sound, and, running in channels between halls, unites disparate space

Chini khana: It is a panel of china cabinet literallymniches, sometimes providing actual shelving, but used here for its contrast of material and void which reverses the typical figure-ground relationship

The eternal spiral: Behind most designs there is a spiral from which the motifs and leaves sprout. The movement of nature inspires the unbroken flow of the spiral, it has no hard corners and the curves are sweeping and gentle. As the spiral advances it radiates secondary spirals, they in turn radiate spirals and soon the page is overgrown. The spiral progresses from its source like a plant from a seed growing toward the light. This centrifugal movement reflects the progression of creation from the creator, moving to infinity.

Symmetry and structure: Once a section of spirals are drawn they are reflected and repeated to fill a page wall or dome. Symmetry is fundamental to a harmonious design, it exemplifies completeness and perfection and the desire for unity.

Rhythm and Balance: Islamic designs tessellate across the surface with an even rhythm and texture. No part of the design takes precedence and pushes to the foreground; the designs vibrate and oscillate evenly, undulating like the sea. This effect is created by the repetition and the careful even arrangement of the motifs.

Topic 068

Early Renaissance

Edit with WPS Office

The Early Renaissance (1300-1450): was the period of artistic development in Italy when art broke away from the rigid Byzantine and Gothic traditions to develop a more naturalistic approach to drawing and the organization of figures within a landscape.

The roots of these changes lay in the more solid rendering of form and the gestural narratives of Giotto's painting.

A more precise way of rendering depth was gradually developed through the creative application of perspective drawing in the work of artists such as Masaccio, Uccello, Fra Angelico and Piero Della Francesca.

The Renaissance, or Rinascimento, was largely fostered by the post-feudal growth of the independent city like that found in Italy and the southern Netherlands

In 15th century, Florence, the focus of Italian Renaissance art and Bruges, one of the centres of Flemish painting and were twin pillars of European trade and finance.

Fra Angelico: Saint Lawrence distributing alms (1447), in the Vatican, incorporates the expensive pigments, gold leaf and elaborate design typical of Vatican commissions.

Topic 069

High Renaissance

The great artists of the High Renaissance (1480-1520) were Leonardo da Vinci and Michelangelo Buonarroti from Florence, Raphael Sanzio from Umbria, and Titian (Tiziano Vecellio) and Tintoretto (Jacopo Robusti) from Venice. They painted artworks of unprecedented skill and beauty and were responsible for raising the status of the artist in society from the level of artisan to an intellectual plane on a par with writers, philosophers and scientists.

These great masters achieved what artists had aspired to since the Early Renaissance: a revival of the classical ideals of beauty and form.

Leonardo used a pyramid design to place the woman simply and calmly in the space of the painting. Her folded hands form the front corner of the pyramid. Her breast, neck and face glow in the same light that models her hands.

The woman appears alive to an unusual measure, which Leonardo achieved by his new method not to draw the outlines (sfumato), "mainly in two features: the corners of the mouth, and the corners of the eyes" (Gombrich).

The painting was among the first portraits to depict the sitter before an imaginary landscape and Leonardo was one of the first painters to use aerial perspective.

Edit with WPS Office

The lightest areas are the subject's face seen nearly head-on, a billow of white shirt front at his chest, and his folded hands, which are mostly cropped at the bottom edge of the canvas.

Castiglione is seen as vulnerable, possessing a humane sensitivity characteristic of Raphael's later portraits.

The portrait's composition and atmospheric quality suggest homage to the Mona Lisa, which Raphael would have seen in Rome

Topic 070

Mannerism

Mannerism is a 20th century term that was used to describe several exaggerated or mannered styles of art that evolved towards the end of the High Renaissance.
Mannerist artists valued a personal and idealized response to beauty over the classical ideal of 'truth to nature'.
The more robust qualities of Mannerism are found in the exaggerated physiques and contorted figures from the late work of Michelangelo, Raphael, Tintoretto and El Greco.

A more refined response to the Mannerist style is seen in the elegant and elongated figures from the paintings of Agnolo Bronzino, Parmigianino and Jacopo Pontormo.

Topic 071

Baroque

The term Baroque (C.1600-1700) (derived from the Portuguese 'barocco' meaning, 'irregular pearl or stone') describes a fairly complex idiom, originating in Rome.
The idealism of the Renaissance (c.1400-1530
The slightly 'forced' nature of Mannerism (c.1530-1600)

The initial impetus came from the arrival in Rome during the 1590s of Annibale Carracci and Carravaggio (1571-1610). Their presence sparked a new interest in realism as well as antique forms, both of which were taken up and developed (in sculpture) by Alessandro Algardi (in sculpture) and Bernini (in sculpture and architecture)

Edit with WPS Office

Topic 072
Rococo

Rococo was a lighter, more graceful, yet also more elaborate version of Baroque architecture, symmetry, asymmetry, religious, secular, pale colors numerous curves, public majesty-privacy

Asymmetrical design was the rule. Light pastels, ivory white, and gold were the predominant colors and Rococo decorators frequently used mirrors to enhance the sense of open space.

Topic 073
Neo Classicism

Neoclassicism was a reaction against the arrogance of Rococo. This was the Age of the Enlightenment and political, social and cultural revolution was in the air. Artists needed a serious art for serious times and once again they looked back to the art of Antiquity as their model. Inspired by the archaeological discoveries at Herculaneum and Pompeii, Neoclassicism had a historical accuracy that earlier classical revivals lacked.

The background is de-emphasized, figures are emphasized.

The picture is clearly organized, focus on clear, hard details and the lack of use of the more wispy brushstrokes preferred by Rococo art

The frozen quality of the painting is also intended to emphasize rationality, unlike the Rococo style

Ostankino Palace, designed by Francesco Camporesi and completed in 1798, in Moscow, Russia

Bronze statue holding a compass and armillary sphere was designed by Bertel Thorvaldsen in 1822 and erected in 1828–30, Poland

Topic 074
Romanticism

Romanticism (C.1765-1850)

Topic 075
Realism

Realism (C.1840-1880):

After the 1848 Revolution, rejected Romanticism, revolted against the exotic subject matter and exaggerated emotionalism.

Portrayed real and typical contemporary people and situations with truth and accuracy, and not avoiding unpleasant or sordid aspects of life.

Edit with WPS Office

Treatments of subjects in a heroic or sentimental manner were equally rejected.
1857, the gleaners did not try to idealize captured the “ugliness” of poverty and manual labor. Three peasant women prominently in the foreground:

I. Their gaze does not meet the viewer
II. Their faces are obscured.
III. Background, bountiful amounts stacked

Topic 076
Impressionism

Impressionism:

1870-1880, Paris based artists, critics called their work impressions

Morisot exhibited with the Impressionists between 1874 and 1886, painted a number of figures out-of-door.

Expressionism

Expressionism: Its typical trait is to present the world solely from a subjective perspective, distorting it radically for emotional effect in order to evoke moods or ideas.
The arrival of Expressionism announced new standards in the creation and judgment of art. Art was now meant to come forth from within the artist, rather than from a depiction of the external visual world.
Expressionist artists often employed swirling, swaying, and exaggeratedly executed brushstrokes in the depiction of their subjects.
Through their confrontation with the urban world of the early 20th century, Expressionist artists developed a powerful mode of social criticism in their serpentine figural renderings and bold colors

Topic 077
Symbolism

1) Emotion or idea over the objective
2) Realism personal expressivity like Romantics recreation of emotional experiences in the viewer through color, line, and composition.
3) Synthesis of form and feeling, reality and the artist's inner subjectivity.
4) Preference for broad strokes of unmodulated color and flat, often abstract forms.
5) Gauguin was inspired by folk art.
6) Gauguin used elaborate formal decoration and coloring in patterns of abstraction, attempting to harmonize man and nature.

Topic 078
Fauvism

Fauvism: In modern art, the term Fauvism refers to a highly fashionable, if short-lived, art movement associated with the Ecole de Paris, which formed around friendships between French artists around the turn of the century.

Edit with WPS Office

Famous above all for their bold use of colour, the 'Fauves' received their name at the 1905 Salon d'Automne exhibition in Paris; from the influential French art critic Louis Vauxcelles, who insultingly described their vividly coloured canvases

The close artistic association between Fauvism and the expressionist movement can be seen in the fact that Neo-Expressionism is known in Germany as Neue Wilden (German for 'new Fauves').

Characteristics of Fauvism

1) Fauvism was the first real avant-garde art of the 20th century.
2) It had no agenda.
3) It has no manifesto.
4) It has no agreed set of aesthetics.
5) Its decorative composition and emancipated employment of colour made it a miracle of imagination produced by drawing and colour.

Topic 079
Pointillism

Pointillism: In fine art, the term "pointillism" (from the French word "point" meaning "dot") describes a technique of Neo-Impressionism painting, in which hundreds of small dots or dashes of pure color are applied to the canvas, or other ground, in order to create maximum luminosity.

I. Pointillism (actually an offshoot of Divisionism) was the most influential style of Post-Impressionist painting in 1880-95.

II. Pointillism was practised by Post-Impressionist painters from a number of different schools. Italian Divisionism, led by Vittore Grubicy De Dragon (1851-1920), was especially active.

III. The founder of Pointillism was Georges Seurat (1859-91), a model student at the Ecole des Beaux-Arts in Paris.

IV. A traditional, and conventional classical painter, he rejected Impressionism, a style of painting and color based on the subjective responses of the individual artist, in favour of a more scientific method which he developed around 1884 and called Chromoluminarism.

V. Based on the scientific colour theory of the French chemist Michel Eugene Chevreul.

Q. Who Are The Greatest Pointillist Painters?

- Seurat and Signac remain the greatest exponents of Pointillism.
- Impressionist Camille Pissarro (1830-1903)
- Henri-Edmond Cross (1856-1910)
- Maximilien Luce (1858-1941)

Edit with WPS Office

Topic

080

Cubism

Cubism: Artists needed a more radical approach - a 'new way of seeing' that expanded the possibilities of art in the same way that technology was extending the boundaries of communication and travel. This new way of seeing was called Cubism.

1) It was invented around 1907 in Paris by Pablo Picasso and Georges Braque.
2) Cubism was the first abstract style of modern art.
3) A Cubist painting ignores the traditions of perspective drawing and shows you many views of a subject at one time.
4) The Cubists introduced collage into painting.
5) The Cubists were influenced by art from other cultures, particularly African masks.
6) There are two distinct phases of the Cubist Style: Analytical Cubism (pre 1912) (The artist analyzed the subject from many different viewpoints and reconstructed it within a geometric framework) and Synthetic Cubism (post 1912) (Synthetic Cubism moved away from the unified monochrome surfaces of Analytic Cubism to a more direct, colorful and decorative style)
7) The limitations of perspective were also seen as an obstacle to progress by the Cubists.

Topic

081

Futurism

Futurism: Committed to the new, its members wished to destroy older forms of culture and to demonstrate the beauty of modern life - the beauty of the machine, speed, violence and change.

The Futurists were fascinated by the problems of representing modern experience, and strived to have their paintings evoke all kinds of sensations - and not merely those visible to the eye. At its best, Futurist art brings to mind the noise, heat and even the smell of the metropolis.

Edit with WPS Office

The Futurists were fascinated by new visual technology, in particular chrono-photography, a predecessor of animation and cinema that allowed the movement of an object to be shown across a sequence of frames. This technology was an important influence on their approach to showing movement in painting, encouraging an abstract art with rhythmic, pulsating qualities.

Topic

082

Dadaism

Dadaism: Dada's weapons of choice in their war with the establishment were confrontation and provocation. They attacked traditional artistic values with irrational attitudes and provoked conservative complacency with outrageous statements and actions. They also launched a full scale assault on the art world which they saw as part of the system

The great paradox of Dada is that they claimed to be anti-art, yet here we are discussing their artworks. Even their most negative attacks on the establishment resulted in positive artworks that opened a door to future developments in 20th century art.

Topic 083

Surrealis

m

Surrealism: was the 20th century art movement that sought to liberate creativity from the limitations of rational thought by exploring the hidden depths of the 'unconscious mind'.

The Surrealists rejected the rational world as, in the words of André Breton, 'it only allows for the consideration of those facts relevant to our experience'. They sought a new kind of reality that was informed by the insights of the 'unconscious mind'; a heightened reality that was only achievable in a world of dreams and the imagination.

Surrealism is a cultural movement that began in the early 1920s, and is best known for its visual artworks and writings. The aim was to "resolve the previously contradictory conditions of dream and reality."

Edit with WPS Office

Topic 084

Modernism and Post-

Modernism

Abstract Expressionism movement encompassed two broad groupings. These included: action painting and color field painting.

It involved dripping thinned paint onto raw canvas laid on the ground using wide and rhythmic sweeps of a large and loaded brush (if a brush was used) or, more usually direct from the can - a far cry from the traditional painterly method whereby pigment was applied by brush to a canvas on an easel. Pollock worked in a highly spontaneous improvisatory manner, famously dancing around the canvas pouring, throwing and dripping paint onto it. By doing this, he claimed to be channeling his inner impulses directly onto the canvas, in a form of automatic or subconscious painting.

Topic 085
Action Painting

Action painting, sometimes called "gestural abstraction", is a style of painting in which paint is spontaneously dribbled, splashed or smeared onto the canvas, rather than being carefully applied. The resulting work often emphasizes the physical act of painting itself as an essential aspect of the finished work or concern of its artist.

The style was widespread from the 1940s until the early 1960s, and is closely associated with abstract expressionism (some critics have used the terms "action painting" and "abstract expressionism" interchangeably). A comparison is often drawn between the American action painting and the French tachisme.

The term was coined by the American critic Harold Rosenberg in 1952, in his essay "The American Action Painters", and signaled a major shift in the aesthetic perspective of New York School painters and critics.

Topic 086

Edit with WPS Office

Pop Art

Reasons for the emergence of pop art:

I. Political Frustration and Cultural reaction
II. In 1946, there were 7000-8000 television sets in America, the count became 40 million in 10 years.
III. Television became source of information and advertisement
IV. Athletic events were promoted in an unmatched way
V. Comedy, Action and Games became popular interests
VI. The rise in television viewing also benefited food industry as frozen meals used as television dinners became popular
VII. Stereotype TV programs portraying a family in fixed roles
VIII. Cinemascope Screening and Radio also competed and grew in number
IX. Rock N Roll and Beats Movement
X. Spending on Cars and Fashion
XI. Rebellion in Youth
XII. Toys and Food Conceptual Foundation of Pop Art

Instant Meaning

In Abstract Expressionism, a viewer needed to intellectually grasp the idea behind the work which often involved complexity and obscurity, whereas, Pop Art relied on meanings that are communicated instantaneously. The use of popular imagery was a consideration coming from this viewpoint.

Art Can be made from anything

The traditional art had fix parameters as far as the materials were concerned. For instance painting was done on canvas using oil colors, sculpture was done using bronze or wood. The Pop artists opened a way for using anything as a material in producing art works. The things could be taken from everyday household items to waste and garbage items.

The Idea is More Important

The product in traditional art scenario was considered ‘work itself’ and therefore be it a painting, sculpture, etching or a carving. Pop art emphasized the importance of Idea over the form. The form occupied a second position in the order of preference. This trait was coming from previous art movements such as Dadaism.

Inclusive and More Relevant

By instant meaning and using popular imagery Pop art communicated to a larger audience. The traditional mode of fine art in which art was restricted to connoisseurs was practically changed as a layperson who was a part of popular culture could easily relate to the new art works featuring Elvis Presley or a new model of car.

Holding the Mirror Up to Society

The pursuit of materialism popular in the society was reflected in the

Edit with WPS Office

Pop art as by using popular imagery it became the mirror of society as what is being given importance to what extent. It did not go into a satire on establishment as Dada art was but it became a reflection of the social trends.

Topic 087
Post Modernism

The Postmodern Conceptual Basis

I. Rejection of Objective Reality: The postmodern position negates the existence of objective reality on the basis of the fact that the binary opposition in subjective and objective is not workable. The individual experience and social experience are the core of essential knowledge. Reality is seen as a conceptual construct or as a product of scientific discourse.

II. Status of Truth: There is no such thing as rational or scientific truth, there is a transformation and progression in truth therefore it should not be treated as a fix fact. Truth has largely been a matter of convenience. Truth is a matter of perspective.

III. Language: does not refer to reality outside to itself, instead, it refers to a meaning that can only be understood in contrast and comparison to other meanings.

IV. Meta-Theories: are false because they are conforming and silence other perspectives. Instead, subjective views must be given importance as they represent plurality and experience.

V. Globalization and Multiculturalism: Because of huge globalization, different cultures are getting mixed. We can see the effect of this on architecture, food, music, literature, education, fashion, organizations etc. Postmodernism encourages the sociologists to develop the understanding of culture staying away from moral conclusions.

Core Characteristics of Conceptual Art:

i. Movement in the 1960s and 1970s

ii. The Idea or concept is the most important feature

iii. It is the meaning of the work which serves the purpose of communication and function of art

iv. The aesthetic judgment of an art work will rely upon the extent to which a work communicates the power of an idea.

v. Text, Imagery, everyday material and found objects can be used to communicate a concept.

Edit with WPS Office

vi. Performance and Installation art can also be used.

vii. A revolt again limitations imposed by modern art on medium and form

Edit with WPS Office

Edit with WPS Office